As your State Representative, one of my duties is to serve on the Election Laws Committee. This Committee, although not considered by many to be a very prestigious assignment, has a great responsibility in enacting or changing the voting procedure of our Commonwealth.

In the past two years while serving on this Committee, we have made significant changes to either assist the voting public or to streamline the voting processes. This year, a bill was filed to have voter registration on a door-to-door basis. You would, in fact be registering in your homes. Many members of the Committee, myself included, have great reservations regarding this type of legislation. Some of the older Committee members, having served many years in state and local government see wide-spread cheating, padding of voting lists, etc. I also recognize the many pitfalls of this, but I have a completely different argument against it.

There are those that argue that everyone should be on the voting list. I could not agree more. We hear people complain about high taxes, etc. This, then, is their chance to do something; something positive every two or four years. With this type of legislation, it is facetious to think that maybe we could call our vote in because we were too busy to go to the polls.

Voting and registering to vote are to me a great and serious responsibility, never to be taken lightly. I can well remember going to City Hall to register and then shortly afterwards going to the polls. Out fathers and mothers before us took the same course and were proud to go to City Hall or their nearest school and register. These same people who are too lazy to register are the same ones to complain and throw brickbats at elected officials.

No-one ever really appreciates anything that is given to them or made easy for them, so it is with this type of person, and you can bet he or she will seldom, if ever, vote on election day.

As I said at the beginning, voting is a great responsibility; young men die every day to protect this right and it must never be taken as something for granted.

Another matter of great interest to Quincy is the recently released Harbor Island Study. This study was prepared by M.I.T. and made public April 17. I have not gone over the report in great detail, but from what I have seen it leaves much to be desired.

This report sketches three alternative proposals for the development of the Harbor Islands and their environs. One proposal portrays a moderate use of harbor space for recreational purposes; another an intensive use for recreational and educational purposes, and a third the development of a new harbor community. While each proposal stresses a particular use of the islands, many other alternatives, combining elements of these proposals are possible. All three plans link the islands of Moon, Long, Thompson and Spectacle Island in a circle. The part that alarms me the most is that they have shown roads and transportation systems cutting through the middle of Squantum.

For example, the study report says: "In the search for solutions to urgent problems of the metropolis, especially the decline of its central city, the community cannot disregard the manifold benefits that might be derived from the Harbor and its many unused islands. The juxtaposition of Boston's Harbor and its intensely developed urban core compels a recognition of their mutual relevance."

This is fine, but are we to destroy a fine residential area such as Squantum in order to save the core city? We help one area and harm another!

The study report goes on to say:

"Since colonial days, use has been made of the islands of Boston Harbor but, with few exceptions, the islands have never served major metropolitan needs of the Boston region. Locating a city prison on Deer Island and a city hospital for the chronically ill on Long Island typify the community's practice of pushing off to the islands various kinds of social unpleasantness. In recent years, such uses of the islands have declined and, with the decommissioning, after World War II, of the federal forts on several of the larger islands, use of the Harbor Islands is at a low point."

"The purchase of Georges and Lovell Islands by the Metropolitan District Commission in 1964 and the development of Georges Island as a recreational facility was a first step toward the use of the island resources of Boston Harbor. In its 1967 Open Space and Recreation Study the Metropolitan Area Planning Council proposed acquisition of virtually all the Harbor Islands and the development of an island park system. The M. A. P. C. Harbor Park plan is the first comprehensive proposal for use of all Harbor Islands."

"The rapid expansion of Logan Airport has made it the focal point of activity in Boston Harbor. This growth is partially due to its favorable location in the heart of the metropolitan region, but the onset of the jet age and the growing levels of air noise have made the proximity of the airport a distinct disadvantage for many people."

The Commission plans are to study and evaluate this report with the utmost care.

As your Representative on this Commission, I intend to strongly object to any encroachment on the area of Squantum. We live in a beautiful area, surrounded by a great harbor and dotted by islands that must be preserved for generations to come.

SENIOR CITIZENS NEWS

Young at Heart

By Marion Andrews

Assistant To Executive Director
Quincy Council on Aging

Quincy Mayor James R. McIntyre proclaimed May as Senior Citizens Month in the city.

In his proclamation, Mayor McIntyre noted that the more than 14,000 elderly residents of Quincy have made significant contributions to the historical and cultural development of the city.

The official declaration also pointed out the special needs of senior citizens and stated that the problems created by the aging process must be met by all city residents of all age groups.

During May, also declared Senior Citizens' Month throughout the nation, special activities are planned for the City's elderly. Highlight will be the Second Annual Senior Citizens' Festival to be held this year at the Quincy Armory June 4.

Booths and displays of handicrafts and other exhibits and information of interest to local residents will be featured at the Festival. A concert by the All–City Orchestra is also planned.

STATION WAGON
BACK IN SERVICE

The Quincy Council on Aging station wagon is back in service for local senior citizens who would like free transportation to the daily hot lunch program at the Quincy High School. The hot lunch program resumed this week with the re-opening of the High School, following the Spring vacation.

Lunches are provided for those of the city's elderly who enjoy participating in the program The meals are offered daily, Monday through Friday, with serving beginning at 1 p.m.

The faculty dining room, reserved for senior citizens at this time, remains open until 2:15 p.m , for social chat. The program is jointly sponsored by the Council on Aging and the Quincy School Department.

WELCOME HOME

Back home again after a winter in Florida are Mr. and Mrs. Percy MacLean of 31 Putnam St. Mr. and Mrs. MacLean, who have been active in activities of the Quincy Federation of Senior Citizens, have returned just in time to assist with the groundwork for the second annual Festival to be held at the Quincy Armory June 4, sponsored by the Federation. Mrs. William Wolf, president of the Quincy Federation of Senior Citizens, is general chairman of the festival.

Mr. and Mrs. MacLean have also served as officers of the Golden Fellowship Club of Wollaston and represent that group at the Federation meetings.

SENIOR CITIZEN ID CARDS

More than 1,260 Senior Citizen Identification Cards have been issued to Quincy residents during the past seven months. The cards, plus an information sheet outlining the benefits of the card, are available to Quincy Senior Citizens 60 years and over. These may be obtained by phone or in person at the Quincy Council on Aging Office.

ful planning and corrdination the existing access way can be sufficiently improved to provide all of the necessary service requirements with non of the detrimental effects which have so deeply concerned me and the neighborhood," McIntyre said.

He said the new dumping area will probably be in use by the fall as the present Faulkner's Quarry dump will be filled by then.

He estimated that the new area will solve Quincy's refuse problems for "a number of years."

High Schools Stand At Opposite Ends Of Track

Undefeated North Faces Major Test

Coach Ralph Frazier of North Quincy's undefeated track team (4-0) sees his team facing its first big test Friday at Waltham and is sorry his Raiders didn't receive more of a test Tuesday in preparation for the big Suburban League meet.

North had only a good workout as it annihilated Cambridge Latin, 105-8, at Cavanagh Stadium, winning every event including six sweeps. Latin defaulted in the high hurdles and relay. The best Cambridge could do was one second place and five thirds.

"It is a shame to have a meet like this and it was especially disappointing to me coming up just before our big meet at Waltham," Frazier said. "I would have welcomed a good test today."

North swept the discus with Art McIver, Steve Dieso and John Panarelli in that order, swept the low hurdles with Lou Brubiano, Dan Polvere and Bobby Sleeth, the 880 with Steve Poore, Richie Yee and John Cavagnaro, the javelin with Roger Conboy, Polvere and John Hemphill (North has swept this event in all four of its meets), and the long jump with Paul Affsa, Cahill and Dave Haight.

The Raiders took 1-2 in the 440 with Affsa and Jeff Strungis, 1-2 in the 100 with Joe Lane and Polvere, 1-2 in the 220 with Conboy and Don Meyer, 1-3 in the mile with Jackie Yee and O'Hara, 1-2 in the shot put with Conboy and Panarelli and 1-2 in the two-mile with Pat McCormack and Mike Noonan.

"McCormack did an excellent job in beating Noonan," Frazier said. "The have been running close together all season. Also, Lane did a fine job in the 100 and Jackie Yee took up the slack in the mile with out number one miler, Bruce Healey sick."

Following the Waltham meet, North is host to Arlington in a league meet Tuesday and to Abp. Williams in a non-league meet net Thursday.

Last Saturday North did a fine job in the Eastern Mass. Relays at Xaverian, scoring 23 points in Class B as it scored in seven events, the best a Raider team has ever done.

North won the javelin and set a new meet record with Conboy throwing 186 feet, seven inches, Polvere 164 feet and Hemphill 147 feet, 10 inches. The Raiders took third in the shot put (Conboy, Panarelli and McIver), third in the discus (Steve Dieso, McIver and Panarelli), third in the long jump (Affsa, Cahill and Haight), second in the shuttle hurdles (Polvere, Sleeth, Lee Davis and Trubiano), fourth in the 440 (Lane, Polvere, Meyer and Affsa) and fourth in the 880 (Conboy, Meyer, Lane and Affsa).

North Has New Baseball Woes

North Quincy's baseball team, after a promising start, hasffaltered in recent games and a heartbreaking 6-5 loss Monday to Everett extended its losing streak to three games and made its overall record 3-4 and Greater Boston League mark 2-4.

"It is beginning to get a bit discouraging," new coach Charlie Bunker admitted. "We started well with three wins in our first four games but lately everything has fallen apart at once, I am particularly disappointed in our hitting but must admit the boys have hit the ball better than the scores indicate.

The Raiders had a 5-1 lead Monday but as Bunker said, "we just fell apart. Our pitchers were wild and we made some costly defensive lapses."

Last Saturday North was walloped by league co-leader Somerville, 12-0, and Jim Broderick saved the Raiders from the embarrassment of a no-hitter with a line single in the ninth inning off Roy Peterson, who struck out 16.

"In both games we hit the ball hard but either right at someone or the boys were robbed by circus catches." Bunker said. "In contrast, Medford and Somerville were getting hits which were just missed by our players.

"I am pleased with the boys' attitude and I feel if we can just get in a game where everything clicks, we'll snap out of it."

Friday North faces Quincy, leading the league with Somerville, at Adams Field, Saturday plays at Hingham at 10 a.m. in a non-league game, Monday plays at Revere and Wednesday will behome to Malden.

Quincy Seeks First Victory Vs. Arlington

Quincy's track team, blessed with several outstanding indivual performers but lacking depth makes another attempt to win its first meet Friday when it meets Arlington at Veterans Memorial Stadium and on Tuesday will meet a weak Cambridge Latin team also at the Stadium. Both are Suburban League meets.

Quincy went to Weymouth Tuesday and, as expected,was no match for the powerful Maroons, who romped to their 44 successive dual meet win, 95-45.

Tom Hall's Quincy trackmen could take only two wins, Ken Prouty in the long jump and the relay team of Larry Finneran, John Bonfiglioli, Prouty and Kevin Luggelle.

Prouty also did a fine job in the hurdles, having the same time as the winner but being nipped at the wire, Lugelle was barely edged by state champion Bill Morin in the 220, although also having the same time, and Pat Grimes ran a fine mile, doing 4:52.8, his best time, tinishing second.

"I expected them to be too strong but I was pleased with some of our performances," Hall said. "They have always been very strong and the way they have improved in the weight events, I think they are the class of our league."

Weymouth also won the Class A championship in last Saturday's Eastern Mass. Relays at Boston College, with Quincy scoring 10½ points for eighth place.

The Presidents won the long jump with Prouty, Luggelle and Joe Goguen. They also tied for second in the high jump

Three New Champs Crowned In Park Tilts

Three new divisional champions were crowned in the 17th annual Quincy Park and Recreation Board city–wide basketball tournament last Wednesday at Quincy Vocational

In the junior division Central, after a close first period, employed several variations of the press and pulled steadily away to defeat Wollaston, 62–44.

Snug Harbor, in winning its first championship in 17 years of the tournament, stormed back from a seven point deficit with two minutes remaining to tie the game in regulation time 25–25.

The new champions then held the defending titlists, Beechwood Knoll, to one point and won going away 32–26 for a king–size upset victory. The Wollaston seniors behind Ken Baker, Sam Abraham and Phil Kenneally who all scored in double figures, stopped Central's attempted comeback.

Midway in the fourth period when Central had cut Wollaston's 16 point lead to 7 points, 54–47, Kenneally dribbled throughthe Central press twice and Baker and Abraham chipped in with baskets to stretch the Wollaston lead to 62–47.

Charles Holme with 19 points and Brad Buckley with 11, kept Central in contention until the final four minutes. The junior division game was close for the first period 14–13. In the second period Coach Brian Buckley, a member of the Archbishop Williams Tech tournament team, changed his one–three–one zone defense to alternating half court, full court and zone presses to finish the half ahead 36–22 and 55–31 at the end of three quarters.

Paul varney, 20 points and Ken Marsten, 15 points were high scorers for Central Spirited, determined Snug Harbor rallied from a seven point deficit late in the game to win in overtime 32–26. Coaches Tom Turner, a Boston University Ph.D. candidate, and Steve Hurley, a Boston State graduate student, were surrounded by happy players and relatives after the upset win by Snug Harbor.

Pacing Snug Harbor to its first city championship was Donald Conners, a sixth grade pupil at Snug Harbor school who controlled both boards and had 13 points.

Michael McKenzie who hit six of seven from the free throw line had eight points and Joseph Megnia seven. Quincy Park and Recreation Board trophies were awarded to the winners by director William F. Ryan and former Lt. Governor Francis X. Bellotti.

Little League Bowlers Tough Contenders

The Junior team comprised of boys 13 and under rolled 1393 to finish in fifth place out of fifty entries. Members of the team were Dave Merrill, Greg Mangan, Dennis Carraggi, Mike Conroy and Mike Martinelli. The winners had a 1445 total.

The senior team of George McCall, Mark Smith, Mike Lorman, Tony Alibrandi and Glen Crowell had a three string total of 1558 to finish eighth. This class was limited to boys 14 through 17 and over fifty teams competed. Winners rolled a 1685 total.

Dave Merrill with 494 and Mike Conroy, 491 topped the Quincy entries in the five string junior singles, both finishing in the top ten.

Glen Crowell, 559 and Tony Alibrandi, 549 although only 15 years old placed within the first 15 in the senior singles.

Of the 95 strings rolled by the Quincy youngsters during the tournament only 2 fouls were called. Both for going over the line.

The Little Loop entries although not winning any trophies came home with many free strings of bowling, but most of all with respect from their competitors and congratulations for outstanding sportsmanship.

Quincy Jr. College Nine Rebounds Over Massasoit

Quincy Junior College's first baseball team has been having its troubles, losing close games, but Coach Dave Burke's team had everything clicking on Monday when it handed Massasoit Community College its first defeat after four wins, 9-2.

For Quincy it was the second win in five games and by fat its outstanding performance of the season.

Yesterday QJC played Graham Jr.' College, today is home to Newbury School at Fore River Field, Sunday plays at Graham, Monday hosts Newton Junior College at Fore River at 4:30 and next Wednesday plays Massasoit at Arlington High field at 4.

"We really put things together in this game," a pleased Burke said after the Massasoit romp. "Dick Volpe pitched great ball and Ron DiNardo's two-run homer sparked our attack."

Volpe pitched six-hit ball, struck out 14 and walked only one. Dick Howe continued his outstanding hitting with three hits, DiNardo also had a double, Volpe two doubles. Art Coughlin two singles, Mark Fitzgerald two singles.

After two close losses in a row, Quincy entered te win column with an 8-3 decision over Bryant and Stratton at Fore River Field.

Howe had a big day with four for four and scored three runs. One of his hits was a double. Fitzgerald had two hits and Bob Blyth a double.

Then, however, QJC dropped another toughit, 5-4, to Burdett, although outhitting the winners, 8-6.

Quincy scored twice in the final inning but just fell short. Burdett had a four-run third inning andadded the winning run in the sixth.

DiNardo had a double and two singles, Howe and Coughlin two singles apiece. Powers was the losing pitcher in this game, being relieved by Jim Mezzetti.

Fortunes Also Changing For Eastern Nazarene

It took a while for it to get started but, after three losses in a row, the Eastern Nazarene College baseball team won three straight as it finally combined tight pitching with some potent batting.

Saturday ENC will play New Haven College at New Haven, Conn., and Tuesday will play at Nasson College.

In the opener John Golden pitched five-hit ball and his mates pounded out 14 hits including successive doubles by Bob Henning, who drove in six runs, a double and two singles by Don Kauffman, three singles by Bill Turner and two doubles by Wayne Hassinger. Golden struck out six and walked three.

In the second game Larry Eller blanked Barrington on two hits, struck out 12 and walked two while ENC picked up single runs in the third, fourth, fifth and sixth to clinch the win.

Henning had a triple and single and Jack Willy of Weymouth two singles to pace the attack.

Earlier in the week Eastern Nazarene finally broke into the win column with a 6-1 decision over the University of Maine's Portland Branch, at Alumni Field.

Freshman John Whitman made his first college start, kept 10 hits well scattered, struck out seven and walked two.

Another freshman, Dave Keen, drove in two runs and Ron Bartholomew had a double and single and Hassinger a triple.

Basiliere Quits Junior College Basketball Post

Bob Basiliere has resigned as basketball coach at Quincy Junior College after nine years during which time his teams won 116 games and lost only 42.

Basiliere, also Quincy High's highly successful baseball coach, announced he was resigning because of personal reasons.

This vacancy and the position of hockey coach at QJC will be announced soon. QJC has its first baseball team this spring and will have its first official hockey team next winter.

Bob made the announcement at last weekend's annual awards dinner. "I am sorry to have to make this decision," he said. "We never had a losing season and won the Mass. Junior College title four times in seven years. It has been very gratifying to me to see many of the boys from our teams go on to four-year schools.

"The success of the basketball teams is made even more phenomonal by the fact the boys had to practice and sometimes play at odd hours."

He said he is also athletic coordinator at QJC and hopes to remain at the school in that or some or capacity.

Salvucci Makes Good As AIC Grid Coach

By TOM SULLIVAN

American International College in Springfield has been holding spring football drills and directing the workouts is another "local boy who made good."

Gay, a 1946 Quincy graduate, was all-scholastic in football and baseball in 1945 and '46.

He has some fond memories of his Quincy High years and two games stand out in his mind in particular.

"We defeated Brookline, the Class B champs, 6-0, when Lou Marini threw me a touchdown pass in the final minute of play," he said. "Hal Moffie, who later starred for Harvard, was Brookline's standout back.

"We also defeated Weymouth, 28-0. The Quincy-Weymouth rivalry was always keen. I could remember watching the Conroys, Cappaciolas and Fletchers running for Quincy when I was in junior high school."

Gay went to Newman Prep before entering AIC and he credits two former Quincy Manet teammates, Ed Murphy, former B.C. star, and George Sullivan, a Notre Dame star, for guiding him toward college.

Gay entered AIC in 1949. In 1950 Nick Rodis, present athletic director at Brandeis, and Chip Gannon, were the Aces' coaches.

The ex-Quincy great played football and baseball for AIC in 1950, '51, '52 and '53. In football he made the United Press and Associated Press All-New England teams for three years and was Little All-American in 1952, his senior year.

In baseball Gay was All-New England in 1952 and captain his senior year.

"I played against the late Harry Agganis in college baseball after we both made all-scolastic in high school." he said.

In 1953 and '54 Salvucci was player-coach for the Fort Dix football team and in 1954 was the service championship, scoring 22 touchdowns in 10 games. His team had such standouts as Abe Woodsum of Yale, Jack Carroll of Holy Cross, Tony Chambers of U Mass, Phil Kearney of B. U. and George Dixon of Bridgeport.

"George was a great end in college but I converted him to fullback," Gay explained. "It was his first experience in the backfield and after leaving the service, he was the Canadian League's Most Valuable Player and was the leading ground gainer for three years in a row. He is now a successful businessman in Canada."

Salvucci was with Green Bay in 1956 but a knee injury which hospitalized him forced him out of action and he was placed on waivers, the last player to be cut.

"Coaching here is a challenge as we are a small school," Gay said. "For the past two years our situation has been more realistic. With two losing seasons in 1965 and '66, we bounced back for a 6-3 record in 1967 and were 4-4-1 last fall. We hope for a winning season next fall."

GAY SALVUCCI

Gay has had many boys from the South Shore area in recent years and one of next fall's co-captains will be Quincy's Steve Craig, a fine linebacker.

Other boys from this area with him are Co-Capt. Billy Connolly of Scituate, son of former B. C. star Mickey Connolly and a standout quarterback for AIC the past two years during which time he set several records; Bruce Laird of Scituate, Dick McArthur of Braintree, Dave Sabbag of Hingham and Bill Benson of Duxbury.

Gay recently spoke at the Quincy Fathers Club banquet and the following night at the Scituate football banquet, where I talked with him.

"I've had some great players from this area and I'll welcome any boy from aroung here who wants to come to AIC," he told me.

"I can remember listening to the memorable Boston College-Tennessee Sugar Bowl game back in 1941," he said. "Charlie O'Bourke's winning touchdown, Mickey Connolly's touchdown pass, the late Chet Gladchuck–over and over–in on the tackle along with Joe Zabilski. To know these men personally was a wonderful experience.

Gay Salvucci mad a name for himself at Quincy and AIC and continues to make a name for himself as a college coach.

Raiders Again Sharp On Links

Jack Donahue's North Quincy golf team if off to another good start with two wins and a tie and Monday blanked Boston English, 9-0, at Wollaston Golf Club.

Today North plays Hyde Park at George Wright course, Monday faces Boston Tech at Wollaston and Wednesday plays Braintree at the Braintree Golf Club.

Last week North had easy sailing over cross-town rival Quincy, 8-1, at Furnace Brook, the first two teams sweeping three points each.

The match was featured by a fine comeback by North's Moran who, with partner Dave Kuinn, were two-down with two holes to go. But Moran won both the 17th and 18th holes to tie the back nine and gain the half point needed to tie the match.

HOUSE CALL

By Dr. Charles Djerf
Pediatrician

[Today's column is written by Dr. Jessica Etsten, associated pediatrician of Dr. Charles Djerf.]

Often children are passed to the next grade who are not prepared to keep up with their classmates. Others are held back who are not achieving although well endowed.

The parent and teacher should work closely with the Pediatrician, Neurologist, and Psychologist in order to recognize problems in young children. Once the trouble is recognized, the solution may be available. This is where the greatest hope for the greatest good lies. Parents should face up to this investigation of the child however painful the result [or fear of the result] may be.

Difficulties in adjustment and learning problems show up as the child starts school, kindergarten or first-grade level, as he first leaves home and mother, [discussed last week by Dr. Djerf]. At the first-grade level social adjustment difficulties and learning learning problems occur dramatically. In this class the child is exposed to increased discipline from a relatively strange but friendly teacher, instead of a loving mother. The work achievement expected is tremendous. This requires the ability to follow, listen, sit for longer periods of time, and concentrate. The child also has to get along with a multitude of personalities in his peer group.

What are our responsibilities and concerns for the chil who evidences by his behavior or failure to achieve that the outside world [yes, a hostile world to his young mind] ois too difficult for him?

First, the parent at a meeting with the teacher is informed that all is not going well. His child is failing, or his child is hyperactive, is not completing work expected, or is not learning, etc. for this child? A thorough eye examination by an opthalmologist, a hearing test, a battery of intelligence tests interpreted by a competent person may be the starting point.

While information is being accumulated, the teacher must be sympathetic, gentle, kind to the child and parents, for all should let the child know that they have his interest and happiness at heart. This is not easy when a child is disrupting the group, to be sure.

In the first grade a child acquires all the basic tools for future learning; to read, to add, to write. The skills expected of the first-grade teacher are extreme. Her understanding, kindness and patience call for a superior human being. This first learning experience may cultivate or destroy a child's desire for school.

Each home is different, each parent is different. The location in the family group varies, and children with all these differences may be integrated or destroyed by the child's early experience in school.

A great deal of emphasis is placed on a child's coordination. This is really a God-given ability. A child with poor coordination may improve his writing skill to some extent but he should not be ridiculed or failed for what he can not do as well as a child better endowed. He is doing the best he can; no one should expect more. I have known of children with cerebral palsy made miserably unhappy because they had poor coordination and could not write well. After evaluation of this child you may learn what can be expected of him and accept these reports sincerely.

A child found to have dyslexia [a reading-learning difficulty] has to be taught to read in a special way. He can not learn reading by the usual methods and it may take years to make him a good reader. However, he may be an excellent math student or creative and will show these abilities only if life in school has not been made miserable because he couldn't read. His self-esteem kept intact by recognizing his problems, his mind is free to learn other subjects.

The teacher must recognize that some children come from a home environment not conducive to emotional stability. Here her kindness and understanding shown to this child can make him look forward to his day in school and he can achieve beyond what might otherwise be expected. Then education becomes the oepn sesame out of his unhappy home situation.

One chil brought out of his shyness and misery into a classroom of acceptance, can achieve and learn. Along with this, the teacher who creates this situation, truly glows. Many children who could be good students are so intimidated and fearful in a classroom that they cannot perform. Even the tough little class bully is a sensitive boy under his brashness. Why is he behaving this way? Has he been badly treated, and is he hitting bank? Then inschool he is punished more. On return home perhaps he is spanked for being kept after school and it goes on endlessly.

Why not show a little extra kindness to him and see what can be brought out. He may be very bright and bored. Give him a job helping another child. This can work miracles for both little students. Search out the whys. Someone must care. That is the challenge young students face.

Quincy Nine Tied For Top Rung

Quincy's baseball team is tied for first place in the Greater Boston League and the Presidents hope to remain there Friday when they face North Quincy at Adams Field.

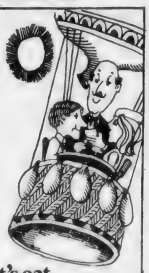
But Coach Bob Basiliere hopes his boys won't be looking ahead to Monday's big one against co-leader Somerville at Adams Field in a game which will go a long way toward deciding the league title.

Quincy knocked off Somerville, 6-1, in the opening game of the year and since that time the Highlanders have romped to six straight wins, including five in the league to tie Quincy, which yesterday faced Boston Tech in its only non-league game of the season.

Basiliere plans to start his ace, Steve McDevitt, who handcuffed Somerville before, against the co-leaders Monday. Steve is 3-0 for the season following a two-hit 3-1 decision over Everett last week.

McDevitt struck out nine and walked only two despite the rain which made it extremely difficult to throw the ball. He lost a shutout in the sixth and final inning of the rain-shortened game

Bruce Carlson drove in two runs in the fourth following singles by Ed Hutchins and McDevitt and Carrera, who had homered in the previous game tp beat Malden, 1-0, hit another home run up the alley in left-center.



Carrera is extra strong for his size and he is the best hitter I've had during my six years at Quincy," Basiliere lauded. "He is aggressive and has quick hands.

The Presidents followed up that win with an 11-6 decision over Chelsea in a game which saw Paul Duff, a one-hit winner over Malden in his Previous start, handcuff the Red Devils until he had to leave the game in the eighth inning when he had leg muscle trouble.

Quincy exploded for eight runs in the first two innings. It had 14 hits led by McDevitt with a triple and double, Carrera and Ted Meyer, with two singles each.

Quincy's only loss was a 5-4 decision to Revere in a game which Basiliere admits "we lost ourselves" Quincy plays at Revere next Wednesday.

"Let's eat someplace different."

Rev. Underhill New Rector St. Chrysostom's Church

REV. WILLIAM UNDERHILL

The Rev. William Dudley Underhill began his duties as the Rector of St. Chrysostom's Church, Wollaston on Sunday.

Mr. Underhill had previously served as Rector in Wrentham, since 1959. He also served as a Curate in Melrose.

Mr. Underhill has served on various committees in the Diocese of Mass. and on the Mass. Council of Churches. He is currently on the Diocesan Committee on Alcohol, Drugs and Related Substances.

In 1967 he was certified as a Field Education Supervisor for the Episcopal Theological School, and hopes to continue supervising seminarians while in Wollaston.

Born in Boston, he attended public schools in Newton and graduated from Newton High in 1949. He earned his Bachelor of Arts Degree from Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn. in 1953 and the Bachelor of Divinity degree from Union Theological Seminary, New York City in 1956.

In 1954 he was married to Evelyn Ann Fiege of Waterbury, Conn. Mrs. Underhill is a graduate of the University of Conn. School of Nursing in 1953. The Underhills have two children, a daughter, Heather Ann, age 7, and a son, William Todd, age 8 months.

Dedication, Reception At Point Congregational Sunday

A dedication service for a new church addition and a reception in honor of the Rev. Bedros Baharian will be held at Quincy Point Congregational Church, Sunday at 4 p.m.

The service will dedicate the new church classroom addition and the recent renovations, which include classrooms, offices, studies, improved parking, a fire alarm system a memorial organ, totaling $145,000.

Participating in the service will be The Rev. Elden Zuern, Associate Minister, Dr. Alan Hackett, Area Minister–Massachusetts Congregational Conference, and William N. Neal, Chairman of the Board of Trustees.

Following the dedication service, at 5 p.m., a reception will be held to honor Reverend Baharian for his 25 years of service to the church.

Speaking at the reception will be mayor James R. McIntyre, Rt. Rev. John J. Allston of St. Joseph's Church, Quincy point, and Rabbi Jacob Mann, of Beth Israel Synagogue, Quincy Point.

Morgan Memorial To Honor Clergy Who Aided Disabled

Special invited guests for Goodwill Industries Week ceremonies at Morgan Memorial will be more than two hundred Greater Boston clergymen of all faiths who have led daily Chapel services for handicapped and disadvantaged workers which have been held daily for 67 years.

Among those invited to participate are the Rev. Charles L. Hoffman, St. Chrysostom Church, Wollaston; tthe Rev. Harold G. Leland, Wollaston Congregational Church; the Rev. Ronald W. Ober, Wollaston United Methodist Church; the Rev. Albert D. Stiefel, Eastern Nazarene College, and the Rev. Francis Wilson, Atlantic Methodist Church, all of Quincy.

Goodwill Week, a national observance, will be observed May 4 through May 10, and special attention will be focused on Boston because the self-help program for handicapped people began at Morgan Memorial. There are now 137 autonomous non-profit Goodwill Industries throughout the U.S. and 22 more in foreign lands.

Meanwhile, Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries has grown to be the largest voluntary non-profit and non-sectarian agency in New England serving the handicapped and disadvantaged people.

Among the many features during Goodwill Week at Morgan Memorial, will be an Open House program and tours for special groups, and also for the public.

Mrs. Elestus DeWolf and Mrs. Donald T. Dixon of Wollaston are among the hostesses for the first annual "Volunteer Workshop" of the Goodwill Industries Auxiliaries to be held May 7-8 at the Colonial Statler Hilton, Rte, 128, Wakefield.

The two-day session will be sponsored by the National Auxiliary to the Goodwill Industries of America. Representatives attending the meetings will represent several thousand members in the area.

Keynote speakers will include Mrs. James B. Hetherington of Washington, D.C., Director of Workshop programs for the National Goodwill Industries of America Auxiliaries; Dr. Marvin S. Arffa of Newton Centre, Northeastern University professor and editor of the National Journal of Volunteer Services; and Mrs. William S. Halfpenny of Muskegan, Mich., Director of Goodwill Auxiliaries for Central United States.

Wollaston Woman Elected To Bapist Home Board

A Wollaston woman was recently elected to the Board of Corporation of the Baptist Home of Massachusetts.

Mrs. Frank Bartlett will serve on the Board for a five-year term.

Police Claim City 'Untrue' On Wage Dispute

The Quincy Police betterment Association has disputed and called "untrue" city figures claiming that police are demanding a $60 weekly pay increase.

In a lengthy rebuttal to a city statement on the stalemated negotiations, climaxed by police rejection of the city's latest pay offer, Police Association president Carmine A. DiRamio strongly refuted a city claim that proposed increases would cause a $20 tax increase.

He called the city's version of the police rejection, "flagrant misrepresentation. . .in an attempt to pull the wool over the eyes of Quincy citizens."

DiRamio said the city offer amounts to less than $12 a week. Police are seeking $3.44 more a week in 1969 than the present city offer. He noted that this amounted to a 17 cent tax impact.

The city has offered step raises from $7700 to $9200 by July, 1970.

The association membership has voted to seek a $9500 salary beginning next year. This would amount to $16.80 a week, compared to the city's proposed $11.08 a week, DiRamio said. He described the difference as .59 cents on the tax rate.

On one of the main contract stumbling blocks–seniority, DiRamio charged the city with "apparently" reneging on seniority agreements. The Association "thought the city was agreeable" on provisions assuring seniority choice of vacation periods and the rights of a senior police officer on night duty to bid for a day assignment.

"On job choice we feel that seniority should prevail over political influence."

Officer DiRamio also disputed a city assertion that no other municipal employees receive "premium pay" or "terminal leave." He cited bookmobile librarian, firefighters, plumbing and gas fitting, building custodians, police detectives and mechanics as categories where such additonal stipends are involves.

"We believe they are worthy. The total cost to the city would be $700." DiRamio asserted.

A terminal leave benefit

A terminal leave benefit sought by police would pay one fourth of accrued sick leave upon retirement up to $1,000.

"We feel terminal leave is a mark of City respect for ong and faithful public service by one of its employees."

On another major contract difference, the city is "discriminating" against the police officer, DiRamio charged. So far, the city has rejected a police proposal for overtime for time spent in court.

"The great bulk of all other city employees have been receiving full time and ahalf pay for a long time.

"Why should a policeman working nights leave his job at 8 a.m., go to court at 9 a.m., and spend several hours in court and then get an hour or so rest before returning to work at 4:50 p.m. and not be fairly paid, or be compelled to break up his day off or vacation without time and one half pay."

The statement added:

"Let us tell you why we are maintaining our present bargaining posture. An unidentified city spokesman tells you the tax rate is increasing by $20.00. Whatever the amount, and remember the Police Department slice of that is mighty small, the police officer, who is also a Quincy homeowner, will also pay and is agreeable to pay his increased taxes along with every one else. . .a patrolmans pay is presently $7700 yearly, 6 per cent of that is $462. . . .add to this inflationary bites . . .tax bites that eat away at your income. . .higher state income tax . . .ever increasing MBTA deficit . . .and it's easy to see that not much, if any, will be left out of the Mayor's paltry $616 wage offer. We expect the Mayor to understand our needs and to act in a fair and equitable manner."

Library Week Book Drive In Grade Schools

A one-day campaign for books for the Quincy elementary schools will be launched May 3 from 8 to 12 a.m. in all Quincy elementary schools. The book drive is being conducted at the request of the School Committee in conjunction with National Library Week.

Community donations of books are requested in observance of Library Week in order to bring standards up to those proposed by the American Library Association.

It was suggested that families contribute books that are still useful but are no longer used by children who have outgrown them. The school media centers welcome books in the fields of literature and biography. Books should be in a physical condition adequate to withstand a constant use by many children.

Incinerator, Dump Halt Study To Be Sought By Barilaro

Councillor Albert R. Barilaro wants the city to consider constructing a municipal incinerator and halting dumping in quarry holes.

"This would eliminate once and for all the nagging nuisance of refuse dumping and save the city as much as $100,000 a year," the Ward 4 councillor said last night.

He said he will submit an order at the May 19 City Council meeting requesting Mayor James R. McIntyre to have a "thorough feasibility investigation" carried out.

Barilaro said he will ask that a study be made into the possibility of constructing an incinerator on city-owned land behind the present Public Works garages off Sea St.

He estimated the cost of an incinerator at $3 million but said it would pay for itself over the years.

Barilaro said that steam power from the incinerator could be used to heat the Public Works complex, the police station and the new Registry of Motor Vehicles building to be constructed by the city.

"It is my feeling," he declared, "that this could save the city about $40,000 a year in fuel oil bills alone."

Barilaro also said a clause in the current refuse collection contract stipulates that the city will pay an additional $52,000 a year once rubbish is hauled to the west side of the Southeast Expressway.

The city is now considering using abandoned quarry holes in that area as the next dumping site as Faulkner's Quarry on Quarry St. is expected to be filled by this fall.

McIntyre Proposes 42-Hour Week For Fire Department

Mayor James R. McIntyre last night proposed a 42-hour work week for the Quincy Fire Department, effective May 1, 1970

McIntyre said he will ask the City Council at the May 19 meeting to reduce the firefighters week from the present 48 hours which has been their working schedule since 1948. Prior to that, the department worked a 70-hour week.

"We have a first class Fire Department and we intend to keep it that way by giving the firefighters first class working conditions," the Mayor declared.

John Menz, Jr., president of Local 792 of the International Association of Firefighters said 38 new men would be required to implement the 42-hour week.

He estimated the cost at "approximately a dollar" on the 1970 tax rate for the salaries of the 38 new men.

Fire Chief Edward F. Barry said: "Members of the department are most grateful to his honor, Mayor McIntyre for his progressive action in having the

Police To Picket City Hall Friday

Quincy police will stage a two-hour picket line demonstration in front of city hall Friday to protest the break down of wage and salary negotiations.

Quincy Police Betterment Association president Carmine DiRamio said that "nothing could stop" the planned demonstration. Police would present a united front in the picket line, he said. In addition to Quincy Police, members of Boston, Weymouth, Milton, Braintree, Randolph and Holbrook forces will participate in the picketing, he said.

Protesting police will march on city hall after formation at 9:30 a.m. at Upper Merrymount

Sun Article On Ike Tribute In Congressional Record

A Quincy Sun article reporting the Ecumenical Memorial Service for former President Dwight D. Eisenhower held at Quincy's historic United First Parish Church has been placed in the Congressional Record.

The article, inserted in the Congressional Record by Congressman James A. Burke [D-Milton] appeared in The Sun April 3.

Burke also placed in the Congressional Record the text of the eulogy to the late former President given during the service by The Rev. Stephen W. Brown, pastor of First United Presbyterian Church, Quincy.

The text was printed in The Sun with the account of the memorial service.

In the eulogy, The Rev. Brown pin-pointed the feelings of a mourning nation with these words:

"Would that God might give us others to take his place."

The article noted that the bodies of Quincy-born Presidents John and John Quincy Adams are entombed in United First Parish Church and the church's bell has been tolled in tribute at the death of every President since George Washington.

Senior Citizens Rush For Jobs

Twenty-five residents have already applied for part-time employment under the brand new Quincy Senior Citizens Corps.

The requests began streaming in yesterday, just hours after Gov. Francis Sargent Signed a bill introduced by Mayor-Sen. James R McIntyre to establish the program --first in the state.

The legislation permits Quincy to hire retired senior citizens 60 years and older on a part-time basis with a maximum annual salary of $1,500.

"It's a tremendous two-fold opportunity," commented John F. Sheehan, executive director of the Quincy Council on Aging who will supervise the program.

"It means the city can tap the talents of these retired persons and it gives them the opportunity to supplement their otherwise fixed incomes."

Sheehan said the retired senior citizens would be used strategically to augment undermanned city staffs in various municipal departments.

North Quincy Youth Wins Watson Fellowship Award

Walter W. Simmons of North Quincy, a Bowdoin College senior, has been awarded a Watson Fellowship for a year of independent study and travel abroad.

Simmosn, an art major, is the son of Mrs. Philip L. Simmons of 10 Herbert Rd.

He is one of two Bowdoin College seniors among 50 initial winners of the Thomas J. Watson Foundation's newly established traveling fellowships.

Dr. Robert O. Schulze, executive director of the Foundation and former Dean of Brown University, noted that the 50 Watson Fellows "were selected from among 119 outstanding candidates nominated by 25 of the most distinguished liberal arts colleges in the United States."

The participating colleges made their nominations from 766 seniors who had applied for the fellowships.

The program provides $6,000 for single students and $8,000 for married students.

He was awarded freshman football numerals and during his junior year served as a Dormitory Proctor, one of the chief undergraduate honors at Bowdoin.

A talented photographer and a former secretary-treasurer of the Bowdoin Camera Club, he last year won prizes in a campus photography contest and in a student art contest.

Mayor Proclaims 'Poppy' Days

Mayor James R. McIntyre has proclaimed today and Friday "Poppy Days in Quincy"

The poppy that bloomed in France during World War I has become the Memorial Flower of The American Legion and the American Legion Auxiliary.

Poppies will be sold on these days, and the total profits will be used for welfare relief for service men and women and their families, and for needy and disabled service men and women.

Mayor McIntyre said in the proclamation that "the public be given an opportunity to help the great work of the American Legion and The American Legion Auxiliary and to pay tribute to all who died in service, by purchasing and wearing a poppy on Poppy Day."

Dr. Creedon To Address Rotary Club

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon will be thw guest speaker at the Tuesday, May 13 meeting of the Quincy Rotary Club. He will be introduced by Dr. Charles Djerf.

Rotarians were informed that the regular May 20 meeting would be cancelled in favor of a combined meeting of service clubs May 19 at the YMCA. The meeting will feature a joint Memorial Day tribute by the combined organizations.

New Rotary officers will be installed on Wednesday evening, June 25 at the Quincy Neighborhood Club.

It isn't very often a man gets the opportunity to view his own memorial. But that rare distinction came Sunday to Quincy's colorful old political warrior, Dave [Tuck] McIntosh.

A plaque was unveiled at the city's new Public Works-Civil Defense complex in honor of the former mayor, councillor, state representative and senator whose political career spanned nearly a half-century.

And, he was there to see it–and quite obviously touched by the rare honor.

A quite appropriate honor too, because during his municipal political career he was actively interested in public works projects.

The idea of the honor to the former "dean" of the City Council was that of Councillor John J. Quinn, present "dean".

"I believe," Quinn said in making the suggestion, "in letting a man know how we feel about him."

McIntosh, who will be 84 Aug. 1, is a political Horatio Alger who rose from blacksmith's helper to mayor of his native city. He served as Plan E mayor in 1952-53.

He served in both chambers on Beacon Hill–Senate and House of Representatives––and 18 years in the City Council.

Incidentally, do you know how he got his nickname Tuck?

When he was just a boy of six and living on Quincy St., a group of local granite cutters had a band and practiced in a barn near his home. One of the numbers they played had a catchy chorus the men sang. It went like this: "Kentucket, Kentucket, a hunting we will go."

Young Dave started singing it and soon his older brother, Andrew, was calling him Kentucket. And as time went on, Kentucket was shortened to "Tucket" and then to "Tuck" which stuck.

As a political figure and orator, he had the same magnetic touch as James Michael Curley. They both came out of the "old school" and you can't hardly find that kind of personality any more.

SPEAKING OF TRIBUTES, a $25-per plate testimonial dinner is being planned by friends for Norfolk County Commissioner George B. McDonald of Quincy. The dinner will be at the South Shore Country Club May 22, Social, 6 p.m.; dinner 7:30 p.m. [Ironically, Hingham is in Plymouth County.]

IT ALMOST LOOKED like City Hall was being raided Saturday afternoon. Parked in front was one of the Police Department wagons and getting in were a number of Quincy's top officials including:

Passersby stopped to stare, as the smiling officials climbed into the wagon.

What was it all about?They were merely being driven to a hard to reach area off Willard St., West Quincy, to inspect a proposed new dumping facility.

QUINCY'S new Civil Defense Director Edward Roberts assumed his duties this week, succeeding John Schmock, now superintendent of fire alarms for the city. Schmock presented him with a gold badge at the "changing of the guard" ceremonies.

WELL, if you're thinking of running for mayor, here's a sartorial hint: you'll probably have more voter appeal if you wear a regular tie rather than a bow tie.

Of the 23 mayors elected since Quincy became a city in 1888, only seven sported bow ties, according to photographs in display in the City Council chamber.

The seven bow tie mayors: Charles Porter, [the city's first mayor] William Hodges, James Thompson, John Miller, Gustave Bates, Joseph Whiton, and Perley Barbour.

But if Quincy ever returns to Plan E, you'd have a better chance becoming City Manager if you did wear a bow tie.

Quincy had three city managers. Two of them, William Deegan and Donald Blatt were bow tie men. Edward Lewis, Quincy's third and last city manager, wore regular ties.

Well, it's something to think about.

AND, here's another tip. Don't ever challenge City Councillor-Rep: Clifford Marshall to "stickers" in ten-pin bowling. He's good at it. In fact he once bowled a 299-string -- just one short of a perfect game. Got 11 strikes in a row and lost the perfect mark with a nine-pin drop in the last frame.

"Teens Incorporated"

New Club For Teenagers In North Quincy

Chances are if a discussion develops regarding the future of the country, future leadership etc., the conversation begins and ends with youth-the younger generation. Adults are interested in the youth of today and one who has done something about it is Navy Chief Quartermaster John McCartney of 13 Saratoga St., North Quincy McCartney's trial efforts started last November and is now known as "Teens Incorporated"

It is a club where youngsters 13 to 19 years old, in the words of one member, "can get together, with the freedom of being ourselves and not feel like there's a bunch of adults breathing down the back of one's neck.

Membership in the club is open to any teenager, civilian or military, in the Wollaston Beach-Squantum areas.

All teenagers are accepted regardless of race, color or creed. To prove this point the youngsters turned to the black members of the group for leadership and elected the vice president and the treasurer from this area making two of the four officers black. Since that time Tim Grogan has moved to California with his parents and a vice president was elected.

Joey Scott of 63 Saratoga St. North Quincy, the club treasurer, outlined the importance of clubs such as Teens Incorporated. "I think if kids had a place to go they would not get into trouble. A club like ours gives us something to do and a good way to spend one's time. Youngsters get into trouble when they have nothing to take up their slack time.

He further pointed out that his position as Treasurer is a valuable experience for him. He said it provided training in handling money and offers some training in the management field that will come in handy in his future in the business world during his adult years.

Chief McCartney has injected other valuable instruction into the club meetings. When the teenagers attend meetings once each week their time is taken up by business meetings followed by dancing or perhaps playing a game of pool on the pool table located in the basement of the Star of the Sea Catholic Church.

EGG HUNTERS -- Young Miss Cheryl Diann Boling has a full basket of brightly colored Easter Eggs collected in the recent "Hunt" sponsored by Teen Incorporated.

In addition the chief has shown movies outlining the evils of drug use. An upcoming meeting will consist of a panel of qualified experts who will discuss all facets of the drug subject. The panel will then answer questions asked by club members.

McCartney said membership in Teens Incorporated continues to grow but support of all the parents is desired and necessary. "After all you only get out of any program what you put into it," he concluded.

Presently the membership does not have a club house although plans are in the mill to acquire one. At present the 30 plus members meet at the Star of the Sea Catholic Church in Squantum.

Prospective members of "Teens" pay a small membership fee to join the club and dues of twenty-five cents a week. These funds are then used for worthwhile community projects which has already started. Putting club money to good use their first community participation took the place of recently sponsoring an Easter Egg hunt.

At present the club members are in a huddle thinking up new ways to earn money for sponsoring other worthwhile events.

The youngsters of Teens Incorporated do have adult sponsorship but are free, and have elected, a board of officers from their membership. They voted on and have compiled a list of rules, of the majority of members choice, that's binding on all members and prospective members and all participants must agree to abide by them. Some of these are: no gambling, no drugs no necking, no foul language, no property damage, no fighting, etc. And there are no color lines.

HUD Approves Leasing Of 300 Low Rent Homes

Congressman James A. Burke [D–Milton] and Senator Edward M. Kennedy have announced that the Department of Housing and Urban Development has approved a program for leasing 300 low rent homes in Quinch.

The program will consist of 15 efficiencies, 70 one–bedroom, 15 two–bedroom units for the elderly, 50 two–bedroom, 60 three–bedroom, 60 four–bedroom, 20 five–bedroom, and 10 six–bedroom units for non–elderly families. This will increase the total leased housing program to 450 units.

INSURANCE

Social Security pays up to $4,896.00 towards a College Education

Would your Child USE it ——— or LOSE it?

One of the recent changes in the Social Security Law guarantees continuation of a child's benefit beyond age 18, to age 22, provided the child-beneficiary is a full-time student in an accredited school or college. This means that the child of a deceased worker can have part of his college expenses paid through the Social Security Program, if (and this is a big IF) the additional funds needed to allow the youngster to be a full-time student are available.

With a full line of both Life Insurance and Mutual Funds, we can help take the IF out.

HOUSE CALL

By Dr. Charles Djerf
Pediatrician

There is a lot of concern and confusion relative to an "ordinary sore throat" and a "strep throat". The latter is connected with Scarlet Fever, Scarlatina and Rheumatic fever with or without heart and kidney complications.

If a child or adult suddenly come down with a sore throat, an attempt by parents and doctors must be made to determine its seriousness. Just a good look at the back of the throat with a flashlight will shed much "light", along with an accurate temperature. The doctor should be consulted if there is a distinct bright redness to the throat, if the temperature is suddenly high [101 degrees], if there are joint pains or a flushed scaled look to cheeks, with whiteness around the mouth, or a flushed body. These may be related to the streptococcal infection and a throat culture and antibiotic therapy is indicated.

The seriousness of a neglected or inadequately treated infection can not be overstated nor should a mass hysteria with each sore throat be resultant. However, alertness by doctors and patients, and if necessary, long-term supervision may be called for to curtail further damage and prevent reinfection.

It is true that repeated bouts of Rheumatic fever will cause the heart damage. This is considered so important that the State provided the necessary penicillin for prolonged prevention. No one need go without medication for the lack of funds. The State also follows these individuals through his private doctor should requests for medicine not be received at proper intervals. My personal experience with patients has been that it is very easy to forget therapy, necessary twice a day, for a period as long as, say ten years.

This is particularly true as a child goes into adolescence and it becomes his responsibility to continue medication. This is a tough age because of his preoccupation with self. Mothers often complicate matters by nagging at this stage. One way to ease the tension, concern, and to be sure that the individual receives necessary protection is by means of an intramuscular "shot" that can be given once a month so that his daily pill is eliminated.

Many teen-agers have accepted this well. However, the state does not pay for this type of treatment routinely. Without adequate therapy the child's life is endangered very seriously. Heart and kidney complications are no joke.

Just what happens to the heart? All parts of the heart may be inflamed. When the attacl subsides, healing of the inflamation causes formation of scars and may lead to permanent damage of the heart muscle and the normally delicate valves. The valve thickens and is deformed by scars so that it closes improperly, and in time it become narrowed and obstructs the normal flow of blood through the heart.

Rheumatic fever is not inherited but a family tendency may pertain. The old streptococcus, as we said before, is the ubiquitous scoundrel. One attack of Rheumatic fever produces no immunity but rather recurrent attacks can be expected on reexposure to streptococcus infections. This is why prolonged low-dosages of penicillin are advised. Penicillin sensitivity has not been a problem. Should this be suspectec, other drugs may be used.

Acute Nephritis [kidney infection] and subsequent chronic Nephritis [damaged kidney function] is another complication of Scarlet fever, Scarlatina [a milder form of Scarlet fever] and "strep" sore throat. This is why a urinalysis is necessary at the termination of treatment.

Many persons seeking heart valve surgery or heart-transplants have been the victim of this disease as it is the most common cause of heart disease between ages five and thirty-five. The other area which may suffer from a streptococcal infection is the brain, [chorea]. Although we do no know the precise way this bacteria can produce these effects, the relationship has been clearly established. Only the Hemalytic streptococcus, Group A, positive, is repeatedly implicated.

Head colds, sore throat without any fever, hoarseness and coughs in children above the age of five years and in adults are usually not due to a streptococcal infection and such illnesses do not cause Rheumatic fever or Nephritis.

North Math Team Scores 'First'

The North Quincy math team scored a notable first last week when it placed sixth in the Greater Boston Math League Playoffs.

This marked the first time in the League's history that a first year team has qualified for tne playoffs.

Paul Salomas won an individual trophy as the fifth ranking junior in the League. Leader of the team is Miss Manoli, a math teacher at North.

Officer O'Donnell Cited For Capture In Narcotic Theft

Patrolman William O'Donnell has been commended for his action in apprehending a 22-year-old Boston man in a drug theft at Sher's Drug Store on April 28.

O'Donnell was cited by Mayor James R. McIntyre for "contributing greatly to the welfare and best interests of the citizenry of Quincy."

McIntyre's commendation noted that "the drugs involved were such that any dissemination of same would result in illicit marketing and cause great concern."

A copy of the Mayor's commendation was sent to Police Chief Francis X. Finn. O'Donnell was also awarded two days off.

O'Donnell made the arrest at gunpoint after a car chase involving two suspects.

These are terms we see and hear every day in the newspapers and on Radio . . . referring to our younger generation, yet, we in most cases do nothing more than say "That's a shame."

A criminal record, confinement to the Youth Service Board, heartbreak for a family, a handicap for life — is it worth it?The shocking fact is that few people really know what happens to a young man or woman after their court appearance and some could care even less.

I too, being uninformed, rarely gave much thought to this dramatic social problem. . . . .until. . .after reading and hearing of charges and counter charges at the Institute for Juvenile Guidance at Bridgewater, Representatives Buckley, [D-Abington] Hannon [R-Quincy]and I, decided to visit this institution unannounced and see for ourselves just what was going on there.

Unfortunately a detailed description of our visit cannot be described here now but it should suffice however, for me to explain what transpired after our visit.

As a member of the Legislative Committee on State Administration [this committee recommends and makes proposals for institutions under the Youth Service Board]I suggested to House Committee Chairman McGlynn [D-Medford]that our committee should visit each of the centers of the Youth Service Board and try to understand the problems and how best to correct them.

Until this time, I did not realize there were two bills filed for the year to reorganize the entire Division of Youth Services. The bills, Senate 1001 and House 2870, are practically identical in wording.

The Committee on State Administration has been visiting not only these institutions but the Boston Juvenile Court as well to see exactly what transpires within the system.

Everybody from the Acting Governor to parents of children formerly committed to the Youth Service Board spoke out in favor of a reorganization at our recent public hearing. However this cannot be accomplished overnight. Due to editorials, TV coverage, political pressure and other factors, Dr. John Coughlan Youth Service Board Director, resigned as of May 10, This has made many people happy and some sad. One thing it has done is to leave the Board without a director until a new man can be found. [A nation-wide search is being conducted by the Governor's office]

I personallly have found that this expose' so to speak in the news media has hurt the Division and the kids confined to it. It has lost respect and many fine employees because of this and other reasons. Certainly our goal is too valuable for this to happen!

However, on the plus side, recommendations by Advisory Boards and new recommendation, have gained support by both the public and legislature. It now appears that a major reorganization will be approved and additional funds appropriated in this fiscal year so that faith and trust in the Division will return.

Many people have written me on these bills because of my membership on the Committee and I sincerely appreciate their interest and comments. However, major legislation such as this, in my opinion cannot be done in haste just for the sake of change. What will be proposed, I hope, will be a good, workable program that will help our young people committed to the Youth Service Board.

Our proposal has 75 sections to it so you can see it is not a small package to reorganize.

Our Senate chairman, has been quoted as saying, "There will be no major changes" etc. This is not in full accord with all members so you see even amongst our 21 members we have disagreement over this becuase it is so sensitive a matter.

During our meetings I have proposed the following amendments to the bill

[1.] That there be a Bureau of Educational Services.

[2.] That mandatory in-service training programs be set-up for personnel.

[3.] That the Director of Rehabilitation serve on the advisory committee and that the committee meet at least four times a year.

I feel these are good amendments for the future and thus far they have been fully accepted by the committee.

We have had many executive sessions to try to present the best possible bill to reach our desired goal. That goal is: to provide a program genuinely aimed not at confinement but at rehabilitation and prevention of delinquency of youth in Massachusetts" . . . .

department accomplish the objectives of achieving a 42-hour work week."

Mayor McIntyre noted that surrounding South Shore fire departments are already under the 42-hour work week.

He said fire departments in 28 cities and towns in the state are on the 42-hour week, including Boston, Milton, Braintree, Weymouth, Randolph and Brockton.

McIntyre said he realizes the move "is somewhat of a financial burden on the city [but] it is necessary for Quincy to maintain standards comparable to other surrounding communities in the interest of public safety."

He noted that the Quincy Fire Department last year responded to approximately 1,000 more alarms than in 1967 and that alarms are again on the increase this year.

"This reduction in work hours is a trend not only locally but throughout the Commonwealth," commented Chief Barry.

He said that because of extensive necessary administrative changes, insufficient men on the Civil Service appointment lists and the necessity of holding additional examinations, the 42-hour work week would not be effective until May 1, 1970.

He urged young men interested in a fire department career to prepare themselves for future examinations and "the opportunities that will be offered to them in the fire service."

Menz said the Mayor's proposal culminates approximately two years of negotiations by his union for a 42-hour work week.

"We are very pleased," he said, "that it has been brought to a successful reality through the efforts of Mayor McIntyre, Chief Barry and Local 792 in an amiable atmosphere."

SENIOR CITIZENS NEWS

Young at Heart

By Marion Andrews

Assistant To Executive Director
Quincy Council on Aging

GOLDEN FELLOWSHIP OPEN HOUSE

In observance of Senior Citizens Month, held during the month of May, the Golden Fellowship Club of Wollaston will have an open house, by invitation only, May 13 at the Wollaston Methodist Church on Beale St. A luncheon will be served at 1 p.m. followed by a program of films. Invitations have been sent to officers of neighboring senior citizens groups.

81 YEARS YOUNG

Clarence Metcalf of 121 Arnold St., recently observed his 81st birthday. A family party was given in his honor by his family at his home.

Mr. Metcalf, unbelievably alert and active for his years, is a commissioner on the Quincy Council on Aging and was recently appointed to another term of two years by Mayor James R. McIntyre.

He is also active in the Quincy Federation of Senior Citizens. He is president of the South Shore Chapter Retired Fire and Police Association and is a charter member of the recently-formed Quincy Point Senior Citizens Group. He is a retired Quincy firefighter.

SENIOR CITIZENS DINNER DANCE

The Senior Citizens Drop-In-Center Group will hold a dinner dance for members only May 22 at the Fore River Clubhouse. The event is being held in conjunction with Senior Citizens Month. Joseph Piekarski is general chairman.

SENIOR CITIZEN FESTIVAL

Senior Citizens Month observances will be climaxed on June 4 at the Quincy Armory when the second annual Senior Citizen Festival will take place. The festival is sponsored by the Quincy Federation of Senior Citizens under the direction of the Quincy Council on Aging. Mrs. William Wolf, president of the federation is general chairman of the festival

Invitations have been extended to many city departments, state agencies and other groups providing services for the elderly to arrange exhibits and displays for the festival.

More than 1000 persons vitited the Quincy Armory last year for the first annual festival. In addition to the exhibits and booths, sponsored by various senior citizen groups, offered for sale will be handicraft work as well as refreshments. Entertainment will be provided throughout the day. The festival will be open to the public without an admission charge.

YOU ARE INVITED

Senior Citizen groups and individuals residing in the city are invited to submit copy for the Young at Heart Column. Clubs, organizations or groups planning senior citizen activities as well as individuals with items of interest including, birthdays, anniversaries or senior citizen activities are urged to take advantage of the space made available to them by the Quincy Sun. News items may be submitted through the Quincy Council on Aging in person, by mail or by calling the Council on Aging Office, 1120 Hancock St., 471-1730.

This column is for and about senior citizens. We would like to hear from you.

Scout Leaders Win Awards

Two Quincy Boy Scout leaders were among five honored by their associates Thursday, with the Silver Beaver Award for distinguished service to boyhood.

The two Quincy recipients were Howard G. Phillips of 89 Pontiace Rd., and Henry C. Leschernier of 37 Edgeworth Rd.

Their citations noted that Howard Phillips, an assistant to the transportation manager of H. P. Hood and Sons, Charlestown, is chairman of the Blue Granite District training committee, responsible for training Scout Leaders, in Quincy and Milton. He is the recipient of the Wood Badge award, and has been on the staff of several Wood Badge Training Courses both on a Regional and National Level. He is a member of Bethany Congregational Church and a member of the Chancel Choir.

Henry Leschernier, a roofing contractor, has been active in Scouting at Sacred Heart Church, Quincy, where he has been Scoutmaster for 15 years. He is the recipient of the Scouters Key and Wood Badge Awards for Scouting and the St. George Award.

Presentation of the awards was made at the annual Scout Recognition dinner in Florian Hall, Neponset and was attended by a thousand Scoutmasters and their families.

Planning Director Will Speak At Ward Meeting

City Planning Director Geoffrey A. Davidson will be guest speaker at the monthly meeting of the Ward Two Civic Association, May 13, 8 p.m. at Fore River Clubhouse.

President George H. MacLean said Davidson will discuss future projects for Ward Two and explain the city's code enforcement program now being carried out in North Quincy.

Baseball Tryouts

Tryouts will be conducted Saturday and Sunday at Kincaide Park, South Quincy at 2 p.m. for the Morrisette Post American Legion Baseball team, last year's state runner-ups.

Boys attending the following schools will be eligible to try out

Quincy, North Quincy High schools, Archbishop Williams. Braintree and Sacred Heart High School, Weymouth.

It was announced by team manager Nick Malvesti that any boy who attends schools outside Quincy but who resides in Quincy is eligible.

Field Day Saturday

The Willard School PTA will hold its second annual "Field Day" from 10:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturday, at the school grounds, Copeland St., West Quincy.

A magician will perform at 10:30 a.m.

Pony rides, booths, prizes and games are some of the activities planned. Home-baked goods and refreshments will be on sale.

The Field Day committee includes Robert Marshall, David Ezickson and Anthony Mobayed.

MBTA Runs Sunday Line From Quincy-Nantasket

The Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority has announced that bus service between Quincy Square and Nantasket Beach will be operated, weather permitting, every Sunday, and on May 26 which will be observed as Memorial Day.

The service will be operated every 60 minutes, starting at 12:15 p.m. from Quincy Square with the last bus leaving for Nantasket Beach at 7:15 p.m. The first hourly bus from Nantasket Beach will leave for Quincy Square at 12:45 p.m. and the last bus will leave at 7:45 p.m.

Saturday service will start on May 31 and will be operated on the same schedules.

As this is "fair weather" service, anyone questioning whether or not the buses will operate may call the MBTA Quincy Garage [472-3450 for information.

Effective Saturday, June 21, when the Summer timetables become effective, through bus service to Nantasket Beach will be operated from Mattapan and from Fields Corner, via Quincy Square.

The 44th annual outing of the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce will be held Wednesday, July 16 at the Weymouth Fairgrounds, South Weymouth.

Clam chowder will be served starting at 1 p.m. Activities, beginning at 1:30 p.m., will include horseshoes, bocce, softball, golf putting and chipping, cribbage, basketball? and football throwing, egg tossing, nail driving and other contests.

The event will be climaxed with an old fashioned New England lobster and clam bake served by Leighton's Caterers at 6 p.m.

Requests for tickets may be made now through William A. O'Connell, executive vice-president and Ronald F. Frazier, executive secretary, of the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce or through committee members.

The committee includes:

Daniel Barry, Henry Bosworth, Louis Cassani, Carter Gaudle, Russell DiMattio, Denis Donoghue, Bert Eckblom, John Gillis, Ellis Hughes, Charles Johnson, Joseph Kendrick, Percy Lane, Joseph McConville, Richard McCormick, Frank McNally, Frank Mills, Ernest Montilio, David E. Murphy, Forrest I. Neal, Jr., Irving Potter, George Riley, Hobart Robinson, Jack Silverstein, Richard Venna and Andrew Walsh.

Fore River Clubhouse Visit For Bloodmobile Monday

Mrs. Michael Fallon, Quincy Blood Donor Chairman, has announced that the Red Cross Bloodmobile will be at the Fore River Clubhouse, Nevada Rd., Monday from 11:30 a.m. to 5:15 p.m.

Mrs. Fallon noted that individual and group donors may protect themselves and family members, and may assure blood needs any time within one year of the date of donation.

"The only way that you can be sure that blood will be available is for you or a member of your family to be a regular donor," she said.

Persons between the ages of 18 and 60, in good health, and weighing 110 lbs. or more, are qualified potential donors. Written parental consent is needed for those 18 through 20, except for those in the armed forces.

Advance appointments may be made at the Red Cross office, Revere Rd., or by calling 472-2700.

Quincy Still In Baseball Battle

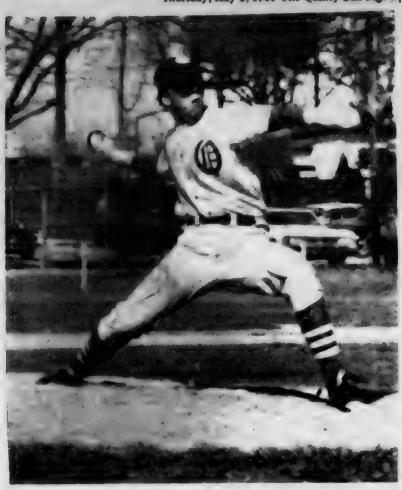
Quincy's baseball team dropped from a first place tie in the Greater Boston League when it bowed to Somerville, 4-0, on Monday, but the Presidents are still very much in the running and hope to stay there Friday when they host Medford at Adams Field.

They will play at Malden Monday and will entertain Everett at Adams Field Wednesday.

Monday's big one with Somerville [the teams were tied with 6-1 records] was scoreless until the seventh when two singles, two walks, a hit batter and error gave the Highlanders their four runs.

Roy Peterson outpitched Quincy's Steve McDevitt to even the score for Somerville's only loss in the season's opener when McDevitt defeated Peterson. The two were quarterback rivals in last fall's 14-14 football tie.

Quincy had only one hit off Peterson, a seventh inning single by Bruce Carlson. Peterson struck out 12 and walked two. McDevitt gave up six hits in suffering his first loss, fanned 10, walked two and hit a batter.



The Presidents were off to a promising start when the first two men walked but a fast short-to-second-first double play ended the threat and Peterson was unbeatable the rest of the way.

Quincy had set the stage for the big meeting with a hard-fought 5-3 win over North Quincy last Friday.

Paul Duff scattered eight North hits, struck out 12 and walked only one. Quincy scored three runs in the fourth to overcome a 2-0 deficit and added two in the sixth, while North scored twice in the third and once in the eighth.

Kevin Ryan had a double and single and Steve Carrera two singles to pace the nine-hit attack.

Earlier in the week Quincy coach Bob Basiliere used every player as the Presidents dropped a 5-4 non-league decision to Boston Tech. "I felt it was a good chance to give all the boys some action and to use all my pitchers," he said. "I also used the game to work on our bunting, which has been poor. After all, the game meant nothing."

Quincy Athletic Slot May Split

According to authoritative sources, the position of Director of Health, Physical Education and Athletics for the Quincy schools, handled so capabley by the late Munroe MacLean for 10 years and by his assistant, Ken Rickson, since MacLean's untimely death in January, will be split up next year.

Reports indicate that Rickson will continue as director of physical education [or physical ed coordinator]the director of health will come from the school system's personal services division and a new athletic director [or athletic coordinator] will be appointed.

Many names are being mentioned as the possible athletic director. Among them: North Quincy football coach Carl Leone and Quincy coaches Hank Conroy [football], Marty Finnegan [basketball] and Bob Basiliere [baseball]. There are doubtless others in the running also.

It appears logical, with the expanding athletic and physical ed programs in the schools, that the position should be split up, regardless of how capable the holder of all positions is, and Rickson is considered quite capable.

The junior high sports programs are expanding, intramural programs are also growing and girls' sports are beginning to blossom. And the schools' physical education programs are always on the increase.

Quincy High School's first varsity girls' basketball last winter had a winning season, and it is reported that North will soon add a varsity girls' team. It is also indicated that varsity girls' teams in other sports are on the horizon.

Munroe MacLean was named to succeed James Carter as director of health, physical education and athletics in 1959 and, upon his death, Rickson took over, although his classification as assistant was not changed.

Whoever is named athletic director, it appears it will be a good choice because all the Quincy and North coaches seem to have the qualifications to handle the position well.

Raider Nine Hitting 1,000--Out Of GBL

If North Quincy's baseball team was playing an independent schedule instead of being in the Greater Boston League, it probably would have an outstanding record.

When the Raiders were bombed by Revere, Monday, 11-0, it made their league record 2-6.

But when whey walloped Hingham, 9-4, last Saturday, it made their non-league mark a perfect 3-0.

Friday Charlie Bunker's North club plays at Chelsea, one of its two league victims, and on Wednesday goes to Somerville to face the powerful league leaders.

When North loses this year, it loses big. It previously lost to Somerville, 12-0, and to Malden, 11-0. Oddly enough, however, in their first meeting with Revere, the Raiders romped by the same score as they lost by Monday, 11-0.

The Raiders didn't have a chance at Revere as their batting and pitching both collapsed. Revere, whose 5-4 win over Quincy is responsible for the presidents being in second place, scored early and often.

Saturday it was a different story as North collected 11 hits and Bill Deshler, winning his first start, and Frank Costa combined to hold Hingham's Old Colony League runnerup to five.

The Raiders rolled to a 7-2 lead in four innings, then added two runs in the seventh.

Trackmen Shoot For Third Straight

After losing its first three meets, Quincy's track team came on to win its last two and will try to make it three in a row Tuesday when it is home to strong Waltham in a Suburban League meet at Quincy Veterans Stadium. Quincy will compete in the state relays Saturday.

Tom Hall's Presidents made it two in a row Tuesday with a 95-35 romp over under-manned Cambridge Latin as he gave several boys a chance who usually don't see much action.

Kevin Luggelle was Quincy's big scorer with wins in the 220 and high jump and a strong anchor in the winning relay team.

'Check Your Closet' Week

Area dry cleaners will participate in the current "Check Your Closet" Week.

Customers have been urged to "clean out closets" of discarded but usable clothing for donation to charitable organizations. Dry cleaning firms are cooperating in receiving the garments for donation to the charities.

A dry cleaning spokesman Joseph Grippi of Beacon Cleansers, Wollaston, said that one thousand pounds of clothes was turned in to his establishment last year.

Beacon Cleansers, in cooperation with affiliated dry cleaners in Quincy, will assist in the charitable drive for clothing. Mr. Grippi said Beacon will accept such clothing for charity throughout the month of May.

School Counselors Post For Louise Forsyth

Miss Louise B. Forsyth of the Quincy Public Schools Guidance Staff has been appointed Executive Secretary of the Massachusetts School Counselors Association.

The appointment was approved unanimously by the MSCA Board of Trustees which met this week in Springfield and was announced by Association president Thomas F. McGrail of Malden.

The Massachusetts School Counselors Association is the professional organization for counselors working in public and private elementary and secondary schools of the commonwealth and has a membership of 1300.

Miss Forsyth was the first woman to be elected president of the MSCA and is the only person to have served the association in all of its offices.

She is a member of the Headquarters Guidance Staff of the Quincy schools and formerly was head counselor at Atlantic Junior High School, counselor at North Quincy High School, and teacher-counselor at South Junior High School, Quincy.

A graduate of Woodrow Wilson High School in Long Beach, California, she holds degrees from Bridgewater State College, the College of William and Mary in Virginia, and Boston University.

Miss Forsyth is active in numerous local, state, and national guidance associations including the South Shore Association for Women in Guidance, the Greater Boston Personnel and Guidance Association, the Massachusetts Personnel and Guidance Association, the New England Personal and Guidance Conference.

Adams House Landmarks Open For 73rd Year

For the 73rd consecutive year the Adams Birthplaces on Franklin Street in South Quincy have been opened to the public. The Houses will be open from Tuesday through Sunday, holidays, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The two little red houses - world famous landmarks - are owned by the City of Quincy, maintained by City Historian William C. Edwards, and are operated by the Quincy Historical Society. Mrs. John B. Ames, hostess of the John Quincy Adams Birthplace for the past several years, will again be in charge. A newcomer, Mrs. George E. Nelson, will host visitors at the John Adams Birthplace.

During the 1968 season the Birthplaces were visited by over 8000 people from 49 states and 26 foreign countries. The Society again forsees fine visitation at the Houses

Bethany Church Fund At $44,200

Bethany Congregational Church, in the first week of canvassing, has realized pledges of support for "Project: Advance!" totalling $44,200.

The final tally in the canvassing campaign for $120,000 is expected tomorrow [Friday]

The funds are being raised for the Protestant Home for Boys, for various activities sponsored by the Massachusetts Congregational Conference's "Mission: Advance", and for renovations at Bethany Church.

Junior College, Eastern Nazarene Receive Grants For Student Aid

Grants funding Eastern Nazarene College for two programs and Quincy Junior College, have been announced by Cong. James A. Burke and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

One $97,357 award to Eastern Nazarene provides assistance for an estimated 167 students who are eligible for assistance under provisions of an exceptional financial need program.

These grants are provided under the Educational Opportunity Grants program, administered by the Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare.

The aid ranges from $200 to $1,000 per student for each academic year of study up to a four-year maximum duration.

A $24,990 allocation for Eastern Nazarene was also approved for use in the school's work-study program. The federal funds provide 80 percent of student payrolls in the program.

Approximately 124 Eastern Nazarene students will be aided by the grant.

A $17,019 award was also approved for Quincy Junior College. An estimated 32 students will be eligible for the awards.

On Being A Mother

I like the answers the children gave, reported in the May Reader's Digest, to the quesrion. "What is a Mother? Children are known to tell the truth . . .amusing sometimes. . .more profound often even than they know.

Jimmy wrote. . ."A mommy is a wife. . .a mommy looks after children and she yells."Little Hester wrote. . ."A mother is a very dear person who has given up her life with her parents to be with her husband. . .also to raise a few children herself."

Jimmy is right. . ."a mommy is a wife." I hear all the reasons why the children have to have primary attention. . .why mothers are too tired to devote themselves to their husbands at the end of the day. Nevertheless. . . these children recognize that a mommy is first of all a wife. . . the children really want it that way. . .it gives them a sense of stability. . .a model for their future homes.

"A very dear person who has given up her life with her parents to be with her husband". . .Hester said. . ."also to raise a few children herself." One of the handicaps of many women/men is that they haven't really left home. They still cling to their childhood situations. . .to their mothers. . .still haven't cut the apron strings. Hester sees a mother as one who has "given up her life with here parents to be with her husband and to raise a few children herself." Profound wisdom.

There are many men who default in their husband/father role . . .forcing a wife/mother to be both mother and father to the children. Mothers visit the school . . .call the plumber. . .plant the garden. . .buy all the clothes. . . see that all the bills are paid. . . make all the decisions. The husband. . .in such cases. . .is almost another of her children. She is forced into the role of matriarch. She cannot be feminine. . .she cannot let these necessary daily situations wait for a husband who shirks his role as head of the family. If she did, things would go to pot. . .chaos would result. These husbands' own manhood is at stake. Mother's Day is a good time to start letting "mommy be a wife". . . by not forcing upon her a man's role. Yes. . . again Jimmy is right that "a mommy looks after children." Hester says. . raises a few children herself." "The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world." some sage is supposed to have said. But she just can't do it alone.

Infancy. . ."those were the days". . .when the patterns are laid for life. . .the first five years A person's basic behavior patterns are just about jelled by the time a child starts to school. Mother's "yelling" from there on is an indication of dissatisfaction with the job she's done. Frustrated that she hasn't moulded the child differently, she yells at the child. . .really a projection of blame to the child for inadequacy she feels inside herself. Some mothers just can't let a child be himself/herself. . .some never let go. . .hold on even after their boys/girls are grown and gone. Phone calls. . .letters. . . gifts. . .chores. . .ways of holding on.

If she is not happy or satisfied with the job she has done, she keeps on trying to "fix". . .to "twist". . ."to reform". Maybe she's lonely and holds on for companionship she doesn't have . . .thus putting her married son/daughter in the middle with his/her wife/husband.

A "mommy is a wife". . ."A mommy looks after children". . . "A mommy yells". . .a mommy is also a PERSON herself. She's a better wife. . .a better mommy . . .if she has given attention to being a mature, full person herself . . .loving herself so she can love her husband and children. . . with great tenderness. . .warmth . . .womanliness. . .which God intended her to be.

This is what being a mother means to Jimmy. . .to Hester . . .to me.

Donor Luncheon chairman was Mrs. Henry B. Cutler. Mrs. Albert Davis was co-chairman. They were assisted by Mrs. Robert B. Levin, Mrs. Warren Rockman, Mrs. Martin Rutberg, Mrs. Henry Levin, Mrs. Aaron Stern, Mrs. Herbert Hodess, Mrs. Samuel Lampert, Mrs. Stanley Sorkin, Mrs. Stephen Cutler, Mrs. Charles Michelson, Mrs. Morton Bernstein, Mrs. Bernard Spiegel, and Mrs. Stephen Needel.

Also aiding in the luncheon were Mrs. Samuel Rubin, Mrs. Florence Lowenthal, Mrs. William Needel, Mrs. Henry Wechsler, Mrs. Irving Zeiper, Mrs. Gerald Rosenblatt, Mrs. Maurice Zack, Mrs. S. Joseph Weisberg, and Mrs. Ralph Kolodny.

Frederick Farrel To Direct Master Masons Convention

Frederick L. Farrell, Past Monarch of Taleb Grotto, Quincy, has been named director-general for the convention of the international Mystic Order Veiled Prophets of the Enchanted Realm to be held next month in Atlantic City.

The 100,000-member Master Masons will convene in Atlantic City for their 79th annual session

Farrell, who lives at 16 Small St., North Quincy, was named director-general by Grand Monarch John F. Newton at a Chicago meeting this week.

The international organization known as the "Fraternity That Friendship Built" was started by LeRoy Fairchild in Hamilton, N.Y. in 1889. It is also known as the "Playground of Masonry".

But member Prophets have as their international humanitarian objective, aid to the Cerebral Palsy child and through their Enchanted Lantern program have given $25,000 annually to the United Cerebral Palsy Research Foundation.

Farrell is also Past Monarch of Indian Rochard Lodge and Past President New England Grotto Association.

Newton, a prominent attorney is also a member of Taleb Grotto.

County Associates Name Officers

Outgoing chairman Leo F. Meady of Quincy of the Norfolk Associates urged members to seek public office "in the interest of good and responsible government," at the recent election meeting of the organization in Braintree.

Succeeding Meady as chairman will be Jack B. Levenson of Brookline.

Meady, who completed two terms as chairman of the Norfolk Associates, will serve as an area director and a member of the executive committee.

"BELLRINGER AWARD" was presented to the Hancock Bank by the Publicity Club of Boston. The award cited the bank for its outstanding community relations program. Accepting, left, was Francis A. Hunt, bank secretary and advertising director. Presentation was made by Will Solimene, Publicity Club president with Hancock Bank president William E. Kelley of Cohasset, right.

Incinerator Study Urged By Barilaro

"By building an incinerator off Sea St. the city would not have to pay this extra money for refuse collection," Barilaro said.

"Between this and using incinerator steam power to heat the municipal buildings, the city could save between $90,000 and $100,000 a year."

Barilaro said that West Quincy residents don't want dumping in the new proposed refuse site and pointed to a 1,500-name petition submitted by the St. Moritz Association as evidence.

"I think we should look into the feasibility of an incinerator which, incidentally, the voters of Quincy strongly favored in a referendum a few years ago." Barilaro said.

He said he would ask Mayor McIntyre to present all the facts from the requested feasibility investigation to both the mayors refuse study committee and the City Council's special Committee on Dumping headed by Councillor George B. McDonald.

"We could then make a definite determination," Barilaro said.

Barilaro said he is still considering a move to have the next public hearing on the proposed new West Quincy dumping area held at St. Mary's Church parish hall.

He said many West Quincy residents don't have the opportunity to get to City Hall or to Quincy High School auditorium for hearings.

"It's a question of legality as to whether the hearing could be held at St. Mary's he said. "If it is legal, I will so move at the next council meeting."

Roemer New Director Of Taxpayers Assn.

Harry E. Roemer, former district executive of the Quincy Boy Scouts, has been named executive director of the Quincy Taxpayers Association.

Appointment of Roemer, a resident of 41 Antwerp St., Milton, was announced yesterday by Mrs. W. Robert Kilbourn, president of the Tazpayers Association.

Roemer, a notary public and real estate broker, served as a member of the New England Citizens Crime Commission and has been active in scouting circles since age 12.

In addition to serving as district executive for the Quincy Council Boy Scouts, he also was district executive and public relations director for the Boston Boy Scouts Council.

He attended Wilcox Commercial College majoring in business administration and accounting the University of Montana where he received a degree in sociology and is a graduate of Cardinal Cushing School of Theology for the Laity.

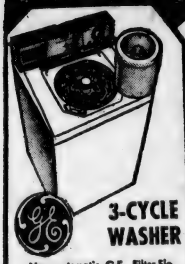
The demonstration carries out a Police Association decision to take their protests to the streets if the present contract dispute could not be resolved.

Deliberations are now deadlocked after a series of give and take sessions extending over the past five months.

The city's latest contract offer was rejected last month by a 97 to 3 Association vote, an offer Mayor James R. McIntyre said was the city's final proposal.



In addition to wage gaps separating the two sides, the issue of seniority as a basis for promotions and vacations is also a critical item.

Work, Anyone?

SEARCH SHIP–Chartered motor vessel steams up Fore River into General Dynamics Quincy shipyard with potential new employees aboard for a close-up look at job opportunities. Giant-sized vessel is the Milwaukee, one of six fleet oil replenishment ships being built for the Navy. The unusual recruiting effort resulted in 47 job applications. Five hundred jobs are still open.

More Work Sought

Shipyard Payroll $70 Million 500 Trade Jobs Still Open

The General Dynamics Quincy Division annual payroll has passed the $70 million mark and there are still 500 job openings.

A shipyard spokesman last night placed the annual payroll figure at $70,070,435 of which $12,332,800 goes to 1,504 Quincy residents employed there.

The workforce, which started from zero when General Dynamics re-opened the yard Jan. 1, 1964 after purchasing it from long-time owner Bethlehem Steel is now 8,500.

"We still need 500 more men just for the current backlog of contracts," said Employment Manager Edward F. Hart.

The contracts, totaling $434.3 million will keep the big yard humming at least through 1973.

And, General Dynamics, looking optimistically to the future, hopes to land a multi-ship package contract to insure many years of steady production at the yard.

Shipbuilding sources estimate the number of destroyers at 40 or more and the size of the contract up to $2 billion.

According to unofficial estimates, the contract, if won by Quincy, would bring the workforce here to more than 10,000.

But right now, the yard is looking for 500 more men. Wanted, said Hart, are shipfitters, pipefitters, electricians, painters and sheet metal workers.

"There are good opportunities here," said Hart. "We have a new five-year contract, good fringe benefits, good insurance plan and vacations with pay."

The contract signed in March with Local 5's 5,300 production workers has been called a "Model"

Quincy Bar To Formalize Free Legal Aid Program

Between 100 and 150 legal aid cases are handled every year by members of the Quincy Bar Association, it was reported yesterday by Association presidentAtty. Stephen T. Keefe, Jr.

Keefe disclosed the figures on legal services to needy persons in replying to references that the Quincy Bar Association opposes the provision of free legal services.

In responding to statements by community action program officials, Atty. Keefe states,"Since the inception of the Quincy Bar Association in the 1930's, it has provided services to persons in need and is still continuing with this program."

The Bar Association president pointed out that the legal aid services had never been publicized and were not common knowledge.

Community action programs in Quincy and other South Shore communities are seeking participation in the federally-funded "Judi-Care" program. Under the Office of Economic Opportunity program, free legal benefits are provided to indigent clients by federally-subsidized attorneys.

Atty. Keefe stressed that The Senior Prom Fancy ($50) Affair For Quincy, North '69

BY LOREN OSTROW

It will cost the average Quincy and North Quincy male graduate approximately $50 to take his best girl to the Senior Prom this year.

That's the estimated tab for flowers, tuxedo rental, photographs, prom tickets, and the day-after activities.

The prom for members of the Class of '69 is a far cry from the 30's and 40's when their parents danced at the Quincy Armory and usually wound up with an inexpensive Chinese feed in Boston's Chinatown or a cold chicken snack.

It's become a much more classy–and costly– affair and further proof of how times have really changed.

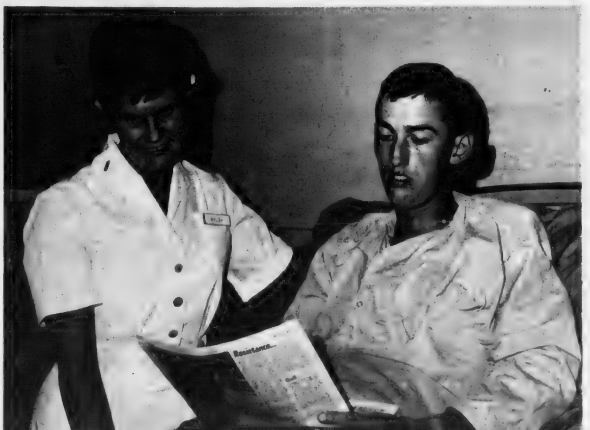
On June 6, the Quincy High School class will have their big time at the Statler Hilton Hotel in Boston.

Since the inception of the prom, activities before, during and after have yielded to constant innovation and change. Today it is not only a costly affair, but an involved and tiring one.



Besides the prom itself, there's picture-taking, parties and outings. Marking the culmination and celebration of 12 years of education, the prom has become a virtual 24-hour ordeal with little or no rest in between.

But the prom is, by no means, a tedious experience.

The festivities begin with pictures taken at the homes of all four people [most couples double date]. The comment one most often hears from experienced prom-goers is that this "photography" phase is the least enjoyable.

The actual socializing begins with the pre-prom "Coketail" party. At this time one receives the pleasant shock of viewing his friends in the epitome of their manners and at their formally-dressed best. After a bit of coke, pastry, and

Quincy Girl In Washington For Oratory Contest

Nancy Morrissey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard F. Morrissey, 80 Woodcliff Rd., West Quincy, Greater Boston C.Y.O. Original Orator of 1969, is representing Boston in the original category at the National Forensic League Oratory Contest in Washington, D.C.

Nancy qualified for the State Finals in American Legion competition and the Regional Finals in Elks competition. She is vice-president of her class, a member of the Oratory Club, Glee Club and Swim team at Sacred Heart School, Weymouth. She is a member of the Quincy YMCA and vice-president of the Leaders Club there.

Nancy and 42 classmates left for Washington Wednesday. Chaperoning them are Sister M. Wilhelmina C.S.J., Nancy's coach, Sister M. Jacomyn C.S.J. and Mr. and Mrs. Morrissey.

The four-day visit will be highlighted by a tour of the Jefferson Memorial, the Capitol, Lincoln Memorial, the National Shrine, the Art Gallery, Arlington National Cemetery, U. S. Supreme Court, and the Library of Congress. The return trip will include a visit to Annapolis and the Amish Country.

Students making the trip with Nancy are: Peter Cochrane, Anne Marie Kenney, Debra Parker, Diane Surette, Susan Follansbee, Kathleen Brown, John Gallahue, Jo-Anne Damigella, Christine Lind, Jeanne Darcy, Geri Sullivan, Rosemary Argento, Jeanne Nerbonne, Lisa Driscoll, Janice O'Connell, Joan Parkis, Maryellen Dacey, Janet Beatrice, Richard Burke, Martin Faherty, Margaret Grimes, and Patrick Rooney.

TV Teaching Historical Society Subject

The Quincy Historical Society will hold its annual meeting May 22 at United First Parish Church, Quincy Sq. The meeting, open to all interested persons, will begin at 7:30.

James K. Keelon will discuss "Teaching Local Heritage on Closed Circuit Television". He will speak on classroom techniques for conveying local heritage as a part of American heritage. Samples of closed circuit television programs will be shown.

Senior Prom A Fancy Affair

overwhelming flattery, the seniors head for the prom.

As the prom-goer enters the ballroom, he will be directed through the reception line which includes class officers, members of the administration, Senior Class advisor, parents of the class officers, and other invited guests. Some time later the couples will be seated for a dinner of perhaps chicken, turkey or roast beef. Following dinner, music for dancing is provided.

Each student guest will be presented with a memento of the prom. This memento might be a charm, a stuffed animal, a tie pin, or the hotel glassware!

Throughout the course of the prom, the official school photographer takes pictures of each couple. If they so desire, the couple may order folders and wallet photos.

Usually the prom is over between midnight and 2 a.m.

The prom does not end at this point. Afterwards, the kids go to an after-prom party. The less ambitious will drive home for a few hours rest.

At about 7 a.m. the boy will pick up his date at which time they will attend a breakfast party. Then follows a trip to the Cape for the day - a day of swimming, resting, and relaxing. Depending on the stamina of the couples involved, the day at the Cape can last until early evening, when everyone travels home for a good night's sleep.

As our mode of living has become more complex and fast-moving, the Senior Prom has kept pace. However, while change has marked prom activities, tradition has continued to dominate the basic philosophy of the "promenade".

And this year's senior will have much more than $50 worth of fond memories to treasure the rest of his life.

Sunbeams

Quincy may lose one of its most prominent School Committee members this year.

Dr. Charles Djerf is considering stepping down after 16 years of dedicated service.

"I'm thinking of it," he admits without offering any particular reason.

Close friends say he actually is beyond the thinking state--has definitely made up his mind to call it a career as a member of the School Committee where he has served since 1953. They are pretty certain he will not seek re-election this year.

But there is still plenty of time between now and the preliminary city election for someone to convince him to run at least for one more term.

If he doesn't seek re-election there no doubt would be a lively scrable for the open seat.

His professional-civic activities would keep a dozen men busy--probably two dozen. Maybe he just wants to slow down a little though at 59 he's still a young man with plenty of energy.

Incidentally, his interest in children--both as a pediatrician and school committee member comes quite naturally. He is the youngest of 12 children and his wife, Margaret, the youngest of 14.

The School Committee would hardly seem the same without him a member. And right now, unless someone changes his mind, it looks like it soon won't be the same.

EASTERN NAZARENE COLLEGE in Wollaston gets a nice commendation in the current Quincy Rotary Club news-letter:

"Unless you accidently drove by Eastern Nazarene College or had to go there on business, you would hardly be aware of its plant size or contribution to our community.

"For there are no hippies, no Communist inspired demonstrations no intoxicating parties, nor the numerous other conditions, too numerous to mention here that seem to be prevalent at other communities of higher learning. Here the students surround themselves in an atmosphere for Christian love and charity. With a serious purpose to life, they dedicate themselves to serving mankind."

AND, the Massachusetts Chiefs of Police Association cites Harvard President Nathan Pusey, University and Cambridge police who: ". . .took part in cleaning up the mess ast the college in 20 minutes. It is about time that the minority groups be called upon to toe the mark and allow the good students that really want to study and attend classes to do so."

NOTHING LIKE getting away from it all. The Quincy Democratic Women's Club really got away from politics the other night. About 45 members, headed by new chairman Ann Petrillo and former chairman, Mary Di Pietro, dropped into the Playboy Club for an evening's relaxation the other night. A few of their husbands reportedly suggested later that the girls recruit a few of the Bunnies. To help get the vote out this year--naturally.

SMILE DEPT: Last week's item noting that only seven of Quincy's 23 mayors wore bow ties--indicating that regular ties apparently have more voter appeal--brings this poetic response from reader Betty Sawyer:

Thompson, Miller, [And Hodges, in time] Wore the same in mayoralty climb.

Final MBTA Road Contract Approved For Quincy Work

An MBTA roadwork contract covering a portion of Quincy Shore Drive, demolition of the existing West Squantum St. bridge and construction of a new highway bridge, has been approved by the board of directors.

The contract is the final of four contracts covering the South Shore rapid transit extension to Quincy.

Also included in the work will be construction of a pedestrian overpass at Billings Rd., West Squantum St. and Newport Ave., improvements, in connection with the city's plans for widening the street in conjunction with a new north-south highway.

The contract will be performed as a joint venture of M & C Corporation, Verrochi Realty Trust, Brnedan Engineering Corporation and Brendan Construction Company, 100 Hallett Street, Boston, whose low bid was $1,586,890.25.

The work involving the improvement of West Squantum Street and Newport Avenue, construction of a Newport Avenue ramp and a proportionate share of the piers and abutments for West Squantum Street bridge, costing an estimated $727,333.80, will be paid for by Quincy, which will reimburse the Authority. The Authority's share of the construction costs of this contract is estimated at $859,556.45.

The actual award of the contract is subject to approval of the U. S. Department of Transportation and Quincy.

Also approved was an $80,525 contract for grading and drainage work along the roadbed of the Boston segment of the line, awarded to the low bidder, D. F. Frangioso and Co., Inc., 155 Savannah Avenue, Mattapan.

On Agenda Tonight

St. Moritz Association To Discuss Incinerator

The St. Moritz Association of West Quincy will discuss progress of its incinerator study at a meeting tonight [Thursday] at 8:30 p.m. at St. Mary's Church Hall.

The Association which has led a fight against plans for a sanitary land fill and extension of dumping in their area will take up a four-item agenda.

The West Quincy civic group favors a municipal incinerator and has appointed a 10-member study committee to investigate its construction. Committee chairman Ernest Coose will report on his committee's progress at tonight's meeting.

Also present will be John forrest, president of the North American Incinerator Corp., who has been invited to discuss incineration and answer questions on the subject.

The election of new officers will be conducted and a progress report on the Pine Hill development will be discussed.

West Quincy dump plans have been strongly opposed by the St. Moritz group. The city's plans to use quarry holes west of the Southeast Expressway for new dump sites to supplement the nearly-filled Faulkner's Quarry has drawn a sharp warning from Ward Four Councilor Albert Barilaro.

Barilaro told city officials that Quincy may have an opportunity to share in the use of the Braintree incinerator. Their facility is expected to be in operation by January, Barilaro said.

According to Barilaro, he has been informed by a Braintree town official that plans will be considered to allow Quincy to use that town's incinerator.

QUISP Applications Available For Germantown Parents

Applications for Germantown residents interested in participating in the Quincy In-Service Project [QUISP] are now available through the Harborview Residents Committee.

Under the federal program, parents receive $2 and hour and Snug Harbor and Broad Meadow Junior High School teachers $6 and hour for three hours of dialogue work daily over a six weeks period.

Purpose of the dialoguing held at the Snug Harbor School is to establish communications between the school and community for better understanding between teachers and parents through exchange of ideas.

'Pony Pops' Saturday By QHS

The Quincy High School Tennis courts will be the scene of the "Pony Pops" Saturday at 7:30 p.m.

The QHS Stage Band, QHS choral groups, the Freaky Pete, the Blue Soul, the Unknown Cause, and the McConarty Brothers will perform.

All proceeds from the Pops event will go to the Pony Fund for replacing the QHS symbol which was destroyed by vandals last year.

Bar Association To Formalize Free Aid

A lawyers' referral service available to everyone in need of legal assistance and problem evaluation.

Legal assistance to the indigent designed to help persons with no or limited ability to pay.

Atty. Keefe added that as he envisioned an acceptable Judi-Care type system, an integrated Massachusetts Bar Association would be required as an essential part of the system.

A study for such a change in the organization of the state bar is now underway. The committee doing the research is headed by Mass. Bar Association vice president, Berge C. Tashjian, Atty. Keefe stated.

Quincy Bar Association was not opposed to a legal aid system but had recorded opposition to the OEO method of hiring lawyers on a salary basis to represent needy clients.

For many years, Quincy Bar Association members have provided free services on a referral system from the Association president, Atty. Keefe said.

As a result of present misconceptions, the Quincy Bar Association plans to formalize existing services in a two-part program, Atty. Keefe said. It will provide for:

MDC Awards Drawspan Contract

The Metropolitan District Commission has approved a contract for repairs to the Dorchester Bay Bridge drawspan on William T. Morrissey Boulevard, Dorchester.

Commissioner Howard Whitmore, Jr. said the contract was awarded to J. L. Caputo Construction Co., Inc. and Builder's Iron Works of Somerville, a joint venture, which submitted the low bid of $114,090.75.

Plans call for replacing the roadway bridge deck, installing new traffic plates, new concrete approach slabs, painting and miscellaneous repairs, according to Commissioner Whitmore.

The 130-foot drawspan, over Dorchester Bay, carries heavy north-south traffic and is a major link with Quincy and the South Shore. It is six lanes wide.

Action on the project was initiated to correct deteriorated bridge decking, traffic plates and concrete approach slabs for the industry."

It is estimated that the new contract will mean at least $5,200 more in pay for the 5,300 Local 5 men over the life of the five-year contract.

Hart said that prospective employees may apply at the Employment Office, at the East Howard St. main gate Monday, Wednesdays and Fridays from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. and on Saturdays from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The current contract backlog includes three large dry cargo ships to be built for Lykes Brothers Steamship Co. of New Orleans.

The $97.8 million contract awarded last October, is the first commercial pact won by the Quincy Division. The vessels, 875 feet in length, will each carry 38 barges and a dry cargo of 17,500 tons.

Earlier won Navy contracts still to be completed include five 37,000-ton fleet replenishmnet oilers, four landing ship docks and two submarine tenders.

The yard will build six replenishment oilers in all. The first, the Wichita, was delivered last week.

General Dynamics, still looking to the future, has its sights set on contracts for Navy carriers and other super-sized ships.

But a yard spokesman noted that unless the Fore River Bridge is widened to at least 300 feet, General Dynamics will never be able to bid on these huge vessels. The ships could not squeeze through the present 175-foot clearance.

The state, as a result of legislation submitted by Mayor-Sen. James R. McIntyre, is now carrying out a feasibility study for widening of the bridge.

The yard spokesman said,bluntly:

"The future of the shipyard is jeopardized by the current restrictive 175-foot clearance,which prohibits passage of large ships. The carrier Enterprize, for example, measures 259 feet across her flight deck -- 84 feet wider than the bridge clearance.

"The trend in world shipbuilding is toward giant ships, but General Dynamics cannot compete for those contracts because of the existing bridge. If the shipyard cannot compete for the ships of the future, it has a limited future.

"To assure its existence and continued growth, the shipyard is seeking modifications to the existing bridge to provide a horizontal clearance of 300 feet.

"Modifications to the bridge would cost about $5 million -- approximately one-quarter the expense of a new structure -- would not require land taking and would present a minimum of construction inconvenience to motorists.

"Since the shipyard generates about $17.5 million a year in state and local tax revenues, cost of the modification would be absorbed by shipyard-produced taxes alone in about three months.

"General Dynamics hopes that the Government of the Commonwealth will look upon the bridge modification as a sound investment that will return heavy financial dividends in the decades ahead.

TV BOWLER RONNIE WIER

VIDEO VICTOR

Bowling Ace,15, Rolling Along

Judging from the reaction among Quincy bowling buffs, 15-year-old Ronnie Wier's Nielsen rating is shooting–like her bowling average–up.

Ronnie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isadore M. Wier, 78 Hamilton Ave., is casting a giant shadow on the tube as she continues to chalk up victories on the "Winning Pins" show.

A North Quincy High School freshman, the youngster sports a 103 average and has been burning up the alleys for the past six years. Just for the record, her high three is 371 and high single 155.

TV bowling can be fun–but it can be sharply disappointing, too. The shows are taped on Wednesday at the Wollaston Bowladrome, Ronnie's home alleys, and shown on a later Saturday in the "Winning Pins" time slot.

If you're a winner, well, it's nice to know when you turn on the set. But someone has to lose, too.

Tonnie's biggest thrill in the TV series came a week ago Wednesday when she collected bonus money–a rare feat–for clipping three straight spares. She bowled two shows on Wednesday and won them both–including the extra $50 for the spares. One of her winning efforts was on TV Saturday.

The alley to success wasn't easy for Ronnie. She worked hard to qualify for the show and finally made it after five attempts–with a 95.

Qualifying rounds were rolled at the Mattapan Bowladrome where Ronnie topped a 35-girl field to make the TV finals. She'll stay on the television trail until she is defeated. Up to now, the pins have been falling her way.

"I'm still working to get my average up," says the youngster, who is also an honor student at North.

She credits her father and the Wollaston Bowladrome with her development on the lanes. She started rolling with her dad when she was nine. Now, dad will be the first to admit, it is no longer a contest.

She also sharpened her game on the way up by competing in the Koch Club League for four years and by bowling in the high school girls league.

While her mantlepiece is loaded with bowling trophies, Ronnie's interests and activities are varied. She finds time for B'nae B'rith membership and attended the group's convention last week.

For the past five years, she has been assisting in programs for the handicapped at the Kennedy Foundation Camp in Quincy. One of the awards he is most proud of came from the Elks in recognition of her work with youngsters.

Trophy-wise, Ronnie is a three-time winner on "Winning Pins" and her sharpshooting has won her more than two dozen cups over the teen-age years.

When she scored her first television triumph it was a "first" for a Quincy girl on the Channel 5 show.

And as long as she keeps on winning, this could become the Ronnie Wier Show-- and a long-run series.

Quincy Nine Still 'Alive'

Hopes of the Quincy baseball team winning the Greater Boston League title or at least finishing second and gaining a berth in the Eastern Mass. tourney were dimmed last Saturday following a nightmarish 4-3 loss to Medford.

However, the chances became much brighter again on Monday when the Presidents clobbered Ruffy Mugica, one of the league's outstanding pitchers, and walloped Malden, 9-1.

This win gave Quincy an 8-3 league record and left the Presidents right on Somerville's heels. Somerville has a 7-2 league mark.

"Everything went right today," Coach Bob Basiliere said happily after Monday's big win. "Paul Duff pitched a beautiful game and everyone hit well. I am as happy today as I was Disappointed after Saturday's game with Medford. This win keeps us in the thick of the championship race."

Duff had edged Mugica, 1-0, earlier in the season and had a 1-0 lead after five innings on Monday. But the Presidents then exploded for six runs in the sixth inning to drive the Malden ace from the mound.

Steve McDevitt started it with a double and scored on Ted Meyer's single. John Langton singled, Bruce Carlson and Kevin Ryan walked to force in a run, Steve Sullivan was hit by a pitch for another run, Duff singled home two more and the sixth scored on Steve Carrers's sacrifice fly.

Carlson, Ryan and Duff each had two hits as Quincy collected 11 including eight off Mugica.

Duff, making his record 5-1, pitched six-hit ball, struck out 14 and walked two.

Bunker Smiling Through Tears

Charlie Bunker's first season as North Quincy baseball coach hasn't been too happy in the Greater Boston League with a 2-7 record, although the Raiders have a 3-0 record in non-league competition.

The former Boston College and Red Sox minor league star has decided to go with his underclassmen the rest of the season and plans several changes.

"I've been going with the seniors to get some experience in the lineup," he said. "But it's time to start making some changes and looking toward next season."

"I have nearly all senior pitchers but will use two juniors, Bill Deshler and Craig Bobosian, a good deal the rest of the way," Bunker pointed out. "Bobosian has looked good and Deshler did a fine job for us in beating Hingham. He showed much promise."

Bunker, who admits he is disappointed by his team's failure both at bat and on the mound, has had some reason to smile.

Broderick, our shortstop," the North coach continued. "He is an outstanding player both in the field and at bat, is a real team leader and inspires the others. He has continually come up with clutch plays in the field and clutch hits and any success we have had is because of Jim.

"Our other co-captain, catcher Dennis Driscoll, is another fine player. He had had his troubles at bat but has come through with some big hits and is an excellent catcher. He is another fine leader."

Quincy Ends Track Season With Three-Victory String

Quincy's track team ended its final Suburban League season with an impressive 74-57 win over Waltham Tuesday to finish 3-2 in the league, the same record as a year ago.

Quincy will compete in the all-league meet Saturday at Newton High School, will face Milton Academy next Wednesday at Milton ... will have several performers in the State Class meet on May 31, hoping to qualify for the all-state meet on June 7. The class A meet and the state championships will be held at White Stadium.

In Tuesday's win over Waltham Ken Prouty was a double winner in the long jump and 220. His long jump of 20 feet, 9½ inches, was extremely good on the difficult Veterans Stadium track. Joe Goguen placed second and Dick Petrelli placed 2-3 to give Quincy a sweep of the long jump.

Timo Pakkala won the pole vault, Kevin Luggelle the low hurdles with a fine 14 second timing, Larry Finneran the 100, Richie Hynes the 880, Pat Grimes the mile and Peter Laing the two-mile. The relay team of Finneran, Luggelle, Prouty and Goguen also won.

Quarterback Club

Memories will be revived at Monday night's meeting of the South Shore Quarterback Club, to which many Quincy men belong, at the South Shore Country Club in Hingham.

One of the highlights of the 8 p.m. meeting will be showing of a Quincy manets-Weymouth T.T. football game played several years ago when the rivals were among the top semi-pro clubs in New England.

Varney Paces Harvard

North Quincy's Pete Varney, who passed up many major league bonus offers to continue his education, paced Harvard's baseball team to the Greater Boston League championship Monday.

Varney, former North Quincy High and Deerfield Academy standout, hit a two-run homer and had two other hits to spark a 7-4 victory over Northeastern.

Pete, only a sophomor, was the Crimson's starting catcher until the right fielder was injured, and he was moved to that position. He has been one of the team's top batters all season. The win gave Harvard a 6-0 league record.

Eastern Nazarene Has Court Woes

Eastern Nazarene College's tennis team is having its troubles as it dropped its first four matches. However, the team has had some good individual performances.

HOUSE CALL

By Dr. Charles Djerf
Pediatrician

[Dr. Herbert Hodess, D.M.D., of Quincy, is guest columnist today for Dr. Charles Djerf]

Of the two major causes of tooth loss, periodontal disease is by far the most insidious one and is responsible for the majority of tooth loss after 30.

Pyorrhea like dental decay is a bacterial plaque sticky film disorder which affects not the teeth but ther periodontium, gums and bones that support the teeth. Bleeding and swollen gums are early warning signs and recession, loosening and migrating teeth a later one.

This disease begins as a sum tissue disease called gingivitis starting with plaque deposits of tartar or calculus which collects in protected areas aroung the necks of the teeth, mostly inside the lower incisors and outside the upper molars. As calculus hardens this cement-like crust loaded with bacteria gives off toxins which irritate the gingiva.

Fillings which don't fit properly, open contacts, and rotated or tipped teeth all contribute to periodontal disease. First the gingiva separates from the tooth and progressively deepens harboring more bacterial plaque eventually destroying the periodontal ligament - the system of fibers attaching the tooth to bone and causing the alveolar bone to be resorbed. As more and more bone is lost from the socket and the tooth has less and less support, unless the process is halted, the tooth eventually loosens and falls out.

Bad alignment of the teeth may also contribute to pyorrhea in people who aren't meticulous about oral hygiene. Stringy foods may be wedged between the teeth creating chronic gum infection or the uneven teeth, being harder to clean, contribute to retention of plaque of sustain abnormal stresses during chewing, clenching, or grinding which can also be very damaging.

If several teeth are lost and not replaced, they may drift so extensively that normal function is altered, creating unfavorable leverage and strain on the supporting structures reducing the bone support.

Smoking may contribute to periodontal disease by staining the teeth and helping to provide an attachment for plaque and calculus.

General health problems such as diabetes, thyroid disease, nutritional and blood disorders may also accentuate the breakdown of periodontal tissues but the major cause is still local in nature.

The periodontist treats the local causes of this periodontal disease by removing calculus from the neck and roots of the teeth inside the pockets as well as smoothing the root surfaces. The extensively damaged gingival tissues may have to be removed and reshaped. He can also corredt abnormal areas of stress by adjusting the bite and distributing pressure more evenly.

The periodontist can not only correct abnormal occlusions bite by grinding areas of the teeth, but he may also recommend othodontic movement or fixed bridge work to strengthen weakened teeth or correct the bite.

As long as the periodontal problem is recognized early and treatment begun soon enough, most periodontal disease problems can be arrested successfully and the teeth maintained - this does require the patient's cooperation with personal oral hygiene at home and periodic maintenance and care at the periodontist's office.

Coach Salutes North Track Squad After Weymouth Bid

North Quincy's track team ended its best season in many years Tuesday and, although it ended on a disappointing note, Coach Ralph Frazier and his Raiders have every reason to be proud.

North faced Weymouth at Legion Field in Weymouth in a battle of the undefeated which was to decide the Suburban League title.

Weymouth won its 47th successive dual meet by an impressive 77½-53½ score but led the Raiders by just three points with three events remaining. It was the first time the Maroons had been pushed this season but they were more than up to the challenge.

North finished with a 4-1 league record and a 6-1 overall mark, the best since the middle 50s.

"I am, of course, disappointed, but am very proud of every boy," Frazier said. "I felt if everyone gave a great effort we would stay closer than we did going into the relay. Well, everyone did give a great effort but the Weymouth boys, being pushed for the first time, also turned in outstanding performances.

"Nearly all our times and distances were the best of the year but weren't quite good enough. Weymouth has a really strong team, one of the best in the state, as its record shows."

But Dud O'Leary's team then took 1-2 in the half mile, swept the mile and won the relay to win going away.

Paul Affsa was North's standout and had his best day as he won the long jump with a leap of 20 feet, six inches to pace a sweep [Lou Trubiano was second and Cahill third], and won a thrilling 220 over state Class A champion Billy Morin, winning by inches with an excellent time of 22.6 seconds. He also ran a great anchor leg on the relay team to just miss pulling it out. He took the baton trailing by 20 yards and was just beaten by three yards.

North's Dan Polvere upset teammate Roger Conboy in the javelin with a toss of 180 feet, 15 better than his best previous distance. Conboy, who holds the school record of 199 feet, could do only 166.

The only other North winner was Joe Lane with an excellent effort in the 100.

In the discus Art McIver and Steve Dieso had their best distances but finished 2-3 to Weymouth's brilliant Steve Mell.

In the high jump, one of North's weaker events, Dave Haight and Bill McCall were involved in a four-way tie for second place. Jerry Mulcahy, who did 10 feet, his best ever, tied for third place in the pole vault, one of Weymouth's strongest events.

Weymouth's O'Brien ran away with the two-mile with a brilliant 9:52 timing and North's Pat McCormack was second. Larry Frechette and Dick O'Hanley were 2-3 in the high hurdles, while the low hurdles were frustrating for the Raiders.

Weymouth's Scribner did by far his best time of the year to win in 14.2 seconds, while Trubiano did 14.3, Polvere 14.4, Bobby Sleeth 14.5 and sophomore Lee Davis 14.6 for North.

Conboy was second and Bob Hale third in the 440, while Steve Poore was third despite his best time, 2:05, in the half mile.

"Lane did a fine job in the 100 and his attitude is wonderful," Frazier lauded.

North will compete in the all-league meet Saturday at Newton High but, because of the senior prom Friday night, Frazier has given his seniors the day off. The Raiders will take part in the state Class B meet on the 31st and hope to qualify several boys for the state championships June 7 at White Stadium.

Rev. John Smith Resigns At Union Congregational

The Rev. John W. Smith, pastor of Union Congregational Church of Wollaston, is leaving to accept a position as pastor of a large congregation in Sacramento, Calif.

Rev. Smith, pastor since September, 1964, has submitted his resignation effective July 31. Because of vacation, Rev.Smith will complete his duties here June 29.

When Rev. Smith came to Quincy he stipulated his duties would continue until he finished his doctoral study. He is now in the concluding stages of doctoral work at Boston University.

"Betty Jo [his wife] and I, together with our three children wish to express our gratitude for the support many have given the ministry we have sought to provide. We have known joy and fulfillment both in our work among you, and in the educational ventures in which we have been involved."

A Pulpit Committee, now in the process of formation, will make plans for a new pastor as soon as possible.

Come, Let Us Reason Together

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

"What Wives Really Want"

There were interesting responses to my column of a few weeks ago, "What Men Really Want." A lot of frustration . . .personal inadequacy . . .guilt were revealed by my mail. Comments ran like this. . .''unreasonable''. . .''men are selfish''. . .''you demand women to be superhuman''. . .''men are dishonest with their wives''. Some wives wrote that they agreed with the article 100%.

One reader asked, "Who is supposed to understand a wife?" My answer is unequivocal. . .''Her husband.''. . .so this column is the other side of the coin. As I see it, for a healthy marriage a strong man is just as necessary as a tender woman.

A well-adjusted woman wants to be treated as a woman. . .with consideration. . . respect. . .tenderness. . .as an equal. . .wants her husband to be sensitive to her feelings. . .her needs. . .her moods. American men fall down here miserably. EACH man must know HIS woman. . .because all women [as with all men] are individuals. . .each different. Men need to know their wives if they are to meet their needs. . .if they are to make their wives happy women.

There aren't many women who do not appreciate a husband's sensitivity. Even though large numbers of women have tried to take men's roles, they still want men to be thoughtful in giving little gifts. . .occasional cards. . .phone calls. . . little courtesies. . .consideration of her work load. . .her health. . .her weight [tactfully on this matter]. A wife wants to be praised. . .for nice meals. . .the tidy house. . .the sound decisions while a husband is at work. It is too easy for most men to take for granted their wives faithful management of the home. . .yet are quick to criticize her ship-ups.

A woman needs her man to give emotional support. Approval means encouragement . . .disapproval hurts. . .if it continues it kills her spirit. I see in my offices wife after wife who are so psychologically beat down that they have lost interest in their homes. . .have quit believing in themselves. . .and who are turning for help before they are destroyed. Men's words [like a woman's words] can deal death blows to a woman's heat. Men's silence [like a woman's silence] is insulting. . . distructive. . .cowardly. Any intelligent wife needs to be able to talk with her husband as an equal. . .not as a subordinate. Without dialogue you'll probably have an unhappy marriage. No newspaper. . .no television show is more important than the warm dialogue of a man and his wife. This wives want.

Finally, real women want their husbands to be real men. . .responsible. . . stable. . .virile men. Too many men in our times are denying their manhood by abdicating their male role. Many men are so hung-up sexually that they have backed off from the slightest show of affection for fear the wife will be aroused to "love making." Being "tired" is no excuse. . .for either a man or wife. . .as a consistent evasion of the sexual relationship. No income can be large enough to be a substitute. Health depends upon a beautiful sexual relationship in most marriages. If half the civilized men are impotent, it is because of psychological restriction in most cases. They will usually respond to treatment. . .where there is a will.

Real men. . .honest men. . .men responsible for their own actions. . .sharing in the building and running of a home. . .loving a wife and their children with words and deeds. . .that's what women really want. No educated woman needs a man for a meal ticket. . .that day has gone. Wives can have no jobs. . .no children. . .no girl friends. . .no mothers or fathers. . .no wardrobes. . .which are a substitute for a real man. A real MAN. . .that's what wives really want. FOR YOUR COMMENTS: Call Dr. Knox at 326-5990, or 585-4995, or 945-9800, or write him at 628 High Street, Dedham, Mass. 02026.

Symphony, Pops Concert Events May 27

The Catherine Laboure School of Nursing in Dorchester, will present a Pops Concert in conjunction with the Quincy Symphony Orchestra on Tuesday, May 27 at 8 p.m. in the Quincy Armory to benefit the school's scholarship fund.

The Quincy Art Association extends an invitation to all patrons attending the concert to visit their art exhibit in the Armory from 7-8 p.m.

Preliminary planning for this event is being coordinated by Sister Angelica, D.C., director of the school; Miss Helen Barrett, assistant director; Miss Sandra DeVellis, activities director; Richard Ambrosia, president of the Quincy Symphony Orchestra and Joseph Ieradi, "Pops Concert" chairman.

Catherine Laboure is a three-year accredited regional diploma school conducted by the daughters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul. The school has clinical facilities at three cooperating hospitals; Carney Hospital and St. Margaret's Maternity Hospital both in Dorchester and St. Johns Hospital in Lowell.

Tickets to the concert may be obtained from the school, the students or purchased at the door of the Quincy Armory.

Improvement Aid 'Limited Funds'

The city's application for Urban Beautification and Improvement program funds will be considered for federal funds in the new funding session which begins today [Thursday].

Mayor James R. McIntyre was advised by Asst. Regional Administrator William J. Davis that the city's application had not rated high enough for consideration in the recent funding cycle.

Only a portion of the applications received by his office were approved because of "limited grant funds," Davis reported in a letter to Mayor McIntyre.

The application will be retained for consideration in the forthcoming funding cycle unless it is withdrawn by the city, Davis advised.

TASTY PIZZAS are turned out under the direction of Ken Balducci in his North Quincy pizza shop. Balducci's features a varied menu of popular sandwiches and snacks.

As the saying goes "Pizza is pizza and subs are subs." But such is not the case at Balducci's Pizza, 35 Billings Rd., North Quincy.

Mr. Ken Balducci, owner of the store, contests that his pizzas and subs are by far the most nutritional in the city. He explains that since he has been located in the North Quincy area the North Quincy High football team has maintained "fantastic records." Naturally, this is due to the numbers of his subs and pizzas which the team has enjoyed over the past five years. As Mr. Balducci remarks, "Quality and Quantity mark our pizzas".

Mr. Balducci, along with his brother Noel, his chief lieutenant, his sister Judy, a corporal, master sergeant Rose Fougere, buck private Louise Chase, and John Conroy, an eight year old apprentice, prepare 10 varieties of pizzas made with a secret recipe which has been passed down through eight generations. The big specialty is Balducci's Bargain Banquet, a super pizza and an economical feast at $2.50.

Subs are also fantastically popular at Balducci's, as the figures attest. About 3,000 subs are sold each week. The big favorite is the steak and cheese sub, broiled steak covered with melted cheese.

For those persons who work in big business and cannot readily get to the store, Mr. Balducci has a cheering word, "We'll soon be delivering to business establishments." And the Wollaston beach-goer will be happy to know that plans are being considered for a Balducci's sub shop on the beach, a "Balducci's on the Bay", so to speak.

Mr. Balducci is a pizza traditionalist. He feels that nothing can beat the old world pizzas. And so he offers to his customers, a touch of the old world with the most modern facilities and equipment.

Dr. Ash To Be Honored By Mass. Medical Society

Dr. Richard M. Ash, former Quincy City Health Commissioner, will be one of 38 Massachusetts physicians honored by the Massachusetts Medical Society May 21 in noon ceremonies at the Statler-Hilton Hotel, Boston.

The 38 will be presented gold badges in recognition of their 50 years of membership in the Massachusetts Medical Society.

Dr. John W. Norcross, Society president, will make the presentations at a meeting of the Council of the Society in the hotel's Ballroom West.

In addition to Dr. Nash, two other area doctors will receive gold badges. They are Dr. Wallace H. Drake of North Weymouth and Dr. Donald Munro of Milton.

Dr. Ash, a resident of 41 Hobomack Rd., Merrymount, is a graduate of Quincy High School and received his doctor of medicine degree at Tufts University School of Medicine.

Dr. Ash's special interest was public health programs. He served the city of Quincy as Commissioner of Public Health for 27 years. He was a staunch supporter of incineration for refuse disposal and led the campaign to clean up water pollution in Quincy Bay The campaign resulted in the construction of the multi-million sewage treatment plant at Nut Island.

He also was a leader in the planning and construction of the John F. Kennedy Health Center, the second such health center in the United States.

Dr. Ash is married and has two sons and five daughters.

He is a member of the Knights of Columbus, the American Legion and the Elks.

Helfrich Reappointed To Planning Board

Alfred G. Helfrich of 231 Everett St., Wollaston has been re-appointed to the Quincy Planning Board by Mayor James R. McIntyre.

New officers were installed by the Quincy Chapter of Sweet Adelines in ceremonies Wednesday at the George F. Bryan, VFW Post.

Installed with Mrs. Vincent Pizzano, president were: Mrs. Dorothy Garrett, vice-president; Mrs. Helen Shannon, corresponding secretary. Mrs. Natalie Marshall, recording secretary and Mrs. Edna Nitysche, treasurer.

Symphony, Pops Concert Events May 27

The Catherine Laboure School of Nursing in Dorchester, will present a Pops Concert in conjunction with the Quincy Symphony Orchestra on Tuesday, May 27 at 8 p.m. in the Quincy Armory to benefit the school's scholarship fund.

The Quincy Art Association extends an invitation to all patrons attending the concert to visit their art exhibit in the Armory from 7-8 p.m.

Preliminary planning for this event is being coordinated by Sister Angelica, D.C., director of the school; Miss Helen Barrett, assistant director; Miss Sandra DeVellis, activities director; Richard Ambrosia, president of the Quincy Symphony Orchestra and Joseph Ieradi, "Pops Concert" chairman.

Catherine Laboure is a three-year accredited regional diploma school conducted by the daughters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul. The school has clinical facilities at three cooperating hospitals; Carney Hospital and St. Margaret's Maternity Hospital both in Dorchester and St. Johns Hospital in Lowell.

Tickets to the concert may be obtained from the school, the students or purchased at the door of the Quincy Armory.

Mr. Ken Balducci, owner of the store, contests that his pizzas and subs are by far the most nutritional in the city. He explains that since he has been located in the North Quincy area the North Quincy High football team has maintained "fantastic records." Naturally, this is due to the numbers of his subs and pizzas which the team has enjoyed over the past five years. As Mr. Balducci remarks, "Quality and Quantity mark our pizzas".

Mr. Balducci, along with his brother Noel, his chief lieutenant, his sister Judy, a corporal, master sergeant Rose Fougere, buck private Louise Chase, and John Conroy, an eight year old apprentice, prepare 10 varieties of pizzas made with a secret recipe which has been passed down through eight generations. The big specialty is Balducci's Bargain Banquet, a super pizza and an economical feast at $2.50.

Subs are also fantastically popular at Balducci's, as the figures attest. About 3,000 subs are sold each week. The big favorite is the steak and cheese sub, broiled steak covered with melted cheese.

For those persons who work in big business and cannot readily get to the store, Mr. Balducci has a cheering word, "We'll soon be delivering to business establishments." And the Wollaston beach-goer will be happy to know that plans are being considered for a Balducci's sub shop on the beach, a "Balducci's on the Bay", so to speak.

Mr. Balducci is a pizza traditionalist. He feels that nothing can beat the old world pizzas. And so he offers to his customers, a touch of the old world with the most modern facilities and equipment.

SHIPFITTERS...

(Including Iron Workers and Carpenters)

Well . . . what shipfitter wouldn't, if he had what Freddie has going for him at Quincy. A great new contract that gives him a feeling of comfort when he reaches for his wallet. There, he's gained. Weight, he's lost. Thanks to playing on the softball team at Quincy.

Work, he gains again. He's up at the front of his trade at Quincy. Seldom doing the same thing twice. Recognized as a doer and a thinker by the bosses. Rewarded, too, in special ways. Like in the long green when he comes up with a production suggestion that'll save time or money for the company.

How are you feeling these days? Fit? Or fit to be tied? Why not see us now?

Ramsden New "Y" Director

The appointment of George H. Ramsden, Jr., Associate Eecutive Director of the Brockton YMCA., as Executive Director of the Quincy YMCA, effective June 2 as announced today by Dr. V. James DiNardo, President of the local association.

The selection of Mr. Ramsden culminates a five-month review of some 40 candidates by the Personnel Committee, under the direction of Chairman Paul E. Hurley. Mr. Ramsden will succeed Gilbert L. Crofts who retired April 1, after almost four decades of YMCA and community leadership.

The new Executive Director is a graduate of the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy and Springfield College and was a member of the U.S. Naval Reserve from 1944-1966.

He returned to Brockton YMCA as Associate Executive Director in 1967 where he headed a series of outstanding programs including a widely accepted Industrial Management Club and assisted in a capital fund campaign for a $500,000 addition to the Brockton "Y".

The new Executive Director is married to the former Frances G. Kamens of Terryville, Conn. They are parents of three daughters: Kathy Rose, 14, Susan Frances, 12, Robin Mae, 10 and a son David George, 19 months.

Women Drivers Friend...

RETIREMENT AHEAD--After 42 years service with the Registry of Motor Vehicles, Assistant Registrar Eugene J. Fanning of Wollaston will retire in October. Shown with him is his wife, Mary, whom incidentally, he cites as a perfect example of a good woman driver.

'Gene' Fanning Ending 42-Year Career With Mass. Registry Of MV

BY MARION ANDREWS

Forty-two years of dedicated service with the Registry of Motor Vehicles will be looked back upon by one of Quincy's most distinguished senior citizens when he retires in the fall.

On Oct. 31, Eugene J. Fanning of 94 Hamden Circle, Wollaston, will retire as Assistant Registrar of Motor Vehicles, a position he has held since 1963.

Although he notes it will be difficult to leave his Registry duties because of the enjoyment he derived from them, he is looking forward to carrying out the many plans he has made for his retirement days.

Among the plans are travel, authoring a book on his many years' experience with the Registry and more time to devote to his lecturing at Police Training Academies throughout the state, a practice he began in 1934.

Needless to say Mr. Fanning has seen many changes take place in the Registry. Most significant of these is the increase in motor vehicle registrations. The number has climbed from just under 500,000 in 1927 to 2,200,000 in the state today. There are three million licensed motor vehicle operators in Massachusetts. 150,000 of them first time

Famigletti To Assume Cemetery Post Friday

Anthony M. Famigletti will be sworn in Friday as Quincy's new cemetery superintendent.

Famigletti, who has been veterans graves registration officer for seven years, will vacate that job after assuming his new $10,929 a year post. His salary will go to $11,585 Sept. 1.

Famigletti has been serving for the past two years in the dual jobs of acting cemetery superintendent and veterans graves registration officer.

A resident of 199 Park Ave., Squantum, and World War II veteran he is past state commander of the Amvets, past commander of the Quincy Amvets Post and past national executive committeeman.

Mayor: 'Clean Up The Gangs!'

Police Launch Drugs, Drink Crackdown At Squantum Park

Police patrols will be beefed up to crackdown on drinking and drug parties in long-time troublesome Squantum Park.

Mayor James R. McIntyre yesterday asked Police Chief Francis X. Finn to detail extra men to the Squantum area to "clean up the situation before it gets out of hand."

Finn said he will put both extra men and a cruiser in the area. A police scooter has already been assigned there.

At the same time, McIntyre called on Boston Mayor Kevin White "to live up to his promise" to sell the Hub-owned park to Quincy so that the city can properly supervise it and end the growing nocturnal problems there.

McIntyre's crackdown order comes in the wake of a several-hundred name signature petition from complaining Squantum residents.

The 15-page petition, signed by residents of virtually every street in the Squantum area, reads:

"As residents of Squantum, we, the undersigned, respectfully and emphatically call to the attention of their Honors, the Mayor of the City of Boston and the Mayor of the City of Quincy, the deplorable drug and drinking indulgences so openly and defiantly practiced at Squaw Rock[Squantum Park] by demanding that appropriate and effective preventive action be taken forthwith to suppress such, by prompt, proper, adequate and continued patrol and supervision."

"We have got to clean up the situation now," Mayor McIntyre said. "We must break up those gangs before summer sets in and this gets out of hand."

McIntyre noted that he has been trying to acquire Quincy ownership of the park since he became Mayor nearly four years ago.

McIntyre said both former Mayor John Collins and present

Dedication Ceremonies Monday

City To Honor 254 WW II Dead At Memorial Day Exercises

An Honor Roll containing the names of 254 Quincy men who gave their lives in World War II will be dedicated Monday as a highlight of the city's annual Memorial Day exercises, sponsored by the Quincy Veterans Council.

The names, inscribed on 25-foot wings of the World War II Memorial at Mount Wollaston Cemetery, will be unveiled following a 10:30 a.m. parade.

In another solemn highlight, nine awards will be presented posthumously to the family of U. S. Army Cpt. Raymond J. West, 20, killed in action last Dec. 13 in Vietnam.

Keynote speaker will be Samuel Samuels, Past National Commander of the Jewish War Veterans, a resident of Revere and Guidance Director for that city's secondary schools.

The three-division parade,

Police Officer Wins College Scholarship

Quincy Patrolman William Doherty has won a full scholarship to Boston State College.

The examinations were given at Boston State College to law enforcement officers of The Greater Boston Police Council.

Funds for scholarships to law enforcement officers are made available to Boston State College through the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Ace of 1968 and from the Municipal Police Science Institute, Inc.

ALA To Aid Motorists

The Automobile Legal Association will put two of its service vehicles on portions of Routes 128 and 3 to Cape Cod to assist disabled motorists over the Memorial Day weekend.

Letters to the Editor

Editor, Quincy Sun:

We have been talking incineration in Quincy for some twenty years. We are no further ahead than we were twenty years ago. What we need is action not words.

Rather than continue open quarry dumping with its accompanying rats and smelly public health nuisance lets get rid of the dump we have now. For the best interests of Quincy get this one cleaned up rather than creating a new one. Spare the people of West Quincy the conditions forced on the residents of the Quarry street area.

Quincy has an historic national shrine - the first railroad in the United States. We do not want to create a new dump within a few hundred feet of such shrine which would be the case if dumping is allowed at the Cashman and Granite Rail quarries. People visiting this shrine should not be allowed to leave Quincy remembering its smell rather than its history.

The time for starting the Quincy incinerator was ten or more years ago. Since this was not done lets get busy immediately. An incinerator for Quincy cannot get here too soon. Wherever the same may be located lets get moving.

There are two sites that I would suggest be given serious consideration: Field & Wildes quarry and the Falconer [not Faulkner] quarry. This latter quarry was owned and operated by Alexander Falconer a member of the Quincy City Council for many years.

The whole cost of an incinerator could be paid for from savings that the city might make from giving up some of the projects now under consideration:

$500,000.00 might be had from abandoning the wiping out needlessly I might say, all the houses on the easterly side of Upland road; $500,000.00 from the Mechanic street parking lot; $700,000.00 from the construction of new roads to the proposed West Quincy dump.

Add to the above the taxes that would be lost if the proposed projects go forward.

Russell T. Bates

Editor, Quincy Sun:

Again I say thanks and wish you all the luck and success with your paper.

'Gene' Fanning To Retire

licensed drivers.

Now working out of the Boston office, Mr. Fanning has also served assignments in the Lynn, Quincy and Springfield areas. He was assigned to the Quincy registry office from 1930 until 1944.

A graduate of Boston College, he has taken special courses at Boston and Tufts Universities. Prior to joining the Registry he taught at Natick High School.

Mr. Fanning said there are 700 persons employed by the Registry in the 34 offices located throughout the state. At one time he headed the driver education program that began in the schools throughout the state in 1946. The program has since been dropped in the Quincy school system. He noted that Massachusetts was the first state to have cars donated to schools for the driver education program and that $2 million worth of cars have been donated to the schools by the dealers since 1948. This has been mainly through the efforts of William Plunkett, executive vice-president of the Mass. State Automobile Dealer's Association.

How does Mr. Fanning rate women drivers against the opposite sex? He promply replied that women, when given the proper instruction, are as good drivers as men. He added that although women do not get into the driving situations that men do, they nevertheless are exposed to road hazards even when driving children to school and in and around local shopping areas. He pointed to his wife Mary as a perfect example of a good woman driver.

One might describe the Fannings as a Registry family as David Fanning, a son, has been an investigator with the Registry for nearly 10 years. He is at present assigned to the Needham, Westwood and Norwood areas.

Plans for trips to Ireland and Florida are being contemplated by Mr. and Mrs. Fanning, but although other travel may be in the offing Quincy will always be home base for them. They have many interests in the city.

The assistant registrar is a director of the Quincy Citizens Association and a member of the National Drivers Institute. Mrs. Fanning is a charter member of the South Shore Chapter of the Ladies of St. James the Apostle and an active bowler.

Mr. Fanning was the subject of a nationally televised program, "The Man Behind the Badge," several years ago. It is of these many interesting experiences that he had had with the Registry that he hopes to write about in his book.

Hospital Gets Go-Ahead For Library

Director Harlan L. Paine, Jr. announced last night that Mayor James R. McIntyre has given the go-ahead for drawing up plans for the new facility. Architect will be Paul Coletti.

Paine said three rooms of old Ward "A" and part of the old surgical building will be renovated for the library. He estimated the cost at between $20,000 and $30,000.

He said the Grossman family 10 years ago donated $10,000 to the hospital for a library. This money, plus interest it has drawn since then, will be used, he said. The family, he added, had indicated it will make more money available.

Paine said the new library will have a lounge, a reading room and a stock room for more than 4,000 books.

Reception For Eng Saturday

A reception honoring State Legion Department Commander candidate Robert Leo Eng, Quincy Post 95 Past Commander, will be conducted Saturday from 8 to 12 p.m. at the Quincy Legion Post headquarters, Mechanic

A long-time Legion member and officer, Eng is the present department vice commander. He is seeking election to the states highest Legion office. The election will be held at the 51st annual state Legion convention in Springfield, July 10-12.

Women Of Moose Elect Officers

Elected were: Mrs. Mary E. Amann, Senior Regent; Mrs. Susie MacLeod, Junior Regent; Mrs. Florence Stewart, Chaplain; Mrs. Agnes Reichert, Recorder; Mrs. Rose Drohan, Treasurer; Mrs. Edith Purpura, Guide; Mrs. Signe Whitehouse, Assistant Guide; Mrs. Catherine McLennan, sentinel; Mrs. Florine Parenteair, Argus; Mrs. Lottie Farrell, Pianist; Mrs. Eloise Sperr, Junior Graduate Regent.

The officers will be installed June 9 at the Friendship Chapter Night Meeting.

Thomas Malvesti Ends Training

Thomas G. Malvesti, 21 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Malvesti, 11 Hynes Ave., West Quincy has completed Army basic training at Fort Jackson, SC.

He underwent nine weeks of advanced infantry training and was selected for non-commissioned officers school at Fort Benning, Ga.

A graduate of Quincy High School in 1966, he played baseball and was quarterback on the football team. He was awarded the Granville Award in 1965.

It's still fairly quiet on the Quincy political front this week but some observers--including his friends--are beginning to wonder if Russell T. Bates might be warming up for a mayoralty bid.

The former long-time Norfolk County Commissioner, former city councillor and son of late Mayor Gustave B. Bates [1916] has been speaking out on a number of municipal issues the past few weeks.

Among other things, he strongly advocates getting busy now on construction of a municipal incinerator and opposes "wiping out" taxable property to widen Upland Rd., and to build a parking lot.

It doesn't seem likely at his his he would run but he's got quite a few people curious.

DID YOU KNOW that three out of 10 Quincy-North seniors go on to a degree granting college? So noted Dr. Lawrence Creedon, superintendent of schools, as guest speaker at the Quincy Rotary Club. Two out of 10, he also observed, go on to additional education or training and five directly to work.

EVERYONE AROUND THE Adams Heights Men's Club knows why Mario Berardinelli is wearing that big smile this week. But in case you don't, here's the reason: he's joined that select circle among golfers--The Hole-In-One Club. Playing at the Rockland course, he performed the magic with a five-iron on the 150-yard fourth hole.

Mario is the brother-in-law of Vin Contrino, the South Quincy tonsorial artist. who says he'll give Mario a free hair cut--if he can do it again.

INCIDENTALLY, the Adams Heights Men's Club netted $75 for the Jimmy Fund-- proceeds from the club's successful Father-Sons Sports Night.

MILESTONE: Sen.-Mayor James R. McIntyre will be 39 Sunday. And at that young age, he's one of the state's most prominent political figures. [Also at that age, like other men who have reached it before him, he'll have to face that "day-after" fact that most men [and women] rather reluctantly must face: he'll be in his 40th year.

FRIENDS honor Norfolk County Commissioner George B. McDonald [D-Quincy] tonight at a $25 per plate dinner at the South Shore Country Club, Hingham. Social, 6 p.m.; dinner, 7:30. Keynote speaker will be Sen. Joseph D. Ward, the Orator of Beacon Hill. He's one speaker who knows what to do with words.

CITY HALL has its own graduation class this year. Proud holders of certificates for completing evening courses at Boston College are: Mrs. Irene Barry, head clerk, and Mrs. Anne Cormier, principal clerk, of the Treasurer's Office; Herbert Blake, superintendent of public buildings, and Adam Trubiano, code enforcement inspector.

Mrs. Barry and Mrs. Cormier, have five certificates each, representing two years of study. The certificates are for courses in: Municipal Finance and Budgets, Municipal Administration, Municipal Personnel, Collective Bargaining and Proficiency. Blake's is for Municipal Administration Management and Trubiano's for code enforcement.

Six Quincy Students Win Grossman Awards

MARJORIE HOFFMAN

JEFFREY HUGHES

SANDRA MC LEOD

JOSEPH NIGRO

THOMAS PERRIN

Six students from Quincy schools are among 31 seniors from South Shore schools selected as winners of the 14th annual Reuben A. and Lizzie Grossman Foundation Awards.

The students, representing 17 area schools, were chosen as candidates by a qualification review committee of principals and teachers. Winners were selected for outstanding qualities of school leadership, citizenship and service.

The 1969 winners include:

The winners will receive a $50 savings bond and an inscribed plaque at forthcoming graduation exercises. In addition, their names will be added to the permanent honor roll of Grossman award winners on display in each school.

A total of 310 local students have received the awards since they were initiated 14 years ago by the sons and daughters of the late Reuben A. and Lizzie Grossman of Quincy in commemoration of the couple's 50th wedding anniversary.

The Foundation's administrative council is made up of South Shore educators and community leaders.

Delinquent Tax Land To Go On Auction Block June 4

Nine parcels of land for which owners owe a total of $6,284 in back taxes, will be put on the auction block by the City of Quincy June 4.

City Treasurer-Tax Collector David R. Houston will conduct the auction at 10 a.m. in the City Council Chamber at City Hall.

Houston said the owners have until the auction to pay the back taxes plus expenses incurred by the city in the foreclosure proceedings, to redeem the land.

The vacant land, comprising a total of more and 51,000 square feet, ranges in individual size from 525 square feet to 30,710 square feet and includes a 10,000 square foot parcel.

The 30,710 square foot lot is on Sheldon St. West Quincy, and the approximate 10,000 square foot parcel on Edgewater Drive, Houghs Neck.

The other parcels are on: Amherst St., Stoughton St., Houghs Neck, Willard and Stedman Sts., West Quincy, and Hibbard St., Adams Shore.

Houston said the taxes owed on the properties have been delinquent for at least three years.

The land will be auctioned to the highest bidder with the bids opening at the amount owed on each piece of property.

The city has the right to reject the bids if it so desires.

Houston said that if the final bid is higher than the money owed on a particular piece of property, the delinquent owner has five years under state law to apply for the difference in the money.

Junior College Gets $13,150 Grant

INSURANCE

DO YOU HAVE A SELF—COMPLETING MORTGAGE???

Today with high interest rates and 25 or even 30-year mortgages, the need for mortgage insurance is becoming greater and greater. What is it and how does it work? It is a form of insurance that is designed to eliminate your monthly mortgage payments in the event of disability or death. Mortgage insurance can be written so that in the event of total disability due to either accident or sickness, the monthly mortgage payments are paid as long as you remain disabled. In the event of your death, the insurance company will pay the balance due on the mortgage. All this can be accomplished for pennies a day.

MRS. JAMES STANLEY TROUPE
[Ross of Randolph]

Joanne Sweeny Of Quincy Bride Of James Troup

A candlelight service at Christ Church Saturday solemnized the nuptials between Miss Joanne Sweeny and James Stanley Troupe, both of Quincy. The Rev. Chester A. Porteus officiated at the double ring ceremony and a reception followed at the D.A.V. Hall in Braintree.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Troup, Jr. of 82 Alton Rd.

The bride wore an A-line empire gown of white Chantilly lace, en train, with long sleeves, scalloped neckline, triple tiered bustle and an heirloom seed pearl lavaliere. Her tiered, scalloped veil of wilk illusion was caught from a jeweled crown. She carried a cascade of white sweetheart roses, stephanotis and centered with two cymbidium orchids.

The identically gowned bridesmaids were Miss Janet Seager of Weymouth, cousin of the bridegroom, Miss Karen Meskell of Arlington, and Miss Sue Ellen Miller of Boston.

Walter D. Troup of Halifax served as his brother's best man. Ushers were Robert E. Troup of Quincy, another brother of the bridegroom, Gerald Angelo and Robert Angelo, both of Quincy.

The bride graduated from Quincy High School, attended New England College, and graduated from Northeastern-Tufts University Dental Assistant's Program. She is employed as a dental assistant in Quincy.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Quincy High School and received his B.S. degree in Business Administration from Northeastern University. He is employed by the E. L. LeBaron Foundry Co. in Brockton, and is a member of the Coast Guard Reserve in Quincy.

After a wedding trip to Nassau, the couple plan to live in Quincy.

Police Crack Down At Squantum Park

Mayor White "allegedly favored the acquisition by Quincy." He said a bill filed by him to enable Quincy to take deed to the park was passed by the legislature but has been pigeon-holed in the Boston mayor's office.

"Boston has been stalling on its promise," McIntyre declared. "I think Mayor White should live up to his promise to Quincy."

McIntyre accused Boston of holding onto Squantum Park "to play footsie" with the 1976 Worlds Fair–"Expo 76".

The Mayor said Boston–which wants the fair commemorating the 200th anniversary of the birth of American freedom–plans to use the park as part of an access road if it wins the fair.

"Frankly, I'm tired of the so-far empty promises we get from Boston," McIntyre said. "They promise they will allow us to purchase the park but never deliver."

Most of the problems in the park stem from the fact Boston owns it while it is located in Quincy.

Boston police, McIntyre said, ignore the area leaving all the problems for Quincy police to handle.

"Boston police won't help us," said McIntyre. "But we're going to have vigorous enforcement and get those gangs out of Squantum Park. They're going to find out that this isn't going to be a playground for them anymore."

Col. L. A. Laliberte, U. S. Army Advisor Group 925, Boston, will present the posthumous awards to Cpl. West's mother, Mrs. Mildred A. MacDonald of 77 Manet Ave., Houghs Neck.

Cpl. West was awarded a bronze star earlier last December for valorous action at Tan Am, Vietnam, as the leader of a three-man patrol. The patrol captured three North Vietnamese soldiers in an enemy bunker.

Other speakers at the Mount Wollaston Cemetery ceremonies will be Mayor James R. McIntyre, Veterans Council Commander Allen Kofman and City Clerk John M. Gillis. Memorial Day observance chairman.

Mayor McIntyre will place a wreath at the World War II Memorial and unveil the Honor Roll. Wreaths will also be placed at the other war memorials.

Taps and volleys will be sounded in tribute to fallen Quincy veterans of all wars.

On Beacon Hill

By Sen. James R. McIntyre

The people of the City of Quincy, particularly the small home owners, rent-payers, and those living on a fixed income, [particularly the elderly] received two great victories recently, one from the legislature in the Constitutional Convention last week and one this week from the Norfolk Superior Court relative to revaluation.

I have been leading the fight for variable assessments based on use since I have been both Senator and Mayor, in order that we will be able to establish different rates on classifications of property so that incoming producing properties would receive a higher assessed valuation than non-income producing properties. This would forestall the oppressive taxpayer suits which have made owning single homes in some Massachusetts cities virtually impossible due to confiscatory real estate taxes.

The constitutional amendment [Senate Bill No. 72] has now been passed by two Legislative Conventions and is now assured to be on the ballot for the people of Massachusetts to vote on in 1970. This Constitutional Amendment allows variable assessments and classifications of property by use. This brings Massachusetts into the modern day period and recognizes a solution to the vexing problem of revaluation in our Commonwealth. I sincerely hope that the people of Massachusetts will support this Constitutional Amendment even though there will be much confusion spread about it and misinterpretation by the vested commercial and industrial interests who are now benefiting from 100% revaluation required under the present Constitution which dates back to the 1700's.

The Norfolk Superior Court after an excellent presentation by City Solicitor Harry Pavan, has given Quincy another year to straighten out the mess created by Cole, Layer, and Trumble Company hired by a previous administration. This resulted in over 3265 homes not being inspected and over 23,000 errors on the cards. The zoning classification was omitted on all cards even though the city specifically called for this information in its contract with Cole, Layer and Trumble. I commend highly the judgment of Justices Taviera and Brogna for their wisdom in granting further relief to the overburdened property owners of Quincy and I believe that these two outstanding victories which we achieved in the past two weeks will bring long-term tax relief benefits to the homeowners of the City of Quincy and other cities in the state struggling under revaluation.

The Constitutional Convention Amendment [Senate Bill No. 72] actually puts into law what assessors have been doing in Massachusetts in fact for many years; that is, assess income-producing properties on a higher level than Residence usage.

This remained status quo until the early 1960's when the taxpayers suit gimmick started, bringing revolution of revaluation in various cities in Massachusetts starting with Springfield.

This newly passed amendment will now straighten out revaluation for the people of Massachusetts, if adopted. So it is up to the small home owner, rent payer, and citizen on fixed income to go to the polls in Nov. 1970 and vote for the Constitutional Amendment-the McIntyre Amendment. The legislature has set the machinery in motion. Now it is up to the voter to help himself by voting for it.

Firecracker Nonsense

This week a boy of 17 came in with a badly burned hand with destruction of the skin of his entire palm - badly swollen and torn fingers, oozing serum and blood and extremely painful. Cause - a firecracker!

Where did ne get it? "Oh a fellow in a boat came up to us and offered them for sale for only ten cents." Quite a bargain, indeed! Then cents for several hundreds of dollars of ultimate cost, in addition to uncertain healing, potential infection and immeasurable pain and discomfort.

Not so many years ago when firecracker sales were legitimate, injuries were expected - often with loss of an eye, bad burns and many frightened girls - for the common sport was to throw them at the feet of unsuspecting children - scaring them out of thwir wits and sending them squealing to the delight of the masculine marauders.

Even more dangerous was the use of carbide crystals put into buttermilk cans with a little water, plugging the wide-mouthed can with a stopper of large proportions and then igniting the combustive materials thru a hole in the bottom of the can sending the stopper flying as far as 100 feet with the explosive detonation of a cannon and the speed of the stopper could kill. - Despite the hazardous nature of this malignant sport I cannot recall any resultant damages - perhaps because we wisely chose the quarries for the arena. Nostalgic isn't it? But stupid!

To return to the iniquitous - sparklers could burn but they were so pretty at night and if properly taught didn't cause much trouble but the wire core could and did cause burns - however benighn.

The Cinese fire-crackers in bundles gave momentary pleasure and thrills expecially to the smaller children and merely popped, sputtered and fumed giving a characteristic odor and the vicarious thrill of seeing the bundle dance and fling itself about bombastically and when it seemed done to have an additional pop or two. Benign sport at best.

What about the Fourth of July thrills of the past and the pleasures denied dodays' society? The painful injuries aren't worth it. The modern legislation is worth observing. A lost eye - even one, would justify abolition of fireworks.

To see this youth with his maimed hand and the tears despite bravery, annot recommend our tolerance for a dangerous, needless sport.

Legislation may often seem too restrictive and difficult for some to accept - particularly when one doesn't see the hazards or dangers for which the laws were made. Any restrictions relative to fire arms and explosives, the most benign of which are firecrackers - are justifiably made and should be enforced.

The function of the parent is to instruct the child about the dangers. I wish everyone could see this hand - reminiscent of the kind due to exploding shells of the war.

Junior College Caps Baseball Venture With All-Star Honors

Quincy Junior College's first baseball team ended its season last week with a 5-7 Mass. Junior College League record and a 5-8 overall mark and Coach Dave Burke was pleased with the first season's results, although admittedly disappointed in the final record.

"We lost some tough games," Burke said. "Our first two games were lost on late inning home runs to break ties and we lost some other close decisions. Our pitching was our week spot, and, all in all, I'm pleased with the season and was especially pleased to have four of our players selected to the league all-star team."

At a league meeting last week the all-star teams were announced and Quincy first baseman Dick Howe, former Boston English star, was selected on the first team. Dick batted .545, believed to be the top average in the league. He had 18 hits in 33 times at bat.

Named to the second "star" team were pitcher Dick Volpe, catcher Bill Osborne, former Quincy High player, and outfielder Ron DiNardo.

The players will recive all-star awards at the league banquet next Tuesday night at Lombardo's in East Boston.

"We had no pitching depth and that was our big problem," Burke pointed out. "We had as many as four games some weeks and Volpe and Jim Mazzetti were the only pitchers to go the route for us. We had some good hitting and the defense was adequate."

DiNardo batted .310, Art Coughlin .300 and Osborne .280.

Burke, a former North Quincy High and Bowdoin College ace who is a football assistant at Quincy High, made a move early in the season which paid off. He moved Mike Flynn from second base to shortstop and Ed Lorenz from short to second.

Howe and Osborne were the team's co-captains. DiNardo played in center field, Lorenz at second, Flynn at short, Mark Fitzgerald third base, Coughlin left field and Steve Blyth and Pat Curry in right. Volpe and Mazzetti were the pitchers and others included Tom Powers, Bob Welch, Greg Stevens, Paul Juster and Steve O'Brien. Utility players were Ed Culkern, Les Rubin, Jim Carrera, Al Burke, George Regan and Frank Driscoll.

"Our late classes made it very tough for some of the boys," Burke said. "Prospects are bright for next year as most of the boys will be returning. Also, I am told some more fine prospects are on their way to Quincy Junior."

Quincy Nine Shooting For 10-4 Mark, Tourney Berth

The Quincy High baseball team's hopes of making the Eastern Mass. tourney have been going up and down like a yo-yo and once again they look good.

When the Presidents were surprised by Everett, 7-5, in 13 innings last week, their chances looked dim as it was their fourth defeat.

However las Friday Quincy bombed Chelsea, 14-1, while league-leading Somerville was shocked by Revere, 4-0, for its third loss and going into this week's games the Greater Boston League title race was a real scramble.

Quincy had only North Quincy to play yesterday. A win, which would keep its hopes of a tourney berth [the two top league teams are selected], very much alive, would also give it a fine 10-4 league record.

All other contenders had at least three games to play. Somerville was 8-3 with three games left, one with tough Malden; Medford was 7-3 with four remaining, one with Malden; Malden was 7-4 with three left.

Last Friday Steve Carrera started the Presidents on their way at Chelsea with a leadoff home run. Quincy exploded for seven runs in the fourth inning, added two in the fifth, three in the eighth and one in the ninth.

Quincy collected 17 hits off three Chelsea pitchers with winning pitcher Paul Duff [6-2] having four to hike his average over .350, Carrera his homer and a single to raise his mark over .400, Kevin Ryan a triple and single, Ed Hutchins a double and single, Steve McDevitt and Cliff Mattson two singles apiece.

Duff struck out 11 and didn't walk a batter as he gave up only two hits.

In the marathon loss to Everett Quincy tied it at 3-3 with a run in the seventh. Everett took a 5-3 lead in the 11th sut the Presidents came back to tie it again. Duff suffered his second loss in relief of McDevitt.

Carrera had a great day with five hits including three triples to spark a 13-hit attack. Mattson had a double and single.

Luggelle Takes Top Honors In Track

The Quincy and North Quincy track teams finished well down in the standings in last Saturday's Suburban League championship meet at Newton High School, but Quincy had the day's outstanding performer.

Tom Hall's Presidents finished sixth with 13 points and Ralph Frazier's North team was seventh with 12. North's senior prom was Friday night and Frazier gave his seniors the day off.

Quincy's Kevin Luggelle was the only double winner, taking the low hurdles in 20.6 seconds and winning the triple jump, a new event this year, with a jump of 41 feet, 2¼ inches.

North had one winner, Roger Conboy winning his specialty, the javelin, with a toss of 181 feet, 2½ inches, well below his best.

LEGION NINES OPEN JUNE 15

The District 6 American Legion baseball season will get underway on Sunday, June 15.

Included among the District 6 teams are two old standbys, Morrisette and Quincy

Joining Morrisette and Quincy in District 6 are Milton, Weymouth, Randolph and Braintree. District 6A teams are Dedham, Needham, Norwood, Canton, Wellesley, Foxboro, and Walpole.

Eastern Nazarene Power In Run Department

Although Eastern Nazarene College's baseball team had to win its last four games to emerge with a winning record [8-7], the Crusaders outscored their opposition by 77 runs to only 40.

Going into its final four games Nazarene had only a 4-7 record, having lost its first three, won the next three, losing three in a row again and splitting the next two.

The Crusaders then edged New Hampshire College, 4-3, and last week had a great windup as they clobbered the U. of Maine's Portland branch, 16-1, and Saturday at Briar Cliff Manor, N.Y., swept both ends of a doubleheader from King's College, 14-4 and 5-2.

"We had a lot better team than our record shows," Coach Carroll Bradley said. "We had some tough luck. In one game a squeeze bunt that could have tied the game with Bentley turned into a double play. Against Husson College a long smash that would have cleared the fence in right field and won the game was just a long out in right center."

The North Quincy freshman picked a man off first base in the first game then King's had the bases loaded and one out and in the second game, with men on first and third and no outs, Bradley threw out the man going to second and took the return throw to nab the runner trying to score.

"It looks like he'll be out catcher next year, " Bradley said. "He showed he can handle the position after Doug got hurt."

Bradley is looking ahead to next season and prospects are bright.

He expects big things from two freshman pitchers, John Whitman, a rightie, and Jim Andrews, a left. Bradley who pitched well this spring despite an 0-2 record, can also be used if needed.

Sophomore Bob Henning, left fielder, led the team in batting with an average of over .370 and several extra base hits.

Other returning starters will include second baseman Dave Keene, shortstop Bill Mauger, and outfielders Gary Karlin and Don Kauffman.

"Our pitching should be strong next year, especially if Whitman and Andrews improve their control," Bradley concluded. "We'll have to pick up a little help in other positions, but we will have a good nucleus."

Incidentally, Eastern Nazarene is looking for a new soccer coach to succeed Glenn Boden, who started the schools' interscholastic program five years ago.

Boden will attend the U. of Oregon next year as a graduate student in physical education.

In the romp over Maine, Jim Andrews pitched a two-hitter, Bill Turner had three hits, Jack Willey of Weymouth had a homer and single, freshman Ron Bradley of North Quincy had two hits as did Ron Bartholomew.

In the sweep over King's, ENC had its batting shoes on and received some more fine pitching.

Willy had five for eight for the afternoon and Bradley, usually a pitcher but forced to catch the last three games due to an injury to regular receiver Doug Von Iderstein of Weymouth, was the fielding star.

Rickson Net Tourney Hope

Quincy High coach Bill Mitchell is once again director of the ever-expanding Eastern Mass. schoolboy tennis tourney which got underway last Saturday and will continue this Saturday and finish up on May 31 at Newton South High courts.

More than 70 entries from 37 schools [two boys from each school are allowed] started out and among the first and second round survivors last weekend was Mitchell's number one player, Ken Rickson, who will continue in Saturday's quarterfinals and semifinals.

Mitchell feels teenaged players of today are better than those of 10 years ago because "more kids are playing and more schools have the sport in their athletic programs. Also, more leagues are being formed all the time"

Bill explained that a few years ago six boys from each school were entered, it went down to four, now two and there is talk of limiting it to one per school in the future."

North Rules Golf Foes

The Raiders, with a 7-0-1 league record, Monday played undefeated Hingham the Old Colony League leader, to a 4½-4½ tie. With an overall mark of 7-0-2, North yesterday was scheduled to play Braintree in a non-league match, Monday entertains Boston Latin, which held it to its league tie, at Wollaston Tuesday plays at Hingham and is home to Quincy on June 3. The Raiders still have a postponed league match to play with Boston Tech.

In the tie with Hingham Fick and Meehan took 2½ points and Meehan and Killeen took two. Mike Robin and Brian Cadogan dropped three points.

North Nine Spoiler For Loop Contenders

North Quincy's baseball team, which has a chance this week to be a real giant killer in the Greater Boston League, hadn't played a game for more than a week but returned to action with a bang Monday when it upset Everett, 6-5, sparked by John Murray, stating his first game for the Raiders.

The win gave North a 3-7 league record and a 6-7 overall mark. In its last start Everett had surprised Quincy in 13 innings.

The Raiders were rained out of their game with league-leading Somerville Tuesday. They were scheduled to face Quincy yesterday when a win would have ended all Quincy hopes of making the Eastern Mass. tourney and they still have a postponed game with second place Medford to play. Thus, Charlie Bunker's club will have a lot to say about the GBL champion.

Murray, playing second base hit two doubles and made a key fielding play which saved North's bacon. Gary McGrath was the winning pitcher in relief of Gary Bogosian.

"The thing that won for us was out hitting," Bunker said. "We had 12 hits and McGrath stayed ahead of the hitters and in the eighth inning picked off the tying run with no outs, a real big play."

North's 12 hits included Murray's two doubles, a double and single by Jim Broderick and two singles each by Kevin Colleran and Steve Tomasetti.

Bowlers Hear Patriot Back

Boston Patriots defensive back Art McMahon of Scituate was the principal speaker at the 15th anniversary banquet of the Quincy Bowling Little loop last night.

The Robert F. Murphy Memorial Trophy was presented to Mark Smith of the United Commercial Travelers team. The banquet and awards ceremony was held at the Elks 'Home, Hancock St.

Winning the Alden 'Pop' Hatfield award as the most improved bowler was Jim Broadbent, also of the UCT club.

On weekends, Al Tino sounds different

Oh it's the same great Al Tino at his Hammond organ. Just like every other evening at the Sheraton Motor Inn, Quincy. Except Monday. But on Friday and Saturday, Al is joined in our colorful lounge by Rocky Page and Lou Pellaggi. On guitar, drums, and sax. Stop in early. And have a snack or dinner in our adjoining restaurant. Come, Let Us Reason Together

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

When a husband and wife are happy together, usually children are happy...do well in school...make friends...develop good havits. So also...the reflection of unhappy parents is seen in the children. It is not enough for mother to love the children...to care for their needs..to get them off to school on week days and to Church on Sunday.

Nor is it enough for father to love the children...to provide sufficient income... to establish an image of success in the community. The triangle must be completed between the father and the mother so that children see in their parents a happy relationship.

Jane and Jack were a suburban couple...maried twelve years...three children... each of whom were having emotional problems. Little Jackie was a bed wetter... Sally was a loner...Anne was shy and nervous. They had good clothes...even to play in. There were three birthday parties each year. Mother was always pushing each child to try to get better response to school work and to make friends. The young husband blamed his wife for the children's maladjustment...she blamed her husband. They fought loudly over this...and everything else. On several occasions neighbors had called the police. Both parents were drinking excessively...they said they needed to relax. What they didn't know was that drink was first a sedative...then and irritant. Their irritations they took out on each other.

They were always behind in their bills...this was a constant cause of their quarreling. Jane accused his mother of meddling...Jack accused her parents of indifference. Jane said Jack nearly always arrived home late...Jack said she always picked at him when he did get home...so the later he arrived the less she bugged him. As for mutual friends, they had none. Jack didn't like her friends...said they were always at the house and that she ignored him as a result. Jane said Jack's friends were all alcoholics and woman chasers. Of course...their sex life was nothing but another source of conflict. Whatever subject came up they always took opposite views...religion... Vietnam...college unrest...the black family in the next block...the school rules...water in the basement.

There was a constant state of tension...and Jackie continued to wet his pants... Sally continued to be a loner...Anne continued to be shy and nervous...unhappy children of unhappy parents.

The counselor tried to show them that these were all symptoms of their problem... not causes. Their unhappiness with each other went deeper than these outward conditions. The truth finally came out that Jack was harboring a resentment against his mother for divorcing his father when he was six...he was punishing Jane for what his mother had done to him. Jane had a physical problem which she had not mentioned to Jack. They had not learned to communicate with each other. Nothing was ever resolved.

We talked individually...we had conferences together. Gradually a change began to take place. Jane was saying, "I don't know what you've been telling him, but he is so different." Jack reported that Jane was so much more calm with the children... "she isn't yelling any more...she meets me at the doo when I get home...the house looks better...we cut out the evening drinking...it's amazing the change in Jane."

Each thought the change and improvement was in the other. Within a month's time, Jackie wasn't wetting his pants any more...Sally had two new little girl 'riends...Anne began to blossom out and could hardly wait for the ballet recital.

They still had water in the basement...the school rules didn't change...the black family didn't move...the Vietnam war continued [would to God it would end]... the established churches still stood. But Jane and Jack had changed. They were happier than they had been since they were married. And so were the children.

The number one cause of unhappy children is unhappy parents. When children see a husband and wife showing affection to each other...talking and planning together...laughing and having fun together...the children feel security. Happy parents breed happy children. Unhappy parents breed unhappy children. Sad...but it's true.

Barry's Delicatessen

"Good food and fast, friendly service" is the trademark of Dan Barry, proprietor of Barry's Delicatessen, 661 Hancock St., Wollaston.

The favorite of Barry's patrons is the store's homemade salads. A selection of potato salad, cole slaw, chicken salad, vegetable salad, and ham salad is offered to customers. While these delicious salads are "the salads that made summer famous" no season of the year is complete without a diet of Barry's salads.

Baked ham, roast beefs, and imported delicacies are perhaps the most popular of the great variety of products temptingly arrayed in Barry's immaculate showcase.

Dan Barry also provides a famous buffet service to his customers. He prepares a buffet, designed for self-service, made up with salads and table-ready meats primarily. The store has prepared these for home receptions, christenings, and showers, and Mr. Barry will be happy to provide complete information upon phone inquiry.

Experience is important in the light food industry, and experience is a quality Dan Barry most assuredly possesses. He worked in a delicatessen as a youngster, and has been in business for himself for 28 years. He also is in possession of a very unusual distinction; he is one of the few Irishmen operating a delicatessen.

Barry's is open from 7 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. The store which has been at its present location for 14 years employs a staff of eight persons who work diligently to give the gourmet and salad lover what he enjoys most, in a quick and friendly manner.

Mr. Barry is a member of the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce, the Wollaston Business and Professional Association, and the United Commercial Travelers. He is among the more active and dynamic merchants in the city, and this fact is reflected in his large following of patrons and the respect of his fellow businessmen. His interest in city business affairs extends, as his loyal customers can attest, to his own business, and makes patronizing Barry's a very pleasant experience.

MALE HELP

"Sourpuss Solly" is all smiles these days

And well he should be. Quincy's just announced the longest and best ever contract for its shipyard workers. Solly likes it. It's for five years. Calls for an immediate 20-cent an hour raise, with automatic increases over the life of the contract. He likes the added benefits, too. For instance, starting in 1970, the company pays the full cost of group insurance.

Solly is happy, too, for other reasons. As a Quincy shipfitter, he knows he is working at the top of his trade. In a yard where working conditions and equipment are constantly being improved.

How about you? Are smiles hard to come by in your present job? Why not look into Quincy? Immediate openings for:

'Came From Nowhere'

'Mistake' Ordinance Blasted By McDonald

A proposed ordinance dealing with additional regulation of building permits was introduced into the council "by mistake," Councillor George B. McDonald charged yesterday.

McDonald, who vigorously opposed creation fof the "appearance commission" at Monday's council meeting criticized similar proposals for "springing from the dark and coming in from nowhere.

The proposed "appearance commission" would establish a five-member commission for approval of building permits prior to application to the building inspector.

McDonald, who called the proposal "dangerous" and an infringement on the constitutional rights of architects and builders said it should not have appeared on the council agenda Monday.

The ordinance became a part of council business "by mistake" when it inadvertently was placed on the agenda without the approval of Mayor McIntyre, Councillor McDonald said.

McDonald said it was his understanding that the proposal had been submitted to the city legal department by Mayor McIntyre and had not been returned for executive study and evaluation.

It went to the council instead of going back to the Mayor, McDonald said.

McDonald rebuked ordinance proponents who failed to provide an informative presentation of measures designed for council approval.

"We will have over 3,000 orders to act on this year and we just haven't got time to study proposals if no one steps forward to present the facts and acquaint council members with information on which adequate and informed judgments can be based," McDonald said.

McDonald, following his strong arguments calling for rejection of the proposal, agreed to its return for study by the ordinance committee.

The commission would affiliate its responsibilities with the planning and appeals board in regulating landscape development building design and business property maintenance.

Break Ground June 6

$6 Million Complex Gets Go-Ahead By Electronics Firm

Ground will be broken June 6 for a $5 to $6 million electronics research and development laboratory complex in Quincy's Echo Lake area.

David Westermann, president of Hazeltine Corporation, Little Neck, N.Y., said construction will start following the 10:30 a.m. ceremonies.

He said the new research, engineering, production and underwater testing facilities for Hazeltine's Electro-Acoustic Systems Laboratory will enable the company to "consolidate, expand and advance existing capabilities now located in Braintree and Avon.

The company is a developer and manufacturer of highly sophisticated electronics equipment, much of it for the government, including anti-submarine warfare systems and underwater acoustics.

An estimated 800 persons mostly highly skilled engineers and researchers will eventually be employed at the new facility representing a multi-million dollar annual payroll.

The eventual 210,000 square foot complex to be built in three stages, will be located on a 13-acre site adjacent to the firm's present sonar testing facility at Echo Lake.

According to previously announced plans, the first structure will be two stories with 65,000 square feet. It will have manufacturing development space and office accomodations.

Astronauts, 14, Complete Backyard Moon Mission

At 12:52 p.m. Monday, Apollo 10 astronauts Stafford, Cernan and Young clambered out of their capsule after their 800,000-mile historic lunar flight.

At approximately the same time, 14-year-old Quincy Point astronauts Polley and King left their backyard capsule completing a two-day moon "journey."

The junior astronauts were part of a five-member team organizing the journey for a science project and timing it for an imaginary orbit or two with the celestial trio being guided by Houston mission control.

Steering their school chums through the two-night capsule vigil were Douglas King, Gordon's brother; Danny Daley, a seventh grader, and ninth grader Warren Birchmore.

Everything ended A-ok for the lunar team on Monday noon. Shawn and Gordon began their backyard journey through space when they entered their homemade capsule Saturday at 1 p.m.

Although the plywood craft never left the ground, the journey extended as high and as far as a boy's dreams and ideals. To such a trip there is really no limit--even to the stars and beyond.

Admittedly, there were revisions to space-age construction--in favor of a little comford. Interior furnishings included a chaise lounge. The boys cooked on canned heat burners and refrigerated with dry ice containers.

Contact with the "outside world" was maintained with "mission control" via walkie talkies.

Shawn is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Polley, 23 Burns Ave. Gordon is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert King, 38

Remick's Plans $200,000 Expansion, Improvements

Announcement was made today by Frank E. Remick, President, that Remick's of Quincy will spend approximately $200,000 in improvements to its present facilities, and expansion of its selling area by about 7,000 square feet.

These plans follow the growth pattern of the 73-year-old store at the rate of one major modernization or expansion in every five years, and reflects the confidence in the continued growth of downtown Quincy by the store's family management, Mr. Remick said.

The advent of the MBTA to Quincy, and the economic stimulus that it will bring, plus the prospect of high rise apartment house development, as well as the population growth of the South Shore, underlie Remick's decision to make the capital outlay.

"The growth opportunities of downtown Quincy retailing are limited only by the extent to which we can accomodate customers through improved traffic flow, and providing more and more parking. As these requirements are met, retail real estate values will increase, to to the benefit of all tax payers, through increased tax revenues to the city," Mr. Remick stated

Plans for the improvements and expansion are nearing completion, with Spring of 1970 as the target completion date of installation.

New Youth Program To Aid N Quincy Area Improvement

A proposed Quincy youth employment in coordination with the $1.8 million current North Quincy Improvement Project has received preliminary approval of HUD, the federal funding agency for the residential area renewal.

Quincy Improvement officials spoke with Dept. of Housing and Urban Development authorities yesterday on the proposed 10-week program and creation of a youth employment staff.

Application by the NQIP for the "Youth Employment in Code Enforcement Projects," stressed the benefits of healthy work experience for youths between 16 and 19. Jobs to be filled in the Improvement Project would include rehabilitation, beautification, recreation, clerical and community service aides.

A total of 17 job slots has been proposed in the project area to aid "in the achievement of arresting the decline of residential property in the North Quincy area."

The youth employment would be supported by a proposed HUD grant of $13,065 and would cover a 10-week work schedule with a possibility of continuing through the year.

The first portion of the $1.8 million dollar program has been put out for bids by the Quincy Dept. of Public Works.

The initial work will cost an estimated $360,000 and cover an area bounded by Newport Ave., Elmwood Ave., Belmont St. and Wilson Ave.

The renewal construction will include street resurfacing, sidewalk reconstruction, new curbing and landscaping.

According to Mayor James R. McIntyre, the work will get underway in early July and is scheduled for completion in the fall.

Marshall Survey

Voters Give Views On Key City Issues

A cross section of Southwest Quincy and Quincy Point voters have responded to a survey dealing with several major civic issues.

The eight-question poll was conducted by Quincy Rep. Clifford H. Marshall and covered the proposed Mechanic St. Parking expansion, recreation facilities, drug education and municipal expenditures and personnel policies.

About 25 percent of the 200 questionnaires were returned by voters who submitted the following pro and con opinions:

Do you feel the City of Quincy should spend $500,000 for approximately 140 parking spaces on Mechanic St.?

Yes - 11, No - 55.

Do you feel that there is a need for a combination Community Center and swimming pool in the Southwest Quincy area as proposed as part of the new school in this area to be used by all Quincy residents?

Yes - 60, No - 6.

Would you approve of a major Capital Outlay Program for new snow fighting equipment in the Public Works Dept. of Quincy?

Yes - 52, No - 14.

Do you approve of the No Hire–No Fire Policy in the Public Works Dept. in the City of Quincy?

Yes - 2, No - 64.

Do you feel the Quincy Public Schools should include education on narcotics in its curriculum?

Yes - 61, No - 5.

Do you feel you can properly communicate with your elected officials if you so desire?

Yes - 38, No - 28.

Do you feel there is sufficient recreation for young and old alike in Quincy?

Yes - 21, No - 45.

Do you feel Civic Associations can improve our city through active participation in government?

Yes - 62, No - 4.

Rep. Marshall's survey was mailed to a section of Ward 2 and in Quincy Point. The questionnaire was also left for distribution at the Southwest Community Center and the Ward 2 Civic Association.

The Second Norfolk legislator said that he was preparing a second survey to reflect popular opinion on questions affecting the Quincy taxpayer. The survey would also serve to increase communication with the voters and provide additional information on important municipal problems, Rep. Marshall commented.

Point Junior To Honor Four Vietnam Dead

Quincy Point Junior High School will have a special Memorial Day observance Friday to honor four former students who have given thwir lives in Vietnam.

Four maple trees will be planted on the school grounds as living memorials to Lance Cpl. James Cavicchi, Pfc. David Pitts, Pfc. John Coughlin, U. S. Marine Corps, and 1st Lt. Alfred Schofield, U. S. Air Force.

Participating in the tree planting ceremonies scheduled for 9 a.m. following a school assembly will be:

Mayor McIntyre will be the keynote speaker at the 8:30 a.m. assembly.

The Memorial Day program was arranged by faculty members, Mrs. Marion Morrell and Mrs. Louise Schofield. Musical selections will be by the school Glee Club, conducted by Miss Mary Balemonos.

At a later date, memorial markers will be placed on the trees, each bearing the name of one of the four former students killed in Vietnam.

Grapes Boycott Program Here Monday Night

The Quincy Chapter of Citizens For Participation Politics [CPP] will sponcor a public program Monday night in support of the nation-wide grapes boycott.

The program, featuring a representative of the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee as speaker and the showing of a film, "Decision At Delano" will be held at 8 p.m. at Shipbuilders Union Hall, 480 Quincy Ave.

"Purpose of the program," sajd CPP Chairman John Gillis of 122 Taylor St., "is to provide local citizens with a greater understanding of the plight of the agricultural workers involved and the necessity for the grape boycott.

"It is hoped that by increasing their awareness of the problem, the citizens of Quincy will help to make the boycott even more effective than it has been in the past."

CAROL WIRTH

Carol Wirth Selected For Girls State

Miss Carol Wirth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Wirth of 14 Martell St., West Quincy has been selected by the Morrisette Post of the American Legion Auxiliary as its representative to the 25th Annual Massachusetts Girls State.

Miss Wirth, a member of the junior class at Quincy High School, will meet with more than 250 other representatives from all parts of the state at Bridgewater State College June 13-20. These girls, selected on the basis of potential leadership qualities, will participate in a week's study of local and state governmanet.

The alternate chosed for Girls State is Miss Susan Spileos, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Spileos, 136 Presidents Lane. She is also a junior at Quincy High School.

"At Girls State the girls will establish and operate a miniature state government of their own. They will form two political parties, hold conventions, nominate candidates for office, conduct campaigns and hold an election. Officers elected will be installed, and the executive, legislative and judicial functions of state government carried out," explains Mrs. Edward Wellman, Director of Girls State.

"Talks by high state officials will be part of the Girls State program. The girls will hear about the duties and responsibilities of the various branches of government from men and women actually engaged in government work. Both from practice and study of state government, the girls will return home with a much better understanding of how American democracy functions."

Two girls from the Massachusetts Girls State will be selected to represent the state at Girls Nation in Washington, D.C. in July.

Shea Announces Candidacy For Ward 4 Seat

He will oppose incumbent Albert R. Barilaro in the city preliminary election Oct. 7.

Shea, a sales representative for a foods company, is president of the Southwest Quincy Federal Credit Union, treasurer of the South-West Community Council and a director of the Quincy Community Action Program.

He is a graduate of St. Mary's School, Archbishop Williams High School, Quincy Junior College and is presently attending Suffolk University as a government major.

He is a member of the Young Democratic Club. Ward 4 Democratic Club and the Quincy Jaycees.

In announcing his candidacy, Shea declared

"As a homeowner and longtime resident of West Quincy with a sincere interest in its future, I feel the course Quincy takes depends greatly on its public officials. West Quincy especially needs new leadership and direction because of the unresolved dumping problem and the future use of undeveloped land."

Sunbeams

Ward 3 Councillor John F. Koegler seems to have become one of Quincy's big political question marks. Will he seek re-election this year?

City Hall observers report he has the inside track on a new municipal post expected to be created soon. If the job materializes before the election, he would have to vacate his Ward 3 seat.

If it doesn't, he may face the problem of running again and if re-elected, stepping down some time later to take the new job.

SPEAKING of the Ward 3 seat, Hugo Saluti, dean of administration at Quincy Junior College, is being urged to run for it. A well known, popular figure, he would be considered a serious threat if he should decide to become a candidate.

SAD NOTE: There are now only six Quincy surviving veterans of the Spanish-American War. So noted Arthur McLean of the Quincy Veterans Council at the luncheon at Sherry's following Monday's Memorial Day parade and excercises.

One of the six–John Houston, commander of the John Boyd Spanish-American War Veterans post–was a guest and got a sincere standing ovation. Though 90, Houston never misses the Memorial Day tribute to Quincy veterans of all wars.

MAYOR James R. McIntyre will attend a two-day conference on Urban and Municipal Problems in Washington, D.C. June 9-10. He was invited to sit in on the discussions by Sens. Edward Kennedy and Edward Brooke.

WARNING: You should be especially alert driving your car on Saturdays. The ALA notes that 55,300 persons were killed in auto accidents last year. Of these, 12,200 lost their lives in Saturday mishaps–biggest oll of any one day. Second most dangerous day was Sunday with 9,900 deaths. "Safest" day: Tuesday with 5,800.

COINCIDENCE DEPT: Rep. Joseph E. Brett was invited by Westfield Mayor John J Palczynski to participate in that city's 300th anniversary celebration. Westfield's "Incorporation Day" was May 19–which also ahppens to be Brett's birthday. In a tnak-you letter to His Honor, Brett noted: "I am not quite as old as Westfield but am hopeful of reaching that age."

A LOT OF people around Quincy would like President Nixon to know there's another very capable "law and order" judge available for appointment to the U. S. Supreme Court. The mean former Quincy boy, Judge Paul C. Reardon of the Massachusetts Supreme Court. A good man for the job, his many admirers would like you to know, Mr. President.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT: Editorial Comment by Dorothy Laing in the Houghs Neck Community Council Buelletin:

"The greatest sadness is not poverty or any other social ill. It is 'lack of concern.' The person who speaks out has more merit than the indifferent person who sits on the fence forever. The combined or united effort of people in a community could correct or better that community whether in education or civic matters.

"Do you willingly carry your share? Remember, your children learn from your example!

'Study Or Go To Work'

Memorial Keynoter Lashes Rioting Youth

SOLEMN MOMENT--Mr. and Mrs. Bernard J. MacDonald, of 77 Manet Ave., Houghs Neck shown with nine medals awarded posthumously to their son Cpl. Raymond J. West who was killed in action in Vietnam Dec. 13. The medals were presented at Quincy's Memorial Day observances by Colonel L. A. Laliberte, Senior Army Advisor, U. S. Army Advisory Group. A past national commander of the Jewish War Veterans lashed out at rebellious college students in a stinging Memorial Address in Quincy.

Samuel Samuels, guidance director for the Revere secondary schools, said that "either study or go to work may be the ultimatum that must be delivered to these rebellious students."

"Our heroes, living and dead, fought so that all the citizens of this country could be free--not some of its citizens--not its black citizens--not some of those in college--not the SDS--not the conservatives--but all of the people."

He warned that the Students for a Democratic Society campaign to eliminate ROTC training on college campuses is "one of the most dangerous attacks on our country's safety."

But linking the campaign to communistic teachers, he said:

"I serve notice on them that this is not going to be another Czechoslovakia."

He called on the nation's leaders to "return our country's ways to the ways of peace" so that veterans of all wars will "not have died in vain."

In another highlight nine medals were presented posthumously to Mr. and Mrs. Bernard J. MacDonald of 77 Manet Ave., Houghs Neck, whose son Cpl. Raymond J. West, 20, was killed in action in Vietnam last Dec. 13

In his keynote address, Samuels said in part:

It is my contention that all of this trouble started way back in the 1930's with the sit-down strikes in Detroit. The workers took over property belonging to someone else. I cannot be concerned with the righteousness of their cause - I just believe that the law was broken and the sanctity of one's property was violated. For several decades nothing happened, but then began a series of unlawful seizures of restaurants, courthouses, school committee meetings, and finally the takeover of universities.

And I charge that those in authority were pusillanimous in meeting the challenge. When the Lake President Kennedy enforced the law permitting James Meredith to enter the University of Mississippi, he courageously and sagaciously sent 13,000 National Guardsmen to enforce the law - and enforce the law they did. But, what has happened at Columbia and City College of New York and Brooklyn College and Southern Colleges - Fear and unsure and wavering decisions led to rioting and more rioting. And waht was the reason that the SDS - and I recommend that you read the Firing Line published by the American Legion to learn about this organization - what was the reason that the SDS could prevent Arthur Goldberg and Secretary McNamara from speaking at Harvard - and why could they prevent the Dow Chemical Company from recruiting interested students from obtaining jobs? Why could they prevent the Armed Forces recruiters from entering college campuses?

I contend that this nefarious organization which professes to seek freedom for the student body is instead anarchistic and robs them of freedom of choice. These self-professed protectors of students' rights, like their communistic teachers, are instead repressive, dogmatic and arbitrary. I serve notice on them that this is not going to be another Czechoslovakia. If we let them gain the upper hand instead of freedom, the only result will be a loss of freedom.

And now, even though I may be treading on dangerous ground, I want to touch on the topic of Reserve Officer Training Corps. The abolishmnet of this vital segment of our National Defense is one of the top aims of SDS. And I say unequivocally that this policy on the part of SDS is one of the most dangerous attacks on our country's safety. I charge that it is in the best interests of the total Communistic plan to abolish Rotzey, as it is called. But what I protest, even more, is the importance given to the demands of this small segment of society, as well as to that other small segment, the smug faculty in its ivroy towers.

First. I ask do they have the experience or the knowledge to make the determination as to whether Rotzey shall go. My answer is a firm and unmistakebable "No!" Moreover I ask do they have the pragmatic right to make final decisions or soley to influence the final decision. After all, the average tuition at our leading universities is in the vicinity of $2000, while the actual cost of educating one student is in the vicinity of $4000. Now where does the difference come from? It comes from alumni contributions given over a period of many years. These students say it is OUR University! Is it not also the alumni's, who foot the bills? And if the truth were known, were it not for their tax-free properties, supported by you and you and you and me, the cost would be even substantially higher. Maybe we should have something to say about whether ROTZEY should stay, and free choice given to those who do or do not want to select it.

What then do we conclude? We conclude that these riots must cease - the abrupt closing of universities must cease - the take-over of buildings properties must cease. Ways must be found promptly and effective programs must be established by our leaders who must see to it that law and order does prevail. We must take heed from the lesson learned at Berkeley, that violence compels counter-violence to enter.

"Either study or go to work" may be the ultimatum that must be delivered to these rebellious students. I repeat, "these dead must not have died in vain" Certainly change by students may be effected by orderly means.

Regional Library Post To Mary Linn

Warren E. Watson, director of the Thomas Crane Public Library, has announced the appointment of Mrs. Mary L. Linn of Wollaston to the position of regional reference librarian.

Mrs. Linn is a graduate of Boston State College and holds a master's degree in library science from Simmons College. She was formerly a special services librarian for the U. S. Army in Bad Kreuznach, Germany. Prior to army service she was a pre-professional assistant in the children's department of the Boston Public Library.

Appointed as Mrs. Linn's assistant was Michael Vocino, a graduate of Boston University. The city of Quincy is reimbursed for these two salaries by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

The Quincy library as a sub-regional center of the Eastern Massachusetts Regional Library System provides reference and inter-library loan service to twenty-nine libraries in this area. If a local library cannot supply a book needed by a borrower the request is forwarded to the Thomas Crane Public Library which loans it if possible.

If not, the Thomas Crane then notifies Boston of the request and the Boston Public Library fills the demand from its own collections or through special purchase. This service is available to residents of Quincy upon request, it was announced.

SENIOR CITIZENS NEWS

Young at Heart

By Marion Andrews
Assistant To Executive Director
Quincy Council on Aging

Another hit was scored by the Young at Heart Chorus of the Senior Citizens Group of the Quincy Senior Citizens Drop-In-Center recently when they entertained at the Presidential Convalescent Home in Wollaston. The group, directed by Mrs. Alice Grant, first entertained publicly last December at the Quincy Senior Citizens Nite Out program.

The group is available for entertaining at nursing homes or group meetins. Further information may be obtained from Mrs. Grant or Mrs. Martha Farquharson, president of the Drop-In-Center group.

MEMORIAL SERVICE

A memorial service for deceased members was held at a meeting Tuesday of the Golden Fellowship Club of Wollaston. The service is an annual event and will be under the direction of Mrs. Mary MacLean and Miss Elva Hirtle.

The annual installation of officers and banquet will be held June 10. All meetings are held at the Wollaston Methodist Church.

MOTHER'S DAY
MAY BASKETS

Mothers who are patients in nursing homes were not forgotten on their day when more than 300 May Baskets were distributed to nine Quincy nursing homes. Charles McGarry of 11 Snug Harbor Court, was in charge of the committee distributing the baskets. The project was a joint effort of the Quincy Council on Aging and the Community Action Organization. Entertainment was provided by Margaret Campbell, vocalist and James Sullivan on the harmonica. Community singing was also enjoyed.

MAY BIRTHDAYS

Several patients at the Presidential Convalescent Center are observing birthdays during May. They include: May Driscoll, Pine Spinner, Mary MacCormick, Hyman Oldsman, Frank Kapust, Ida Vand, Alice Wright, Mary Otis, Dora Krasnor, Bridget MacDonald, Mary Gaffey, Margaret Messia, Thomas Flanagan and Jennie Costa.

Several programs were presented at the center in observance of Senior Citizens Month during the past week.

GOLDEN FELLOWSHIP
OPEN HOUSE

Eric Lindgren, president of the Golden Fellowship Club of Wollaston, welcomed close to 100 members and guests at the recent open house and luncheon at Wollaston Methodist Church.

The program, highlighted by a travel film, was held in observance of Senior Citizens Month. Members and officers of surrounding senior citizen groups and Council on Aging staff were special guests.

Brett Says $900,000 Road Plan Means Final $1.5 Million Cost

Rep. Joseph E. Brett expressed his opposition to a proposed $900,000 redesign of Wollaston Blvd., at a recent meeting of the Houghs Neck Community Council.

Rep. Brett, featured speaker at the civic meeting, cited high costs and encroachment on valuable marshland and recreational sites.

A plan to move the road shoreward by 200 to 300 feet would destroy about eight acres of prime marshland, according to the Quincy legislator, a member of the Quincy Conservation Commission.

Black's Creek, a valuable watershed area, would be adversely affected, Brett contended. He warned that more dangerous flood conditions could result.

The road relocation under present planning would pave the way for a 300-400 car parking lot, Brett noted.

The ultimate cost involved in a 20-year bond issue would reach $1.5 million with interest charges, Brett computed. He stressed that the project would serve "no benefit to the taxpayer."

Brett, an outspoken conservationist, noted the proposal was also opposed by Wollaston Park, Merrymount, and Quincy Taxpayers Associations.

Quincy Student To Deliver Latin Oration At Harvard

Dean Paul Nicastro, of Quincy has been designated to deliver the Latin Salutatory Oration at the Commencement Exercises of Harvard University on Thursday June, 12, As Orator, Nicastro will receive the David Taggart Clark Award.

Nicastro is a graduate of Boston College High School in Dorchester, Mass., where he was Valedictorian of his class [1965], and a member of the National Honor Society. He was a member of the Current Events Club and the Varsity Debating Society.

The Clark Award, which includes a prize of approximately $80, has been presented annually since 1956 to the student selected to make the Latin oration at Commencement.

At Harvard Nicastro has been elected to the "Senior Sixteen" of Phi Beta Kappa, and has been awarded the coveted Detur Prize, given for academic excellence. He is a member of the Harvard Pre-Law Society.

During the summer of 1968 Nicastro served as Research Assistant to Quincy Mayor James R. McIntyre, working in the Community Action Program.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Nicatro, of 45 Edison St., Quincy, he plans to attend Harvard Law School next year.

HOUSE CALL

By Dr. Charles Djerf

Pediatrician

With the gradual systematic triumph over, and the elimination of the more serious illnesses, we have previously discussed, there are still a number of annoying, unpleasant diseases left. They even seem to be on the increase and are difficult to treat as well as remove.

Take diarrhoea for instance. By definition this means an increase in the number of M.Ms. [bowel movements] as well as a change of character - loose mucoid, burning, smelly even bloody stools. Pediatricians daily discuss and treat this condition, mainly over the phone.

Parents, justifiably, are distraught by the recurrence of this nuisance. Mothers wonder where the trouble lies. Is she doing something wrong? Is her child defective? Should she have x-rays?

Some persons get diarrhoea with every illness - even emotional upsets. The GI [gastro intestinal] tract is a sort of "Shock" organ. If a virus causes earaches in some or croup in another, or a plain running nose in a third, this youngster gets diarrhoea with or with out the other symptoms and may get it with medications used to treat common complaints. Penicillin, Terramycin, Ampicillin are frequently complicated by diarrhoea. Less so are sulfas, Gantricin, Erythromycin and Streptomycin.

Abdominal pains of a colicky nature and vomiting may accompany GI upsets, adding to the discomfort and severity of the disease. If nothing gets into our body because of vomiting and the appetite is lost or lessened and body fluids and mineral salts are lost in the diarrhoea, we lose weight, become weak and may develop Alkalosis or Acidosis which may become very serious.

In severe diarrhoea the eyes become sunken, skin becomes dry and may lose its elasticity, muscles become poor in tone and flaccid, the child is dull or torporous, the tongue dry [as a sick cat's] and my may detect Acetone in the breath. Acetone smells like finger-nail polish remover. Children in this condition need IV [intravenous] fluids.

The control of the body chemistries upset in losses due to diarrhoea, marks one of the triumphs of medicine. Local contribution to the knowledge of body fluid control was in large measure the result of the late Dr. Gamble of Milton and Dr. Butler and others from our Boston Children's Hospital. The chemical measurement of blood chemicals and the administration of the proper depleted chemicals and fluid lost is life saving in the dehydrated child.

In the first quarter of this century dysentery or diarrhoea was a major cause of death in infants in this country and still is a frightening cause in lands south of us and in Asia. The name Cholera Infantum was a term described in our texts to indicate the horrible nature and fear for this condition years ago.

Very few children are lost doe to diarrhoea today. This is great but we still have very poor results treating the every-day, run of the mill case. Our treatment agents such as Paregoric, Blackberry Cordial, Scraped apple, Chalk preparations like Kaopectate, Parpectalin, etc., are poor at best. Even Lamotil, which is fairly good with adults but disappointing with children.

In the simple cases of diarrhoea nature runs its own course. The child won't eat so get small amounts of compatible fluids, avoiding fruit juices and fruits [bananas are OK], Lollipops and salt crackers are useful.

You never realize how great it is to be in normal health until systems like the G-I tract kick up. What a time for thanks and blessings when we return to normal. How quickly we forget and start our dietary abuse and stupid habits like smoking and booze to again abuse our internal systems. We forget fast.

Did you ever realize how clever nature is in causing ulcers, colitis, cramps etc., to jolt us into modified existence - even to say us.

The Quincy and North Quincy track teams will be well represented in the state class meets Saturday at White Stadium.

Quincy, in Class A, and North, in Class B, will be trying to qualify for the state championships on June 7, also at White Stadium, which pits the best of the East against the best of the West.

All those competing in Saturday's class meets had to meet certain minimum requirements in their events to qualify.

Quincy coach Tom Hall will have Ken Prouty in the low hurdles and long jump, Kevin Luggelle, triple jump and low hurdles; Charlie Potter, half-mile; John Hacunda, half-mile; Richie Hynes, 220; Pete Laing, two-mile; Larry Finneran, 100; Joe Goguen, long jump, and Pat Grimes, mile. Hall will also enter a relay team of Finneran, Prouty, Luggelle and John Bonfiglioli.

"I think several of the boys can make excellent showings and have a good chance of making the state championships," Hall said. "I look for Luggelle, in particular, to stand out in the triple jump, a new event this year."

North Quincy, which was second in the Suburban League this year with a 4-1 record [Quincy was 3-2 in the league], has a large number competing Saturday.

They include Joe Lane, 100; Paul Affsa, 220 and long jump; Roger Conboy, 440 and javelin; Steve Poore, half-mile; Pat McCormack, two-mile; Steve Dieso and Art McIver, discus; Don Polvere, javelin and low hurdles; John Panarelli, only a sophomore, shot put; Lou Trubiano, low hurdles; and Randy Cahill, long jump. North's relay team of Trubiano, Don Meyer, Lane and Affsa also is entered.

"We should do all right and I think Conboy and Polvere both will do very well in the javelin," said Coach Ralph Frazier. Conboy holds North's record of over 199 feet while Polvere bettered 180 feet to upset his teammate in the final meet against Weymouth.

Quincy last week nipped Milton Academy, 66-65, to end its dual meet season with an overall 4-3 mark. It was a hectic meet for Hall, with Grimes winning the mile but being disqualified, Luggelle handicapped by a foot injury, and other boys missing.

Finneran was a triple winner, taking the 100, 220 and long jump. Laing won the two-mile, Luggelle led a sweep of the high jump, followed by Bob Walker and Dave Esau, Timo Pakkala and Charlie Cooper were 1-2 in the pole vault, each going 10-3 but Pakkala having fewer misses, Bob Slowe won the discus and won the meet for Quincy with a needed second in the javelin.

"We needed a second to win it and he threw it 20 feet further than his previous best," Hall said. "It was a real pressure performance."

Giachetti Adds More Laurels

North Quincy's Rich Giachetti has been named the year's Most Outstanding Athlete at Tufts University, although only a junior.

Giachetti was a first team All-East split end last football season and is a leading batter and pitcher for the Jumbos this spring.

Rich led Tufts to its first winning football season in six years last fall and is co-captain-elect of the 1969 club. He has led all Eastern college pass receivers for two years and his total of 103 receptions is only 18 short of the New England record.

He holds several records at Tufts including 55 receptions for a season and 103 for his career, 141 yards gained by receptions in a game, 648 for a season, 1142 for his career. And he has another year to improve on them!

He was also named to the All-New England first team last fall.

The question is, what will he do for an encore next year?

Boosters Club To Present 80 Awards

More than 80 awards will be presented to scholar-athletes Monday night when the North Quincy Boosters Club holds its 11th annual all-sports award night at the High School. A buffet supper will be served at 6:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria. Later, awards will be presented in the auditorium.

Members of all sports teams and of the school band have been invited, as well as school department officials.

The more than 80 trophies will be awarded to senior boys and certificates will be presented to junior and sophomore lettermen.

The feature presentations will be the Peter Zoia, Jr. memorial scholarship award and the Walter 'Cap' Bryan memorial scholarship award to the school's outstanding athlete.

Mr. Charles Munson is general chairman of the program.

Nancy Detwiler 'Prof.'

Mrs. Nancy Detwiler, physical education instructor and girls' coach for the past seven years at Norwell High School, has accepted an assistant professorship in physical education at Eastern Nazarene College.

Mrs. Detwiler, a resident of Quincy who at various times coached girls' basketball, field hockey and softball at Norwell, submitted her resignation at a recent school committee meeting.

Presidents In 3-Way Runner-Up Spot Tie

A week ago Quincy's baseball team appeared completely out of the running for second place in the Greater Boston League and an Eastern Mass. tourney berth when it was shocked by North Quincy, 5-0, in its final regularly scheduled game.

However, at press time the Presidents, who finished in a three-way tie for second, had won the opener of a three-sided playoff, topping Medford, 8-4, Tuesday and yesterday faced Malden at Adams Field. A win would put Quincy into the tournament against Boston English Saturday at English's home field.

The big factor in putting Quincy into the tie for second was a surprising 7-5 win by Chelsea over Medford last Frigay. Thus, Quincy, Medford and Malden wound up with 9-5 records.

"Whoever expected Chelsea to knock them off?" asked Quincy coach Bob Basiliere. "I honestly thought our last chance was gone when North Quincy beat us. It just proves what can happen in schoolboy ball."

Quincy pounded out 13 hits in Tuesday's playoff game against Medford, while Paul Duff handcuffed the Mustangs until the eighth when two solid hits, one a triple, and a walk gave Medford three runs.

Duff allowed seven hits, struck out 11 gave only two walks. Medford's first run in the opening inning scored on a misjudged fly which went for a run - scoring double.

Leading, 6-1, Quincy added two insurance runs in the seventh on a bunt "home run" by Leo Sullivan. By the time Medford was through throwing the ball around, both Sullivan and Duff, the runner on first, had scored.

Kevin Ryan had a double and two singles, Duff three singles and Bruce Carlson two singles to spark the Presidents' attack.

"The boys hit well but it was the pitching and defense which put us in," Basiliere said. "Duff was outstanding and the team did a fine job on defense."

In what looked like the fatal loss to North Quincy last week, Quincy had just one hit off the Raiders' Frank Costa, a leadoff single by Steve Carrera.

Raiders Finish 8-9

Bunker Disappointed But Sees Brighter Season In 1970

Last Thanksgiving Quincy's football team knocked North Quincy out of the Greater Boston League championship with a 21-8 victory.

Last week the Raiders' baseball team got even for that defeat by shocking Quincy, 5-0, to apparently knock the Presidents out of the running for the second place in the GBL and an Eastern Mass. tourney berth.

However, despite that stunning loss, Quincy managed to wind up in a three-way tie for second place thanks to a surprising win by Chelsea over Medford.

North tried hard to finish up on the right foot Saturday but dropped a 9-4 decision to Medford at Adams Field

North trailed by only a 4-3 count until Medford scored three times in the sixth. North had some good scoring chances and in the eighth left three men on base after scoring its fourth run.

North finished under new coach Charlie Bunker with a 5-9 league record and an 8-9 overall mark.

"I was a little disappointed at our record but we did play some good games," Bunker said. We should do better next year, especially if we get some pitching.

"It certainly pleased me to defeat Quincy and I'm sorry we couldn't have wound up with a win over Medford. We broke even in our last four games and played some fine ball."

He also tripled home two runs in a three-run ninth inning and scored the final run on John Murray's single. Costa also had a single, Steve Busin had a triple, Bobby Pastor and Murray two hits each.

The following day North lost to league champion Somerville, 9-4, a three-run homer by Joe Mackey clinching it.

North's junior varsity, under coach Jack Bowes, had a good season with an 8-4 record and Bunker expects big things from some of the jayvees next year. Among those coming up will be Jack Flaherty, who had an amazing .520 batting average this year.

'Camp Camelot' Heading For Hanover

'Camelot' is going to Hanover this summer.

Not the famed stage play or movie but a day camp for boys and girls from 4 to 14 operated by Quincy High's hockey coach and physical education instructo Bob Sylvia.

The camp, which will run from June 23 through Aug. 22 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Mondays through Fridays, will be staffed by an experienced group, most of them from Quincy.

"We will have all types of regular camp activities including arts and crafts, educational trips, etc., "Sylvia said. "But we will stress three major projects."

These will be swimming events in the camp's 20 foot by 40 foot pool, horseback riding with five horses, two rings and a quarter-mile of trails, and ice hockey one day a week at Weymouth Skating Club.

Naturally, ice hockey is one of Sylvia's pet projects. He will be assisted by three of his high school stars, Tapio Juvenon, Chuck Peterson and Steve Cedrone, as well as Ed Dalton of the Skating Club.

Jack Scanlan will be waterfront director, Mrs. Francis Bellefielle of Silver Lake High faculty will direct the horseback riding program, being experienced in this field; Merrie Rogers of Quincy will handle arts and crafts, Miss Jackie Clark and Sylvia's brother, Jim, will be counsellors and Ellen Walsh of Cohasset will be camp nurse.

"Educational trips will be a highlight of our program," Bob said. "It is surprising how many youngsters have never seen such historic sites as Plymouth Rock, Bunker Hill Monument, Old Ironsides and others.

"Boys and girls are under much pressure in school and this camp will give them a chance to relax, enjoy summer activities and just have a good time."

'Camelot' is situated on Centre street, off Route 139 in Hanover. Transportation will be provided for all who attend.

Jimmy Gardner To Be Honored Sunday

A social will start at 4:30 p.m., followed by dinner at 6:30.

Gardner, whose career as boxer, manager and trainer, spanned more than a half-century, is still one of the ring's most enthusiastic boosters.

A retired member of the Quincy Water Department, he for many years voluntarily assisted in supervising activities for the Quincy Police Boys' Club and for other young people's groups.

Tickets may be obtained from the following committee members:

City Clerk John M. Gillis, Patrolman Guido Pettinelli, Police Sgt. Edward Kusser, Sammy Garcia, Ring Larson, Henry McNeil, Fred Peece, Dick Collins, William Maver and George E. MacPherson, executive secretary Local 5 Shipbuilders Union, 480 Quincy Ave., Quincy.

Montclair Couples Set Sail For Caribbean

Nineteen couples will depart from Quincy Saturday morning on a seven-day ocean voyage to Carribean ports of call.

The group will leave by bus for New York to begin the trip for the Montclair Men's Club couples. They will leave from New York aboard the "Oceanic" at 4 p.m.

The trip will include stops at Nassau and Freeport. The travelers will return to Quincy on June 7.

Kevin Horrigan Ordained To Catholic Diaconate

Rev. Mr. Kevin P. Horrigan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice R. Horrigan, Sr., of 48 South St., Quincy Point, was ordained to the Diaconate at St. Mary's Church, Dedham May 20.

Rev. Mr. Horrigan's father is a 45-year employee of the Quincy Highway Department. Mrs. Horrigan is the former Mary E. Walker of Braintree.

Rev. Mr. Horrigan attended St. John's grammar school, Quincy, Archbishop Williams, Boston College School of Economics.

He was a recipient of the Altare Dei medal in Boy Scouts.

Rev. Horrigan entered the Army as a Second Lieutenant and was a graduate of Airborne School and Ranger School. In January, 1963 he went to Germany, and left the Army as a first lieutenant two years later.

He studied at St. Philip Neri School in Boston and entered St. John's Seminary in 1966.

Until his ordination in 1970, Rev. Mr. Horrigan will be assigned to St. Augustine's Church, in South Boston.

Sacred Heart Brotherhood Exhibit At N.Q. Library

Prize winning posters and theme on Brotherhood by pupils at Sacred Heart School are on exhibit through Satuday at the North Quincy branch of the Thomas Crane Public Library.

The exhibit is in observance of Brotherhood Week designated by the Interracial Counce of Sacred Heart parish.

Council Chairman John W. Kane said the week observance and display is "for the purpose of stimulating in the children, their parents and all the residents of the city of Quincy an awareness of the needs of people who by birth or choice find themselves 'different' from the majority and to encourage greater consideration for them."

Mr. Kane said that persons interested in joining the Council or forming one of their own may obtain details by calling him at 773-5252 or Mr. Stokinger at 479-9053.

Police Pay Tribute To Deceased Members Sunday

The Quincy Police Relief Association will pay tribute to deceased members, will conduct the Police Memorial Exercises on Sunday at 8:45 a.m. A parade, participated in by all police department members, representatives, councilors, Mayor James R. McIntyre, and the Milton Legion Post band, will begin at the Quincy Court House and will proceed to the police monument at Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

Rev. Edward Sullivan, pastor of the Star of the Sea Church, will give the invocation. Mayor McIntyre will offer the greetings of the City, and Police Chief Francis X. Finn will address the gathering on behalf of the Quincy Police Department.

Keynote speaker will be Francis X. Bellotti, former Lieutenant governor.

Lt. John Flaherty, vice president of the association, will place a wreath at the monument site. Rev. Chester Porteus, rector at Christ Church, will give the benediction.

Following taps and the national anthem, secretary Robert Quintiliani will call the role of all those police officers who have died over the past five years.

Following the exercises, refreshments will be served at the George F. Bryant V.F.W. Post. The public is also invited to inspect the recent renovations at an Open House at police headquarters.

Come, Let Us Reason Together

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

We Gave Them Everything

One of my counselees recently clipped for me a cartoon with the caption, "I can't understand kids today. . .we gave them everything." The words came from a big fat man entitled "U. S. Affluence." All around him were the signs of what "we have given them". ..Vietnam War. . .Poverty, USA. . .drugs. . .air and water pollution. . .9 million alcoholics.

We wonder why the kids rebel. . .demonstrate against our obsolete standards and values. They cannot understand why it is more important to go to the moon than to solve our poverty problem on earth. . .why war in Southeast Asia which has killed 35,000 of their number is to be preferred to spending that money to find cures for cancer. . .arthritis. . .heart disease. . .multiple sclerosis. . .mental and other human sickness. They come to my offices asking for answers to these questions. I can't honestly tell them why. Can you? The contradictions in what we claim to be and what we are seem to them inexplicable.

College students are asking why it is more important to have teachers doing research. . .acting as consultants to corporations. . .publishing. . .rather than having sufficient time to work with students. I don't know why. Do you? They ask why the colleges should be perpetuating our military philosophy through R.O.T.C. and huge government grants for military research. Do you have an answer? I don't. It seems to them to be very contradictory for us to talk of democracy and peace. . . yet spend half our national budget on present and past wars. I'm having trouble to explain why.

Since we adults have not listened to our young people. . .since we give them no voice in decisions affecting them. . .since we have remained silent when they ask why. . .they are now rebelling. . .they are resentful of our values and systems. . . they throw things. . .break things. . .they act "ugly". . .and still we cannot hear what they are saying. They are disenchanted with us adults. Yes. . ."we gave them everything". . .affluency. . .destruction. . .contradiction. What we failed to give them was real meanings for life.

Maybe the one thing we did give them. . .how to THINK. This was a dangerous gift that we gave. To be able to think. . .that's what education is all about. . . not the amassing of facts. Thinking as a threatening thing to our archaic sets of values. Because when you think, you question. . .you ask why?. . .evaluate values . . .analyze situations. . .look dubiously at existing conditions. Then you draw conclusions which call for new decisions. . .and those new decisions can topple the established order of things. . .even the philosophies of affluency. . .destruction . . .confusing contradictions of our institutions. We have not learned to listen to each other. Parents won't listen to their kids. Colleges won't listen to student. Churches won't listen to human needs. Political Parties won't listen to the peole. Husbands won't listen to wives. Wives won't listen to husbands. So we've lost respect for each other. We're out of touch with each other. So we make demands upon each other. . .bring down out obsolete and rigid rules upon each other. . .resist each other's feelings. It might be that X this very thing is happening in our own home. . .it is in your nation.

There is a better way. . .it's a way called LOVE. A long time ago a man ahead of his times said, "A new commandment I give you that you love one another." We haven't listened to Him either. His name is Jesus.

QHS Latin Students Attend Convention

Thirty-six Quincy High School Latin students, accompanied by faculty sponsors Mrs. Katherine Myatt and Mrs. Nancy Christian attended the State Convention of the Junior Classical League in Needham on Saturday.

The highlight of the day was the chariot race. Quincy High's chariot was driven by Charioteer Donald Shaw, and was pulled by four fillies - Nancy Herlihy, Mary Foley, Jane LaFavre, and Pat McCormack. The chariot was constructed by the auto body classes at the Quincy Vocational Technical School under the direction of Charles Magnarelli.

Quincy High representatives participating in the academic contests were Darlene D'Olimpio and Carl Hoffman. Dennis Waters in the attire of a Roman soldier, entered the competition for the best dressed Roman, while Heather Beattie competed in the Queen of Mount Olympus contest.

The Olympics were also a feature of the day's activities. Winning Quincy participants in the athletic competitions were James Bucchineri, Dennis Waters, Mary Foley, Jane LaFavre, Ellen McNally, Nancy Herlihy, Fred Antoon and Kevin Johndrow. The enthusiasm and participation of Quincy High and of many other Massachusetts schools supported the QHS motto and assertion that "Latin lives everywhere."

Masters, Lecturers Programs Scheduled

The Blue Hills Masters and Lecturers Association met recently at the home of the president, Robert G. Berry, 50 Hillside Ave., East Braintree. After the meeting, a musical program was presented by soloists Joseph Ramsay and Robert G. Berry, and by pianist Mrs. Elva Robbins. Buffet refreshments were served by the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Berry.

The annual banquet of the association will be held this evening [Thursday] at 6:30 at "The Tamarak" in Lakeville.

The association's choral group will entertain at the John Scott Nursing Home in Brockton on Sunday, June 29.

The next meeting will be held on June 16 at 8 p.m. at the home of John Zampine, 18 Tremont St., Braintree. At this meeting, officers will be elected.

Richard J. Butler, Jr., 28, of 61 Bromfield St., Quincy, a graduate of Quincy Trade School, is a contestant in the First Annual Massachusetts Apprentice Carpenters Contest on June 13 and 14, in Framingham.

Butler is one of 12 apprentices who will contend for honors in the Massachusetts National Guard Armory, Concord Street, Framingham on Friday from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Saturday, all contestants will be given a four-hour written examination during the day, and at night an awards dinner will be held, at which the winners will receive their prizes.

Butler, indentured to the Boston Shop and Mill Joint Apprentice-ship Council, is employed by Rand and Company of 300 C Street, South Boston. He is studying at Boston Trade School.

Of the twelve contestants, five will be "shop men" or cabinet makers, and the other seven will be carpenters.

The event is sponsored by the Associated General Contractors, Inc., Massachusetts Chapter; the Building Trades Employers' Association of Boston and Eastern Massachusetts, Inc.; and the Massachusetts State Council of Carpenters, with the assistance of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, Apprenticeship and Training Department, Washington, D.C., and their First General Vice President, Finlay G. Allen as director, with Leo Gable as technical director.

Also cooperating in this contest are the U. S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Apprenticeship and Training in Boston; and the Massachusetts Division of Apprenticeship Training in Boston.

Quincy Co-op Names Three Directors

Heslip E. Sutherland, president of The Quincy Co-operative Bank, has announced the election of three new directors by shareholders.

Elected were:

Francis j. Mitchell, assistant treasurer and comptroller of Old Colony Crushed Stone Company, Quincy; Forrest I. Neal, Jr., president of Old Colony Launderers and Cleansers, Quincy, and director of the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority, and John J. Sullivan, formerly executive director of the United Fund of Quincy and now president of the J. J. Realty Company.

Mitchell and Neal are Hanover residents and Sullivan lives in Milton.

Reports made at the annual meeting showed that the combined assets of the bank's main office in Quincy and branch office in Hanover now exceed $70 million.

The Quincy Co-operative Bank is the third largest co-operative bank in Massachusetts and the largest outside Boston.

Miss Foster Honored For 40 Years Service As Quincy Teacher

Miss Lena M. Foster, who retires in June after a 40-year teaching career in the Quincy school system, was honored by the Snug Harbor PTA at its final meeting of the school year.

Miss Foster has been at the Snug Harbor School since it opened in 1952 and was one of the original teachers in the Quincy kindergarten program initiated in 1954.

Also honored by the PTA was Principal Wilfred A. Nolan who will assume new duties as elementary co-ordinator for the Quincy public schools. Miss Foster was presented a nuatical lamp, symbolic of the Snug Harbor area, for her home in Gloucester, and Mr. Nolan a gold pen and pencil set for this three years of service at Snug Harbor. The presentations were made by Mrs. John Flynn, PTA president.

Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, school superintendent, cited Miss Foster's untiring faithfulness and devotion to her profession and to the children of Quincy.

Inter-Agency Meeting June 6

The annual meeting of the Inter-Agency Council of the South Shore will be held June 6 at 12:15 p.m. at Hugo Kimball's Lighthouse, Cohasset.

Keynote speaker will be Lloyd Randolph, Chief of Field Operations for the Commission Against Discrimination. His subject will be, "The Minorities: Implications for the South Shore."

Florabel Stevens, agency president, will conduct a brief business meeting at which changes in by-laws will be voted on.

Deadline for reservations is May 30. They may be made through Carter Caudle, Headquarters Guidance Staff, Quincy Public Schools, Quincy.

Manpower Grant At Shipyard

Cong. James A. Burke and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy have announced that the Department of Labor, Manpower Administration has allocated $109,685. to the General Dynamics Corporation, Quincy, under the provisions of the Manpower Development and Training Act.

The contract provides for 118 trainees, over a 17 to 44 week period, who will train as inside machinist, loftsman, shipfitter, welder, carpenter, painter, electrician, outside machinist, pipe fitter, sheet metal worker, draftsman.

Health Course

The Quincy Vocational-Technical High School will offer to 10 to 15 seniors a new course directed toward occupation in the health field. The students will have the opportunity to develop understandings and beginning skills for employment in entering levels of health work.

Quincy City Hospital and two area nursing homes will cooperate to provide clinical practice experiences for the students.

Applications are being accepted in school guidance departments

A WIDE VARIETY of greeting cards, office supplies, and school materials are provided at Mr. and Mrs. Israel Sweig's North Quincy card shop. Billings Card Shop offers the friendly touch, a fact to which the happy customer will surely attest.

'Shop Sentiment' At Billings Card Shop

As Mr. and Mrs. Israel Sweig, proprietors of Billings Card Shop, 50 Billings Rd., North Quincy, would say, "A little sentiment never hurt anyone." And it appears that the loyal customers of the card shop would vigorously agree.

The Sweigs have been in the card business at their present location for over 21 years, and long with their employee of 20 years, Mrs. Ruby Wright, they offer to area residents a wide variety of greeting cards.

Billings Card Shop is a friendly store. The Sweigs pride themselves on owning and running a shop which attempts to add that personal touch. So often in business the shopper is alienated from the seller; such is not the case with Billings Card Shop. The Sweigs provide the "neighborhood store" atmosphere in a business which itself is oriented to friendship and intimacy.

Cards are sold ranging in price from five cents to $15. While the number of five cent cards on sale has diminished over the years and although, because of economics, prices have risen proportionately, the sending of cards has become more popular. Over the years, people have realized that through cards they can express their thoughts and emotions most accurately and clearly.

All types of cards are sold at the shop. The Sweigs have observed that cards have become more attractive and prettier, and have more and more employed humor, although the owners refrain from selling the rough humor one often comes across.

Billings Card Shop also offers a complete line of school supplies and a fine selection of office materials. The store also has catalogues of wedding invitations of high quality which may be ordered.

Customers from Quincy, Braintree, Weymouth, Norwell, Milton Dorchester and other areas have become aware of the fine quality which Billings Card Shop offer provides. They have found that sentiment "never did hurt anyone" and have continued to involve themselves in expressions of endearment and friendship with cards from the Sweigs.

And well he should be. Quincy's just announced the longest and best ever contract for its shipyard workers. Solly likes it. It's for five years. Calls for an immediate 20-cent an hour raise, with automatic increases over the life of the contract. He likes the added benefits, too. For instance, starting in 1970, the company pays the full cost of group insurance.

Solly is happy, too, for other reasons. As a Quincy shipfitter, he knows he is working at the top of his trade. In a yard where working conditions and equipment are constantly being improved.

How about you? Are smiles hard to come by in your present job? Why not look into Quincy? Immediate openings for:

Community Action Dinner Program

The first dinner meeting of the Quincy Community Action program will be held Monday, June 9 at 6:30 p.m. at the Quincy Point Congregational Church.

Program progress reports will be delivered on the project which is now in its third year of operation. The program operates under and annual $69,000 federal grant.

Reports will be submitted by program president Earle MacLeod Past and presnet members of the board of directors have been invited to attend the dinner meeting.

Complex Gets Go-Ahead

The facility will be expanded to 210,000 square feet over a five-year building program. Estimated cost of each building phase is $2 million representing a total $6 million cost.

The new complex will enable Hazeltine to expand its ASW capabilities which includes airborne, surface ship, submarine and surveillance sonar and underwater acoustics development.

Hazeltine's decision to locate in Quincy has been hailed by Mayor James R. McIntyre and other city officials and William A. O'Connell executive vice-president of the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce as a tremendous aid to the economy of the city and the South Shore area.

Moon Team Back In Q.Point

Charlesmount Ave. The capsule--designed and built by the boys--used the Polley yard as a "launch pad".

"Both boys are very space minded," notes Mrs. King. "They spent much of their time in the capsule reading space magazines and listening to the radio."

The capsule itself measured 4 ft. by 6 ft. and was about 5 ft. high. The idea grew out of an eighth grade science project.

Like their real-life Apollo 10 heroes, the youngsters experienced some discomfort. The capsule temperature hit about 96 degrees.

And like the Stafford, Cernan and Young mothers, and mothers everywhere, Mrs. King and Mrs. Polley could hardly wait for the end of the backyard journey to the planets.

"We had a turkey dinner waiting for them when they came out," Mrs. King said. It proved a welcome meal for the pair of astronauts.

Now that they are back to "earth," other problems must be faced by the astronauts which may spell the last mile for the Quiny Point moon capsule, "The United States."

Mr. and Mrs. Polley need the space fo the family swimming pool.

Paul Kelly To Be Honored June 19

Friends will honor School Committeeman Paul C. Kelly at a dance and reception June 19.

The event will be from 8 p.m. to midnight at Morrisette Legion Post, West Quincy.

William Blake is committee chairman.

Students To Lead 30-Mile Anti-Poverty Walk

Quincy students are busy preparing for a 30-mile "Walk for Development" on June 8 to raise money for the fight against poverty at home and abroad.

The project, sponsored by the American Freedom From Hunger Foundation, is patterned after similar 'walks' already heald in more than a dozen U. S. cities.

Under the leadership of co-directors William West of North Quincy High School and John Rodman of Quincy High School, Quincy students are designing "Foot Power" posters and buttons, planning the course through Quincy streets, and attending to the many details involved in a community-wide effort.

The "Walkers" will be volunteers, concerned citizens of all ages, who will be paid by sponsors for each mile they walk of the pre-determined 30-mile route. Sponsors may be individuals, stores, schools, or business firms.

Checkpoints along the course will verify how far each participant has walked, and will also provide refreshment for "body and sole."

Past walks have attracted as many as 20,000 participants, each of whom may have 10 or more sponsors. Funds raised by the walk will help sponsor an agricultural training program in Liberia and a domestic self-help program in Quincy.

The project has received the endorsement of the Quincy School Committee, Mayor James R McIntyre, and Police Chief Francis X. Finn.

Interested citizens may obtain more information by writing to the Quincy Walk For Development, c/o the JFK Memorial Health Center, 1120 Hancock St., Quincy, or by calling 479-4500 between 3 and 9 p.m. Monday thru Friday.

Mayor Seeks Funds For New 'Code' Project

Mayor James R. McIntyre will seek more federal funds for a second Neighborhood Improvement-Code Enforcement program.

The Mayor said last night he hopes to get approval for a project "similar in scope" to the North Quincy Improvement Area Program for which the city received $1.8 million in federal money.

"We have several community areas under consideration for the second program," McIntyre declared. He declined to pinpoint them at the present time.

He said he will also seek final approval of an application for a second $71,000 federally financed Urban Beautification Program.

McIntyre will discuss the planned programs with officials of the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development while in Washington, D.C. next Mon-

Early Diploma Honors Plucky Quincy Student

Graduating with "special honors" at a bedside ceremony at Robert Bent Brigham Hospital this afternoon [Thursday] will be Jane Louise Mc Auliffe.

The distinction of receiving a diploma ahead of her classmates will come as a real surprise to Jane, who has been seriously disabled from the age of 14 by rheumatoid arthritis.

Battling for the diploma has been an uphill struggle for the youngster who has been hospitalized three-quarters of the time since her freshman year.

Keeping up with her studies despite her diability and surgery has required tutoring both at home and in the hospital. The determined youngster, daughter of Mrs. Nina McAuliffe, 16 Clarendon St., is praised as a "good student" by her counsellors and teachers.

Jane was attending classes on crutches until she suffered another stroke of bad luck and sustained a fractured leg in an automobile accident, three weeks ago.

At the time, she was recovering from an operation on her hand forced by the crippling arthritis, which hits both young and old alike.

But Jane will have a deluxe graduation ceremony of her own that will begin at 3:30 p.m. and include:

Diploma presentation and best wishes from Mayor James R. McIntyre and high school principal Lloyd Creighton.

City 'Slumlord' Target Of Strict Marshall Ordinance

Ward 2 Councilman Clifford H. Marshall introduced an order enforcing strict penalties against property owners failing to take prompt action on clearing condemned buildings.

Marshall was one of hundreds of witnesses at the three-alarm fire which razed a condemned three-story wooden structure Monday night at 565 Washington St.

The building, previous trouble spot for firemen, had been condemned and was scheduled for demolition. A serious and more widespread fire involving nearby businesses and home was averted by prompt firefighter action in speeding extra equipment to the scene and bringing the whipping flames under control.

Marshall said the building represented a hazard and criticized delays in its removal.

His criticism was turned into action a few hours later with his City Council proposal to penalize property owners who fail to comply with condemnation orders.

Under Marshall's order:

A $1,000 fine would be imposed on property owners who allow their property to deteriorate to standards unfit for human occupancy.

Property owners would be given 30 days to remove or suitably repair the building in order to obtain a building

Six Toss Hats Into City Election Ring

Six candidates have already obtaines nomination papers for the city preliminary election Oct. 7.

Five of the six are seeking City Council seats and one a School Committee seat. The six are:

Louis J. Caruso, 83 Water St., Fred J. Prezioso, 34 Roberts St., Richard W. Corner, 70 Hillsboro St., candidates for City Council, Ward 3.

James F. Harrington, 136 Safford St., candidate for School Committee.

City Clerk John M. Gillis said the deadline for filing nomination papers is 5 p.m., Sept. 9.

Registration deadline to vote in the preliminary election is Sept. 17, he said.

Unregistered voters may register Mondays through Fridays at the City Hall Election Department. Special evening registration sessions will be announced later, Gillis said.

The final city election will be held Nov. 4.

SUPER SERVICE--Mrs. Z. Cranston Smith [right] was cited for 10,000 hours of volunteer service to Quincy City Hospital at luncheon. Congratulations are extended by Miss Emma Hassan, Director of Volunteers, and Miss Constance Lundy, Assistant Director of Quincy Hospital.

On Beacon Hill

By Rep. Joseph E. Brett

Should 19 and 20 year olders be allowed to vote? That is the question to be faced next year by Massachusetts citizens as they vote on a constitutional amendment which will lower the voting age from 21 years to 19, if adopted.

Admittedly, the figure of 21 is arbitrary, despite the fact that is the age handed down from old English common law as the time when youth erupts into manhood. All during the years of America's colonization, the minimum age of 21 for voting prevailed and, in 1780, Article Three of the Constitution established 21 as the minimum age for voting privileges and there it has remained until this day.

While it is admitted that the figure 21 is arbitrary, so also would be 18, 19, 20, or any other figure that might be chosen. The line has to be drawn somewhere and custom has determined that 21 is a reasonable compromise. Certainly, some of our youths under 21 are just as well equipped mentally and emotionally for the voting privilege as some adults of 21 and older. Nearly all can agree that age alone is no criteria of ability or knowledge necessary to vote intelligently. But, here again, we are faced with the perplexing problem of where to draw the line.

One of the foremost arguments put forth by proponents of lowering the voting age is, "If they are old enough to fight, they are old enough to vote". While this line of reasoning strikes an emotional chord within us, particularly in times of national emergencies, as at present, opponents counter with the challenge that there is no analogy between establishing a voting age and that of engaging in military service.

In military service, one is subject to obeying the orders and following the commands of his superiors, while, in private life, a voter must exercise his own freedom of choice and make his own decisions.

On another tack, proponents of a lowered voting age point out that, by and large, the youth of today is better educated than his counterpart of some years ago. Therefore, they maintain he should be deemed capable of voting intelligently.

Opponents respond to this argument by contending that, in addition to school book education, one must have had a certain amount of practical experience in the art of living, working, earning a livelihood, and participating in the many other facets of life which adorn one with the maturity needed to cast an intelligent ballot.

These are some of the arguments on both sides of this question. Perhaps the reader has some more of his own. Put them all together and prepare yourself to vote on the issue in the next state election in November, 1970.

Marshall Seeks 'Slumlord' Law

occupancy permit.

Marshall said that he has conferred with both the Building and Fire departments concerning "a number of dilapidated properties in the city that are blighting areas around them.

Rep.-Councillor Marshall termed the run-down buildings "a tempting hangout for vandals and a threat to the safety of youngsters."

He urged a step-up in ordinance control while noting that the Building Dept. was "doing everything possible to supervise and regulate the properties." He pointed out that they were handicapped by a lack of sufficient staff to cope with the situation and noted that despite this building officials are doing a good job on remodeling structures that require repair.

"The landlord, particularly the absentee landlord, has an obligation to tenants, the neighborhood and to the city to maintain acceptable standards of appearance and safety," Marshall declared. He commented that many property owners were acting extremely conscientiously on their own in maintenance and upkeep.

"But many others will require the enforcement of stricter ordinances to accomplish the elimination of blight." he said.

They can get tangled up in the brake and accelerator pedals of the car, he says. Also, the heels of women's shoes can also catch in the wide cuffs of the trousers.

If you girls still insist on wearing them while driving, Wallwork has this suggestion:

Solemn Moments For Students

Upland Road Taking Urged

At a directors meeting Tuesday night, a resolution urging the expediting of Upland Rd. landtaking, was passed by the Quincy Taxpayers Association.

The resolution stressed the difficulty involved for 22 families who must make plans for their future, according to the QTA.

Also discussed were landtaking proposals involved in the Mechanic St. parking area and the proposed new courthouse site.

Committees were formed on these proposals, according to a taxpayers spokesman, and immediate action will be taken to block any unnecessary expenditures and additions to the tax rate.

"The Association recognizes the need for the city to grow, however, we want the city to exercise good judgement in its final decisions," the taxpayers statement noted.

MRS. PHILIP GEORGE PETERS JR. [Spillane Studio]

Lorraine Provost Of Quincy Bride Of George Peters, Jr.

The Papal blessing was received by Miss Lorraine Provost, of Quincy, and Philip George Peters Jr., of Randolph at their May 24 wedding at the Church of the Most Blessed Sacrament, Houghs Neck. A reception at the Cyril Morrissette Post, Quincy, followed. The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Provost, 52 Crosby St., was given in marriage by her father.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Peters, Sr., 35 Stacy St., Randolph.

The bride wore a long-sleeved A-line empire gown of white peau de soie with lace appliques on the bodice and neckline. A lace rose held her triple tiered fingertip veil of silk illusion. She carried a cascade of white roses, stephanotis and ivy.

Similarly gowned in orchid and carrying identical bouquets were the bridesmaids Miss Marion Miss Rhonda, and Miss Janice Provost, sisters of the bride.

Paul Ridley of Brockton was best man for his brother-in-law. Ushers were James Peters of Randolph and Elmer Peters Jr. of Brockton, cousins of the bridegroom and John S. Provost, Jr., of Quincy, brother of the bride.

The bride is a graduate of Cardinal Cushing Central High School, South Boston and is employed as a secretary at the Norwood Hospital.

The Bridegroom is a graduate of Randolph High School and the Radio-Electronics Television School in Boston. He served in the army for three years and is employed by the Raytheon Corporation in Lowell.

After a wedding trip to the Poconos, the couple plans to live in Marshfield.

"You're probably wondering why we've called you all together..."

HOUSE CALL

By Dr. Charles Djerf
Pediatrician

The present day story of the Milwaukee soldier who returned from the Orient and was found to have reactivated tuberculosis and gave it innocently to two contacts is sad but true. [Another disease spread similary can be Syphilis].

Back to T.B. Modern Public Health experts allege that this ancient disease, even called "The White Scourge" of Northern Europe, can be eradicated. Using periodic x-rays, tuberculin testing and careful follow-up of cases such as the soldier and patients discharged from care, this can be achieved.

Just take a look at the statistics of our own Norfolk County Sanitorium. The Tuberculosis census fell to the point that several Sanitoria were closed and patients still needing treatment had been transferred to the remaining few kept active. In addition, today, respiratory ailments, without tuberculosis, are being treated at our local "t.b.san", such as Emphysema, Silicosis, Chronic Bronchitis, and I suspect Pulmonary Cancer. Formerly these cases were not admitted to such hospitals.

As a child, living in a rather closely knit Ethnic area, where the major work of people was stone-cutting, tuberculosis was an all-too common recognition. The breadwinner because of his art and devotion to it, knew the hazard. Within ten years, Silicosis was usually pretty well established even though the dyspnoea [difficult breathing] due to scarring of the lungs might not appear until many years later. In the meantime, a latent [lying dormant] tuberculosis condition could become active. Cavities might exist from which the tuberculosis organism could be coughed and transmitted-usually to his family or others intimately exposed.

Knowing of its presence and ignorance of TB, made us live in abject fear of it. Avoidance of persons or families was one of the abortive measures used to keep clear of it.

In my youth signs rarely seen now read "No spitting allowed" When did you last recall seeing such an admonition?

Early training in childhood today, relative to expectoration is most likely not understood to bear reference to the kind of discipline instilled in my generation. The vulgar habit of "hawking" is not a common street experience today. Thank Heavens.

Persistent perseverance and vigil will always be required as a public health pursuit. No Barriers can be let down to support the opinion that TB can be eradicated.

Frequent skin testing in pre-school and older children will detect, in a very high degree, the sensitized child who has or is at present harboring the TB organism. Chest films are indicated and even if they do not demonstrate active inflammation, early treatment may be indicated.

Tuberculous cows were a common source of TB once, but since the pasteurization of milk almost every child with tuberculosis gets it from an adult. Children rarely transmit the disease to other children. Hence every intimate adult contact should be checked. It may be as life-saving to this adult as to the child. Tragically, many of the older persons, perhaps because of fear, will not participate in the attempt to find the source infecting the child.

In most instances involving children whose environment and contacts have been studied treatment can take place at home. The medicine is provided free under the expert observation of our Norfolk County Hospital, the Quincy Health Department, the Visiting Nurses Association and often your doctor.

A wonderful organization to support is the National Tuberculosis Association. For years unheralded, it has carried on the fight to lessen as well as eliminate this disease.

My mother was taken by this illness which today is so adequately treated medically and surgically with much better results. Life is a renewed opportunity with present day treatment and attitudes.

The vigil should be never-ending so as not to return to the bleak days of my childhood-which is still the condition of perhaps three quarters of the world.

Three cheers for our public health officials and our Norfolk County Hospital.

Student Art On Auction Block

The sale included original sculpture, ceramics, graphics, as well as paintings in oil, tempera, watercolor and acrylics. Also featured were large quantities of etchings, woodcuts, engravings, and silkscreen prints.

Proceeds of the sale will be used to purchase an original work of art by an artist of national reputation. The choice of this work will be left to a committee chosen by the students.

Mrs. Bernice Bennett, from the English Department, and Mr. Irving Fletcher, from the Social Studies Department, were guest auctioneers under the direction of Quincy High School Art instructors, Mr. Robert Fariello and Mr. Raymond Brown.

SENIOR CITIZENS NEWS

Young at Heart

By Marion Andrews

Assistant To Executive Director
Quincy Council on Aging

It's picnic time and through the cooperation of the Quincy Council on Aging and the Quincy Park and Recreation Board, two special picnic areas have been set aside for Quincy Senior Citizens to enjoy.

Richard J. Koch, executive secretary of the Quincy Park and Recreation Board, has announced that the areas, located within Faxon Park and Pageant Field, will open this weekend. The area in Faxon Park is located near the park entrance close to rest room facilities. The other area is located in MerrymountPark [Pageant Field] across from the Bowling Green.

Each of the areas will be equipped with picnic tables accommodating 40 people. Attendants have been assigned to both locations from 7 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. daily.

Although the developed areas will be open to individuals as well as organized groups, Mr. Koch suggests that those with larger groups notify his office in the Kennedy Health Center so additional equipment may be made available.

WELCOME HOME, MRS' WOLF

Her many friends are happy to learn that Mrs. William Wolf of 38 Harrington Avenue, has returned home after a 10 day stay at Quincy Hospital. Mrs. Wolf is a very active Quincy Senior Citizen. She is president of the Quincy Federation of Senior Citizens as well as president of the Adult Club of the Quincy Jewish Community Center. The busy lady also finds time to actively participate in many civic and fraternal activities.

INSTALLATION BANQUET

The Rev. Ronald Ober, pastor of the Wollaston Methodist Church, will install the new officers of the Golden Fellowship Club of Wollaston at the annual installation banquet June 10 at the church. Miss Elva Hirtle is in charge of arrangements for the event. Eric Lindgren is club president.

A memorial service was conducted at last week's meeting of the club for six club members who died during the past year. Flowers were placed at the foot of a cross by Mrs. Percy MacLean in memory of each. Miss Hirtle also took part in the service.

GERMANTOWN OPEN HOUSE

An open house luncheon was held by the Senior Citizens Council at the Snug Harbor Community Room recently in observance of Senior Citizens Month. Entertainment was provided by Norman Daily at the piano. Patients at the Friel Nursing Home were among the many guests.

In charge of arrangements for the event were: Mrs. Ann Fandel, Mrs. Margaret Jonah, Mrs. Marion Kinsman, Mrs. Ann Cumming, Mrs. Gladys Lee, Mrs. Alice England, Mrs. Mary Orr, Mrs. Norma Rielly, Matthew Ryan and Robert F. Donovan. Mr. Ryan is president of the group while Mr. Donovan serves as Senior Citizen Coordinator.

County Bar Association Names Slate

James F. Reynolds, Jr., of Quincy was elected vice president at the annual meeting and election conducted by the Norfolk County Bar Association in Dedham last week.

Heading the slate as incoming president was State Sen. David Locke of Wellesley. Other officers named were John P. Concannon of Milton, clerk of courts, treasurer and Philip T. Jones of Weymouth, secretary.

Elected to the Governing

Elected to the Governing Council were Quincy attorneys Paul A. M. Hunt and Leon Rubin.

S.S. Constables Association Names Two As Legal Counsel

Ronald Halter, President of the South Shore Constables Association, announces the appointments of Attys. Jordan S. Zisk and Stephen Weitz as legal counsel for the association.

Halter said the goal of the SSCA is not only to enhance and strengthen the role and profession of the constable, but also to take part in civic service and crime-fighting activities within the South Shore Communities.

Thus it is vital, he noted, that competent counsel be obtained.

Attorneys Zisk and Weitz are well versed in the legal, practical and organizational aspects of the association, he said.

Zisk has served as an investigating attorney for the Massachusetts Crime Commission, counsel for the Committee for the Protection of the Rights of Police Officers, counsel to the Police Athletic League, and was Middlesex County chairman for the March of Dimes two years ago. He was also active with the Jaycees, serving as president in Framingham, and State Governmental Affairs Chairman. He was also president of the Framingham Young Democrats and state treasurer and is presently state legal counsel for that organization.

Weitz was also President of the Framingham Jaycees, and is associated with Attorney Zisk in the practice of Law.

A Season To Remember

Cinderella Team Runs Into Midnight

The final chapter of schoolboy baseball's Story of the Year was written Tuesday when Quincy's Cinderella team bowed to Somerville, 3-1, in the Eastern Mass. tourney quarter finals at Fore River Field.

The loss to their old rival and Greater Boston League champion was a disappointing finale for Bob Basiliere's Presidents but they provided one of the most fantastic baseball stores in years. As Basiliere said, "Thes kids were just amazing and were not disgraced in any game this year. They certainly have nothing to be ashamed of."

Basiliere had been so sure Quincy was out of the running for the GBL runnerup spot and a touney berth following a 5-0 loss to North Quincy in the final regular season game, he collected all the uniforms, put them away, and then went fishing on the Cape.

However, Medford, which apparently had second place wrapped up, lost two of its last three games including a 7-5 shocker to last place Chelsea, putting Quincy, Medford and Malden in a three-way tie for second.

The Presidents topped Medford, 8-4, played Malden to an 18-inning 2-2 tie, defeated Somerville 3-1, in the opening round of the tourney at West Roxbury.

The classy right-hander held English to six hits and one earned run while Cerrera, Bruce Carlson and Rico DiCristofaro paced the attack.

Each had two hits with Carlson and DiCristofaro driving in runs.

"Duff was just too strong for them and did another great job," Basiliere said.

Meanwhile, Somerville staged one of the most amazing comebacks in tourney history to edge City League runnerup Boston Latin, 12-10. After four innings Somerville was down, 10-2.

With Duff pitching nine innings against Medford in the opener of the three-way playoff and McDevitt going the 18-inning route in the 2-2 tie preceding the win over Malden, Basiliere was stuck for a pitcher.

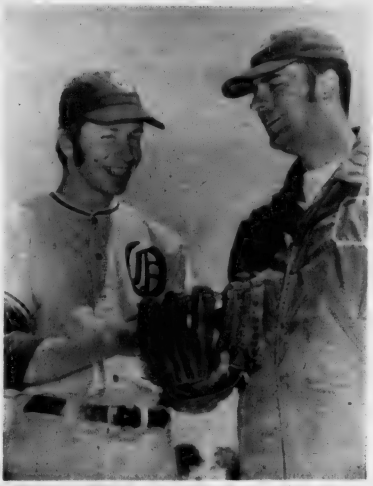
He chose Pettinelli, whose previous pitching this year consisted of two innings against Boston Tech in a non-league game in which he was treated roughly.

But Bobby came through with one of the year's most amazing success stories as he pitched all the way, held Malden to five hits, struck out five and walked only two as the Presidents scored five in the seventh and won, 7-3.

All three Malden runs were unearned as Quincy's infield collapsed in the sixth and three errors and one hit gave Malden three runs and a 3-1 lead.

"This was a real Horatio Alger story," Basiliere said happily. "It was unbelievable. Bobby deserves all the credit in the world. It is not easy to keep a senior's interest up when he is sitting on the bench but Bob is a real competitor and stayed with it and even pitched batting practice for us late in the season. His feat, in my opinion, ranks with the greatest here at Quincy.

Somerville collected seven hits off Quincy ace Steve McDevitt, who ended a standout career with another fine job. Steve fanned three, walked two and retired the last 10 batters.



Quincy received a tough break in the second inning when Ted Meyer, slugging catcher, hit a long fly to left which was dropped and Meyer made it home easily. However, on an appeal play, the umpire ruled he didn't touch third and was called out.

"The boys deserve loads of credit," Basiliere said. "And I want to thank Art Mosher, my assistant and jyavee coach, for his hard work and also our principal, Mr. [Lloyd] Creighton and our superintendent Dr. [Larry] Creedon for their wonderful support."

the Golden Tornado in the replay, 7-3, then upset Boston English, the Boston City League Champ, 4-2, last Saturday in the opening round of the tourney.

Tuesday Quincy was held to two hits, Steve Carrers's home run down the right field line, and a single by Bruce Carlson, by Roy Peterson, Somerville's great all around athlete, who struck out six, walked one and Paul Duff pitched another outstanding game as Quincy upset Boston City League champion Boston English, 4-2, Saturday in the opening round of the tourney at West Roxbury.

QUINCY'S BASEBALL team, Cinderella team of the year, moved into Tuesday's Eastern Mass. tournament as a result of Paul Duff's six hit, 4-2 win over Boston English last Saturday. Here Duff, 8-2 for the season, smiles over the big win with Coach Bob Basiliere.

AAU Meet June 15

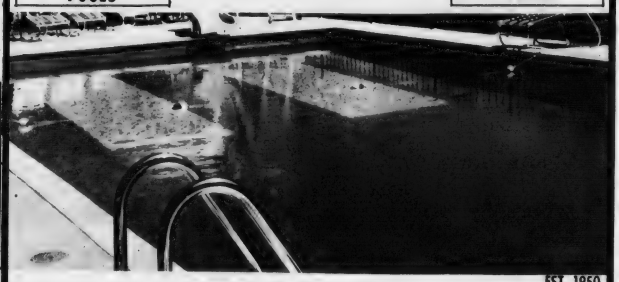
Some of the top trackmen from Quincy and North Quincy are expected to enter the 80th annual New England AAU Senior Track and Field championships [trials for the Russia-England-United States meet in Los Angeles] at Randolph High stadium on Sunday June 15.

The event, for which Joe Zapustas, director of athletics and physical education in the Randolph schools, is director, will be sponsored by the NEAAU and Randolph School Dept.

The weight events will get underway at 1 p.m. and the running events, expected to include several spectacular races, at 2.

Entries close Saturday with NEAAU Chairman Ralph H. Colson, 24 Holmberg Ave., Mattapan, 02126. Entry fee is 50 cents per event and no post entries will be accepted.

All entrants must register with NEAAU secretary Frank Rull, 150 Causeway St., Boston, and bring their NEAAU cards to the meet. Outstanding athletes will compete in late June in the National AAU meet in Miami.



There will be a trophy for the school, college or club winning the most points. NEAAU championship medals will be presented to the top three in every event.

Quincy, North In Track Finals

The Quincy and North Quincy track teams will be well-represented in the state championships Saturday at White Stadium.

In last week's class championships at the same site, the Presidents qualified three in the Class A meet and the Raiders had five qualify in the Class B meet.

Tops among the local qualifiers was North's Roger Conboy, who broke the Class B record in the javelin with a toss of 199 feet, three inches. Teammate Dan Polvere also qualified by finishing third in this event.

The other North Qualifiers are Lou Trubiano, fifth in the low hurdles; Paul Affsa, fifth in the 220, and Joe Lane, fifth in the 100.

Quincy's Kevin Luggelle placed second in the triple jump, a new event this year; Ken Prouty finished second in the long jump and Joe Goguen was fifth in the long jump.

The top five in each event in Classes A, B, C, D and E qualified for the state title meet in which the best of Eastern Mass. face the best from the West. The top four in each event Saturday will qualify for the New England championships on June 14 at Warwick, R.I.

General Dynamics Banquet June 12

More than 500 shipbuilders and their children are expected to hear five of Boston's top sports stars at the June 12 Father-son-daughter sports banquet of the General Dynamics Athletic Club.

Ken Hodge of the Bruins, Don Nelson of the Celtics, Art Graham of the Patriots, Gerry Moses of the Red Sox and Kathy Corrigan, Olympic gymnast, will speak at the annual event, scheduled to start at 7 p.m. at The Surf, Nantasket.

The dinner also will mark the Athletic Club's first presentations of the Monroe D. MacLean Memorial Awards for outstanding sportsmanship. The awards, honoring the late athletic director for Quincy public schools will be given to one junior at both Quincy and North Quincy High Schools.

Heading the list of special guests who will attend is Quincy Mayor James R. McIntyre, announced Athletic Club President Stanley H. Kyller.

Three dozen pieces of autoO graphed sports equipment will be among the door prizes to be awarded to the children.

A limited number of tickets are still available to Athletic Club members at the shipyard ticket office.

Quincy Hoop Team Honored

The Quincy High School varsity basketball team was honored at a dinner at Sherry's Sunday.

The members of the team coaches and manager were presented with jackets and key chains.

Head Coach Marty Finnegan presented The Michael C. Finnegan Memorial Trophy for Outstanding Achievement and the Greater Boston League Most Valuable Player Trophy to Luigi Eleuteri. Robert Pettinelli was awarded the Dr. Joseph Broderick Memorial Trophy for the Most Improved Player.

The Joh Coughlin Memorial Trophy presented in honor of a former Quincy High athlete who was killed in Vietnam was given by his mother to Anthony Sandonato for Outstanding Desire.

Head table guests included Coach and Mrs. Finnegan, Junior Varsity Coach Fran Conroy and Mrs. Conroy, Mrs. Coughlin, and Co-Chairmen Mr. and Mrs. Guido Pettinelli and Mr. and Mrs. Ted DeCristofaro.

North Golf

The Raiders defeated Quincy, 7½-1½, Monday to make their league record 7-0-1. They also defeated Braintree and tied Hingham in non-league matches.

Come, Let Us Reason Together

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

'I Do Not Think Much Of Myself'

Most of us nurse a secret condition which we try very hard to hide...that of self-hate. The person who acknowledges that he hates himself wants to do something about it. But most people feel so insecure that they pretend that they are in a good state of being within themselves. This pretense shows in a number of ways.

Selfishness...defensiveness... conceit...anxiety are signs that a person really doesn't think too much of oneself. Hostility to others, prejudice against persons of other races or colors are often the result, not of facts but of inner hate. The gossip is often suffering from this same condition...and thus seeks to reduce someone else in other minds.

But overt behavior which hurts other people may be better for the self-hater than turning his hatred harshly against himself.If he does this, he will probably deteriorate in many ways. He may become a plodder...cease to develop his gifts and personality. Each day may be begun with dread and after dragging through the routine, fall into bed at night wishing he wouldn't awaken. "What a waste"...we often say when we see a person drying up...not recognizing that because he did not love himself this happened to him. The worst stage, of course, is where the person hates himself so much that he destroys himself...25,000 persons a year...probably many more not so recognized in car and plant accidents.

So much for the condition. What do we do about it? First...recognize what we are doing...hating ourselves. Hate destroys wherever it exists. It kills. If we can understand what has caused this self-hate, this may help to remedy it. Maybe it is repeated failures...unhappy home life...sickness...poor management. If the condition is so bad and the person is so defensive, he may not be able to recognize it in himself. But he will have to want help. "Do-Gooders" often do more harm to the self-hater. But in most of us, we can recognize this condition...see what may be the causes...and probably remedies.

Secondly...know that it is not wrong to love oneself. Somehow the idea has grown up that one pleases God more in self-abasement than in self-esteem. We forget that Jesus has said that we are to love our neighbors as ourselves. I believe that only in the measure that we really love ourselves can we love others truly.

Thirdly...try to find someone who will understand and love you. This may be difficult. But when you see that another loves you and accepts you as you are, you can love yourself by sharing this one's opinion of you. This "someone" isn't always a member of the family, unfortunately. Sometimes it is a friend, a "big brother"...and in our times, more and more professional counselors.

Take an inventory of yourself...see if there are some traces of self-hate... and if so, do something about it. You are entitled to love yourself because God loves you.

Mayor Seeks 'Code' Project

day and Tuesday to participate in a conference of Massachusetts state, municipal and county officials.

The conference, is being co-sponsored by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and Sen. Edward W. Brooke, who said it "will be devoted to a discussion of current national issues, federal programs of assistance to local communities, and ways to strengthen the federal - community partnership for development."

McIntyre will take advantage of the opportunity to make his bid for the federal monies for the two new planned projects.

Several members of President Nixon's cabinet will be conference speakers, including HUD Secretary George W. Romney.

"I hope to feel out HUD officials for a favorable reaction to our plans for a second Neighborhood Improvement Program," McIntyre said.

"If I get a favorable reaction, I will make a formal application for the money as soon as possible. The program I have in mind would be similar in scope to the North Quincy program."

McIntyre said the North Quincy program has "proven acceptable to the community and a success."

The $1.8 million grant approved last year by HUD is the largest sum ever received from the federal government by the city.

Under the three-year program, all homes within the 157-block project area will be inspected and owners notified of deficiencies of the State Sanitary Code. Prevention of deterioration of the area is the program's goal.

Home owners in the area may apply for a federal three per cent loan with three to 20 years to repay to improve their homes.

An extensive public works program is a major part of the project. It includes rebuilding of streets, new sidewalks and curbing, catch basins, upgrading of police and fire alarm systems and planting of trees.

Bids are being sought now for some $360,000 worth of public works improvements in the area.

Under the first $71,000 Urban Beautification Program, improvements were made to historic Hancock Cemetery and various ball fields. Several hundred trees were also planted throughout the city.

The second $71,000 program which has been given preliminary approval by HUD's regional office in New York, would improve Cavanagh field, North Quincy, Pond St. playground, Quincy Point, and other areas. Landscaping of the new Adams Shore Library would also come under the program.

Burke Credits Police For Convictions

Norfolk County Dist. Atty. George G. Burke has credited the conviction of six murderers in 1969 to able investigation "by the local police departments and by the State Police staff."

In a recent report on the status of his office, Atty. Burke noted that two more murder cases are scheduled for June.

Four criminal sessions, the largest number ever scheduled in the Norfolk District Attorney's office, have been scheduled in June.

All misdemeanor cases presently on the docket in Norfolk County Superior Court will be placed before the court for trial in June.

Billings Studio Offers Latest In Color Work

The individual is the preoccupation with Philip Hatch and Leonard Clenott, owners of Billings Studio, 37 Billings Rd., North Quincy.

The photography profession as exemplified by Billings Studio, does not believe in stereotyping the customer. In many studios standard poses are consistently employed but Billings Studio offers ingenuity and creativity to harmonize with the subject.

Billings Studio conducts a large wedding picture business. While the studio does pre-bridal sittings, the greater part of the business is wedding candids, on location. A Billings photographer will follow proceedings of the entire day, beginning with the bride at home, then through the church ceremony, the reception, and finally the good-byes, as the new couple heads for its honeymoon destination. And all these candid pictures are in color.

Communion, confirmation, and engagement sittings are also handled by Billings Studio. Photographs can be done in natural color, a recent development in photography. The film, proofs, and pictures are all color. Leonard Clenott has just returned from an Eastman-Kodak school in Rochester, N. Y., where he took courses on the "natural color" innovations, so that he might offer his customers the experience and knowledge they deservedly expect.

Billings Studio now has its own color plant and can process its own natural color photos. Pictures can also be taken in black and white and then be hand colored.

Their owners and their approximately 25 employees conduct a tangent enterprise - Baby Craft Studio. This is solely for baby and young children portraitures - mostly taken at home.

Billings Studio also custom frames pictures. Frames can be made to fit any picture. In addition, the Studio sells a wide selection of other standard frames.

The owners of Billings Studio note that they photograph anything. In fact, they have done portraits of dogs and cats. Another part of the business is commercial and industrial photography.

What makes a good picture? From the photographer's point of view, technical matters, such as lighting, play a vital role in quality. For the photographee, the expression and whether it's cute or pleasing is the most important point. Billings Studio combines both to offer fine technical quality and a pleasing pose in the production of, in lay terms, a "good picture".

MALE HELP

"Sourpuss Solly" is all smiles these days

And well he should be. Quincy's just announced the longest and best ever contract for its shipyard workers. Solly likes it. It's for five years. Calls for an immediate 20-cent an hour raise, with automatic increases over the life of the contract. He likes the added benefits, too. For instance, starting in 1970, the company pays the full cost of group insurance.

Solly is happy, too, for other reasons. As a Quincy shipfitter, he knows he is working at the top of his trade. In a yard where working conditions and equipment are constantly being improved.

How about you? Are smiles hard to come by in your present job? Why not look into Quincy? Immediate openings for:

YMCA Sailing Camp Casts Off June 23

The YMCA Sailing Camp at Mason's Point in Squantum for boys and girls 11 to 15 will start June 23.

The Sailing Camp was started 16 years ago by Clifford O. Mason for the purpose of teaching boys "How to Sail" and has grown to include waterskiing, canoeing, swimming and boat safety.

The boys program starts June 23 for three weeks and the girls will start July 14 for three weeks. The fee includes milk, accident insurance, instructions in the handling of boats and sailing. A social membership is required if participants are not members of the YMCA.

The camp is limited to 35 campers each week and registrations for boys have only a few vacancies left but will be accepted at the YMCA until the quota is filled. Mr. Mason is volunteer director and will be assisted by Henry Willman of the YMCA staff and several former pupils of the camp.

The equipment includes 12 Sabot sailboats, 5 turnabouts, 1 new one that will be used for instruction purposes, 2 canoes, one hustler, one Boston whaler used for safety boat and waterskiing.

At the conclusion of the camp the top six boys will compete for the D. King Trophy and the C. O. Mason Trophy. Further information can be had by contacting Henry Willman, YMCA, 479-8500.

QCA Steps Up Fight Against EXPO, Mechanic St. Parking

Opposition to the proposed EXPO 76 in Boston Harbor and the Mechanic St. land taking for downtown parking, was expressed by the Quincy Citizens Association last night.

A four-item agenda was discussed at the QCA executive meeting at the Montclair Men's Club.

Association members were urged by QCA president Laurence J. Curtin to continue the fight against EXPO 76 and the land taking. The citizens group has recorded its official opposition on the controversial issues.

Discussions also centered around proposals for a fund-raising event in the fall. The need was stressed to expand the general membership and widen participation to increase the effectiveness of QCA positions on local issues and problems.

Curtin called EXPO 76 "a definite potential threat to the 27 mile shoreline of Quincy, in fact the entire coastline from Boston to Cape Cod.

"The state is talking about a financial crises in the Commonwealth on one hand and in the next breath talks about expenditure of $200 million or more for 200th anniversary world's fair," Curtin said.

Curtin rebuked the promotional interests in EXPO 76 for "an emphasis on the almighty buck which sees investors clean up and get out. "And the people pay for it and suffer, physically and financially," Curtin commented.

The QCA executive meeting followed an open forum at the Squantum School on Tuesday on the Boston Harbor Islands project.

"Every one of the fifty states should participate and share in the planning and costs," Curtin contended. "This should not just be a Boston celebration, but one of national significance."

Tuesday's meeting was sponsored under the joint auspices of the QCA and the Massachusetts Wildlife Federation.

'Get Tough' Law Proposed To Curb Oil Spillages

A tough state law will be sought requiring use of container booms to prevent damaging oil spillage from cargo tankers onto beaches and waterfront property.

Rep. Clifford H. Marshall [D-Quincy] and Rep. Robert B. Ambler [D-Weymouth] co-authors of the legislation to be filed today would fine violators $1,000.

The bill, if passed, will place responsibility on oil terminal owners or operators for providing unloading ships with plastic or wooden booms to catch spillover.

The booms encircle the vessels, catching loose oil which is then sucked by vacuum back into the cargo tanks.

The Marshall-Ambler bill follows on the heels of this week's spillage of an estimated 100,000 gallons of fuel oil in Weymouth Fore River that reportedly penetrated six inches deep into the sand along Wessagusset Beach, North Weymouth.

Specialist crews by mid-week were still cleaning up the oil with chemicals.

"Representative Ambler and I strongly feel that our proposed law is entirely feasible," Marshall said.

"We have got to do something to stop spillages which are ruining our beaches, destroying fish and wildlife, damaging boats and waterfront property and causing fire hazards.

"If we have to get tough about it by imposing a $1,000 fine on violators, then let's get tough about it."

Marshall and Ambler said they will ask the entire South Shore legislative delegation to join them as co-sponsors of the bill.

They appealed for additional support from conservationists, yachtsmen, fishermen, bathers

A Real Flag Day

2,200 To March For Old Glory

Some 2,200 youngsters and adults will join forces in a demonstration in Quincy Saturday.

And, it should happen more often.

For they won't be knocking anyone or anything. They're getting together simply to boost their country and flag.

Occasion will be a 2 p.m. Flag Day parade and ceremonies sponsored by the Koch Club, a non-profit recreational-civic organization.

There'll be stars and stripes by the thousands.

An estimated 1,200 boys apd girls--five to 14--will march through the Quincy Center area each proudly carrying Old Glory.

The flag bearers, all members of the Koch Club, will be joined in the march by another 1,000 youngsters and adults including veterans units, bands, and drum and bugle corps.

In addition to the display of patriotism and respect for the flag, there's another purpose for the parade.

"All kids love a parade," notes Richard J. Koch, club founder and executive director. "This one, however, gives them a chance to actually march in one instead of just watching it go by."

A unique feature of the parade is that all 1,200 youngsters will get to keep the flag he or she carries.

The brand new cotton banners--measuring 12 by 18 inches were purchased through donations by several adult members of the Koch Club. They are:

Combined Exercises Mark Quincy, North Graduation

A graduating class of nearly 1100 seniors were awarded diplomas last night at joint commencement ceremonies for the 1969 class at North Quincy and Quincy High schools.

North Quincy was host for the traditional cap and gown ceremonies held at Veterans' Memorial Field before a large attendance of proud parents, friends and relatives of the honored graduates.

Keynoting the memorable occasion for students who will be moving forward to the nation's colleges and taking their places in fields of business and industry, were students Paul Maloney and Paul Bennett, North Quincy High, and Nancy Battista and Jewel Davis, Quincy High.

In an era where student involvement is becoming a way of life, the students addressed themselves to "Identification and Commitment."

His Honor Not The Superstitious Type

Mayor James R. McIntyre may avoid walking under ladders but you apparently can't say he's really superstitious.

Signing of new working contracts for approximately 1,000 city employees is scheduled for tomorrow–Friday, the 13th.

McIntyre plans to meet at 11:30 a.m. with officials of unions representing the employees to formalize the contracts.

Under the contracts, registered nurses at Quincy City Hospital receive a 6 per cent salary hike, giving them a minimum salary of $134 and a maximum of $155.

Public works laboring groups, licensed practical nurses, nurses aides, hospital kitchen, housekeeping workers receive 6 per cent as of last Jan. 1 and another 6 per cent July 1.

Actually, however, the employees have already been receiving the 6 per cent hike effective last Jan. 1, under temporary agreements.

Tomorrow's signing just makes it all official–providing of course –a black cat doesn't run off with the pen.

Looking For Some Answers

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I have been enjoying your newspaper weekly. We note with great interest the excellent suggestions and observations aht Mr. R. T. Bates has been giving. We would like to know when the Quincy Lawmakers are going to answer some of this questions? Surely the persons who run our city would want to give some fair and square explanations for the way things are done for the good of the majority of our citizens--

J. Ernest Collins Area Dedication Saturday

The J. Ernest Collins Rest-A-While Area will be dedicated Saturday at 1 p.m.

The area, located in Merrymount Park off Southern Artery will honor Mr. Collins for his long service to the youth of the city. He is now serving his 32nd year as a member of Quincy Park and Recreation Boards and Commissions.

The new facility will serve as an outdoor family recreational center for residents of the city.

Mayor James R. McIntyre who will participate in the unveiling of a marker, recommended that the facility be named in Mr. Collins' honor "for his dedication and devoted service to Quincy and its youth."

Richard J. Koch, executive secretary of the Quincy Park-Recreation Board is committee general chairman.

School Committeeman James F. McCormick, Sr., chairman of the Park-Recreation Board, is honorary committee chairman. The committee includes:

Joseph E. Burke, Gerard A. Coletta, Jr., Joseph N. Gildea, Miss Katherine G. McCoy and William J. Mitchell, members of the Park-Recreation Board; Recreation Director William F. Ryan and City Auditor Alexander Smith.

Quebec Educators Tour Voc-Tech

The Quincy Vocational-Technical School will entertain a group of 15 educators from the government of Quebec, today [Thursday]. This group will consist of the assistant deputy minister of the department of education and eight administrators from the department of education.

Other members of the group will represent the departments of industry, commerce, and the labor board. The purpose of their visit is to examine the operation of vocational education in Quincy including Project Able, the vocational curriculum development activity in Quincy. They are also interested in the rationale upon which Quincy has developed its vocational program.

The visitors will evaluate how vocational education serves the needs of industry in the Quincy labor market areas and how vocational education and general education are integrated into the total education process.

It is planned that the group will meet with Quincy educators for a one-hour briefing and then be provided with a tour of the vocational-technical facility and other educational projects that are unique in the Quincy School system.

Install Brett New President Of State Elks

Quincy Rep. Joseph E. Brett will be installed as president of the Massachusetts Elks Association at the 59th annual convention of the Association to be held at week-end ceremonies at the Mt. Washington Hotel in Bretton Woods, New Hampshire.

More than a thousand members of the Elks and guests are expected to be in attendance at the convention. Business sessions will be held on Saturday, with the installation of officers for the year 1969-1970 and annual memorial service scheduled for Sunday morning.

As president, Rep. Brett will succeed Henry T. Flaherty of Clinton who has held the office since June, 1968.

Rep. Brett is the second member of Quincy Elks Lodge to become president of the association. In 1933-1934, the late Edward D. Larkin of Quincy served in the office.

The business sessions of the association will include reports of the many activities sponsored by the Elks throughout the year with particular emphasis on the awarding of more than a hundred thousand dollars in scholarship aid and grants to numerous charitable cuases and organizations.

Add Funds

Supplemental awards for Eastern Nazarene College and Quincy Junior College have been announced by Cong. James A. Burke and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

The additional allocation for Eastern Nazarene will be $14,279 and for Quincy Junior College, $9,725.

The "whether" report is still the No. 1 topic for the City Hall Speculation Corps.

That's whether or not Mayor James R. McIntyre will seek a third term this fall.

Close observers are 99 per cent sure he will run again and some are willing to bet on it. But His Honor himself doesn't seem to be that sure.

In fact just a couple of weeks ago he seemed ready to call it a career at the city political level. But since then, according to close sources, he's been warming up toward a re-election announcement.

They expect him to make it official in the next few weeks.

THE KOCH CLUB, marking its 20th year of youth activities, has had thousands of members but only one honorary one.

That rare honor went to late President John F. Kennedy who was voted into the club unanimously by youngsters in 1958 while in Quincy campaigning for re-election to the Senate.

And out of that occasion came a most rare photograph.

Although the late President never cared much for hats--and few adults could talk him into wearing one--the kids did.

They presented him with a Koch Club baseball cap and asked him to put it on. He not only did but smilingly posed for a photographer, too.

"That photograph is the club's most cherished possession," says Richard J. Koch, club founder and executive director.

DESPITE all his success, Quincy's Billy DeWolfe remains a regular, down-to-earth guy. No fancy airs, Take, for example, the recent letter he wrote telling how he enjoyed the gift subscription of The Quincy Sun sent to him by his old usher sidekick Eddie Scolamiero of West Quincy.

The letter was personally handwritten by Billy, No secretary in between. No fancy stationery. Just a nice, direct note an average reader might send.

POPULAR Tom Currier of Hum 'n Strum fame and a former Quincy resident, has retired from the entertainment field. He's now in the real estate business in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. Tom and longtime partner Max Zides broke up their famed harmony team about 10 years ago and Tom was doing a solo until just recently.

The pair were reunited a few weeks ago at the wedding of Linda Carlson, daughter of their long-time friend Harry Carlson of Milton. They sounded as good as in the old days singing "Heart of My Heart" and many of their other popular numbers.

Max, of course, is now public relations director for two Quincy bowling alleys. And if any of their old friends are looking for property in Florida, drop Tom a line at: William H. Davis. Inc., 3038 East Commercial Blvd., Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

MEMORIES: The groundbreaking ceremonies at Echo Lake for Hazeltine's new $6 million laboratory complex, brought back fond boyhood memories for many of those in attendance.

Echo Lake was a favorite swimming spot in the 20's, 30's and 40's. And Razzle Dazzle, the highest ledge over the water-filled quarry hole, the biggest challenge for the daredevil jumper.

Souvenirs of the old days still remain on the quarry walls: painted names of those who dared climb them.

Among the art work still visible is a pre-Roosevelt [FDR] painted demand: "We Want Beer".

Incidentally, Those of you who swam there might be interested in knowing it was like swimming "in the middle of the ocean." Hazeltine President David Westerman compared Echo Lake's underwater conditions as that similar to the ocean--one of the reasons the quarry was selected for submarine electronic equipment testing.

Work Starts On Hazeltine Complex

GROUNDBREAKING ceremonies for Hazeltine Corp.'s new $6 million complex saw several shovel-wielders in action. At far right is Hazeltine President David Westerman and from the left, Mayor James R. McIntyre, Secretary of State John F. X. Davoren, State Commissioner of Commerce and Development Theodore W. Schulenberg. Hazeltine Vice-President Arthur J. Stanziano Frank L. Construction has started on Hazeltine Corp.'s new $6 million Quincy research and development complex hailed as "a momentous and historic occasion" for the city.

The facility, being built on a 13-acre site at Echo Lake, will bring the city an estimated minimum $200,000 in tax revenue annually, provide 800 jobs and create a potential yearly payroll of $10 million.

State, city and company officials participated in groundbreaking ceremonies June 6, for the first stage of the planned three-stage 210,000 square foot facility.

The first structure–two stories with 65,000 square feet–is expected to be completed next April.

The new Electro-Acoustic Systems Laboratory will enable Hazeltine to consolidate, expand and advance existing capabilities now located in Braintree and Avon.

Speakers at the groundbreaking ceremonies included:

Mayor James R. McIntyre, Hazeltine President David Westerman, Vice-President Arthur J. Stanziano, Theodore W. Schulenberg, commissioner State Department of Commerce and Development; Secretary of State John F. X. Davoren, Edward Moore, representing Congressman James A. Burke, and Frank L. Whitney, president of Walter Kiddie Constructors, Inc.

Westerman pledged that Hazeltine would be a good neighbor in the years to come, and paid tribute to Quincy officials and the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce for their aid in the Decision to expand in Quincy.

He noted the company found the Echo Lake area to be the ideal site for the testing of highly sophisticated electronics and communications equipment for submarines and underwater accoustics.

"This is truly a momentous and historic occasion for the City of Quincy," declared Mayor McIntyre, whose prepared remarks follow:

"For the first time in our history, we will have an oceanographic laboratory within our City limits. This opens a completely new vista for existing areas of growth in Quincy.

Eight More Candidates Get Nomination Papers

Eight more candidates including Councillor Walter J. Hannon and School Committeeman Paul C. Kelly have taken out nomination papers for the Oct. 7 city preliminary election.

This brings to 14 the total number of candidates with papers in circulation.

City Council President J. Vincent Smyth earlier this week announced his candidacy for re-election but by late yesterday had not actually obtained nomination papers.

Hannon ended speculation he might not seek re-election to his Ward 5 seat.

Kelly, who succeeded Edward S. Mann when the latter retired from the School Committee, will be running for election for the first time.

Among those obtaining papers was Nicholas V. Trifone, 15 Spence Ave., former assistant city planner, running for School Committee.

Others who obtained papers and the seats they seek:

John J. Brady, 105 Sachem St., and William A. Delahunt, 168 Milton St., both City Council, Ward 5.

Baptism For New Fleet Oiler June 28

The replenishment fleet oiler "Kansas City", a new type of United States Navy supply ship, will be launched June 28 at the General Dynamics shipyard here.

Namesake of cities in Kansas and Missouri, the 659-foot-long ship will slide down building ways into the Fore River at 10 a.m.

Following the christening ceremony, "Kansas City" will be moved to a shipyard outfitting pier for completion and delivery to the Navy in early 1970.

Shipbuilders have already started to install the modern, high-speed transfer-at-sea systems that will enable "Kansas City" to provide combat ships with a wide range of supplies. In addition to carrying nearly seven million gallons of marine and aviation petroleum products, "Kansas City" will trnsport refrigerated and dry provisions, ammunition and missiles.

"Kansas City", whose keel was laid April 17, 1968, is the third of six ships in the replenishment fleet oiler class to be built by General Dynamics. The first, USS Wichita", was delivered to the Navy last month. The others are either building or scheduled to be built at Quincy.

Wollaston Beach Proposal To Be Aired June 18

Plans for the proposed expansion of Wollaston Beach will be outlined June 18 at a public meeting co-sponsored by the Merrymount Association and the Wollaston Park Association.

Principal speaker at the 8 p.m. meeting at the Beechwood Knoll School, Genno St., will be Benjamin Fink, chief engineer of the Metropolitan District Commission.

Tentative plans include moving Quincy Shore Drive shoreward by 200 to 300 feet, construction of a 300-to-400 car parking lot and expansion of the beach area.

All interested residents are invited to attend the open meeting.

Agnes Wise, Ronald Halter In Double Ring Ceremony

In a double ring ceremony June 7 in the Most Blessed Sacrament Church of Houghs Neck, Miss Agnes E. Wise became the bride of Ronald Halter, both of Quincy.

The bride wore a white gown with fitted bodice and longsleeves of Galoon lace over satin with six tiers of gathered lace on a bouffant skirt sweeping into a short train. Her elbow-length veil of silk illusion was caught to a double crown of lace trimmed with beads of Aurora Borealis and pearls. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

Identically gowned and carrying bouquets of yellow and white roses were the bridesmaids, Mrs. Maria Joyce of Jamaica Plain, sister of the bride, Mrs. Jean Wise of Quincy, sister-in-law of the bride, Mrs. Mary Halter of Brockton, sister-in-law of the groom, and Mrs. Ellen Reade of Quincy.

Louis Halter served as his brother's best man. Ushers were Walter P. Wise, Jr., and Robert Wise, both of Quincy, brothers of the bride, Patrick Joyce of Jamaica Plain, brother-in-law of the bride, and Richard Ekholm of Quincy.

The bride is a graduate of Quincy High School and is employed by Empire Mutual of Milton.

The bridegroom graduated from Quincy High School, served in the Air Force, and is employed as a customer engineer for American Machines of Quincy.

After a wedding trip to the Poconos, Washington, D.C. and Virginia, the couple plans to live in Quincy.

Spring Art Show Blooms In Germantown

David Ezickson, president of the Quincy Art Association has announced the opening of the fourth annual Spring Art Show, Saturday and Sunday on the grounds of the Germantown Center, 9 Bicknell St., Germantown.

There will be a ribbon-cutting ceremony Saturday at 11 a.m., with City Councillor Edward Graham officiating, and assisted by Mr. Ezickson, president, Atty. George Litif, incoming president of the association; the Rev. Jack Thorne, president of the Germantown Community Council; and Mr. Thomas Connolly, president of the Germantown Residents' Association.

The Art Association has held outdoor shows in other sections of the city, including a show last Fall on the grounds of the Quincy Chamber of Commerce, which featured performing arts, music, drama, and poetry reading.

For the past two years the art association has held a month-long juried show at the Thomas Crane Public Library, and last month was represented by members Annette Paglierani, Dorothy Wiltshire, Jim McGurl, and Donald Heath at the exhibition of the South Shore Art Associations, sponsored by the Brockton Art Center.

A highlight of the Germantown show will be an exhibition of paintings and drawings by the school children of the Snug Harbor School.

On Sunday afternoon there will be a concert by Peter Orio and his folksinging group.

An invitation to the mother of the bride.

Have your daughter's reception at the Sheraton Motor Inn, Quincy, and she'll remember it happily ever after. save on International flatware at South Shore National Bank

The catch: you've got to open a savings or checking account for $25 or more or add $25 or more to your present savings or checking account. Additional deposits of $25 or more, of course, allow you to buy additional place settings at the same low price.

The nice little touch: we give you your fifth place setting free. And after you've collected 12 place settings, we give you a set of six teaspoons free too.

It pays to get your silver at our bank.

SENIOR CITIZENS NEWS

Young at Heart

By Marion Andrews
Assistant To Executive Director
Quincy Council on Aging

A trip to Rockport is being planned for members of the Golden Fellowship Club of Wollaston June 24. The outing will include a dinner at one of the North Shore restaurants. Final plans for the trip will be made at the club meeting June 17.

HOUGHS NECK

GROUP ACTIVITIES

The June 18 whist party planned by the Houghs Neck Senior Citizens Group has been cancelled. The next card party will be held July 16 at the Houghs Neck Legion Post Home on Sea St. Refreshments will be served at 12:30 p.m. followed by cards at 1:30 p.m.

Four members of the group will observe their birthdays during June. They are Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, Mrs. Margaret O'Neil, Mrs. Nellie Martin and Jules Marlard. The birthdays will be noted at the June 11 meeting of the group.

SENIOR CITIZENS FESTIVAL

An estimated 1100 persons attended the second annual Senior Citizens Festival last week at the Quincy Armory. The festival was held under the direction of the Quincy Council on Aging and sponsored by the Quincy Federation of Senior Citizens. John F. Sheehan, executive director of the Quincy Council on Aging, Mrs. William Wolf, president of the federation and Robert F. Donovan, vice chairman, were in charge of arrangements. Several special prizes were awarded during the day-long event.

CONVENTION BOUND

Mrs. Patricia Wermers has been elected by the National Association of Retired Civil Employees, South Shore Chapter, to represent that group at the conference June 16 through June 18 in Washington. The conference will deal with legislation beneficial to NARCE members. The local chapter of NARCE is a member of the Quincy Federation of Senior Citizens. Albert Frost is president of the S.S. Chapter.

Quincy Girl Wins Oratory Contest

Miss Nancy Jean Morrissey of 80 Woodcliff Road, West Quincy, topped a field of seven finalists to win the annual Oratory Contest sponsored by the Massachusetts Elks Association at Newton Elks Lodge, Sunday afternoon.

Nancy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard F. Morrissey and is a graduating student of the Sacred Heart High School in Weymouth. She had been the winner of a preliminary contest conducted by the Weymouth Elks Lodge and also semi-final qualifying contests sponsored by the area Elks lodges.

Her first place trophy and a cash award of $100 were presented to Nancy by Rep. Joseph E. Brett of Quincy, president-elect of the Association and scheduled to be installed as president next Sunday at the Association's annual convention in Bretton Woods, New Hampshire.

Although a resident of Quincy, Nancy had entered the Weymouth Elks' contest some months ago and was sponsored by Weymouth Elks Lodge. The lodge was represented at the contest by Past Exalted Rulers Alfred L. Kemp and Milton Openshaw.

The contests, local, semi-final, and state finals are conducted each year under the supervision of the Youth Activities Committee of the Massachusetts Elks Association. Chairman of the youth committee for the current year is James L. Colbert, a past exalted ruler of Somerville Elks Lodge.

Oration Topic was..."I am an American Youth–Here's How I show it"

On Committee

Two Quincy nursing home representatives are members of a special state-wide committee for the 20th annual convention of the Massachusetts Federation of Nursing Homes, to be held June 19-20, at the Sheraton Boston Hotel.

They are Lawrence Warner and Edward Finn.

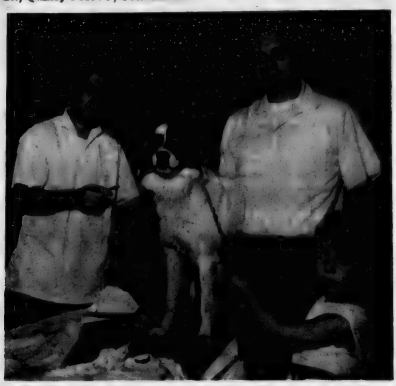
Six QHS Students Named To Boy's, Girl's State

Four Quincy High School boys and two girls have been named to attend Boy's State and Girl's State.

Boy's State will be held at the University of Massachusetts from June 21-28. Girl's State will be conducted at Bridgewater State College from June 14-21.



The four boys and their American Legion sponsors are:

Russell Newton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Newton, 55 Hodgkinson St., Gary Wintermeyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Wintermeyer, 18 First St., John Dempsey, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Dempsey, 138 Center St., Quincy Post 95, Commander Peter Bolea, and Eric Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Johnson, 137 Sea Ave., Houghs Neck Post 380, Commander Ernest T. Deveau.

Carla Errichiello, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Genarino Errichiello, 63 Arnold St., Quincy 95 Auxiliary, Zinda Milks; Carol Wirth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Wirth, 14 Martell Rd., Morrissette Post, Auxiliary, Gertrude Pakonen, president.

Susan Spileos, daughter of Louis A. Spileos, 136 Presidents Lane, has been named as an alternate to Girl's State. Her sponsor is Morrissette Post, Auxiliary.

A DOG'S LIFE--Teddy, pet of little Nancy Richards of 120 Turner St., Houghs Neck, seems pretty calm about it all as Dr. Alan M. Morse moves in with needle at rabies clinic sponsored by the Quincy Health Department. With them is Nancy's father, William Richards to lend his morale support.

City Recreation Posts Open

The State Civil Service Commission will conduct written examinations for four recreation positions on Friday, Aug. 15.

Civil Service lists will be established on the basis of the exams and the Recreation Department will hire personnel from the lists. The last day for filing for the examinations is July 25. A separate form for filing is available at the Personnel Office on the second floor rear of the City Hall. The office is open Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Circulars describing the four positions may be seen on the bulletin board opposite the Personnel Office and at the Recreation office. Examinations will be given for the following posts:

Recreation leader general, assistant recreation leader, recreation leader athletics and recreation leader handicrafts.

'Operation Kindness' Awards

Four students representing Quincy High School are among 9,400 high school and college youth in Eastern Massachusetts who have been commended by "Operation Kindness"

Commendation certificates have been presented to Richard Pearlstein, Marcia Landa, Janis Kaplan and Beth Gabel. The program sponsors are United Community services of Metropolitan Boston, Bureau of Civic Education, Mass. Dept. of Education and affiliated health and welfare agencies and volunteer services.

Quincy Drum & Bugle Meet To Attract Top Area Corps

The George F. Bryant Post will host on Wednesday evening, June 25, at the Quincy Stadium the "Presidential Invitational", an all Class "A" Drum and Bugle Corps contest with 10 of the top Yate Corps in New England competing.

The proceeds from the contest, involving over 900 boys and girls will help to support the youth activities of the Bryant Post, one of which is the Braintree Drum and Bugle Corps. The Corps has over 135 boys and girls in the two groups.

Members of the Warriors and the Braves come from all over the South Shore, primarily Quincy, Braintree, and Weymouth.

The show is being hailed in Drum Corps Circles as the most exciting of the season. Participants compete in different circuits, Eastern Massachusetts, Junior Drum and Bugle Corps, Mayflower, and CYO Drum and Bugle circuits.

The participating Corps will be: Boston Crusaders, Revere's 27th Lancers, the Beverly Cardinals, Dorchester's St. Kevin's Emerald Knights, Charlestown's Majestic Knights, Weymouth's St. Francis Sancians, the Pembroke Imperials, Rockland's Holy Family Defenders, the Norwood Debonnaires, and the Joanettes of Leominster.

While scores are being tabulated, each of these fine Corps will participate in a Grand Finale passing in review.

Tickets may be purchased from John M. Tirone, 113 Elm St., Quincy or from Tom MacDonald at the Bryant Post, Broad St., Quincy.

Swimmer's Ear

The time is already here, or darn near it for one of Summer's nuisances-the Swimmer's Ear. It is technically called External Otitis or inflammation of the outer canal of the ear.

This extremely painful ear condition seems to plague some persons as a recurring condition. In others it is just a mild, irritating but noticeable ear itch.

The strange part of it is that it can occur whether one swims or not or is even near water. If you have experienced such an ear or know someone who has had one, it isn't worth getting!

Did you ever hear the expression, of two pounds of material in a one-pound bag. This description befits the ailment discussed. The ear canal walls won't give and in the back of the passage is the very sensitive ear drum and all that is left is the opening of the canal blocked by the collecting inflammatory material-gooey, white stuff-often with an abscess developing. Talk about pain-I recall a grown-up in tears and children crying constantly with no relief.

If you gently pull on the ear upward and the patient practically jumps with a scream-or if you gently put your finger under the ear at the lobe and lift it up with the same result-suspect a Swimmer's Ear.

What to do? Clean out the canal with cotton wicks-avoid tooth picks or swabs, avoid water-a few days from washing won't hurt anybody-[we take too many baths anyway]. As for remedies-local application in the form of drops or ointments range from cortisone drops-acetic acid-anaesthetic materials and antibiotics. It really doesn't make much difference-the condition runs its course. The E.N.T. Doctor[ear-nose and throat] might have to clean the "gunk" out. Antibiotics have very little value in hastening recovery and I, generally avoid them. Analgesics [aspirin etc.] or codeine, even morphine might be required for the excruciating pain. An exception would be a cellulitis-wherein all about the ear, redness and swelling-before and after is a frightening sight. Some or these even simulate mastoids-a feared condition, seen commonly a generation ago.

Hot or cold packs might give some comfort.

The whole miserable experience lasts about a week and occasionally is aggravated or insulted by an attack in the other ear.

How to avoid the "icky" ear? No real way. Those who get it repeatedly can put vaseline ear plugs in their ears and wear a bathing cap. Avoid digging out wax from the canals! Wax although treated as an excretion of vile nature is really nature's way of preventing deafness by keeping our ear canals open for sound-catching dirt particles visible and invisible which would in no time totally obstruct our hearing passage. - The wisdom of nature is ever manifest!

SIXTH GRADE PROJECT

Patriotism Runs High For Contest

The call to patriotism stirred a strong artistic response among Quincy school children participating in a Flag Day coloring exhibit sponsored by the Cyril P. Morrissette Legion Post and the Quincy public schools art education department.

Imagination was the keynote produced by the sixth graders in their crayon creations describing a place or situation where the American flag might appear. The flag was pre-printed on a blank sheet of drawing paper with the youngsters called on to provide the background.

The idea was conceived as a way of supporting patriotic interest through particular emphasis upon the national emblem. Fred Peruzzi, past commander, selected the classes that fall within the jurisdiction of the legion post including as well St. Anne's, St. John's, St. Joseph's and St. Mary's private schools.

Over 1500 entries have been returned and after a preliminary screening about 200 will be exhibited in the Massachusetts Employment Security office windows facing Hancock Street in Quincy Square. The exhibit will run from June 9 through Flag Day, June 14. The exhibited pictures will be considered unique in the way they describe where our flag might be appropriately seen. Walter E. Lunsman, Director of the Art Education Department, and Richard D. Ramsdell, Assistant Director, are evaluating the entries.

The Morrissette Post has initiated and funded the idea as part of its celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the American Legion. Each participating school will be formally presented with a plaque upon which is illuminated the pledge of allegiance.

Eng Endorsed By Needham

Robert Leo Eng, of Quincy, has been unanimously endorsed as a candidate for the office of State Department Commander by Needham Post 14 of Norfolk County.

The unanimous approval, Commander George Anderson noted, indicates Eng's calibre and dedication to the American Legion.

Tough Oil Spillage Law Is Proposed

and water-front property owners.

"We urge them to contact their respective legislators through out the state to express their support of the bill," said Marshall.

Officials meanwhile assured there would be no permanent damage to the oil-soaked beaches which are expected to be open by week-end.

But clam flats at Wessagusset and King Cove Beaches will be closed for two months because of the oil contamination.

Citgo officials at the East Braintree terminal said the company attempted to contain the oil with a 1,500-foot boom but power boats in the area caused the oil to splash over the boom.

But Representative Marshall said that most oil spillage results from the fact that container booms are not employed while ships are unloading.

The Marshall-Ambler legislation is patterned after a proposed Quincy city ordinance introduced by Marshall in April.

The proposed ordinance, however, carries no fine but would make oil terminal owners or operators financially and legally responsible for cleaning up beaches damaged by spilled oil from vessels.

The proposed city law is now in the council's Ordinance Committee for study.

1,100 Seniors In Graduation

603 Quincy seniors was Quincy School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, Greetings and congratulations to the students were extended by Mayor James R. McIntyre. He was presented by Quincy High School class president Evans Spileos.

Other 1969 class officers leading their classmates across their first major educational plateau were Patricia Petitti, vice president; Linda Quintiliani, secretary and Denise Palmer, treasurer, Quincy High.

Heading the North Quincy graduates were J. Lawrence Munson, president; Mary Ellen Cochran, vice president; Patricia M. Donahoe, secretary and Marjorie I. Hoffman, treasurer.

The 1969 class at both schools was the recipient of an increasing number of monetary and scholastic awards honoring students for intellectual and leadership achievements. The scholarship grants and allowances will support a record number of seniors already enrolled at colleges and universities all over the country.

Announcing the awards was Mrs. Alice Mitchell, Quincy School Committee vice chairman.

The welcoming remarks were delivered by North Quincy High class president J. Lawrence Munson. The invocation and prayers were delivered by the Rev. John J. McMahon, St. Mary's Church and Rabbi Jacob Mann, Beth Israel Synagogue.

'Cinderella' Team Could Have Ball In '70, Too

The 'Cinderella' story of Quincy's baseball team will be told and retold many times over between now and the start of the 1970 season

Coach Bob Basiliere and his players won't soon forget the past season which saw the Presidents go to the Eastern Mass. Tourney quarterfinals after having their uniforms collected and put away following a loss to North Quincy in their final game of the regular season.

And, speaking of next season, the outlook is bright with the big question mark right now the pitching.

"We had some fine underclassmen this year and in the tourney we started three juniors and two sophomores," Basiliere explained. "And Art Mosher is sending up some very promising youngsters from his junior varsity squad."

The pitching will remain a question mark until it is seen how this year's jayvee hurlers fare as varsity performers. Basiliere loses his two top pitchers, Paul Duff and Steve McDevitt, and the hero who pitched Quincy into the tourney , unheralded Bobby Pettinelli.

Two of the returning Presidents saw some varsity pitching action this spring. Steve Sullivan, a smooth-fielding first baseman, showed promise and Bob Brown has the makings of an excellent pitcher.

"Sullivan could become a good pitcher but I'd prefer to keep him at first base," Basiliere said. "And Brown has all the tools to be an excellent pitcher. We will work hard with him."

Actually, Sullivan could be moved to the outfield next year if Billy Maver, the junior varsity first baseman, one of many sophomores coming up, makes the grade as his coach, Mosher, feels he will.

Mosher had three 6-2 sophomore hurlers who impressed this year, Joe Sterling, Rich Menchi and Bob Driscoll. If they come through for the varsity and Brown comes along, the picture will be bright.

Russ MacDonald, Maver, Bob Gallo and Bobby Sacchetti are other good looking sophs coming up.

One of the top sophs on the jayvees has already earned his varsity spurs.

When varsity third baseman Ed Hutchins was injured in the Medford game, the opener of the three-way playoff for second place in the Greater Boston League, Basiliere asked Mosher for his best infielder.

"He gave me Pete Lucier, his regular shortstop, and I put him in immediately at third base," Basiliere said. "He played at third for us in the next two playoff games and our two tourney games and did a fine job, I think he will be a big help to us next year."

Coming back next year from the varsity will be Sullivan, shortstop Kevin Ryan, catcher Cliff Mattson, second baseman Rico DeCristofaro, outfielder Bruce Carlson, Brown and two capable reserve outfielders, Paul Hand and John Stevens

With the fantastic 1969 season now history, fans are still talking about the batting of outfielder Steve Carrera, a fine college prospect who was looked over by several college coaches and major league scouts.

The strong left-handed batter hit over .400 with many extra base hits. He seldom struck out and received several intentional passes. He stands only 5-9 but is a solid 175 pounds.

"Steve is the finest batter I've coached here in six years," Basiliere pointed out. "He almost always gets a piece of the ball and has a lot of power, he is very strong and has quick hands."

Among those who feel he is a great college prospect is coach Alex Nahigian of Providence College, who watched that Somerville game. "He is real good with the bat," he said. "We'd like him at Providence and I think he'd be a great asset to our baseball program. He is the type of batter who almost always make contact with the ball and doesn't strike out much."

In looking back at this season, Basiliere hailed his club for their "never-say-die spirit." In the past three years we have won 36 and lost 17, which I consider a pretty fair record in a strong league. This year the boy who would have been our number one pitcher was ineligible due to the eight-semester rule and I think with him we would have won the league title. Duff came through beautifully and he and McDevitt were really outstanding.

N. Quincy Golfers Win League Title

Coach Jack Donahue's North Quincy High golf team has won the Mass. Coastal League championship with an undefeated record.

The Raiders wound up with a 9-0-1 league record and an overall 11-2 mark on Tuesday when they defeated Boston Latin, 7½-1½, at Wollaston. The teams had tied, 4½-4½, in the opening match of the season and had identical 8-0-1 league records going into Tuesday's match.

Today North plays Newton at Brookline in a qualifying match for the state tournament. Donahue's teams have won two state championships.

In the title match North's Wayne Fick and John Meehan took 2½ points from Bob Kennedy and Cliff Johanson. Mike Zalrewski and Mike Kawilcik took two from Jim Gillooly and Rick Wagner, and the Raiders' John Moran and Brian Killeen swept three points from Ken Stone and Jim Henderson.

A year ago North had a 7-2-1 record in the league. This spring, in addition to its league matches, it defeated Braintree twice and tied Hingham's Old Colony League champions in non-league matches.

Little League Field Tribute To Army Hero

Rep. Joseph E. Brett has announced that he will file legislation to have the new Little League Baseball Field being constructed adjacent to the Shea Skating Rink in West Quincy named in honor of the late Robert Allen Curry of West Quincy who gave his life in military service in World War Two. Robert was a member of the Army Air Force when he was killed during combat with the enemy.

Rep. Brett said that members of the Curry family, long-time residents of West Quincy, offered the suggestion that the ball field be named in honor of their deceased relative's memory. Brett said he agreed wholeheartedly with the suggestion as the name of Curry has been prominent and respected in West Quincy for a great many years and it is entirely fitting that the family name be memorialized in this manner.

Brett said he feels optimistic about the chances of passage for his proposal as he can foresee no objection to having the new field named in honor of one of Quincy's war heroes of a generation ago.

Weekend 'Tag Days' To Aid Kiddie Kamp

Quincy youngsters will spearhead the annual "Tag Days" on Friday and Saturday at local shopping centers for the benefit of Kiddie Kamp and camping opportunities for disadvantaged boys.

The Quincy campaigners will work in support of the Knights of Pythias, Quincy Lodge 62, in raising funds to send children to Kiddie Kamp.

The Kamp has over the years since 1938 given equal opportunity to over 28,000 deserving boys, regardless of race, creed or color.

The presidents lodge is joined by other Pythian lodges in Massachusetts and individual donors in supporting the program. Boys are recommended by social agencies and clergy.

Each summer four groups of 200 boys, 8½ to 14½ years old attend the 87-acre haven at Lake Massapoag in Sharon for two weeks learning the concepts of honesty, sportsmanship, freedom and fair play.

The boys also take part in swimming, games, handicrafts, canoeing, dramatics, singing–all under professional leadership.

Those interested in recommending boys for the camp may notify chairman Robert Levine, 127 E. Elm St., Wollaston or co-chairman Paul Bailey, 23 Carruth St., Wollaston.

Legion Baseball Opens Sunday

• Morrisette

BY TOM SULLIVAN

The Morrisette Legion baseball team last year won the District 6 championship and went all the way to the state finals before bowing to West Springfield.

Morrisette, under veteran coach Connie Carlozzi and his assistant, Fran Rinaldi, opens defense of its league title Sunday at Needham and on Tuesday at Adams Field will play Quincy, one of two teams to defeat the defending champs in 1968.

"We should do well again this year but the competition should be the best in years," Carlozzi said. "Every team should be strong. Quincy will have most of the North Quincy High team players. Weymouth, Braintree and Randolph, with most of the players from those outstanding high school teams, should be very strong. I look for one of the closest league races we have had in quite a while."

Most of the players from Quincy High's 'Cinderella' team will be playing for Morrisette.

Among them is outfielder Steve Carrera, Quincy's outstanding batter who is being eyed by many college coaches and major league scouts.

The stocky 5-9, 175-pounder, a natural hitter, batted about .400 this spring with many extra base hits including several home runs. He seldom strikes out and usually gets a piece of the ball.

Other Quincy High players on the squad include Steve Sullivan, an outfielder- first baseman who can also pitch; first baseman Ted Meyer, outfielder Paul Hand, third baseman Ed Hutchins, second baseman Kevin Ryan, infielder Pete Lucier, pitchers Steve McDevitt, Paul Duff, Bobby Pettinelli and Rich Brown. Catcher Bob Sacchetti was a Quincy junior varsity star.

Rounding out the squad are Ron DiNardo from Quincy Junior College and Jerry Connolly from North Quincy, outfielders; Al Gallota of Abp. Williams, infield; Bob Baker of Williams, a pitcher-first baseman; Bob Edwards of Williams and Pete Corcoran of Sacred Heart High School, catchers.

Carlozzi should be all set for pitchers. McDevitt and Duff were brilliant for Quincy High and Pettinelli could be a real "sleeper." With only two innings of relief behind him, he was selected to pitch the playoff game against Malden which put Quincy into the Eastern Mass. tourney and he went all the way with a well-pitched five-hitter.

The champs should also hit well with Carrera, Ryan, Meyer, DiNardo, Corcoran and Edwards all fine batters.

"We had a great turnout of nearly 70 boys and it was hard to cut some of them Carlozzi said. "Steve Brustin, a fine hitter and Craig Bogosia, an outstanding pitcher, played for us last year but this year are playing for Quincy and should help them considerably."

Carrera, DiNardo, Gallota, Connolly, Meyer and McDevitt played for Morrisette a year ago.

Last summer Morrisette won the District 6 title with a 15-2 record, eliminated Whitman and Lynn in the state playoffs, drew a by into the finals and were ousted by West Springfield.

Carlozzi is one of the veteran Legion coaches in the area. This is his eighth year with Morrisette and before that coached Quincy for one year and Braintree for six. Rinaldi has been his assistant at Morrisette for three years.

Fishing Outing For Disabled Veterans

A deep-sea fishing outing for 40 disabled veterans will be provided on July 15 by Harvey's Salt Water Club of Quincy.

Participating in the seventh annual fishing trip will be patients from the Chelsea Soldier's Home in addition to 13 wheel chair patients from the West Roxbury Veterans Hospital.

The salt water group meets monthly under the leadership of Frank Locke, president. Other officers are Ernest Celidonia, vice president; Harry Johnson, treasurer and Robert Allan, secretary.

The club was organized in 1952 by Mr. Locke and the late George Elliott.

Persons interested in assisting in supporting the veteran's fishing project have been requested to contact Robert Allen, 21 Sea Ave.

The fishing trip will leave Harvey's Wharf at 9:30 a.m. for Hingham Bay. The fishing flotilla will be observed for safety purposes by the Coast Guard, The Quincy Police Boat and craft from the Dept. of Natural Resources and the Mass. Boating Registry.

The boat will return to Harvey's Wharf at 2 p.m. when a roast beef dinner will be served and prizes will be awarded.

Cost of the trip is shared by members and public spirited citizens who volunteer to help out with the annual program

Conboy Third In Javelin

North Quincy's Roger Conboy made an excellent showing in the state schoolboy championship track meet Saturday, finishing a strong third in the javelin and qualifying for this Saturday's New England championships at Warwick, R.I.

It took a record toss of 205 feet, 3½ inches to win the event for Bill Chagnon of Frontier Regional. Melrose won the meet with Andover, the defending champion, second.

• Quincy

Quincy Legion's baseball team opens its District 6 season Sunday against Dedham at Adams Field and second-year coach Doug Fleming is hopeful of bettering last year's 7-10 record.

"We have a well-balanced team and I think we should make a good showing," he said. "In two practice games against Abington and Whitman, we made only one error, the pitching was strong and the hitting good."

Most of Fleming's players are from North Quincy High School, and include three standout pitchers from North, Garry McGrath, Craig Bogosian and Frank Costa. All pitched well with Costa shutting out Quincy on one hit in his final game. Joining this trio is Norm Walsh from Boston College High.

Catching will be Bob Pastor from North and Mike McNalley from Quincy High, each a capable receiver.

Steve Brustin and Bob Bell are listed for first base, Jim Donovan and Joe Marini second base, Paul Petrucelli short, Paul Kaplan, Jim Broderick and Steve Murray third base.

"The boys may not realize it, but they are going to be versatile this year," Fleming, a former North Quincy athlete, said. "Petrucelli may play at third, Kaplan second and Broderick shortstop. All are North Quincy players except Kaplan, from Quincy High, and Petrucelli, Boston College High.

Three North Quincy players, Steve Tomasetti, Jim Alberino and Ed Monti, and Vince Lombardo from B. C. High, are the ourtfielders.

"Several of the players look good at bat with Burstin and Broderick especially promising," the Quincy coach pointed out. "I had 40 boys report and it was quite a job cutting the squad to the league's 18-player limit. Some of those cut were outstanding prospects."

McGrath, Costa, Pastor, Tomasetti, Alberino, Lombardo, Donovan, Petrucelli and Broderick played for Quincy a year ago, while Brustin and Bogosian played for Morrisette's championship team.

Quincy turned in several fine performances a year ago after a poor 1967 season.

Among the best was a win over Morrisette, which won the district title and went all the way to the state finals. TOM SULLIVAN

Hancock Bank Charter Member N.E.Bankcard Assn

The Hancock Bank has become a charter member of the New England Bankcard Association, a non-profit organization of more than 100 New England banks, who have banded together to promote Master Charge, a world-wide accepted bank charge card.

According to Hancock Bank President, William E. Kelley, the New England Bankcard Association was founded by three large Boston-based banks; The First National, Shawmut, and New England Merchants.

"There is a great future for the charge account banks Master Charge offers," Kelley said.

"For customers of our bank it will be a great convenience. At the same time we will be helping our retailer clients to attract more business."

Master Charge cards will be honored by more than 30,000 retailers throughout New England and millions of their retailers throughout America and abroad. Early this fall, Hancock Bank will send personalized Master Charge cards to all of its customers served by its 13 offices throughout Norfolk County.

Come, Let Us Reason Together

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

San Francisco....Honolulu.... the Hawaiian Village....Los Angeles....Kansas City ....Boston....the itinerary of our recent vacation trip....restfull.... pleasurable.... educational.

My greatest interest on a trip is people. Oh, yes....I like airplanes...the blue Pacific and its sandy beaches....the palm treas....tropical flowers.... flowering dresses....architectural masterpieces. But most of all I like people. I like talking with people....whether in private counseling....or in public addresses followed by open discussion....whether with students concerned for new and better ways of life, or women harvesting pineapples in the fields of Hawaii. I learn more from people than from books.

We could not help observing on our recent trip the courtesy of people we met.... toll gate attendants....airline hostesses....clerks in stores....waitresses in restaurants. Loud and clear we got the message....WE WANT TO PLEASE YOU. It didn't seem commercial....it seemed genuine. Kind....helpful courtesies.... warmly-expressed words....unhurried actions. For so many people in the 49th State courtesy seems to be a way of life. Complete strangers hold the elevator door for you as you rush toward it with your hands full of packages...Big-name night club entertainers joyfully come to the table of ordinary tourists....clerks are courteous....patient and helpful to browsing "lookers" in the stores....beach attendants show courtesies to assure you rest and happiness. Living for Hawaiians seems to be pleasurable....and happiness seems to be found in a spirit of serving others....not always with the hand out ofr a fat tip. I wondered why we do not adopt more of this way of life in our home situations.

Daily in my offices I hear women saying of their husbands...."He has such an ugly disposition....so surly....always scowling....always showing disapproval." One wife said...."He snarls at us as though we were animals." One man said...."She's forever nagging me....I don't seem to be able to please her....she's so negative.... always complaining....She's worst in the mornings and I hurry to get away from the house to excape her cutting words."

Where does this ugliness come from? Little babies really aren't born this way.... somewhere along the line we learn this negative behavior....negativeness....surliness....gloom-mongering. The homes from which we come set the sail for our disposition habits as certainly as our eating habits. If you home was a "sour" place and this is a cause of your discourtesy to your husband/wife, you'll probably need to disavow that "old home atmosphere" to be rid of the taint of surliness.

Excess drinking is another cause of sharp remarks.... destructive criticism which often leaves scars long unhealed....and which often would never have been said were the speaker in charge of his/her emotions and mind. Is excess drink a cause of your discourtesy?

Then....there seems to be a general attitude on the part of some men/women which seem to feel that the other will get the upper hand unless there is a continual barrage of downgrading ugly remarks....often punctuated with four-lettered words. Some men hate women in general....their wives catch the full brunt of this hatred. Some women hate men in general....their husbands catch the full brunt of this hatred. If this is the cause of your discourtesy....admit it. It is a "sickness" that can be cured.

What we saw and felt in Hawaii was courtesy....thoughtfulness....kindness.... warm affection. We liked it.

I'm just simple enough to think that it is possible for all of us to live in the "Hawaiian Village" right here in our own homes. FOR YOUR COMMENTS: Call Dr. Knox at 326-5990, 545-5947, or 945-9800, or write him at 628 High Street, Dedham, Mass. 02026

On Beacon Hill

Rep. Arthur H. Tobin

In my first article on revaluation of several weeks ago, I discussed legislation sponsored by the Quincy delegation which would, if voted upon favorably at the Constitutional Convention and adopted on a referendum ballot by the citizens of Quincy, allow cities and towns to assess property in categories according to its use.

You may recall I outlined briefly the historic path that this legislation traveled since first being introduced in 1961 by the Springfield delegation.

The legislation received only 19 votes when first introduced, and was defeated consecutively until the Quincy delegation won at the Constitutional Convention in 1968.

Phase one and the 1968 Convention were now history, and ultimate victory was still in the future. We were extremely hopeful for the future, but we were ever mindful that a new legislature was being convened in 1969, and we had no way of knowing how the more than 40 newly elected members would vote.

The law is explicit as to the requirement that the proposed legislation must be approved by both branches of the legislature sitting in joint convention at a duly called Constitutional Convention for two consecutive years. From there it would be placed on the ballot to be voted upon by the people. This was our goal. We wanted this legislation, which is most beneficial to homeowners, to be given the opportunity of being placed on a ballot so the people could have an opportunity to speak out.

To be truthful, we were extremely apprehensive also. We were well aware that the lobbyists for big business did not want this legislation to pass phase two, because it might be successful on a referendum ballot. We were ever mindful that we had to keep in line the votes we received in 1968, and then obtain a sufficient number of votes from the newly elected members at the Convention to win the fight for two consecutive years or we would have to start at the beginning again.

Furthermore, we had no way of knowing whether the convention would be convened. Then it happened. The word came out there would be a Convention at 2:00 p.m. sharp. Time - 1:45 p.m. I received a message from Senator McIntyre's office. The message: The Senator wishes to see you immediately. Time - 1:50 p.m. I conferred with Senator McIntyre. The topic: "Revaluation". The Senator informed me that the Senate President, Maurice Donahue, informed him minutes before that our bill filed on behalf of the people of Quincy to change the assessing laws of the Commonwealth, would be the first item on the agenda. Senator McIntyre requested me to line up Kippy [Rep. Marshall], Walter [Rep. Hannon], and Joe [Rep.Brett]. Time now - 1:55 p.m.

The first person I contacted was Rep. Hannon. I informed Walter of Senator McIntyre's message, and Walter moved fast. He went directly to the Clerk's office to obtain a copy of the roll call vote at the 1968 Convention, and he started to line up votes and to make plans.

I preceeded to contact Rep. Marshall.

The Convention convened, and Senator McIntyre took the microphone.

Rep. Marshall went about lining up the newly elected members and preparing for his presentation. I proceeded to contact Rep. Brett, and I informed Joe as to Senator McIntyre's message. When Senator McIntyre finished his presentation, it was decided that Rep. Brett and Rep. Hannon would speak on the merit of the legislation and that Rep. Marshall and I would rebutt the oppor nts and answer specific charges and countercharges. While this was being done, Senator McIntyre was seen going from Senator to Senator asking for support of this important legislation.

The Quincy delegation was busy -- they were working -- each in his own way, but working together for the people of Quincy. The debate was over. The speeches were made -- the opponents were rebutted -- our homework was done. The President of the Senate called for a roll call vote. We needed a minimum of 141 votes. The roll call was recorded.

I am telling it as it was. The lobbyists were hard at work. Rep. Brett was at the microphone. Senator McIntyre was lining up the Senators, Rep. Hannon was lining up friends, Rep. Marshall was lining up the freshmen, and we were all lining up anyone who would listen. It was all over -- Quincy had won. Yes, Quincy had won. We received 144 votes -- 3 votes won it -- the most important 3 votes we may ever need.

Now you can speak out on the ballot. You certainly can be proud of your Quincy delegation. They were working for you.

OLD NANTASKET

by

Dr. William M. Bergan

"OLD NANTASKET is an hilarious account of town politics in the New England style which should be 'must' reading for every student of history . . . though it all there is the bubbling wit of the author that is so scintillating that one cannot put the book down until the last syllable of the final chapter."

75 Active Years For Quincy Knights Council

Quincy Knights of Columbus Council 96--oldest in the South Shore--marks its 75th anniversary tonight [Thursday] with a record of outstanding church-civic accomplishments.

National, state, city, religious, fraternal and civic leaders will be among those paying tribute to the long-time area "Mother Council" at a reception and dinner starting at 6:30 p.m. at Florian Hall, Dorchester.

Most Rev. Jeremiah F. Minihan, Auxiliary Bishop of Boston, will be the featured speaker.

Guests will include Congressman James A. Burke, Sen.-Mayor James R. McIntyre, State Deputy John E. Nugent, District Deputy Andrew P. Clifford, Rev. Mark S. Sheehan, council chaplain; Rev. Leo X. Lynch, former chaplain; Grand Knight Alfred T. Morris of Ave Maria Council, Grand Knight Harold L. Esdale of North Quincy Council and pastors of all Catholic parishes in Quincy.

Past Grand Knight John F. Hallisey will be toastmaster. George Kenney is program committee chairman. Guest soloists will be Mr. and Mrs. James B. Clancy.

Quincy Council 96 was founded June 6, 1894 with 41 charter members. For many years it was considered the mother council for subsequent councils such as Ave Maria, North Quincy, Braintree, Weymouth and Randolph.

Through the years the members of Quincy Council have supported financially and solicited funds for such Diocesan projects as Boston College, Carney Hospital, and Archbishop Williams High School building funds. A project closest to Richard Cardinal Cushing, the crippled and retarded children fund, has received generous support from its members.

The Council has fostered youth programs since its founding. Of particular importance is the bringing together of high school students, high school teachers at Quincy, North Quincy, and Archbishop Williams High Schools along with the officers of the three Quincy K. of C. Councils for the annual Columbus Day observance.

A second youth program of considerable scope over the years is the financing of summer camp for deserving boys each year. Many of these boys would never have the opportunity to attend camp otherwise and would not have been able to participate in the body building, wholesome and healthful activities.

The Annual Charity Ball, one of the South Shore's most successful annual social events, has been a means of raising funds to support such charitable programs as Christmas baskets and clothing for the needy, scholarships, and assistance to families in times of emergency and distress.

On the national level the K. of C. has been an implacable foe of Communism. Quincy Council No. 96 has been a leader locally in sponsoring educational programs and lectures to expose the communistic threat to democracy.

Another milestone in the Council's history was the establishment of the Knights of Columbus Civic Institute of Quincy in 1920. The Institute became a center for instruction in public speaking and debating. It was an instrument of civic service. Gangsterism was menacing society in that era and nice people were seeking escape in speakeasies.

The members of Quincy Council organized the Institute so that interested citizens could debate and discuss the social, moral, and religious issues of the day. Voices of dissent and protestation were raised down through the decades in an orderly manner and orchestration of words-not the cacaphonus sounds of four letter words that are part of today's dissent, demonstrations, and protestations.

Memorial Window To Honor Late Rev. Sawyer

Dedication of a stained glass window in honor of the late Rev. Victor V. Sawyer Wollaston United Methodist Church Pastor, will be held at the 10:45 a.m. church service on Sunday.

The memorial ceremony honoring the late pastor-emeritus will be conducted by the congregation at the front entrance above the sanctuary.

The Rev. Sawyer was cited in a written tribute as "a great builder not only of the curch but...in the lives of everyone he knew."

A 42-year active ministry included 29 years as Pastor of the Wollaston Methodist Church and 11 years as Pastor-Emeritus. He began his ministry and schooling in Western New York, attended Syracuse University and Boston University School of Theology, and served churches in Rhode Island, Connecticut and Massachusetts before coming to Wollaston. Under Rev. Sawyer's leadership the church erected a new Sanctuary at a cost of $150,000. At the celebration of his 40th year in the ministry, Rev. Sawyer also received 48 new members into the church. In 1961 he was presented the B'nai B'rith Brotherhood Award. "No man better exemplifies the spirit and fact of brotherhood", it was stated.

The Rev. Sawyer served as chaplain of the Wollaston Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons for many years and served in various branches of Masonry. He was the founder of the Quincy Council of Churches, later to be the South Shore Council of Churches; a member and Chaplain of Kiwanis, teacher of the Rand Class of the First Baptist Church of Wollaston, member of the Quincy Housing Authority; South Shore Masonic Council and served in community drives as a lecturer and student of history, he spoke in nearly all the churches on the South Shore.

Mr. Lawrence Huddy, of the Wilbur H. Burnham Studios of Boston, manufacturer of the window, will give a description of its symbolism. Alexander Harding, chairman of the board of trustees of Wollaston United Methodist Church, will present the window, on behalf of the Sawyer family.

Rev. Ronald W. Ober, present Pastor, will give the dedication sermon entitled "The Touch of God". Friends of the Sawyer family and members of the church are especially invited to this significant occasion.

Cemetery Plaque Given City

The historical plaque at the entrance to the Hancock Cemetery has been donated to the city by the Quincy Historical Society

The presentation was announced by Historical Society president H. Hobart Holly who noted the city's work in improving the cemetery during the past year.

The plaque lists historical data and achievements of the early settlers buried in the landmark cemetery. The purpose of the plaque is to increase public appreciation of the city's historical values and heritage, Holly said.

Quincy Books Read In Viet

Quincy has received a salute from the Coast Guard for its service in providing books for distribution to servicemen.

A letter of commendation to Mayor James R. McIntyre for Coast guard adjutant Abraham Cohen, 1st District, cited the city for its contribution.

Books are placed aboard all Coast Guard vessels leaving East Boston for more than 30 days. The reading material is also shipped to Coast Guardsmen stationed in Viet Nam areas.

The Coast Guard League has been organizing book collections and distributions since 1945 to its officers and shipmates.

AT THE 'NABORHOOD'–Jack Silverstein, center, and two full time pharmacists, Al Goldberg and John Valante conduct a friendly and complete pharmaceutical business. Naborhood Pharmacy stocks a complete line of hospital supplies and offers 24 hour emergency service in the North Quincy area.

Personal Touch For 'Naborhood'

Naborhood Pharmacy, 406 Hancock St., North Quincy truly lives up to its name. Jack Silverstein, pharmacist and owner of the store, has established in the local area "a neighborhood atmosphere."

Mr. Silverstein, two other full–time pharmacists, and 23 employees offer to the customer sincere and responsible pharmaceutical guidance. They are, naturally, out to assist and advise patrons and do so in a congenial yet always professional manner.

Among the special services offered at Naborhood Pharmacy are the acceptance of electric and telephone bill payments, free delivery, and the sale of hospital and surgical supplies.

Naborhood Pharmacy also maintains a complete medical tax record system. The store offers 24-hour emergency service in the North Quincy area.

Over 1000 prescriptions, the most in Quincy, are filled by Jack Silverstein's pharmacy department per week. Since Naborhood's business has been steadily increasing in volume, Mr. Silverstein has initiated plans to expand and remodel to accomodate his patrons.

Experience is of paramount importance in the pharmaceutical profession, and experience is a quality assured at Naborhood. Mr. Silverstein has been in the drug store business for 27 years, and has been located at his present location since 1951. He has been cited by the American Pharmaceutical Association, and is a member of the National Association of Retail Druggists the American Consultant Pharmacies, the Quincy South Shore Chamber of Commerce, and the North Quincy Board of Trade. He has also attended several cosmetics schools and parapharmaceutical schools.

Naborhood Pharmacy offers to its clientel complete and friendly service. While the business has continued to grow and in providing increasing service Mr. Silverstein and his courteous staff have always been aware of the store's excellent reputation. Particularly in terms of "extra" personal service this drug store, a North Quincy business landmark, is truly a "neighborhood" pharmacy in every sense of the word.

TIRED, FOOTSORE...

An Anti-Poverty Marcher Meditates

BY LOREN OSTROW

The Quincy Walk for Development Sunday was an experience - tedious, painful, hot, seemingly endless but nevertheless worthwhile .

Every bit of money from the very small donations to the very large donations went to fine anti-poverty projects - a nutrition center in Quincy, an agricultural center in Liberia, and monies for Appalachia.

I, who was sponsored $55 dollars worth and completed 27 of the 30 miles, have gained an immense sense of respect for all those who had the feet on which to pace the entire 30 miles.

More than 2000 people in the area took a shot at walking the entire meandering course and at least 750 braved the complete trek. While Central Junior High, the final point, may have seemed to be a hospital for fading youthful people, each exhaused being was proud of his own endurance and accomplishment and of his financially small but yet rather significant contribution to fighting poverty.

Money is still being collected and being turned in at any South Shore National Bank office, and blistered feet are still being pampered. While the pain and aches of the endless journey may soon disappear, the memory of accomplishment and the effects of the economic donations will linger.

RECENT GRADUATE-Marilyn J. Hancock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William W. Hancock, 26 Viden Rd., recently graduated from Stonehill College, magna cum laude, with a B.A. in Sociology.

Area Future At Stake

Downtown Revitalization Plans To Be Unveiled

Plans for the revitalization of the downtown business area will be unveiled at a meeting of businessmen and property owners June 24.

Keynote of the reception-meeting to be held from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. at the Neighborhood Club of Quincy will be future development and "greater involvement and support" by more businessmen in the area's growth potentialities.

Edward F. Percy, president of the Merchants Division of the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce who will serve as moderator, declared:

"If downtown Quincy is going to survive the fierce competition of the 70's and take advantage of the area's future growth potentialities, it will require greater involvement and support by more businessmen."

He urged that representatives of downtown business and professional firms-whether members of the Chamber of Commerce or not–to attend and participate in the meeting.

Expansion and renovation plans of several businesses, including Hancock Bank & Trust Co., Remick's, South Shore Television, and Colman's Sporting Goods Store will be outlined.

Special future trade promotions to bring more business into the downtown area will also be discussed.

Exhibits of the new MBTA stations, the proposed multi-million dollar Government Center, Mechanic St. parking area, the new North-South Artery, and the new Quincy District Courthouse, apartment, office and housing buildings will be displayed.

During the meeting citations will be presented to three award winning downtown businesses. South Shore Television and Gilchrist's will be recognized for winning National Brand Names Awards and Milton's for being named Retailer of The Year by Apparel Magazine.

New businesses and new Chamber of Commerce members will be introduced.

"Revitalization of Downtown Quincy–Physical Development" will be a major theme of the meeting.

New Lift Type Bridge Sought For Fore River

Sen.-Mayor James R. McIntyre will request the state Department of Public Works to proceed immediately with a design study for a new multi-million vertical lift type Fore River Bridge.

McIntyre's move follows on the heels of the DPW's rejection of a proposal to widen the horizontal clearance of the present bridge that spans Quincy Point and North Weymouth.

Instead, the DPW recommended a vertical lift bridge as "a more logical replacement structure".

McIntyre said he is writing aletter to DPW Commissioner Edward J. Ribbs asking that a design study for a lift-type bridge be started immediately.

"It is imperative to the economy of the Quincy-South Shore area and the state that we get a modern bridge so that the General Dynamics shipyard can bid on super-sized tankers and other huge ships," McIntyre declared.

The present bridge, dating back to the early 1930's, has a horizontal clearance of only 175 making it impossible for modern day aircraft carriers and huge merchant vessels to pass through.

McIntyre, chairman of the legislature's Joint Committee on Transportation requested a study to determine the feasibility of widening the present bridge to 300 feet.

He asked that land-taking be kept at a minimum.

McIntyre said he will also stipulate that there be as little land damage as possible for construction of a new vertical

John Cronin Retires As Probation Officer

John F. Cronin, 60 Hoy Terrace, Milton, retiring as Chief Probation Officer for the Quincy District Court, was honored last night [Wednesday] at the South Shore Country Club by courthouse personnel and their families.

Mr. Cronin, who will retire Friday, has served 34 years in the probation office and has been Chief Probation Officer since 1944.

Among the more than 100 persons honoring Mr. Cronin, were:

A plaque and gift were presented to Mr. Cronin.

Mr. Cronin attended Boston English High School and the Pace institute of Law and Accounting. He also took special courses in sociology at Boston College. After attending the Federal Bureau of Investigation training school, he served with the FBI until 1935.

20 Candidates Have Papers

Six more candidates including three incumbents have taken out nomination papers for the Oct. 7 city preliminary election. This brings to 20 the total number of candidates with papers in circulation.

Among those who obtained papers and the seats they seek:

Councilor Edward S. Graham, 32 Shed St., City Council, Ward 1.

Councilor Albert R. Barilaro, 65 Grove St., City Council, Ward 4.

School Committeeman Frank Anselmo. 610 Adams St., School Committee.

William S. Grindlay, Jr., 92 Brook St., City Council, Ward 5.

Wilfred M. Sheehan, 63 Sealund Rd., City Council, Ward 6.

Richard R. Noonan, 38 Harrison St., City Council at-large.

STARS AND STRIPES by the thousands fluttered along Hancock St. during Koch Club's Flag Day parade. Some 1,200 boys and girls aged five to 14 marched, each carrying Old Glory which was then presented to them as a gift. [Quincy Sun Photo By J. W. Ross]

HOUSE CALL

By Dr. Charles Djerf
Pediatrician

In a previous article I wrote about German Measles and the fact that we would soon have a vaccine. Such a vaccine has been produced-live and safe.

Well-tested, documented and to be produced under government regulation it is reported to be 98% effective and has been shown during its brief period to show very little decline in the protection it can give. Hence a single dose of the vaccine may be permanent. It is grown in duck embryo cell cultures [thus avoiding the chicken egg sensitivies].

To whom will the new vaccine be given? The target eye will be from one year to puberty. Under a year a child may still have some protection or influence from the mother obstructing proper immunization. The most vulnerable age for communicable diseases, especially viruses, is in the kindergarten and elementary school groups.

Vaccination for German Measles is not as important in adolescent or adult males because so few are susceptible.

Pregnant women present a real problem. Live vaccine should not be given to a pregnant woman because it is not known to what extent infection of the fetus [the unborn inhabitant of the womb] might take place. This same warning should be observed for adolescent girls or adult women where pregnancy might occur. Girls and women in this age group can be immunized if the possibility of pregnancy can be definitely excluded for a period of two months.

If desired, a Rubella [German Measles] immunity test can be done to determine if a previous infection has occured-so that vaccination would be unnecessary.

If a child has been exposed to German Measles there is no harm done if vaccination is given, even if the natural disease is on the way.

What can you expect as a result of the vaccination? Very little locally where the shot was given. Painful joints and arthritis may hit the older persons - even as late as two to four weeks after the shot. Fortunately this only uncomfortable and brief [Men are not excluded from this complication].

For a short time there must be rationing of the product but it won't be long before the vaccine will be a routine office injection.

In Medical Opinion and Review, June 1969 there is an interesting book review by an Internist, "Death in Life: Survivors of Hiroshima" by Ronert Jay Lifton, M.D. This book summarized an indepth interview of seventy-five survivors and a study of all the available material on the after effects [cultural, political and human] of the bombing. Dr. Lifton received the National Book Award for his work. The reviewer adds however that "Portnoy's masturbatory machinations will compel a much greater readership than Lifton's important but painful work. [The book referred to is Portnoy's Complaint].

Also in quotes "The Cenotaph, a monument containing the names of all those known dead from the Blast in Hiroshima is engraved with the following cryptic couplet".

Rest in peace.
The Mistake shall not be repeated.

The author adds: Who is so sure? I am not and I wish I were.

My fears go along with Bernadine Paulshech, M.D., the reviewer.

Oscar winner Ruth Gordon will fly in from New York for the 55th anniversary reunion of the Quincy High School Class of 1914--the famed "worst class."

The 55th get-together is being held Saturday at 12:30 p.m. at Hugo's Lighthouse, Cohasset.

This "worst class", so dubbed by a teacher because not one member made the honor roll, turned out to be quite a gang.

Miss Gordon, of course, went on to become one of Hollywood's and Broadway's most talented actresses. This year she walked off with a coveted Oscar as best supporting actress in "Rosemary's Baby".

Other class members,who climbed high on the ladder to success and the rungs they reached:

Andrew Deane, vice-president of the U. S. Steel Co.

Ernest Gellotte, professor at MIT.

Leon White, doctor, and Fred Rollins, dentist.

Class President Harry Burr, assistant vice-president Wollaston Federal Savings & Loan Co.

Francis Duggan, co-owner Duggan Brothers North Quincy Automobile agency.

John Dingwell, U. S. Navy captain.

The class left behind a valuable lesson for adults of their day and of today: Give youth a chance to find itself.

ATTENTION, MOTHERS: Current issue of the South Shore Cerebral Palsy news-letter carries this item on pregnancy weight:

"Data from a study of 15,000 healthy pregnant women suggests that abandonment of the practice of strictly limiting the amount of weight gained during pregnancy may bring a significant decrease in births of low weight infants and the physical and mental problems to which they are heir.

"Mothers in the study population gained up to 35 to 40 pounds during pregnancy. There was a 'precipitous decline' in incidence of underweight babies with increasing maternal weight gain."

HONOR for His Honor: The Massachusetts Federation of Nursing Homes will present a Community Service Award today to Mayor McIntyre. The award cites the Mayor as "one who has made a significant contribution of service and dedicated to the needs of the elderly." Among the contributions is successful legislation allowing senior citizens half-fares on MBTA buses. The award presentation will be made at a luncheon in the Commonwealth Room of the Sheraton-Boston Hotel.

SPEAKING OF HONORS, Nick Papani and Frank Hackett have received the latest Merit of Achievement Awards presented by colleagues for exemplifying Rotary's motto of "service above self."

INCIDENTALLY, the Rotary Club's current news-letter describes recent guest speaker Sen. William D. Weeks as "looking more like a movie star than a politician."

But he's still a good looking politician, too. Political observers see him as a strong potential GOP candidate for lieutenant governor.

Hancock Bank Plans For Sheridan's Hailed

Extensive renovations to the Sheridan Building, by the Hancock Bank and Trust Company were hailed last night as a "major improvement to the renaissance of downtown Quincy," by William A. O'Connell, executive vice-president of the Quincy South Shore Chamber of Commerce.

He said that the renovations will strengthen Quincy Square's position as the financial center of the Metropolitan Quincy area.

Plans for the renovations to the bank's new central office were announced by Francis A. Hunt, secretary of Hancock Bank and Trust Company. He said the renovations will cost, a substantial sum. It is estimated they may reach as high as $1 million.

A 20-year lease with options to purchase the building at a later date has been signed by the bank with owners, John W. Kapples and John W. Kapples, Jr.

While plans for renovations have not yet been detailed, the bank's board of trustees has decided to provide completely new front, side, and rear outer walls. Mr. Hunt noted, "The building should be one of the most modern in the area."

Among the highlighting features of the building will be its computer facilities. The bank had already leased a Burrows 500 and sophisticated quarters will be provided for it in the Sheridan building. With the renovations, Hancock Bank customers will be provided with computer services not possible in the present home office.

The bank is planning to utilize the basement, first, and second floors of the building, and will turn the upper floors into rented office space.

No precise arrangements have yet been made for the sale of the bank's presently occupied building.

Mr Hunt said the bank is also considering opening a new branch office on the Southern Artery in the former Howard Johnson's building.

Oil Spillage Bill Takes Step

A bill, designed to curb damaging oil spillage from cargo tankers by imposing heavy fines on oil terminal owners to supply container booms, has taken its first step forward.

Sen. President Maurice A. Donahue and House Speaker David M. Bartley yesterday agreed to allow the proposed legislation to be admitted as a late-filed bill for consideration this year.

Rep. Clifford H. Marshall [D-Quincy] and Rep. Robert B. Ambler [D-Weymouth], co-authors of the bill, today are seeking needed approval from members of the Joint Rules Committee.

Rep. Marshall said he is "very optimistic" the bill will leave the committee favorably and will receive the needed four-fifth vote of the House to set a public hearing.

The bill has already received the endorsement of more than 25 representatives and co-sponsors.

Under the bill, owners or operators of oil terminals would be fines $1,000 for failure to supply cargo tankers with container booms while unloading.

Eng Endorsed

Robert Leo Eng, present Department Vice Commander of the American Legion, Department of Massachusetts, has received unanimous endorsement from ten posts for Elections will be held July 11, at the 51st annual Department Convention, Springfield, Mass.

DiStefano In Ward 3 Bid

Pasquale S. [Pat] DiStefano of 38 Payne St., announced his candidacy yesterday for City Council in Ward Three. The announcement was made at a reception at the home of the candidate's Mother, 40 Payne St.

Mr. DiStefano, 38, is a life-long resident of Ward three, where he attended the Hancock, Lincoln and Sterling Jr. High Schools. A decorated Korean War Veteran, he was awarded South Korean Presidential Citation., for distinctive service in the Pusan area.

Following military service, the candidate completed high school with high honors and attended MIT evenings. He is currently a dean's list student at Quincy Jr. College. DiStefano plans to transfer to Harvard for major study in political science and Government.

DiStefano is married to the former Ardeth E. Yorke of Quincy, and they have three daughters, Tracy, 4, Lesly 2, and Marcy 2 weeks.

A founding member of the Southwest Community Council, DiStefano is a director of the Community Action Organization of Quincy, a charter member of the Quincy Citizen's Association, secretary of the John Quincy Adams Club, a member of the DAV and American Legion and the founder of the newly-formed Ward Three Civic Association.

He served as 1968 Ward Chairman of the Quincy Cancer Crusade, and was Quincy house to house chairman in the 1969 Crusade. He received an American Cancer Society citation for volunteer leadership last year.

DeStefano was a successful primary nominee in 1967 but was defeated by the incumbent that year.

DiStefano has voiced criticism of the administration for not following up on campaign promises in the Ward three area. He noted the lack of a library in Ward Three, and emphasized that "a defunct bookmobile is not the answer."

Recreational facilities in Ward three are among the worst in the city and "a concentrated and sincere effort to modernize the parks is a must", DiStefano said. He also urged the extension of operating hours at Ward three parks.

On schools, DiStefano cited and "unwarranted delay" in building the new elementary school approved for South Quincy. "Should it require two to three years to get the building up, while children are bussed within Ward three, due to lack of space?"

Book Describes 'Old Nantasket'

Former Hull selectman Dr. William M. Bergan has written a new enlarged edition of "Old Nantasket" which is being sold in local bookstores.

The book, published by the Christopher Publishing House, North Quincy, is illustrated with photographs of Old Nantasket when it was the East Coast's most famous summer resort.

It took Dr. Bergan almost five years to collect and write the material for the book. A lifetime resident of Hull, Dr. Bergan is known to many as a walking history book on Hull and Old Nantasket

Dump Opponents Assist Latest Plan

The city's most persistent problem–dumping–has taken on a new ray of hope with support developing from the St. Moritz Association for a compromise solution to the long-standing disposal dilemma.

Staunch opponents of a previous plan for landtakings and access road construction in the West Quincy area, the residents group has lined up behind a revised plan approved by a 6-3 City Council vote Monday.

Under the temporary plan, dumping operations will begin in the fall at Cashman's quarry. Dump sites for so-called "demolition" material will also be acquired at Swingle's and Granite Rail quarries, formerly opposed by St. Moritz members.

The way was paved for easier sailing for the latest proposals by meetings between Mayor James R. McIntyre and members of the West Quincy Association, which had strongly opposed plans for extension of dumping operations in their residential area.

The sessions between Mayor McIntyre and the civic group produced assurances that residential rights and property concerns would be respected.

Residential safeguards in the City Council order outlining the dumping proposal were explained to residents conferring with Mayor McIntyre, a St. Moritz spokesman said.

The Association official expressed satisfaction with the compromise plan that reduced the opposition of the residents. Six West Quincy residents, including St. Moritz Association president Robert E. Watts, Jr., and dumping chairman Ernest Coose.

The residential dumping committee named by Mayor McIntyre, said one St. Moritz member, "will be in a position to exercise some control over this problem.

The city has at least temporarily abandoned plans for a landtaking that would have included two West Quincy properties and stirred up strong residential hostility. Access road plans were also revised after meeting with united opposition. A present access road to Cashman's Quarry, Swingle's Rd., will be utilized after it is widened.

The City Hall sessions also achieved for residents a supervisory role in implementing proper sanitary landfill procedures at the new dumping sites. In addition to serving in a watchdog role over the area dumping operations, the new committee is empowered to submit plans and proposals for future and more permanent solutions to the recurring dumping controversy.

Cadets Set For Harbor Cruise

The U. S. Navy League Cadets, commissioned June 15 at ceremonies at Quincy Vocational Technical High School gymnasium, will take a three-hour harbor cruise on "The Irene" through the courtesy of Dick Sutherland, Friday evening.

The 30 Quincy, Weymouth, and Braintree youths, sponsored by the Southeastern Massachusetts Council of the Navy League of the United States, are 12 to 14 years old.

During the cruise the boys, who will be in uniform, will participate in both training and recreational activities.

Math Prizes

Two North Quincy High School graduated seniors have been announced as prize winners of the Fifth Annual Olympiad High School Prize Competition in Mathematics.

Christopher L. Cavanagh, second prize winner, received a gold medal. Receiving a bronze medal was Paul Maloney.

STUDENT EXCHANGE

Quincy High Senior To Summer In Japan

Darlene D'Olimpio, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carmine D'Olimpio, 70 South Walnut St., and a student at Quincy High School, will spend her summer in Japan on the American Field Service exchange student program.

The expenses for the summer are being paid for by the Quincy High School AFS club which raises money through school activities. The club also collects funds to bring a student to this country. This year's QHS foreign student was Guadalupe Silva of Peru.

The screening process begins in September for those juniors desirous of spending a summer or the senior year abroad. The summer program includes countries in the northern hemisphere, while the school program involves both the northern and southern hemispheres.

Darlene will be spending the summer with a Japanese family, and will attend classes through July. The purpose of the trip is to get an insight into the people, culture and life of another area by sharing a family and community experience.

Upon return to this country in her senior year, Darlene hopes to share her experiences in Quincy by speaking engagements and informal discussions.

ACTIVE SENIOR CITIZENS

The Quincy Point Senior Citizens Group, the newest group to be formed under the direction of the Quincy Council on Aging Office, has planned a summer of varied activities. On July 8 the group will go on a trip to Rockport and on August 12 an outside picnic will be held at the Fore River Clubhouse, where the meetings of the group are held.

In charge of arrangements for the events are Mrs. Betty James chairman, Mrs. Mary Pitts, Mrs Laura Rounds, Mrs. Violet Grace Mrs. Mary Barton, Mrs. Isabelle Dowd and Mrs. Hilda Muir.

Teenagers Rate A 'Well Done'

Nowadays you seldom pick up a newspaper without seeing a story about teenagers in trouble.

But how about the nice kids? There's a lot of them around, who deserve a little recognition. And Squantum has its share.

Like the teenagers who give a good part of the summer to operating the Squantum Boys' Baseball League so that other youngsters can have the chance to participate in a wholesome activity.

For the past three years the Squantum program has been a thriving, enjoyable, and well participated-in project, organized almost exclusively by teenage boys.

The administrator of the league, Gerard Connolly, is 19 years old. And the coaches, Fred Daly, Pat Daly, Jim Machado, Bill Gardner, Steve Donaghey, Leo Meehan, Steve Behenna, Bill Baggs Steve Larner, and Bob Driscoll, are all between the ages of 15 and 17.

Three adults assist in organizing and coaching. They are Jim Stephenson, Joe LaCamera, and Dave Raftery. Umpires are Fran Whall, Bob Newton and Al McInnis.

The league itself operates four nights a week from early May to the Fourth of July, when the All Star Games are played. The League has two divisions, the Little League, 60 boys, age 8-10, and the Big League, 61 boys, ages 10-12.

The teenage boys participating in this endeavor are a credit to the community, to their generation, and to their parents. The large turnout at the annual Baseball Banquet, this year to be held on July 18, is evidence that people acknowledge the community spirit and awareness which these teenagers possess and which enhances to very much the Squantum Boys' Baseball League.

They rate a "Well Done"

Ken Coleman Happy To Be Back Home

By TOM SULLIVAN

KEN COLEMAN

Back in 1947 a young fellow by the name of Ken Coleman was a sports announcer for Station WJDA in Quincy.

Now, more than 20 years later this same Ken Coleman is in his fourth year as the Voice of the Red Sox for station WHDH in Boston.

During the more than 20 years it took the North Quincy High school graduate to come home, Ken became one of the best known sports announcers in the country.

"It took more than 20 years to get back home, but it was well worth the wait," said Ken, who succeeded Curt Gowdy in 1966 as an announcer of Red Sox games and sports director of WHDH.

Ken became famous during 14 years in Cleveland as announcer for the Browns' pro football team. During 10 of those years he also announced the Indians' baseball games.

He carries many fond memories of those years in Cleveland but admits "it is good to get home again."

Coleman attended North Quincy schools and graduated from North Quincy High in 1943. He pitched on the high school baseball team and on the Sacred Heart CYO team.

Among his teammates were Dick Donovan, a major league pitcher for 14 years and now a Cohasset neighbor of Coleman's, and Dick's brother-in-law, Jack Casey, a resident of Hingham.

"Dick played shortstop and did some pitching and Jack was our third baseman," Ken pointed out.

Ken's high school coach was Hal Forrest and Robby Williams was his CYO skipper. He has high praise for each of them.

Coleman actually became interested in announcing during the eighth grade.

"In the eighth grade I was shot in the eye in a gun accident and during a long period of recuperation, I bought myself a dice baseball game and a dice football game," he said. "I would announce these games to myself and that is when I actually decided I'd like to be an announcer.

"I must admit that when I saw a Red Sox or Braves game I spent as much time watching Fred Hoey and the other announcers as I did the ball players."

After graduating from North, Ken spent three years in the Army.

In 1946 he attended Curry College for a year, then received his first announcing job.

"Art King had a program known as the Veterans' Job Center of the Air on Station WEEI," he said. "He gave young aspiring announcers a chance to appear on the show and as a result of my appearance, I went to Rutland, Vermont, in 1947 as play-by-play announcer of their games in the Northern League. The league had many players who became major league stars, such as Johnny Antonelli, Robin Roberts and Ebba St. Claire, who then managed Rutland."

In December of 1947 he joined WJDA in Quincy. He stayed there until August of 951 when he went to WNEB in Worcester. During that time he also did Boston University football games.

In August of 1952 he moved to Cleveland to begin his long and successful tenure with the Browns and Indians..

After 10 years doing both the Browns and Indians games, he was given a choice by Gabe Paul of the Indians to stop one or the other.

"To this day I don't know the reason behind this," he explained. "Although there was a little conflict between the two when the Browns started before the Indians stopped, nothing was said for 10 years. I decided to stay with the Browns."

Ken also operated a radio school for several years in Cleveland.

He made many close friends among players of both teams, expecially the Browns, and several have been Ken's guests when visiting Boston. He has had Lou Groza as his guest several times.

When Curt Gowdy quit the Sox to join NBC, Ken quickly applied for the job and was selected to be the new Voice of the Red Sox.

In his first year in Cleveland the Indians won the pennant but Ken admits he received an even bigger thrill when the Red Sox won the pennant two years ago in his second year here, because they barely finished out of the cellar the year before.

Ken has had numerous thrills during his broadcasting career but never announced a no-hitter until Tom Phoebus of the Orioles turned the trick last year against the Sox. He has announced many one-hitters and two-hitters, however.

The Red Sox-Cardinals World Series two years ago was Ken's first but he has announced two College all-star games putting the pro champs against the college star team, and seven times did the NFL championship game.

He was honored 12 times by the American Federation of Radio and Television Broadcasters and five times was named Ohio's outstanding sportscaster.

One of Ken's biggest thrills in baseball occurred when he announced the Indians' games when Dick Donovan was a 20-game winner. "I can't describe what a great thrill I received seeing my old school chum winning 20," he said.

Coleman performed an unusual feat several years ago which may never have been duplicated.

"I announced an afternoon game between the Indians and Orioles, caught a 5:50 plane and, due to time changes, arrived in Los Angeles at 6:50, then announced the Browns-Rams football game at the Coliseum," he explained.

Ken is married to the former Ellen Veader of Boston. They are parents of five children, Casey, 18, a fine athlete at Cohasset High, from where he graduated last week; Kerry, 16 Kathleen, 15; Susan, 14, and Billy 10.

Casey, president of his senior class, excelled in football and baseball, while Kathy had an outstanding season this spring for the girls' softball team at Cohasset, despite being only a freshman. Kerry, Kathy and Susan all swam with the Cohasset Swim Team, second in the South Shore League, last summer.

Ken loves to exercise and one of his hobbies is skin diving. He also plays a lot of pool in the winter time. "Being an announcer is a hectic life and I find exercising a wonderful way to relieve the tension," he said.

And just about everyone knows Ken's famed brother, the illustrious Bill, who gained fame on the Atlantic commercials during Red Sox games for several years and who currently works behind the scenes on the commercials. Bill is president of Blacker and Holland Lumber Co. in Quincy, and is kept busy as an after-dinner speaker.

Morrisette Starts Fast, Quincy Shows Promise

Morrisette Legion baseball team defending champion in District 6, is off and running again and tonight seeks its third straight win without a loss when it entertains Randolph at Adams Field., at 5:50 p.m.

Morrisette plays at Dedham Sunday afternoon and is home to Milton Tuesday at Adams.

Meanwhile Quincy Post 95, which had only a 7-10 record a year ago, shows promise of doing much better this year as it broke even in its first two games, losing a heartbreaker Tuesday to Morrisette. The Quincy nine plays at Weymouth tonight is home to Foxboro Sunday at Adams and travels to Braintree Tuesday.

Morrisette and Quincy, following opening day victories last Sunday, collided Tuesday before a good crowd at rejuvenated Adams Field. After dedication ceremonies, the rivals battled through three scoreless innings before Quincy scored three times in the top of the fourth.

Hits by Bob Pastor and Steve Brustin combined with a pair of errors accounted for the runs off right-hander Steve Mc Devitt.

However, Morrisette, under veteran coaches Connie Carlozzi and Fran Rinaldi, bounced back and scored twice in the fifth. A single by Ron DiNardo was followed by prodigous triples by Steve Carrera and Al Gallotta.

1 The defending champs tied it in the sixth on a walk to Bob Edwards, Ted Meyer's single and a passed ball. Morrisette got a tough break when McDevitt, attempting a squeeze bunt, was called out for being hit by a batted ball.

In the seventh and final inning Carrera opened with a line single to center, stole second, went to third on a wild pitch and scored the winning run on Jerry Connolly's single to center. McDevitt ran into trouble in the top of the seventh but was saved some trouble when on an infield hit, filling the bases, the runner on first overran second and was thrown out. With the bases loaded and two outs, Paul Duff relieved his Quincy High teammate and struck out the final batter.

McDevitt pitched well and was in trouble only in the fourth and seventh, while southpaw Frank Bosta, who blanked Quincy High on one hit for North in the final Greater Boston League game, hurled well until the fifth.

Carrera, Quincy High's sensational batter, had his triple and two singles to pace Morrisette, while Gallotta had a triple, Di Nardo, Connolly, Edwards and Meyer a single apiece. For Quincy Jim Alberino had two hits, Pastor and Brustin one each.

Dr. Mann First Layman To Head Nazarene Church

Dr. Edward S. Mann, president of Eastern Nazarene College Quincy, was elected chairman of the General Board of the international Church of the Nazarene at the organizational meeting in Kansas City, Missouri.

The board was enlarged to include 39 members.

Dr. Mann, the first layman president of Eastern Nazarene, as board president takes a post ordinarily filled by an ordained minister.

Dr. Mann has degrees from Eastern Nazarene and Boston University and honorary doctorates from Northwest Nazarene College and the University of Vermont, the latter a doctor of divinity, unusual for a layman.

He taught high school and college math before joining the Eastern Nazarene Administration in 1941. He has been president since 1948.

He was on the Quincy School Committee for ten years and received the Jaycees Distinguished Service Award in 1968. He is Director of Y.M.C.A., Boy Scouts, Red Cross, Protestant Social Service Bureau, Mental Health Association, Evangelistic Association of New England and General Theological Library.

The denomination, which has international headquarters in Kansas City, supports missionaries in 45 countries. It has 8,395 clergymen, 6,089 churches and 513,957 members.

'Rev. Mr. Porteus Day'

Mayor James R. McIntyre has proclaimed Sunday as "Rev. Mr. Porteus Day." in tribute to his 25 years service to Christ Episcopal Church and the Quincy community.

In his proclamation, Mayor McIntyre said Rev. Chester A. Porteus "has faithfully and willingly given of himself to those associated with him."

Rev. and Mrs. Porteus, who recently celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary, will be honored at a special Vesper Service and reception Sunday.

The service will be at 4 p.m. at Christ Church with the reception following in the Parish House.

Mayor McIntyre cited Rev. Mr. Porteus for his many activities during his 25 years in Quincy, including: a member of the Board of Examining Chaplains for the Diocese of Massachusetts; a member of the American Society of Church History; a member of the Diocesan Council; Director, and former President, of the General Theological Library of Boston; a member of the Department of Public Relations of the Massachusetts Council of Churches; Protestant Chaplain to the Quincy Fire Department; Chaplain of the Quincy Rotary Club, Rural Masonic Lodge and Taleb Groto.

Rev. Mr. Porteus attended Malden public schools and was awarded a Bachelor of Science degree in 1926 from Boston University. He then entered the Episcopal Theological School in Cambridge, graduating with the degree of Bachelor of Divinity in 1929, and was ordained Deacon by the late Bishop Slattery.

For two years he was associated with the Church of The Holy Trinity, New York and was ordained to the Priesthood in 1930 by Bishop Larned of Long Island. In 1931-1932 he served as a Rector in New York.

Returning to Massachusetts, Rev. Mr. Porteus served at St. Mark's, Dorchester, St. Paul's, Natick, and St. Paul's, Hopkinton, until he was called to Quincy in 1944. He was instituted as Rector of Christ Church, Oct. 1, 1944.

St. Joseph's Elects New CYO Officers

New officers have been elected by St. Joseph's CYO. Heading the slate is George Ford, president. Also elected were: Kathy Erickson, vice president; Cathy Trubiano, secretary; Mike Hanratty, treasurer and Barbara Pugliesi, delegate. CYOer of the Year awards were also presented. Mark Zanowski and Patricia Ford were the recipients of these awards.

Tomorrow [Friday] evening, at 7:30 p.m. St. Joseph's Grammar School Gym and Dance class will present a recital at the Fore River Club House, Nevada Rd.

Sixty boys and girls have participated in the gym and dance instruction offered weekly at St. Joseph's School by the Art Linkletter Dance Studio. Relatives and friends of the children are invited to the Recital.

North Quincy Catholic Women Present Officers

The Catholic Women's Club of North Quincy held their last meeting of the season June 11 at the Sacred Heart School.

Dinner was served and a business meeting followed with Mrs. Henry Leschernier presiding.

Annual reports were given and a check was presented to Msgr. Richard J. Harvko.

Mrs. William McLellan, chairman of the nominating committee presented the following slate of officers:

President, Mrs. Thomas Allison; 1st vice president, Mrs. John Mullaney; 2nd vice president, Mrs. Paul Crowley; recording secretary, Mrs. Thomas Gallagher; financial secretary, Mrs. William Roach; treasurer, Mrs. Vincent Todd; welfare board, Mrs. Thomas Albison, Mrs. Henry Leschernier and Mrs. Robert Cristeau.

Flowers were presented to both presidents. Mrs. Thomas Albison announced there would be a clam bake on August 3, at Merrymount Park. A program was then presented in honor of Mrs. Leschernier, outgoing president entitled "A President's Dream" or what is "Terry really Like"

Elks Stage Annual Outing For Palsied June 29

The tenth annual summer outing for cerebral palsied children and adults, together with members of their families, will be held at the South Shore Plaza Twin "Drive-In" Theatre in Braintree on Sunday, June 29, at 1:30 p.m.

The affair is sponsored annually by the Quincy Lodge of Elks headed by Richard J. McCormick, exalted ruler, and George C. Fay, chairman of the Elks Cerebral Palsy Committee and a member of the CP Board of Directors.

Dr. Merrill, president of the organization, will present Mr. Fay with a citation of appreciation for his service in the cause of Cerebral Palsy. Thirteen years ago, Mr. Fay organized the annual Christmas Party, and ten years ago established the Summer Outing which have provided social and personal experiences for the extremely handicapped victims of Cerebral Palsy and their families.

Entertainment will consist of singing, professional acts, clowns and rides on the amusements

Golden Milestone For Nazarene Mission

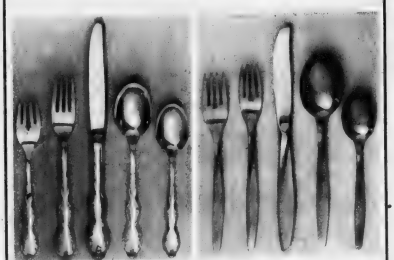
The New England district Nazarene Missionary Society, which has sent a missionary overseas for each of its 50 years, will mark its golden anniversary June 16-17 at Wollaston Nazarene Church.

The meeting, which will honor first president, Miss Mary Cove of Wollaston, will precede the annual district assembley June 17-19, bringing together delegates from five New England States [all but Maine].

The Rev. Kenneth Pearsall of Quincy will give his first report as district superintendent. The assembly will be led by Dr. George Coulter of Kansas City, Mo., a general superintendent.

Speaker at the missionary convention will be the Rev. Dr. E. S. Philips, also of Kansas City, executive secretary of the department of world missions which supervises 600 missionaries, doctors, nurses, teachers and builders in 48 countries.

At the assembly plans will be made for district participation in a denominational membership drive, pastors will give annual reports, and the future of the campground at North Reading will be decided.



The district added one church, Maynard, in the past year.

It was also announced that the Rev. Kenneth Pearsall, former superintendent of Upstate New York Nazarene District, has been named superintendent of the New England District.

save on International flatware at South Shore National Bank

The price: just $3, tax included, for a five-piece place setting.
The catch: you've got to open a savings or checking account for $25 or more or add $25 or more to your present savings or checking account. Additional deposits of $25 or more, of course, allow you to buy additional place settings at the same low price.
The nice little touch: we give you your fifth place setting free. And after you've collected 12 place settings, we give you a set of six teaspoons free too.
It pays to get your silver at our bank.

MOTOROLA

Knights Of Pythias Award

The Quincy Presidents' Lodge, Knights of Pythias, held its second annual Scholarship Award Supper last night.

The award is presented to a graduating senior at the Quincy Vocational-Technical High School to be used to further his education or to obtain tools for his use in his chosen trade.

Presidents' Lodge is the first fraternal organization to present such an award to a vocational student.

GUEST OF HONOR

Mark Mathieson of Hull was this year's recipient and guest of honor at the supper. He was chosen for his academic standing and proficiency in the machine shop.

Scholarship chairman Max Noodell and co-chairman Paul Bailey presented Mathieson with a set of tools to be used in his trade.

DELEGATES–David Grover and Frank Duby represented Presidents Lodge of Quincy, at the 99th annual convention of the Grand Lodge Knights of Pythias at the Hotel Somerset, Boston, last Wednesday and Thursday. Harold Robertshaw of Somerville, was elected Grand Chancellor of the Massachusetts Domain which numbers 77 lodges and 10,000 members.

SATISFIELD CUSTOMERS and gleaming garments result from the Sanitone process used at Beacon Cleaners. Supervising the control of the exclusively licensed equipment is Kenneth Grippi, son of owner Joseph Grippi. The Sanitone cleaning process has been recommended by leading clothing manufacturers.

While longtime experience plays a great role in the operation of Beacon Cleaners, antiquity has no part in Mr. Joseph Grippi's dry cleaning business.

Mr. Grippi notes that he has been in the business for 45 years himself, beginning as an apprentice in a Quincy tailor shop which is still open. He founded Beacon Cleaners on Hancock St. in 1947 and then in 1950 moved to his present location, 624 Hancock St., Wollaston.

Mr. Grippi employs 14 persons, and among the presser, the seamstress, the tailor, and himself, there is a combined total of 155 years of experience. Such a record is reassuring to every customer, very difficult to match.

Kenneth Grippi, his son, has been experienced and active in the dry cleaning business since he was 12 years old. Ken is the youngest on the capable staff, and he is a graduate of the National Institute of Dry Cleaning. In addition, he holds a certificate of resident instruction in the craft of dry cleaning.

All this experience and ability is certainly not housed in the same environment in which it perhaps originated. Rather, Beacon Cleaners prides itself on utilizing the most modern of equipment and facilities.

The clothes storage vault is totally automatically controlled. It has modern controlled refrigeration, dehumidification control, and is fumigated once a month, a claim few other Tradesmen can make.

Having expanded three times and having completely renovated, Beacon Cleaners is equipped for any dry cleaning or tailoring.

An invitation is extended to anyone who cares to tour the Beacon Cleaners facilities. Arrangements are graciously made for a guided tour, to view a business marked by a very modrn sort of experience, ability, and customer consideration.

Why "Charlie the Coach" and the boys went to Fenway...

To celebrate naturally. Several things. Charlie's boys had just knocked off their third straight win in the Quincy softball league. George, the third-baseman, had just received a hefty check from the Yard for a work-improvement suggestion he'd made to management. Good for $350, which is about his batting average.

Fact is, everybody's celebrating at Quincy these days. Why not? The new contract is the longest and best ever. It runs for five years with an immediate increase of 20-cents-an-hour. On top of this, there'll be regular increases over the contract life. And, starting in 1970, the company will pay the full cost of group insurance.

Why not get in on the celebrating? Maybe try out for one of these positions on the Quincy team:

Downtown Meeting

Quincy Architect Joseph A. Donahue will speak on "Quincy Square And It's Problems." City Planning Director Geoffrey Davidson will discuss "The Need For Planning and Improvement."

"This meeting is of extreme importance to the businessmen and the future of downtown Quincy," said Percy. "The continued development of the area and protection of the investment business men already have here are at stake.

"Cooperation between the businessmen and the Chamber of Commerce in the past has been important. Their continued cooperation in the future is even more vital.

"The opportunity for potential growth has never been better than at the present. Therefore it is most imperative that we all work together to bring these potentialities to a reality.

Percy concluded:

"We can't sit back and twiddle our thumbs. We have got to roll up our sleeves and go to work. Now is the time to do it. Tomorrow could be too late."

Bridge

lift bridge.

A vertical lift bridge would have a moveable span which would be raised between towers to allow vessels to pass through.

According to the DPW, its horizontal opening could be wider than a draw bridge and its opening time shorter than a swing bridge.

General Dynamics had proposed conversion of one of the spans of the present bridge from draw to swing.

The DPW said the proposal might be feasible but noted such a conversion would produce stresses beyond the bridge's present capacity to withstand.

Ribbs added:

"Although sufficient time has not been available to make a comprehensive basic design study, it is our distinct feeling that a vertical lift bridge would be a more logical replacement structure for this site to meet the initial conditions or guidelines which were imposed on this study."

The guidelines included widening the horizontal clearance to 300 feet and keeping land-taking at a minimum.

A new project bridge, it was noted, would be eligible to 50 per cent federal funding.

The DPW estimated it would take up to two years to complete necessary design work for a new bridge.

McIntyre said he hoped the design work could be completed much sooner than the possible two-year period so the "we can have a much needed modern bridge by the early 1970's."

Harvard Orator Delivers Latin Tribute To Pusey

A Harvard summa cum laude student from Quincy delivered the Latin Salutory address at Harvard Commencement exercises last Thursday before about 15,000 persons in the Harvard Yard.

Achieving the high scholastic honor was Latin orator Dean Paul Nicastro, 45 Edison St., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Nicastro. He received an A.B. degree, with highest honors, in classics.

Nicastro, hailed Harvard President Nathan M. Pusey with strong words of endorsement for Pusey's actions during the disturbances at Harvard this past April.

Speaking in the wake of a walk-out by several people following an unscheduled speech by a representative of radical elements, Nicastro solemnly addressed Dr. Pusey:

"Most gratefully do we salute you, first and foremost, Nathan Marsh Pusey, president of the University. Undaunted in the cause of Truth, you recently defended Harvard against anarchy and demagoguery, while not a few teachers and students sent astray." The Latin words "contra anarchiam, contra demagogiam rem nostram Harvardianam intrepide defendisti" thundered from the loudspeakers as the Latin orator, speaking without a text before him, made his point clear.

After delivering the other traditional salutations to Gov. Francis W. Sargent, the fellows and overseers and board of preachers of Harvard College, and Radcliffe students, Nicastro, using high Ciceronian Latin prose style addressed himself to the theme of his oration which was entitled "De Beneficiis Lowelliensibus."

Reminding his audience that 1969 is the sixtieth anniversary of the accession to the presidency of Harvard of Abbott Lawrence Lowell [president from 1909-1933], Nicastro discoursed at length upon some of the accomplishments of the late Harvard President.

At Harvard, Nicatro was elected to the "Senior Sixteen" of Phi Beta Kappa, and has been awarded the Louis Curtis Prize for excellence in Latin, and the Detur Prize, Harvard College's oldest award.

DEAN NICASTRO

For delivering the Latin Oration, he received the David Taggart Clark Prize.

A Dean's list student for four years, he was a member of the Harvard-Radcliffe Classics Club, the Harvard Pre-Law Society, and the Harvard-Radcliffe Catholic Club. He will attend Harvard Law School in the fall. He was also awarded the Arthur DeLoraine Corey Traveling Fellowship by the Harvard Graduate School of Arts & Sciences.

A graduate of Boston College High School, Dorchester, Nicastro was class valedictorian there in June, 1965. A student in the classical course at B.C. High, he was enrolled in the National Honor Society and was a member of the Varsity Debating Society, the Homeric Academy, and the Botolphian Literary Staff.

An honors student for all four years in high school, he was the recipient of numerous gold and silver medals in various subjects, of the College of the Holy Cross Mathematics Award, and of a Letter of Commendation from the National Merit Scholarship Corp. In 1965 he was one of seven students in the country to receive an A grade in the CEEB Supplementary Achievement test in Greek.

Nicastro was employed last summer as a research assistant to the Quincy Mayor, James R. McIntyre, working with the Community Action Program.

Wins Degree At Bowdoin

Walter Warren Simmons of North Quincy, was awarded a Bachelor of Arts degree Saturday at Bowdoin College's 164th Commencement Exercises.

Simmons, the son of Mrs. Phillip L. Simmons of 10 Herbert Rd., North Quincy, is a graduate of Deerfield Academy in Deerfield, Mass.

An Art major, Simmons was a Dean's List student. He entered Bowdoin with an Alumni Scholarship.

A talented photographer, Simmons was recently awarded a Thomas J. Watson Foundation traveling fellowship for a year of independent study and travel.

Heads Alumni At Framingham

Miss Barbara Crowley, 18 Kimball St., Quincy, was elected to the office of president of the Alumni Association of Framingham State College at the recent Alumni Day at the College.

Miss Crowley, a member of the Class of 1962, previously served on the Board of Directors of the Alumni Association, and from 1967 to May, 1969, was first vice president. She is presently teaching in the Quincy School Department.

Award Quincy Students Degrees At Wentworth

Ten Quincy residents were among the 825 seniors and 120 graduate students awarded Associate in Engineering Technology or Applied Science degrees at the 57th annual Wentworth Institute commencement exercises at Boston's War Memorial Auditorium on June 14.

Graduating with High scholastic attainment were:

Kenneth E. Cantrell, 36 Pembroke St., associate degree in applied science for electronic technology; Angelo D. Piccarini, 6 Endicott St., associate degree for electronic engineering technology.

Other Quincy graduates were:

Donald F. Comoletti, 43 Forest Ave., associate degree in applied science for electronic technology; Charles W. Cramer, 61 Holyoke St., associate degree in applied science for building construction on technology; Peter W. Gately, Jr., 58 Montclair Ave., associate degree in applied science for aeronautical technology; Robert W. Hackney, 194 Elmwood Ave., associate degree in applied science for building construction technology; Michael V. Ladrigan, 72 Narragansett Rd., associate degree in applied science for mechanical design technology; Glendon H. LeLacheur, 49 Hodges Ave., associate degree in applied

Scholarship

Miss Elaine Bonomi has been awarded a $100 scholarship from the Quincy Finnish-American Association. A 1969 graduate of Quincy High School, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bonomi, 97 Forest Ave. She will begin nurses training at the New England Baptist Hospital School of Nursing.

Semi-Mall Proposed

Traffic, Parking Study Urged For Downtown Area

Creation of a semi-mall like shopping atmosphere, an in-depth traffic-parking-planning study and special trade promotions are among major recommendations to revitalize the downtown Quincy business area.

The proposals–spliced between an appeal for "greater unity" in the downtown business community–were outlined at a meeting of business and professional men Tuesday at the Neighborhood Club of Quincy.

Edward F. Percy, president of the Merchants Division of the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce who served as moderator bluntly told the near 200 in attendance that competition from nearby shopping centers presents "the greatest crisis in the history of downtown Quincy."

He urged the merchants to back the Chamber of Commerce and to support the proposed Mechanic St. off-street parking area.

Bernard C. Moore, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, disclosing plans for a novel trade show, the "Idea Fair for Brides and Young Marrieds" to be held at the Quincy Armory next Feb. 21-22, stressed:

"There is a need for a greater unity, commitment and cooperation on the part of downtown businessmen."

Quincy architect Joseph A. Donahue, speaking on "Quincy Square And Its Problems" cited as the most evident problems:

–A bad auto traffic pattern.

–A confliction of auto and pedestrian circulation.

–The lack of a relaxed atmosphere to browse and enjoy the stores and shops.

–Glaring signs that make the area "a honky-tonk exhibit".

Donahue recommended that:

"We build extensions on to Hancock St. roadway with walks, benches and trees to establish a semi-mall type atmosphere in the heart of the downtown shoping area.

"A traffic study of downtown Quincy is needed and restricting auto movement through Hancock St. should be a primary consideration in the study."

Donahue sharply criticized the downtown area for its "vulgarity of signs that blight the area."

"We have," he said, "a great number of signs yelling 'Here I Am' instead of saying 'Hello' ".

He showed colored slides of the downtown area with views of store signs over-hanging the sidewalks.

He called Quincy "a changing city" noting the coming of the MBTA, a new Quincy District Courthouse, the proposed Government Center, new industry, roads and bridges.

"The merchants should keep pace," he declared. "Get rid of the honky-tonk signs and make

Interest Rates Zoom

Quincy Squeezed By Tight Dollar Market

The cost of money is going up with Quincy and its taxpayers caught in the tight dollar squeeze.

Borrowing is a routine procedure for cities awaiting personal and real estate tax revenues, but the interest rates have zoomed alarmingly. An all-time high cost for municipal borrowing is predicted by Treasurer and Tax Collector David R. Houston.

The keeper of the household budget can sympathize with the city's problems in meeting its bills while waiting for its own payday from the taxpayer.

But the $187,581.00 net cost to Quincy for a short-term $7.5 million loan "is an all-time high" for the borrowing privilege, says Houston.

Municipal interest rates usually hover in the three percantiles, Houston notes. But when the city borrowed $1.25 million a week ago, the rate had peaked at 6.15 per cent. The sharp interest in the prime lending rates have thrown the short-term borrowing market into an equal incline, Houston points out.

Two years ago, the city was borrowing money at a refreshing 2.08 per cent. Last week's grim assessment marked a 4.07 per cent increase in a little more than two years.

For those interested in interest, it will cost the city an estimated $48,000-plus to borrow a needed $2 million for 146 days. The loan will be repaid on Nov. 12 in amounts bearing 5.10, 5.95 and 6.15 per cent.–"The highest interest rates paid by the city in many a moon," declares Houston.

When Quincy is in the money market, the loans are put out for bids with the law requiring

Launch 'Kansas City'

The first United States Navy ship to bear the name "Kansas City" will be christened Saturday, June 28 at the Quincy General Dynamics shipyard by Mrs. Harry Darby, wife of a Kansas City industrialist and former United States Senator.

In the tradition of shipbuilding, Mrs. Darby will break a bottle of champagne against the bow of the "Kansas City", sending the 659-foot ship down building ways into the Fore River.

United States Congressman, William J. Randall of Independence, Missouri will be the principal speaker for the christening.

The Congressman's remarks will immediately precede the 10 a.m. christening and launching of the 659-foot vessel by Mrs. Darby.

Congressman Randall represents the Fourth Missouri District, which includes a portion of Kansas City, Missouri. The new ship is the first Navy vessel named after that city and Kansas City, Kansas.

The launching of the new oiler-supply ship will climax a brief ceremony that will start at 9:30 a.m. After being launched, "Kansas City" will be moved to a shipyard outfitting pier for completion and delivery to the Navy early next year.

Pfc. Gary Webb Killed In Vietnam

Marine Pfc. Gary J. Webb, 18, of 14 Estabrook Rd., Wollaston, was killed in Vietnam, the Defense Department notified his parents Tuesday.

Pfc. Webb served on a hospital ship in DaNang. He was a member of the First Marine Division, C Company, 3rd Platoon.

He was a graduate of North Quincy High School and attended the University of Massachusetts.

Pfc. Webb is survived by his parents, four brothers, a sister, and grandparents.

Snug Harbor Library Closes Down Friday

The Snug Harbor Branch of the Thomas Crane Public Library will close permanently tomorrow [Friday].

Books due after or before June 27 may be returned at the Main Library or at any branch library.

The area now occupied by the branch in the Snug Harbor school will be converted into classrooms during the summer.

The new Adams Shore branch library is scheduled to open early in the fall.

HOUSE CALL

By Dr. Charles Djerf
Pediatrician

If you have never experienced the skin irritation of Poison Ivy you have missed a real experience. All the more pleasurable is the recollection of having it and no longer being plagued by the weed.

Yearly, as a boy, perhaps even for the proverbial, traditional "seven" it seemed to recur each spring or summer. Usually quite severely and generally on the exposed parts - that means areas not covered by clothes, as the hands, parts of the arms, face and neck, and if a boy in the genital area. Boys are more prone to be harder hit than girls because of their exploration or invasion of the bushes, woods or fields where the Ivy grows.

It's a shame that a lovely bush or vine such as the Ivy can be a perennial infliction or a curse. Some families make an annual effort to remove the Ivy from their yards and maybe we see less than formerly but enough of it still shows up.

It is also strange that not everybody gets the rash. I recall one bold, brave or perhaps stupid kid who deliberately rubbed his entire body with the leaf and even chewed it - nothing happened. This was no indication of his superiority but a natural protection he had against it. The sensitive ivy "subject" has only to walk in an area where leaves and Ivy are burned, to be sorely afflicted.

The clinical condition of "contact rash" is called permatites Venenata and can be caused by mineral or vegetable irritants. Poison Ivy, called Rhus taxidendron and poison oak Rhus diverisbola are the commonest poisonous plants, although sumac, dogwood, ash and primrose are also effective irritants in our area.

What happens? After contact, several hours, to a few days later a group of watery blisters small or huge - if many of the smaller join each other [like a very severe sunburn] along with redness, swelling, burning and of course itching. What an itch! This is what you mean when referring to someone who irks you - and you wouldn't use an epithet better. They may be linear [as a line] following the area brushed by the plant. The desire to scratch - which is impossible to avoid may tear the areas. Fortunately, infections aren't too common.

Even animals, as dogs or cats, can bring the poison on their skins into the house. If fondled by the vulnerable one - you can expect trouble. This is a lesser possibility but one to be concerned with if a person is known to be especially susceptible.

The question is frequently asked if a person is contagious - that is can one person give it to another. Not usually. Once the eruption has occurred. However, when the person comes out of the woods with the poison on his hands, it can be transferred to, again, that unfortunate person highly disposed to get it. This is not too likely and fortunately doesn't occur too often - but it is a possibility. I wouldn't worry about it. Can it be prevented? We do have a desensitizing or allegedly protective series of injections - given in February over a period of weeks which seems to help some but not all who take it. It's absolutely not indicated when a person is afflicted, as a treatment, because severe reactions can result. Tabu!

The best treatment results come with the use of corticosteroids [cortisone of prednisone] by mouth - even locally by spray or ointment. Your M.D. can outline a course to follow. Antihistamine may help cut the rash too, along with anesthetic preparations.

Did you ever realize that an itch is a mild form of pain - and a little pain is good for you. Isn't it great to be relieved of a discomfort? If you haven't suffered [at least a little] how can you be sympathetic to another or yourself. How can you commiserate? Really, how can you become prepared for life's more miserable challenges.

Houghs Neck Dental Clinic Gets Support

Dr. James Will, Dental Director of the Surposs Clinic in Houghs Neck, in a report to Mayor James R. McIntyre, stated that "since itspening in October 1968 the Surposs Clinic has been well received and utilized by the residents of the Houghs Neck Community.

The clinic performs such services as fillings, cleanings, extractions, x-ray examinations, and root canal emergency treatment on broken teeth.

Dr. Will noted that the clinic, staffed by Dr. Isadore Mundell and receptionist-assistant Mrs. Joanne Towle, "has rendered a valuable service to many adults and children alike." School children with toothaches, abcessed teeth, have been quickly and effectively treated and returned to their classroom within the hour. The clinic, in addition to aid and comfort, offers a reducation of educational time lost by these students.

Dr. Will in his report suggested the maintenance of the program in its present form.

Principal Set For Workshop

Richard K. Chrystal, principal of Central Junior High School, Quincy, has been selected to participate in the fourth annual /I/D/E/A/ Fellows Program for School Administrators. He will attend a one-week session, dealing with the mounting problem of student activism and curriculum relevancy, to be held at Guilford College in Greensboro, North Carolina.

Each year the Institute for Development of Educational Acitivities, Inc., selects 400 outstanding educators from throughout the United States to participate in these professional workshops, which are scheduled at four separate locations in the country. The participants are chosen from among thousands of applications submitted each year.

Halter Visits

A Quincy resident was greeted by Mass. Sen. Edward W. Brooke on his recent visit to Washington, D.C.

Ronald Halter attended the recent Senate Sub-Committee, hearings on campus disorders as a guest of Sen. Brooke. Halter, a Quincy Constable and deputy tax collector, is president-secretary of the South Shore Constable Association.

OLD NANTASKET
by
Dr. William M. Bergan

"OLD NANTASKET is an hilarious account of town politics in the New England style which should be 'must' reading for every student of history . . . though it all there is the bubbling wit of the author that is so scintillating that one cannot put the book down until the last syllable of the final chapter."

Sunbeams

Dr. Charles Djerf hasn't made any official announcement yet but he says he isn't going to seek re-election this fall.

That would seem to confirm a forecast here [May 15] that he was considering stepping down after 16 years of service on the school board.

No doubt many will try to talk him into running for one more term. But he seems quite determined to step down.

There has been speculation that former School Committeeman Charles T. Sweeny will make a comeback bid this year.

Political observers figure that if Djerf goes through with his political retirement plans, he will back Sweeny for the open seat.

GOOD OLD DAYS: Fourth of July celebrations just aren't what they used to be. For proof, realtor Kendall Mills passed along to Quincy Park-Recreation Board Executive Secretary Richard J. Koch a souvenir program of the July 4th celebration in Quincy's Ward 6 back in 1909. It contains a full day of varied activities including--get this--a parade starting at 5:30 A.M!

And mused Mills in a note to Koch:

"I realize that you and your club [Koch Club] have run some good shows, but I don't think you could touch this. I'm afraid nobody gets up at 5:30 to watch a parade any more."

DISTINCTION NOTE: Quincy's George G. Burke notes he is district attorney of the only county [Norfolk] in the U.S. that is the birthplace of three Presidents. The Presidents, of course, are Quincy born John Adams and John Quincy Adams and Brookline-born John F. Kennedy.

• • •

FAMILY AFFAIR: Fred Prezioso and Pasquale [Pat] DiStefano, opponents for the Ward 3 City Council seat are cousins.

FORMER Mayor-Sen. Thomas S. Burgin is in Massachusetts General Hospital for treatment of a skin disorder.

COLLEAGUES are again calling Congressman James A. Burke [D-Milton] "Mr. Speaker". He acted as Speaker of the House the other day during consideration of the Atomic Energy Commission Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1970. This is the second time this year that Burke has wielded the gavel.

LOOK ALIKES: Arthur DiLoreto, one of the servicemen at South Shore Television and pianist-comedian Victor Borge. If he sat down in front of a piano you'd really think he was Borge. [Providing he didn't play, of course.]

SOMETIMES it doesn't pay to be neat. At least Mrs. Louise Brabazon, Mayor McIntyre's Girl Friday, is beginning to think so. It seems the other night, she rolled up her 100-foot length garden hose and neatly placed it on a rack in her yard. A neighbor left her garden hose strung out in the yard. About 3 a.m., someone passed through the two yards and stole--guess which one?

COMING ATTRACTION: Being Mayor has its problems. But there are good days, too. Like for example, Mayor James R. McIntyre will serve as honorary chairman of a softball game to be held Aug. 17, 2:30 p.m. at Adams Field.

The game is being sponsored by the Wollaston United Commercial Travelers with proceeds going to the South Shore Retarded Children's Association.

P. S. The game will feature the Raytheon team and--the Playboy bunnies of Boston.

Yachtsman, Admiral To Cruise

Paul M. O'Shea, 15 Bass St., has been invited by Admiral Joseph C. Wylie, Commandant of the 1st District, to be aboard the USS Constitution during the annual turnabout cruise on Friday.

Mr. O'Shea is a member of the Wollaston Yacht Club and the U. S. Power Squadron. An ardent boating enthusiast, he is the owner of a 25-foot cruiser, Mopo IV.

Mr. O'Shea is territory manager for the F and M Schaefer Brewing Co. and a past exalted ruler of the Quincy Lodge of Elks.

Joseph H. Grant of 35 Winthrop Ave., Wollaston, was recently honored by 150 fellow employees and friends at a party at Vallee's Steak House upon his retirement after 45 years of service with the Procter & Gamble Company.

He started his employment as a junior clerk in the Boston District Sales Office in August 1922 and held the positions of Salesman, Order & Traffic Manager, and Credit Manager. In March 1940, he was transferred to the new Quincy Plant as Cashier. Mr. Grant was promoted to Management in January 1947 as Granules Packing Department Foreman, and has been the Office Manager since April 1947. He helped to organize the Quincy P. & G. Federal Credit Union and served as Treasurer for 26 years.

City Feels Tight Dollar Squeeze

that the lowest bidding institution provide the funds. Nine banks holding fiscal accounts with the city, usually put in bids when the call goes out for funds.

Interest rates on the bids are now ranging between 5.10 to 6.80 per cent "and the banks are really doing us a favor," according to Houston. In a money lender's market, the financial institutions have a wide range of investment possibilities which yield them greater returns than the municipal loans.

As a result of the climbing rates, the city--as other municipalities across the Commonwealth --is running behind in its temporary interest account.

Houston will request an additional $30,000 at the June 30 City Council session. An extra $80,000 to meet increased costs has already been added to the account. The present balance is $12,419, Houston reports.

"I hope that an additional $30,000 will get us by, but I don't know if it will," he says. The total interest account appropriation last year was $100,000 with a supplementary $20,000 request sufficient to meet 1968 needs. This year, the fiscal picture is quite different.

The city met one of its biggest payrolls last week following the close of schools--a $1,785,000 collective paycheck for teachers.

So it will help, notes City Hall, if taxpayers cooperate with prompt payments of real estate and excise taxes when these home and car assessments come due. About 25,743 excise tax notices have been sent out so far. Total committment will require some 1970 billing. But the the city can finally smile in October, the bonanza month for tax receipts.

Five To Get Maritime Degrees

Five Quincy youths will be among the 58 graduates of the Massachusetts Maritime Academy at Buzzards Bay, who will receive a special Bible at Commencement ceremonies on June 28.

They are Stephen L. Bertrand, Rogers St., Richard F. Boussy, Farrington St., Carl S. Brennion, Wampatuck Rd., David J. Crowley, Rockland St., and Joseph L. Whitehouse, Heath St.

Copies of the Bibles in three faiths will be presented each graduate by the 160-year-old Massachusetts Bible Society, one of the oldest in the world.

Each Bible will be engraved in gold with the graduate's name and presented by Rev. Dr. Lawrence Almond, Executive Secretary of the Society.

City's 14 Swimming Stations, 32 Playgrounds Open Monday

The Quincy Recreation Department's summer program of supervised activities for all ages will be in full swing Monday with the opening of 32 playgrounds and 14 swimming stations.

The program will continue through the summer for eight weeks with the playgrounds open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Mondays through Fridays.

Swimming programs will be scheduled according to tides and a boating and water skiing instructional program will be held from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Playground activities for boys and girls six to 16 will include three boy's baseball leagues competing in six different districts. There will also be two softball leagues for girls, junior and senior basketball leagues for boys and a similar league for girls.

Softball will also be stressed, said Park-Recreation Board Chairman James F. McCormick, Sr., but it will be limited to junior and senior girls.

Lionel H. Buckley, Supervisor General, is in charge of a three day preseason training program for all playground personnel, being held through Friday at Atlantic Junior High gymnasium.

William F. Ryan, Director of Recreation, said additional programs of special instruction and activities will be included, such as nature recreation, tennis, archery, crafts, and golf.

Quincy's program has been rated among the top three community programs in the State. The Happy Acres Day Camp for retarded children has Red Cross trained girls giving instruction in beginner, intermediate, swimmer, advanced swimmer, and junior been rated by Mrs. Sargeant Shriver [Eunice Kennedy] as one of the best of its kind in the nation. The camp received a first place award from The Kennedy Foundation for excellency in day camping.

The department's instructional boating and sailing is recognized nationwide. The Black's Creek program, with a fleet of 38 small sail, outboards, and row boats, is for boys and girls eight and over up to adults. All participants must first pass a qualifying swim test at one of the city's 14 swim stations.

Swimming supervisor, Mrs. Chandler Garland, will have19 and senior life saving for an eight week period with schedules set according to the tides.

Youngsters who first pass at least junior life saving will be eligible for instruction in water skiing at five locations along the City's 27 miles of waterfront.

A program of swimming and life saving instruction for Quincy youngsters and their mothers will be held at the 14 swimming stations.

Mrs. Garland has completed an extensive two day program of preseason training for her staff of 19 Red Cross trained swimming instructors.

Registration forms for all phases of the swim program were distributed last week through Quincy public elementary and junior high schools. The forms should be brought to the beach area where lessons are desired.

Mrs. Garland said additional registrations will be accepted throughout the summer so that the youngsters on vacation or at camp will be permitted to enter classes at any time during the course of the program. Preschool youngsters are encouraged to enter the program to get started on their prerequisites that open the door to the recreation department's boating and sailing program at Black's Creek and the instructional water ski program, which is open to all youngsters who pass at least a junior life saving course. Registrations schedule for the swim program:

June 30 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.
July 1 10:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.
July 2 11:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.
July 3 12:30 p.m. to 5:00 p.m.

The 14 swimming stations are:

Avalon - Avalon Ave., Quincy Point
Baker - Palmer St. Snug Harbor
Snug Harbor - Captains Walk, Germantown
Rock Island - Rockland St., Houghs Neck
Perry - Parkhurst St., Houghs Neck

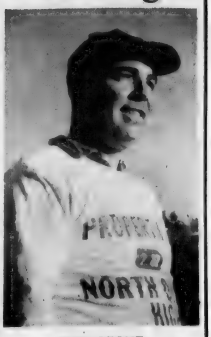
Fisher Head Coach At Rockland

Bob Fisher, a former Quincy High basketball player and a graduate of Bentley College, has been named head basketball coach at Rockland High, succeeding Scott MacKinaly, another former Quincy athlete, who has been appointed principal.

Fisher, who has compiled an amazing record as Rockland's junior varsity coach for the past three years, has been the Bulldogs' head baseball coach for the past three years and vacates that post. Bob served as junior varsity basketball coach at Bridgewater-Raynham for a year before going to Rockland.

As proof of his popularity, the senior class dedicated its yearbook to Fisher, who is still a resident of Quincy. He is head of the business department at Rockland.



When MacKinlay was named high school principal, football coach John Burgess succeeded Scott as athletic director and Don Henderson of Marshfield was made jayvee basketball coach.

"These are outstanding men and I think Bob Fisher will do an excellent job as basketball coach," MacKinlay said. "he did a remarkable job with our junior varsity teams and gained the respect of all our players. He is an excellent choice."

Carl Leone Ready For New Challenge

BY TOM SULLIVAN

CARL LEONE

In 1961 Carl Leone was faced with a big challenge when he was named head football coach at North Quincy High to replace Jack Donahue, who had been the Raiders' only coach since the school started football back in the early 1930s.

Carl met that challenge in excellent fashion and now is faced with another one.

A week ago Leone was appointed Coordinator of Athletics for the Quincy school system, a newly-created post which carries a salary of $15,607.

For many years the late Munroe MacLean held the combined posts of Director of Health, Physical Education and Athletics for the city and upon his untimely death his assistant, Ken Rickson, capably carried on the combined duties.

It was recently decided to split up the posts and Rickson was named Coordinator of Health and Physical Education.

"I am very happy at the appointment," Leone said. "There were some excellent people on the list of candidates, which makes my appointment that much more satisfactory. I am eagerly looking forward to my new challenge."

Carl explained that, although he doesn't officially take over the new post until Sept. 1, his responsibilities started when he was appointed and he has already been working in his new office.

One of his first chores will be to help appoint his successor as North's football coach, a position he vacated when made Athletic Coordinator.

"We left this week open for applications and will begin interviews next week and, I hope, name the new coach by the end of next week," he pointed out. "I think there will be a lot of fine coaches applying. We welcome outside applicants, but will give every consideration to men within the Quincy school system."

At least one former North star who has been a successful coach at a smaller school for several years is known to be an applicant for the job.

Leone explained further that his new duties will involve everything having to do with athletics including making up schedules assigning officials, working on salaries, arranging transportation to games and many other jobs.

"I will work in the same office with Ken Rickson [the School Department office at the rear of Quincy High School] and I think we will work well together. We have been friends for some time."

Carl coached North for eight years and compiled a fine 46-24 record including a 9-0 season in 1966 when the Raiders captured the school's only Greater Boston League championship.

He had only two losing seasons, 3-6 his first year and 3-5 in 1964. His teams were 6-3 in 1962, 7-1 in 1963, 6-3 in 1965, 9-0 in 1966, 6-3 in 1967 and 6-3 last fall when the Raiders won their first six then lost their last three including the disappointing 21-8 Thanksgiving loss to Quincy which knocked them out of the league title.

Carl was an outstanding quarterback at Quincy High, playing under MacLean, and went on to becomee one of Brown University's top Quarterbacks.

Upon graduation he entered the service and played two years of service football. He had a tryout with the Pittsburgh Steerlers and played in several exhibition games before being cut.

He went to Quincy Point Junior High as an English Teacher in 1954, then was named Donahue's assistant in 1955.

He and his wife, Greta, make their home in Wollaston with their three children, Carl, 12; Joanne, 10, and Jackie, 5.

Carl admits he is going to miss coaching football. "I'm excited about my new position but it is going to be hard giving up football," he said. "I'll be leaving the kids I've worked with so long as it is going to be quite a change."

Quincy school athletics appear to be in good hands.

Morrisette In Running, Quincy Seeks Victory

Morrisette Legion's baseball team stayed in the thick of the District 6 championship race Tuesday with an 8-2 romp over Milton to make its record 4-1.

Tonight Morrisette goes to Braintree for a game at Hollis Field, Sunday will be home to Foxboro at Adams Field and Tuesday will be host to powerful Weymouth, one of the league favorites.

Meanwhile, Quincy suffered its fourth straight loss following an impressive opening day win as Braintree squeezed by, 1-0, Tuesday. The Quincy team will be host to Randolph tonight at Adams Field, play at Wellesley Sunday and goes to Milton Tuesday.

Bobby Pettinelli had a no-hitter for Morrisette going into the final inning Tuesday but lost it with one out on a long double. An error and two bases on balls followed for two runs. Pettinelli struck out six and also walked six in gaining his second straight win.

Morrisette had its batting shoes on and collected 11 hits to back up Pettinelli's outstanding pitching.

The winners started fast with three runs in the first on an error and singles by Steve Carrera and Gerry Connolly. They added one in the third on Connolly's triple and an error and scored two more in the fifth on singles by Ron DiNardo, Carrera, Connolly and Al Gallotta.

Morrisette finished up with two in the sixth on a walk to Kevin Ryan, a single by Pettinelli, DiNardo's double and Ted Meyer's single.

Connolly sparked the attack with a triple and two singles., DiNardo had a double and single, Carrera and Gallotta two singles each, Meyer and Pettinelli with a single a piece.

Quincy pitcher Gary McGrath lost a heartbreaker to Braintree, giving up only three hits, striking out nine and walking five, The only Braintree run scored as the result of an error.

LAWN BOWLERS enjoyed their favorite sport at Pageant Field Merrymount, Rolling here is Walter G. Morrison, Quincy Bowling Green Club Secretary. Several teams participate in season's play. and enjoy club house fellowship.

[Quincy Sun Photo By Robert Leo Eng]

Quincy was held to two hits, singles by Jim Donovan and Jim Broderick.

"Our pitching has been excellent except for one game, but our hitting has collapsed in the past few games," said Quincy coach Doug Fleming, a recent bridegroom.

Sunday Quincy dropped a 7-4 decision to Foxboro with Frank Costa the losing pitcher, relieved by Norm Walsh. Broderick had two of Quincy's five hits.

Sunday Morrisette suffered its first defeat, 2-1 at Dedham despite another superb pitching performance from Paul Duff, who was appearing in his fourth straight game [all his team had played]. He held Dedham to four hits, struck out four and walked only one, while he and his mates collected 10 hits.

Dedham put over the winning run in the last half of the ninth after taking the lead in the first inning only to have Morrisette tie it in the fifth when Ron Di Nardo singled, moved up on Ted Meyer's sacrifice and scored when Carrera reached on a fielder's choice, stole second and knocked the ball out of Bill Scarlata's hands.

DiNardo, Bob Edwards and Kevin Ryan each had two hits for Morrisette.

25th Annual Houghs Neck Memorial Exercises Sunday

Houghs Neck Legion Post will hold its 25th annual Memorial Sunday Exercises Sunday afternoon at the War Memorial in front of the Atherton Hough School.

A 2 p.m. parade will precede the ceremonies, starting from the Willows and proceeding along Sea St., Darrow St., Macy St., Bayview Ave. and Ratchford St., to the War Memorial.

Dist. Atty. George B. Burke will be the keynote speaker. The Right Rev. James P. Hart, pastor of Most Blessed Sacrament Church, will give the invocation and The Rev. Dr. Peter V. Corea, pastor of Houghs Neck Congregational Church, the benediction.

Mrs. Abbie Sines will sing "My Buddy" and the National Anthem with music by the Milton Post Legion Band.

Paul McKeon will be chief marshall for the parade and John McNally, officer of the day. Thomas Hurlebaus will be chief of staff and Hugo Swenson, chaplain.

The memorial exercises, noted Post Commander Ernest T. Deveau traditionally held the last Sunday in June, were instituted by a group of Houghs Neck citizens led by Ned Hanraham.

They were first held at a wooden war memorial located on the side of the present granite memorial. The latter memorial was built with funds raised by Houghs Neck residents and dedicated in 1952.

The Houghs Neck Community Council conducted the ceremonies until 1956 when the Houghs Neck Legion Post was reactivated and has since sponsored the event.

Rev. Bauer Delegate

The Rev. Frank J. Bauer, pastor of Wollaston Lutheran Church, and Dr. Ernest Weinschenk of Bedford, a research engineer at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, will represent 12 congregations of this area at the 48th Regular Convention of The Lutheran Church - Missouri Synod to convene at Denver, Col., July 11th.

These men are two of a 60-member delegation which will represent the more than 90,000 members of the Synod's Atlantic District which has 300 congregations in New Jersey, Eastern New York, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, and Vermont.

Discussion and action are expected on the matter of the Synod's accepting membership in the Lutheran World Federation, and its entering into pulpit and altar fellowship with the American Lutheran Church. Another important matter to be acted upon will be the proposed division of the Atlantic District into three separate districts: New Jersey, New York, and New England.

"The Edifying Word" will be the theme of the Convention,

Sculpture Display Features Talents Of Quincy Teacher

Daniel Solomon, an induatrial arts teacher at Sterling Junior High School, is presenting a sculpture exhibition at the Sidney Hill Country Club, Chestnut Hill, continuing through July 13.

Mr. Solomon's work was featured on Dave Garroway's television program, on which he explained the philosophy of his welded modern abstract steel sculptures.

Among the exhibits will be an original serigraph poster, which will be distributed.

Currently, Solomon is devoting his talents to welding sculpture from scrap steel and has been commissioned to create an eight foot sculpture for an office building. He is also planning to publish in the near future a book on the aesthetics and awareness of design in the world about us.

Women's Club Auction Saturday

The Quincy Women's Club Juniors will hold an auction sale Saturday at 7:30 p.m. at the Naval Reserve Training Center, 85 Sea St.

Bill Tuori will be auctioneer. Proceeds will help finance the various charities of the club.

St. John's HNS Outing Sunday

St. John's Holy Name Society will hold its annual outing for the children of the Society on Sunday at Pagent Field from 8 a.m. to dusk.

Each child entering will be given a gift. Games for the children will be conducted under the direction of Anthony Constantino.

A wide variety of games for husband and wife will also be held.

The committee is headed by honorary chairmen Joseph Ciccole, president. Co-chairmen are Kelly Gigilio and Art Davidson. Ticket chairman is Richard Fettig.

Rt. Rev. Msgr. Fred Driscoll and the curates of St. John Church will be present.

Barilaro UN Day Chairman

President Nixon has designated October 24 as UN Day for 1969.

Councillors Vincent Smyth, Arthur Tobin, and George Mc Donald have served in this capacity in past years.

Girls Graduate From Hospital

Two Quincy girls were among the 45 senior students of the Newton-Wellesley Hospital School of Nursing who received diplomas during June 21 ceremonies.

They are Susan H. Mader and Andrea J. Robrish.

Richard H. Lovell, president of the trustees of the hospital, presided at the commencement and conferred diplomas.

Plans Announced For Gala Merrymount '4th'

Plans have been announced for a gala, Independence Day celebration in Merrymount commencing with a band concert and beauty pageant at 7:30 p.m., July 3 at Merrymount Beach.

Mrs. Nancy Dowling, chairman, will be assisted by Miss Jean Bishop, 1968 Miss Merrymount.

Judges for the occasion will be Jerry Hansen, Jr., Edward Bennett, Steve Needel, Miss Betsy Long, Mrs. Arsenne Tutunjian and Mrs. Pearl Neves.

Paul Crossen, president, said the co-chairmen for land sports John Molloy and Jerry Kelley are arranging games for the morning of the Fourth.

Heading the pie eating contest is chairman James Mulcahy and chairman Bernie Coleman, in charge of water sports.

Co-chairmen for the celebration are Lou Rizzo and Ted Iorio, Secretary is Kay Fleming and treasurer is Marge Gibbons.

The parade will start at 1 p.m. at the beach on Shore Ave. Marshall for the parade is Don Murray. Mayor James R. McIntyre has accepted an invitation to participate in the parade and will give a short address following the invocation to be given by Fr. Geary of Our Lady of Good Council Church.

Flag raising will be directed by Joe Garrity. Also taking part in the parade will be Dr. Lawrence Creedon, Superintendent of Quincy Schools.

Other invited guests include School Committeeman James Mc Cormack, Dr. Charles Djerf, Paul Kelly and Miss Ruth Scanlon.

Vice president of Merrymount Association Joseph Cappadonna will drive an antique horse and buggy. Board members Robert Clark and Arthur Boyle will march and greet the Merrymounters along with hospitality chairman Marilyn Flynn.

Mrs. Lee, China Star restaurant will enter the traditional Chinese Dragon complete with music and fireworks. The dragon will leave the parade at Samoset Ave. and continue down Sea St. to the China Star where it will perform a traditional "good luck" ceremony. The colorful float will then rejoin the parade at Victoria Rd. and continue to the beach where it will present another performance of the dance.

Prizes to winners of the street competitions, bicycle, doll carriage and land and water sports will be awarded at 3 p.m.

The Committee will serve ice cream to all the children.

Registration for street competition, Mr. Crossen said, is not necessary but desired in order to complete publicity arrangements. Co-chairman Theodore Iorio is in charge of float registration.

Dr. Davidson New Director At Savings

DR. GEORGE DAVIDSON

Dr. George Davidson of Crabtree Rd., Squantum, has been elected a director of the Wollaston Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Dr. Davidson was elected at a meeting of the Board of Directors June 17.

A graduate of Boston University College of Liberal Arts and Boston University School of Medicine, he interned at Quincy City Hospital in general practice and general surgery.

A well-known yachtsman, Dr. Davidson was Treasurer of the Quincy Yacht Club for 22 years and is now Vice-Commodore of the Neponset Valley Yacht Club.

Mayor Receives Senior Citizens Service Award

Mayor James R. McIntyre received a Distinguished Service citation from the Massachusetts Federation of Nursing Homes, for his "outstanding concern and service to senior citizens."

The "Community Service Award" was presented by Morris Sibulkin Jr., President of the Federation, at the two-day annual convention last week at the Sheraton Boston Hotel, Boston. More than 1,000 officials and delegates attended the 20th annual session.

The Mayor was commended for his activity and leadership as state Legislative Chairman for the United Cerebral Palsy; formerly Chairman of the Quincy Red Cross; a member of the Board of Directors of the Norfolk County Heart Fund; a member of the Board of the Norfolk County March of Dimes; and sponsor of the program, "Council for the Aging," in Quincy.

Graduation For Small Fry, Too

It's graduation time–for the small fry set too.

Kindergarten Barbette in Wollaston recently held its annual luncheon and graduation exercises in the lower hall of Wollaston Congregational Church.

Marielyn Suppy delivered the welcoming speech.

The 55 graduates took part in games, dancing, TV commercials, songs, and recitations. One of the features of the program was the Hippy and his guitar, played by David Dowling.

"Playtime U.S.A." involved children using balls, jump ropes, hoola-hoops, and the newest fad, the Footsie.

Sleeping Beauty in singing game form featured Kelly Buckley as "Rosebud", Billy McIntyre, son of Mayor and Mrs. James R. McIntyre, as the Prince, and Maura Sharry as the wicked stepmother.

Linda Demarkles offered a wish for a Happy Father's Day, Flag Day was celebrated by Susan Burke, daughter of Dist. Atty. and Mrs. George G. Burke, who dedicated the singing of "God Bless America" to "all men who have given their lives for our country."

Following an address my Mayor McIntyre, each child wearing a mortarboard, received a diploma from the School Director, Mrs. J. H. Pickles. She was assisted by teachers Mrs. Helen Holder, Mrs. Deborah Skeland, and Mr. Lawrence Thompson, of Eastern Nazarene College, at the piano.

Graduates included:

Cite Three Engineers At General Dynamics

Three engineers at the General Dynamics shipyard, Quincy, have been selected as the first nominees for a company design achievement award.

Richard Johnson, Scituate, Alan N. Donkin, Scituate, and James H. Robinson, Hingham, were nominated on the basis of outstanding performances during the year.

They are the first of 12 candidates to be chosen for final selection as Quincy division Design Achievement Award recipient.

In addition to a cash award and a certificate, the winner will be Quincy division's representative in a corporate-wide competition, established this year as part of the company's observation of 1969 as "Engineering Year".

Graduate From X-Ray Course

Six students enrolled in the Quincy City Hospital X-ray Technology course, received their diplomas at a luncheon Wednesday from Dr. Leonard Ross, head of the program.

The two-year course includes a year of study at Northeastern University.

The students, all of whom have passed the state boards, are:

Joanne Rooney, and Frank Speranzo, Quincy; Richard Coburn, Randolph; Arthur Milmore, Weymouth; Laura Pigeon, Abington; and Marie Woolf, Braintree.

Quincy Joins Low Income Conclave

Quincy civic leaders participated in the first conference originated, planned and developed by low-income residents of South Shore cities and towns yesterday [Wednesday] at Marshfield High School.

Particpating in introductory and workship sessions were: Margarita Stearns, chairman of the Quincy Mothers' League, Russell E. O'Connell, Executive Director of the Quincy Community Action Organization, Harriett Drew, a nursery school proprietor and Quincy CAO board member, and Joanne Peoples, a member of the Quincy Community Action Organization.

OFFERING SERVICE to the largest and smallest of orders, Chase Press provides unique copying and typing services. Owner John Chase, here busy at the press, deals in professional and business printing of any type ranging from business cards to raised printing of wedding invitations.

John Chase, president of Chase Press, 134 West Elm Ave., Wollaston, will tell you "we print everything but stamps and money." The Chase Press does indeed offer customers a wide variety of printing services, and services that are unique.

Chase Press, in fact, is the only business in the area which provides a complete "copy" service. Using a 3M copy machine, the company can produce good clean copies, and the amount of copies does not matter. Chase Press obliges with the same willingness a person wishing to get one copy as a person desiring 1000 copies. The press also offers quantity prices which constitute a rather large price savings.

A "typing" service is also offered to Chase Press customers. Mr. Chase notes that he is ready to help anybody who wishes to have something typed and then perhaps copied. With a combination of the typing and copying conveniences few printers can offer to their customers such fine services.

Chase Press prints stationery wedding invitations, business forms, tickets, practically anything "printable". The company also does "raised printing" on business and professional cards, wedding invitations, baby announcements, anniversary notes, among other items.

Mr. Chase himself has been in the business formally since 1960, but has been involved in printing since he was two years old when his father ran the press. Along with his two employees and the most modern pf printing equipment, Mr. Chase and the Chase Press are prepared to service the largest or the smallest job. As Mr. Chase observed, "If someone wishes to have one copy of a form printed, we will be happy to accomodate."

Traffic, Parking Study Urged

that section of Quincy a more attractive place to visit and shop."

City Planning Director Geoffrey Davidson, picking up where Donahue left off, said:

"We've got to begin sharing responsibility in removing some of the blighting influences."

He called on the merchants to support a proposed sign ordinance his department is now working on.

As for future development and growth of the downtown area, Davidson said:

"The most important thing to do is to develope now a comprehensive plan and the means to implement it."

For a long-range measure he recommended a Community Improvement Program which he described as:

"A total planning program—analysis of the civic, social, economic needs of the city and the downtown area."

He said the program, would be two-thirds federally funded. His department is preparing an application which must first be presented to the City Council.

"We ask for your participation and support," he told the businessmen.

Davidson cited as short range needs for the downtown area:

—Cooperation between the business community and the city government.

—Approval of the proposed Mechanic St. parking area for the success of the downtown area.

—Improved traffic circulation through a thorough study of traffic and parking.

"We are not going to go much further if we can't get customers to your stores," he said.

He also urged the businessmen to hold further meetings "like this one".

Davidson called Quincy "a community of dynamic growth" caused mainly by the sprawling growth of the Metropolitan Boston area and the MBTA.

He said the MBTA, the new North-South Artery, unprecedented apartment construction, the government center, South Shore Community College and the $2.8 million Neighborhood Improvement project will bring both tremendous growth and change.

Davidson said these projects will add "great stimulus to the downtown area" and indicated new businesses have expressed interest in locating here.

"The City," Davidson added, is fortunate in having a mayor like Mayor McIntyre who is taking full advantage of federal state and local funds for the improvement of the City."

Percy, also in praise of Mc Intyre, told the businessmen: "No mayor in the history of the city has worked harder to promote your interests."

In outlining the "Idea Fair for Brides and Young Marrieds", Moore said it will attract new business into the downtown area.

He noted, that there are now 8,000 weddings a year in the Quincy-South Shore area and that the number is increasing by approximately 1,000 annually.

The fair will have booth displays for participating business firms and will feature bridal fashion shows, travel films, clinics and lectures for those to be married or recently married.

Prizes will be awarded during the two-day show with a free wedding trip the grand prize.

Shuttle bus service will provide free transportation from the downtown area to the Quincy Armory.

'Kansas City' To Be Launched Saturday

[Cont. from Page 1]

Mrs. Darby is a native of Kansas City, Kansas, where a shipyard operated by her husband built invasion craft during World War II.

Mr. and Mrs. Darby, parents of four daughters, have for many years been active in civic, cultural and social affairs of Kansas and Washington, D.C.

Mr. Darby served in the United States Senate in 1949 and 1950. He is currently chairman of the board of the Darby Corp., manufacturers of iron and steel products.

"Kansas City" whose keel was laid April 17, 1968, is the third of six ships in the Navy's new replenishment fleet oiler class to be built by General Dynamics at Quincy.

In addition to carrying nearly seven million gallons of marine and aviation petroleum products, Kansas City will transport refrigerated and dry provisions, ammunition and missiles. Her own helicopters and high-speed transfer-at-sea systems will enable Kansas City to provide rapid supply service to combat ships.

Giachetti Top Tufts Athlete '68-'69

Honors continue to pour on Rich Giachetti, former North Quincy ace who recently was named Tufts University's outstanding athlete for the 1968-69 season.

He has made the sports equivalent of "Who's Who", the latest edition of "Outstanding Athletes in America," which is now being published.

The junior star who will be co-captain of Tufts football and baseball teams next year and also will be president of his senior class, is joined by six Tufts teammates in the book published by the Outstanding Americans Foundation.

Rich has led the Jumbos' baseball team in batting for the past two years and was twice named to the All-East weekly football team last fall. He set several pass receiving records for Tufts where he excells as an end.

Atty. Rudner Re-elected Judge Advocate By JWV

Attorney Benjamin Rudner, 1359 Hancock St., was unanimously reelected for a fourth consecutive term as department Judge Advocate at the recent 39th annual state convention of the Jewish War Veterans of Massachusetts in Lenox, Mass.

Other delegates from the Quincy Jewish War Veterans Post were Commander and Mrs. George Swartz, Quartermaster and Mrs. Louis Simons, Mrs. Rudner, and Auxiliary President Mrs. Beatrice Tannen.

Mr. Rudner, lifelong resident of Quincy, is active in veterans and community activities and has served two terms as Commander of the Quincy Jewish War Veterans Post. He is currently Judge Advocate of the Quincy JWV Post and treasurer of the Quincy Bar Association.

118 Permits For Wiring Issued

City Wire Inspector William H. Pitts reports 118 permits for as estimated $53,951 worth of wiring were issued by his department during the month of May.

Fees for the permits totaled $768, he said.

Pitts said his department made 120 inspections during the month and found 16 defects.

Major wiring projects for the month were for:

A new John Hancock Insurance Co. office building at 275 Hancock St., a 17-unit apartment building at 89 East Squantum St., a 16-unit building at 39 Pond St., a new building for O'Lindy's Bowling Alley, 170 Quincy Ave., and a new addition to Crout's Bike Shop, 58 Quincy Ave.

Add Members To Dumping Committee

Six West Quincy residents have been officially notified of their appointment to the recently-expanded Mayor's Committee on Rubbish Disposal.

Named by Mayor James R. McIntyre as part of a long-range plan to assure city-wide residential harmony in solving disposal problems were: Ernest Coose, 445 Willard St.; Edward Mackey, 136 Crescent St.,; Mrs. Thomas Prince, 35 Minihan's Lane; Peter Traficante, 40 Mullin Ave.; Harold Coose, 453 Willard St. and Robert Watts, Jr., 94 Wesson Ave.

The new members are active in the St. Moritz Civic Association which has strongly opposed previous plans for extension of city dumping in their area.

The committee will be involved in formulating permanent plans for a rubbish disposal site in the Pike's Peak area. Mayor McIntyre will submit rezoning proposals for the area in the fall to permit site construction.

Plans will also be submitted for road construction from Cashman's Quarry to the Pike's Peak area near the Milton line and the Blue Hills reservation.

The committee will take an active role recommending and implementing the plans for a permanent dumping solution, the Mayor said.

A Young 83 Today

[Quincy Sun Photo By Robert S. Lavers]

No Rocking Chair For Cliff Mason

By LOREN OSTROW

Cliff Mason is 83 today but the last thing friends would think of giving him is a rocking chair.

The spry, Crabtree Rd., Squantum resident is still very much young at heart and as active as ever helping youngsters learn the art of sailing.

In 20 years, he has donated countless hours of his own time teaching more than 850 youngsters how to handle a boat on water and how to steer a straight course in life.

"They're wonderful," he says. A refreshing comment, considering all the bold newspaper headlines these days about kids getting into trouble.

Most kids don't get into trouble, but you seldom hear about them.

And one of the reasons a lot of them don't run afoul of the law is a man like Clifford Mason.

Twenty years ago he set up a pier from a Squantum point known as Mason's Point and offered Boy Scouts instruction in rowing, sailing, and water skiing. Now the program, part of YMCA recreational activities, gives a three week course to 30 boys and 30 girls each summer.

With the assistance of Henry Wilman, assistant director of the "Y", and four high school student instructors, Cliff conducts a water sports program with an emphasis on safety, fun, and learning to get along with each other.

Cliff is also in charge of the maintenance of the five turnabouts, 12 "sabot" rowboats, and a motor boat, The kids have use of all the equipment, and they do so with an enthusiasm and spontaneity which Cliff really enjoys.

His proudest possession is the flagpole near the pier. The pole formerly in front of City Hall, was given by Mayor Thomas S. Burgin, in appreciation of the Squantum program, which incidentally, was initiated before the city's recreation program.

As Cliff himself notes, "There are many 83 year olds with many young ones are

And fortunately, there aren't many Cliff Masons to guide youngsters prepare[d] in an atmosphere of relaxation, youth, and fun.

Weather Forecast 'Good'

Quincy To Salute 'Fourth' With Many Special Events

Quincy will mark the Fourth of July–the birthday of American freedom–with a variety of traditional special events in all sections of the city.

On the schedule, beginning tonight [Thursday] and continuing through Friday are "old fashioned" field days, parades, band concerts, a beauty pageant and mammoth bonfire.

Forecast for today is fair with variable cloudiness and high temperatures in the 80's.

Below normal temperatures are expected by Friday, however, with a possibility of rain either then or Saturday.

July 3

Band concert, Fore River Field, Quincy Point, 6 to 9 p.m., Ward 2 Civic Association.

Band concert, Merrymount Beach, Merrymount, 7:30 to

Mayor Seeks Action On Drugs, Complaints At Wollaston Beach

Complaints ranging from broken glass and speeding motorcycles to alleged drug activity at Wollaston Beach have been referred to MDC police by Mayor James R. McIntyre, for action.

The Mayor cited a general nuisance in the vicinity of a road stand and "the reported drug activity in that area."

"Whatever cooperation you want from my office and from the police of the city of Quincy is your's for the asking," he wrote Capt. Peter D. Billie, commanding officer of the MDC Old Colony Division.

In his letter, McIntyre declared:

"These complaints are in regards to the broken glass mixed in with the sand on the beach, a general litter of debris and a reported appearance of shabbiness along the beach.

"In addition, motorcyclists and motorists are becoming a problem because of the various speeds generated by them and the overcrowding with passengers of these vehicles. Parents have initiated these complaints because of the danger these situations represent.

"The other problem is the general nuisance prevailing in the vicinity [of the road stand] and the reported drug activity in that area.

"As you know, I am vitally concerned with these problems and I ask your cooperation in ridding this densely populated area of these public nuisances."

Tax Rate Deadline For Police

There will be no funds available for police raise appropriations once the city's 1969 tax rate is established, according to Mayor James R. McIntyre.

The Mayor disclosed that "no favorable response" had been received from the Police Betterment Association following the latest wage contract discussions on Friday.

No substantial progress has been reported in the stalemated contract negotiations.

Police Association president Carmine DiRamio declared that the Association executive officers are petitioning the International Brotherhood of Teamsters "to come into the city of Quincy and take over command of the Association and its negotiations."

As the rift deepened, Mayor McIntyre noted that the Association had not indicated if the latest contract offer would be submitted to a vote of the membership before the new tax rate is set.

The 1969 tax rate is expected to be set soon after the July 7 City Council meeting, McIntyre added.

"I am advised by the City Solicitor that once a tax rate is established and funds of this magnitude have not been agreed upon and placed in the budget, it is impossible for the City to commit, financially, any additional funds which would be re-

Adams 'Missed' By Two Days

Quincy's John Adams was tops as a patriot.

But, apparently, just so-so as a prognosticator.

But he predicted July 2nd would be celebrated down through the years instead.

According to City Historian William C. Edwards, Adams made that slightly erroneous prediction in a letter to Abigail Adams July 3, 1776.

"The second day of July 1776", he wrote, "will be the most memorable epoch in the history of America."

According to Edwards, Adams thought this because the Declaration of Independence was adopted by 12 states on July 2. But, it wasn't signed by anyone until July 4.

Actually, notes Edwards, only two of the 55 signers affixed their signatures on the Fourth. They were Quincy's John Hancock, who as President of the Second Continental Congress, was the first to sign, and Charles

Resents Slumlord Article

Editor, Quincy Sun:

I wish you to note that I resent the implications in your article of Thursday, June 5, 1969, in which it could be inferred that I was a city slum lord. I can understand sensationalism, but in my opinion, your article is a complete exaggeration and could be harmful to me. The truth of the matter is that I had only owned the building for a short period of time and had to vacate the premises of all tenants last November and December of 1968. At that time I was under agreement to lease said property and adjoining property. When the transaction fell through, I did not re-rent the premises. Although I had many opinions and had large mortgage payments to meet, I would not allow any tenants in said building, which I am sure you will agree I could have done so.

To give the slightest reference that such acts could allow any inference to my being a slum lord is in my opinion, not only grossly untrue, but extremely unfair!

I sincerely hope that your paper will correct any possibility of inference that I, as the owner of the building described in your article, was at any time used in the manner in which the slum lord does.

Quinn Cites Police Unit

A Quincy police department community services unit is being studied as a possible pilot program for communities throughout Massachusetts.

Mass. Atty. Gen. Robert Quinn conferred for an hour Tuesday at police headquarters with Quincy Police Chief Francis X. Finn on the coordinated program.

Quincy is one of the first communities in the state to gear police services to functional levels of community service. The integrated services include a drug and juvenile bureau, educational programs for schools, and coordinated services with the South Shore Mental Health Center.

Atty. Gen. Quinn expressed his interest in the innovated programs and indicated he would study it in greater detail for possible introduction as a statewide pilot program.

Thomson.

Most of the others, according to Edwards, signed the precious document on Aug. 2. But six signed after that. And Thomas McKean of Delaware, the last, didn't get around to it until five years later.

Thomas Jefferson and Hancock usually get top billing in the history books. Jefferson as its author and Hancock as its first signer--with a flourish--according to history so "King George III can see it without his spectacles."

But, says Edwards, Adams played a key if not as glamorous a role in putting the Declaration together.

Edwards points to Jefferson's own words when he praised Adams as "...the most efficient agent in procuring a public Declaration of Independence."

Friday marks the 193rd anniversary of America's birth of freedom. And, ironically, the 143rd anniversary of Adams' and Jefferson's deaths.

Both died on July 4, 1826--the 50th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence.

Adams collapsed here in Quincy in a wing chair in his second floor study in the "Adams Mansion",--the summer White House of its day--now a National Historic Site.

He was just three months and 15 days from his 91st birthday.

Four days before he died, Adams was asked to give a holiday toast to his fellow Quincy residents. The old man replied:

"I will give you independence forever."

Asked if he would add to that, he declared: "Not a syllable."

Friday is a good day to remember his words.

quired in the police contract for the succeeding months after the tax rate has been established."

There will be no funds available for salary increases in the Police Department, retroactively or otherwise, once the tax rate for 1969 has been established, McIntyre stated. He described the situation as "a fiscal fact, regrettably, not meant in anyway to be a threat or an act of intimidation."

A complaint charging unfair labor practices was filed by the Police Association two weeks ago with the State Labor Relations Commission against the City of Quincy and Police Chief Francis X. Finn. Hearings on the complaint are expected at an informal session of the Labor Board.

Sunbeams

Councillor George B. McDonald is expected to end the speculation this week by taking out nomination papers for the Oct. 7 city preliminary election.

Some observers thought he might give up his at-large seat now that he wears the dual hat of Norfolk County Commissioner.

But McDonald says he wants to see the refuse dumping problem solved before he retires from city government. But he is telling friends that this--his sixth term bid--will definitely be his last one.

ANOTHER POLITICAL NOTE: Look for realtor Leo J. Hannon, Jr. to definitely make a run for the City Council. Has his eye on the Ward 1 seat now held by Edward S. Graham. Reportedly is getting his campaign team ready now to make his bid.

AND, ONE MORE: Nick Trifone, former assistant city planning director, already has his campaign for School Committee in high gear. He needs only 50 names on his nomination papers but at last count has well over 600. If he's testing his political strength, he's obviously quite satisfied.

EXACTLY 5,007 persons were clocked into the General Dynamics shipyard for the christening of the new Navy oil-replenishment vessel the "Kansas City". Quite a turnout, considering the mid-90 temperature and the fact it was a Saturday when a good many people are out of town.

And as William A. O'Connell, executive vice-president of the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce, one of the invited guests, put it:

"Though I've seen a lot of launchings, it's still a thrill to see a new ship slide down the ways."

INCIDENTALLY, Congressman William J. Randall of Independence, Mo., was so proud of being invited as keynote speaker, he brought along a whole airliner of friends to share the occasion with him.

TICKET RESERVATIONS for the 44th annual Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce outing to be held July 16 at the Weymouth Fairgrounds, are running 25 per cent ahead of last year. If you haven't reserved your's yet, all you have to do is dial 479-1111 and ask for Ron Frazier. And, by the way, you don't have to be a Chamber member, to attend. But, sorry, girls, it's for men only.

NAME DEPT: Trustees of Quincy Point Congregational Church Homes Inc. have "christened" the two wings of the housing facility at 1000 Southern Artery. From now on, the present building will be known as the North Wing and the new building under construction, the South Wing,. And, the over-street enclosed bridge that will connect them will be called The Mall.

Incidentally, the steel work on the new South Wing is nearing completion and the masonry work will soon be underway.

Putting up a building these days is a pretty expensive proposition. For example, the rental charge on the crane erecting the steel for the South Wing is--$340 a day.

TIME MARCHES ON: According to the Veterans Administration, the average World War II veteran is now 49.3 years of age. And, notes the VA, he's fast approaching the higher premium hurdle of 50 if he still retains his G.I. term insurance.

One way to cut the higher insurance cash outlay at age 50 is a modified life plan. If purchased at age 50, it will have a constant monthly premium of $15.90 for a $10,000 policy.

When the insured reaches 65--the age when insurance needs decline--the face value of the policy is reduced in half, but the premium remains unchanged.

Quincy... A City Moving Forward

(Photos By Miller Studio)

This was quite evident during the Merchants Division, Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce meeting at the Neighborhood Club of Quincy.

Nearly 200 business men and women took time out from their busy day to attend. They heard strong recommendations for in-depth parking-traffic-planning studies to revitalize the downtown business area.

They were informed of expansion plans of several downtown stores that have faith in Quincy's future as a first class retail area.

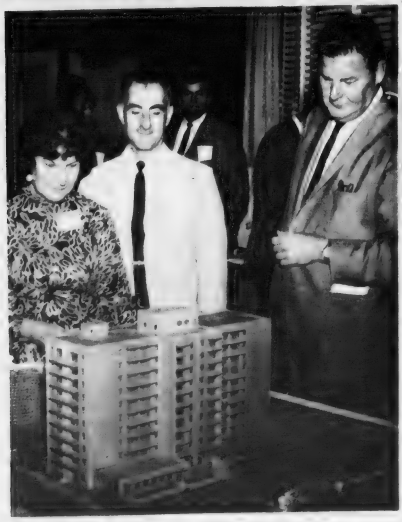
They also listened with interest as plans were unveiled for a unique trade promotions show, "Idea Fair for Brides and Young Marrieds" to be held next Feb. 21-22 at the Quincy Armory.

They heard a plea for "greater unity" in the downtown business community to work together in meeting the competition of shopping centers springing up in nearby communities.

And they saw physical evidence of a city moving forward.

Exhibits and displays included models of the proposed multi-million dollar Quincy Government Center, the new MBTA rapid transit stations, new Quincy Housing Authority housing facilities for the elderly, the new Quincy District Courthouse and other construction projects.

Yes, Quincy is a city very much on the move–forward.



WOLLASTON MBTA STATION model is viewed by Frank Hackett, South Shore National Bank; Mrs. Louise Tracey, Linwood's Fabric House; William A. O'Connell, executive vice-president Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce; Bert Eckblom, President Press; Leslie Brierley, Hancock Bank and Trust Co., and John Mulvee, South Shore National Bank.

PROPOSED GOVERNMENT CENTER model holds the attention of Vincent Banco, Child Teen Shoe Shop; John Latac, South Shore National Bank; businessman Robert M. Faxon and Public Works Commissioner John M. Browne.

AWARD WINNER–Ferdinand [Pete] DeNicola [center], co-owner of South Shore Television, receives Merchants Division Achievement Award in recognition of the company winning the 1968 National Brand Names Award for outstanding merchandising. With him are Bernard C. Moore, executive secretary Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce and Edward F. Percy, president of the Merchants Division.

Historical Society Presents Annual Tea July 13

Quincy Historical Society will hold its annual tea at the Adams birthplaces on Sunday, July 13, from 3-5 p.m. This is a traditional event of long standing. In addition to members and their guests, invitations have been sent to members of the city government and their wives, and to the presidents or other representatives of other historical societies of the South Shore.

Hostesses for the occasion will be the ladies on the Society's Board of Curators and the wives of the men on the Board, under the chairmanship of Miss Vera Call. The tea will be held rain or shine.

The Little Red Houses in South Quincy are owned and maintained by the city. The contents are owned and the Houses are operated open to the public by the Historical Society. This co-operative arrangement dates back to 1940 when the Houses were deeded to the City by the Adams family.

Military Dogs Have Time For Sergeants

Obstacle courses for dogs? Basic training? While these phrases may sound rather peculiar they do represent important military procedure.

Recently at the Armed Forces Open House, several German Shepherd sentry dogs serving the military went through their paces. They were among the over 100 trained this year at the Brockton Sentry Dog Training School.

Trained by an ex-Army officer, and ex-Air Force officer, and a civilian, the dogs undergo the same training which they would receive in the service. The military canines are trained in basic obedience advanced obedience and protection.

ATTACK DEMONSTRATION pulls no punches, or teeth. Providing the provocation is Larry Fox of Dorchester. Sgt. Anair keeps the situation under leashed control. The dogs are from Sentry Dog Training School, Brockton. [Quincy Sun Photo By J. W. Ross]

Basic obedience training is conducted "on leash" and is composed of 16 commands. The second phase involves the use of obstacle courses, scent detection, and child search. Protection training includes attack on command, individual assaults, crowd dispersing, and car protection.

All breeds can be trained for obedience. Dog "graduates" are often used in such locations as homes and stores.

The dogs trained in Brockton are not "killer" or "yard" dogs. They will not respond to merely one master. Rather, they will follow commands upon the change of collar. In other words, a trainer could hand someone the dog's leash and from that point the new commander could control the dog. However, if a dog had been left by a person in a building, no one else can approach the dog safely.

Private parties very often employ the services of this training center in Brockton. In addition, dogs who have been handled there are used by the Armed Services in many areas of New England, including the Weymouth missile sites.

LOREN OSTROW

OVER THE TOP like any other soldier goes this sentry dog. The canines undergo obstacle course training and conditioning like any other recruit. They also take their orders from sargeants.

Safeguard Vacation Mail

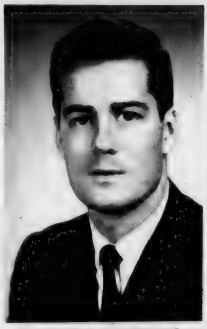
With thousands of Quincy families planning vacations in the coming weeks and months, Supt. William Monahan strongly urges them to take effective action to safeguard their mail before leaving their home.

1. Notify the letter carrier on the route, in advance, of the length of family absence.

2. If the vacation is for an extended period, complete an official "Change of Address" card obtainable from the carrier or at the local postoffice. This will help substitute carriers on the route during the vacation period.

3. Indicate which mail you wish forwarded and which mail is to be held awaiting return.

4. In furnishing a vacation address, make sure it includes the name of the postoffice, town or city and State, with Zip Code. Every postoffice, regardless of size, has a Zip Code. A resort name generally is not sufficient as an address.



5. Notify the Summer address postoffice when you plan to leave for home to assure return of any mail in transit.

A Good 'Bird Dog'

Frongello Scouting For Seattle Pilots

BY TOM SULLIVAN

RONALD L. FRONGELLO

When Ron Frongello is watching an American Legion baseball game, a Boston Park League game or others in the Greater Boston area, he isn't merely a spectator.

The former North Quincy High pitching standout is scouting for the new Seattle Pilots of the American League.

After serving as a "bird dog" for Billy Enos of Cohasset, now the Pilots' territorial supervisor for four years on a commission basis, Ron this year was appointed an area scout.

"Although I spend a good deal of time scouting players around Greater Boston, it is not a full time job with me." Frongello said. He is an assistant treasurer of the State Street Bank and Trust Co. of Boston.

Two weeks ago Enos signed Bobby Green of Randolph and Pete Duhamel of Brockton to Pilot contracts on Ronnie's recommendations. Both are now playing with seattle's team in the Class A Eastern League.

"Ron is doing a great job for us," Enos said. "Some 'bird dogs'" can get you in trouble at times but not Ron and I was very glad he was appointed a scout this year. He is a fine judge of talent and I expect to sign many more players on his recommendation."

Enos, incidentally, served as a scout for the Athletics for 13 years, longer than anyone else had worked for the controversial A's owner, Charlie Finlay. "I had no trouble getting along with Finlay, he always treated me well," Billy said.

Frongello was born in Roxbury but came to North Quincy at an early age and graduated from North Quincy schools. He began pitching for North Junior High school and was one of North Quincy High's standouts for three years, compiling a brilliant record.

He played for Hal Forrest, who also coached Ken Coleman and Dick Donovan, among others. "Hal was an outstanding coach and helped me a lot," Ron said.

Ron was signed by Al Lopez, then manager of the Cleveland Indians, upon graduation from North in 1952, receiving a bonus. That summer he made the circuit with the Indians, observing and pitching batting practice.

He reported to spring training with Cleveland in 1953 and was assigned to Daytona Beach, Fla., in the Class D Florida State League.

The following season he pitched for Green Bay, Wisc., in the Class D Wisconsin State League, then moved up to Rock Hill, S.C., in the Class B Tri-State League.

He pitched for Reading of the Class A Eastern League when his arm went bad, ending his professional career. He compiled an excellent record in the Indians' system.

In 1959, at Enos' suggestion he went to Kansas City A's training camp and this started his long association with Enos.

"I had a good opportunity with the bank and I had to make a decision," Ron said. "I felt if I could catch on with a team in a Class AA or AAA League, I might take a chance. However, they wanted me to manage in Class B or C, so I decided to quit and take the opportunity at the bank, as it was too good a chance to pass up."

He began working with Enos in 1964, staying with him when the A's moved to Oakland and remained on when Enos went with the Pilots.

"It has been a great experience working with Bill Enos," Frongello said. "I've never seen a man with so much knowledge of the game and he really can spot talent. He signed a great many boys for the A's who made the grade and has signed several good prospects for the Pilots."

Among the many schoolboy stars Ron has seen is Quincy's Steve Carrera but he isn't as enthusiastic about him as many other scouts. "I think Steve is an excellent player but right now don't consider him a pro prospect," he said. "However, he could blossom in college and become an outstanding prospect. I think most colleges wanted him for football and he is going to have to make a choice of playing football or baseball."

[Incidentally, Carrera has decided to enter Providence College in the fall instead of going to a Mid-West college as previously planned.]

All-Star Clash Prelude For Farm League Picnic

The annual All-Star game and family picnic of the Quincy Junior Farm League will be held Saturday at Faxon Field.

At 9 a.m. the 8-9 year old All Stars of the National League will meet the American League stars. At approximately 10:30 a.m. the 10-year-old boys of both leagues will meet in their All-Star game.

After the games, there will be races for all boys in the league. A picnic will follow.

All boys that played in the League this year and their families are invited as guests of the League.

City Rivals Meet Tonight

Morrisette Takes Upset, Quincy Wins

Morrisette Legion's baseball team came up with its biggest win Tuesday night and stayed in the thick of the District 6 championship race by upsetting previously undefeated Weymouth, 6-2, behind Paul Duff, at Adams Field.

The big win gives Morrisette, the defending champion, a 6-2 record and dropped Weymouth to a 7-1 mark.

Quincy, continuing to get superb pitching but sub-par hitting, topped Milton, 2-1, to set the stage for tonight's second meeting with Morrisette at Adams Field. Morrisette overcame a 3-0 deficit to nip Quincy, 4-3, in their first meeting.

Sunday Quincy hosts Canton at Adams Field and Morrisette plays at Wellesley. Tuesday night it will be Weymouth at Quincy and Morrisette at Randolph.

The big blow in Tuesday's Morrisette win over Weymouth was Ron DiNardo's three-run homer in the fourth inning.

Trailing, 2-0, Morrisette tied the game with two in the third when Duff singled, moved up on a wild pitch, was bunted to third and scored on a wild pitch. Ted Meyer walked, also advanced on a wild pitch, Steve Carrera walked and another wild pitch scored Meyer. Morrisette scored its final run in the fifth on a single by Jerry Connolly and a long double by Allan Gallotta, who continued to sparkle at shortstop.

Weymouth threatened in the final inning on two singles but, with one out, Steve McDevitt relieved Duff and Tom McMahon hit into a game-ending double play. Meyer, stepped on third to retire Vic Puntiri and doubled up McMahon at first.

Duff allowed six hits, struck out six and walked four. Di Nardo, Gallotta, Connolly and Duff had Morrisette's only hits.

Quincy's Frank Costa pitched a three-hitter against Milton and struck out 12. Quincy had only five hits, two by Jim Alberino, two by Jim Donovan and one by Steve Tomasetti.

Quincy scored in the fifth when Steve Murray reached on an error, was bunted along by Craig Bogosian and scored on Alberino's double.

Milton tied it in the sixth and the game went into extra innings. In the eighth Donovan singled, was bunted along, continued to third on an overthrow and scored the winning run on a passed ball.

"Our pitching has been outstanding with Costa and Garry McGrath doing a beautiful job, but our hitting has not been good," Coach Doug Fleming said, "With just a hit here and there we could easily be 7-1 instead of 3-5."

Morrisette combined fine pitching with solid hitting to top Foxboro, 7-2, Sunday, with Bobby Pettinelli scattering seven hits, striking out nine and walking only one.

Morrisette clinched the win with four runs in the eighth inning after hopping to a 3-0 lead with two in the first and one in the fifth.

In the eighth, Gerry Connolly singled for the second time, Ed Hutchins reached on a fielder's choice, Bob Edwards and Kevin Ryan walked, Ron DiNardo singled and Steve Carrera doubled.

DiNardo, Al Gallotta and Connolly each had two hits and Carrera and Edwards one apiece.

Quincy lost another heartbreaker when Wellesley scored in the 10th for a 2-1 win to spoil another standout pitching performance by Garry McGrath. McGrath pitched a four-hitter, struck out five and walked six but Wellesley's Ace Adams fanned 18 and walked only one while giving up six hits.

Quincy's run came in the sixth when Jim Alberino singled, moved up on a passed ball and scored on Jim Broderick's single.

Bob Pastor had two hits, Alberino, Broderick, Steve Brustin and Steve Tomasseti one apiece.

In its previous game Morrisette's title hopes were given a jolt when it bowed to Braintree, 3-1, with Braintree's top pitcher, Dick Blackwell, twice picking off Morrisette base runners. Morrisette had only four hits, two by Gallotta and one each by Ted Meyer and Hutchins. Paul Duff was the loser with Mc Devitt also pitching.

Quincy received brilliant pitching from lefty Frank Costa and hit when it counted for a 2-1 win over Randolph. Costa allowed four hits, struck out seven and walked four.

Trailing, 1-0, Quincy scored the winning runs in the fifth when Costa singled, was bunted along by Paul Petrucelli, Alberino singled and Jim Donovan's bloop single scored Costa. Broderick brought singled home Alberino with the winning run.

Alberino, Broderick and Pastor each had two hits, Donovan and Costa one each.

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

'His Job...Your Baby'

I am concerned about the attitude of many wives about their husband's jobs. Here are a few of the common complaints . . . "His hours interfere with the family". . . ."He doesn't bring home enough money". . . ."He comes home in his dirty work clothes". . . ."The people he works with are a bad influence on him". . . ."He can never talk of anything but his job" . . . ."He thinks more of his business than he does his family" . . . ."He smells of the job when he gets home." One wife complained that "His office is a mess. . . .I won't even go into it." That husband's income is $22,000 after taxes.

Not only are these the complaints spoken to the counselor . . . .these are the daily harangues that these particular husbands hear. Can you imagine the enthusiasm with which these men go off to work with these "joyful and encouraging words" ringing in their ears?

Undoubtedly. . . . .some of these criticisms may have some validity. . . .particularly regarding the time spent with the family. Little wonder some wives feel they are in competition with their husband's business. Some men by choice become so absorbed with the job that they rob the wife and family of time that should be theirs. He talks . . . .sleeps. . . .eats his work. That's too. . . .too much.

One of the tragic phenomena of our times is that our children are being raised almost exclusively by women. . . .and therefore lacking in the male influence. The result is that the strong masculine qualities are not being given our boys. . . .learning to be feminine and how to relate to men [which must come from a man] are lacking in our girls. In adult life these deficiencies can spoil a marriage. The complaint from wives that he spends too much time with the business may be a very just complaint. Wives marry for companionship. If the job denies this. . . .naturally she is disillusioned.

However. . . .the motives of many complaining wives concerning the job are not so lofty in motive. Some speak out of personal insecurity. . . .they simply can't cope with routine responsibilities. . . .so they resent their husbands and their jobs rather than face the fact of their personal inadequacy. The projecting of blame is a sure sign of personal weakness.

Some wives do not appreciate their husband's work. . . . take no interest in it. . . .ask no questions about it. . . .disregard the years of preparation for performing the particular skill. She minimizes his importance to the operation. . . .criticizes his hours . . . .downgrades him by "remembering" that she could have married the young doctor [which is about the most difficult wife role]. This kind of complaining wife disregards the fact that this "dirty". . . ."smelly". . . . "long hours" job is the means of caring for the family. He may have no choice about his hours if he's working for someone else. If he's his own boss, the business is even more confining. For a wife to downgrade him destroys his spirit and incentive to advance.

I want to suggest that the man's job or business be treated as one more child to be nurtured. . . .cared for. . . .talked about . . . .respected. . . .related to not as an evil enemy to the family but as a blessing which brings joy to both. This means that both mother and father [husband and wife] get behind this "job baby". The man does the work. . . .the wife the encouraging. Send him off in the morning with a good breakfast. . . .a hug and a kiss and happy disposition. . . .to care for that "Baby" while she cares for the "Babies" at home.

Bethany's Project Over The Top

With pledges now totalling $126,000 Bethany Church's "Project: Advance" has surpassed its $120,000 goal.

The general fund-raising campaign, initiated in mid-April, is to raise monies for building renovations and for a Protestant Home for Boys.

Also $20,000 has been pledged by Bethany to "Mission: Advance" of the Massachusetts Conference, United Church of Christ. This project already has more than $2 million in pledges for its three-year goal of enlarged support for home and overseas missions, including a number of inner-city projects.

The impact of the drive on the church's financial position is equalled by an evident enthusiasm and solidarity that will be expressed in several future projects.

Co-chairmen of congregational gifts, Mrs. Herman M. Noyes and Russell D. Hodgkins are still welcoming continued pledges. Two costly items of building improvement have been brought to the church leadership's attention: work on the church roof and the updating of fire safety recautions.

John D. Banks, pastor, said, "In 29 years in the ministry I have not seen such a fine example of large scale team work as "Project: Advance". More than the financial success was the demonstration of what... people can do when they become committed to a worthy cause."

Hugh E. Dawe Elected N.Q. Grand Knight

Dawe, a production machine engineer for the Patriot Ledger, succeeds Harold L. Esdale.

Other officers elected at the annual meeting were:

Deputy Grand Knight Charles J. Graham, Chancellor Daniel F. X. Davis, Warden John J. Sullivan, Jr., Inside Guard Francis X. Dorney, Treasurer Peter Golden, Recorder Blase J. DeLollis, Trustee John J. Burke, Advocate Gerald Connor., Outside Guard Maurice F. Dunn, Jr.

Elected to the Board of Directors were:

Alfred E. Danna, Past Grand Knight Edward J. Mullin, Stephen H. Moynihan, Edward J. Keohane, and Past Grand Knight Robert F. Tweedy.

Past Grand Knight Fred Lutfy and former District Deputy Forest L. Mason, Jr. were named alternate delegates to the state convention.

Catholic Churches Begin Saturday Masses

Quincy's nine Catholic parishes will institute Saturday Masses this week at 7 p.m.

The privilege to conduct the masses was granted by Richard Cardinal Cushing allowing Catholics to fulfill their Sunday and Holy Day Mass obligations after 4 p.m. the previous day.

The nine Catholic parishes are:

The Most Blessed Sacrament, Houghs Neck; Our Lady of Good Counsel, Merrymount; Sacred Heart, Atlantic; St. Ann's, Wollaston; St. Boniface, Germantown; St. John the Baptist, Quincy Center; St. Joseph's, Quincy Point; St. Mary's, West Quincy; and Star of the Sea, Squantum.

Sunday Mass schedules will not immediately be affected.

Quincy Point Cookout July 15

Residents of the Quincy Point Congregational Church housing facility at 1000 Southern Artery will hold their second cookout of the summer at 6 p.m. July 15, with the trustees manning the grilles assisted by their wives.

Entertainment will be provided by Bob Wiley's Variety Show Troup. An 8-piece band will accompany the group which includes dancers and singers.

The show will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Lounge.

'New Life' For Wollaston Apt.

A controversial 53-unit apartment building proposed for Wollaston Hill and blocked by a City Council vote has been given new life by a court decision.

A rezoning order passed by the City Council in 1967 this week was ruled invalid by State Land Court Judge Elwood Hettrick.

Judge Hettrick said that under the law, seven votes were required in the City Council to rezone the area from Residence C to Residence B. The City Council action had only six votes.

Judge Hettrick's ruling is the result of a petition filed in the Land Court on behalf of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace I. Trumper of 111 Warren Ave., who own the biggest lot in the area that was rezoned.

The Trumpers, represented by Atty. Stephen T. Keefe, Jr., former assistant city solicitor, opposed the re-zoning.

JOHN F. CRONIN [center] retiring as Chief Probation Officer after 34 years service at Quincy District Court, was honored by courthouse personnel at a dinner at South Shore Country Club, Hingham. Would your Child USE it ——— or LOSE it?
One of the recent changes in the Social Security Law guarantees continuation of a child's benefit beyond age 18, to age 22, provided the child-beneficiary is a full-time student in an accredited school or college. This means that the child of a deceased worker can have part of his college expenses paid through the Social Security Program, if (and this is a big IF) the additional funds needed to allow the youngster to be a full-time student are available.

David Leitch To Attend Institute

DAVID W. LEITCH

David W. Leitch, C.L.U., vice-president of Burgin, Platner & Co., Inc., of Quincy will attend a one-week program of advanced study in business and family financial planning at the 64th C.L.U. Institute at the University of Connecticut, Storrs, Conn. opening Sunday.

Mr. Leitch is one of 200 C.L.U's. who are registered to attend three institutes to be conducted this summer on university campuses for members of the American Society of Chartered Life Underwriters.

At these graduate-level seminars, study areas include economics, pensions and profit sharing plans, professional associations, estate planning, business insurance, corporate fringe benefits, equities, acquisitions and mergers, and the development of creative ability.

Mr. Leitch joined the Burgin, Platner Insurance Agency last January, after entering the insurance business in 1959 as an agent. He has broad experience in the life insurance field. He, his wife June and four children live in Abington.

The C.L.U. Institutes are conducted by the American Society of Chartered Life Underwriters, the professional society for men and women who have the Chartered Life Underwriter [C.L.U.] designation. The Society has a membership of over 13,000, in 171 chapters throughout the United States. Its national headquarters is in Bryn Mawr, Pa.

The C.L.U. designation is granted by the American College of Life Underwriters, also located in Bryn Mawr, to people who have passed a series of professional examinations and met the stringent experience and ethical requirements of the College. Nearly 19,000 persons in the United States have been awarded the C.L.U., designation since the American College was founded in 1927

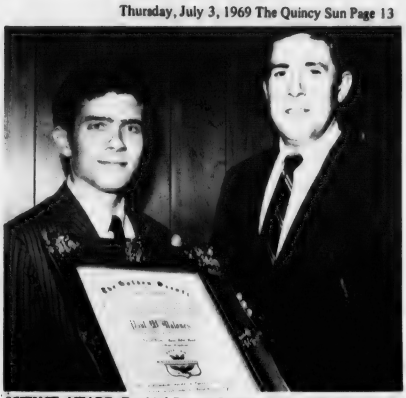
North Quincy Senior Wins Science Award, Dallas Trip

Paul W. Maloney, of 311 Safford St., Wollaston, a senior at North Quincy High School is a winner in the American Academy of Achievements' Annual "Science Talent Search."

He will attend the 1969 annual meeting of the Academy in Dallas, Texas, June 26-29th. He will be appointed to the Hall of Fame for America's Young Captains of Achievement.

The Academy, in keeping with its primary aim of Inspiration of Youth–"to raise their sights high, to excel in their endeavors"–has designed the 1969 salute weekend to include over 200 high school honor students and other outstanding teenagers from nearly every state across the nation.



Via sponsorship by a community business leader, the young people attend a series of symposiums and other events where they chat informally with the honorees of their personal and career interests.

Paul is being sponsored by Mr. Robert M. Rosenberg, President of Dunkin' Donuts, Incorporated, the Quincy based national franchise firm. Mr. Rosenberg last year was chosen as one of the most outstanding businessmen in America by the Academy, and was recipient of its Annual Golden Plate Award.

College Grants Announced For City Schools

Grants under the college library resources program have been announced for Eastern Nazarene College, $5,592 and Quincy Jr. College, $3,790.

Matching grants will be provided by the recipients. The awards from the Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare were announced by Cong. James A. Burke and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

A FAMILY AND FAMILIAR approach marks Keene's Pharmacy. Donald Keene offers complete prescription, delivery, and tax record services in a Wollaston business that has established long-distance records for customer loyalty.

Keene's Pharmacy [Beale St. Pharmacy], 649 Hancock St., Wollaston, is a family business. And the customer is one of the family.

The pharmacy is owned by Donald R. Keene, a registered pharmacist, and was founded by his father at its present location 41 years ago. Since 1928 the store, which places emphasis on the filling of prescriptions and attention to family health needs, has grown from a 40 prescription a day business to one dealing with approximately 130 a day.

Donald Keene himself has been with the store since 1946 and has observed the strong loyalty of its customers.

What is the reason for this loyalty to a drugstore? A congenial atmosphere and the familiarity stressed by the store's three registered pharmacists and 11 employees is perhaps the best explanation. At Keene's Pharmacy, the customer and pharmacists are on a first-name, neighborly basis. The customer is well aware, as his continued patronage proves, of the customer concern always evident in Keene's service. In fact, customers who have left Quincy still call up from the Cape and as far away as Florida to have a prescription filled. This, long-distance recall indicates that Keene's Pharmacy is "doing something right." and that something is familiarity.

Keene's offers free delivery service and keeps complete drug tax records. The purpose of these records is threefold - for tax purposes, for lost prescriptions, and for filing with such services as Blue Cross-Blue Shield.

Donald Keene is a member of the National, Boston and South Shore Association of Retail Druggists. And his genuine concern for people is evident not only in his pharmacy business but also in the fact that he is president of the South Shore Association for Retarded Children.

Old-time family experience and service, best describe Keene's pharmacy. Particularly in terms of customer-pharmacist relationships, Keene's truly does extend its family business to its customers.

MALE HELP

Why "Charlie the Coach" and the boys went to Fenway...

To celebrate naturally. Several things. Charlie's boys had just knocked off their third straight win in the Quincy softball league. George, the third-baseman, had just received a hefty check from the Yard for a work-improvement suggestion he'd made to management. Good for $350, which is about his batting average.

Fact is, everybody's celebrating at Quincy these days. Why not? The new contract is the longest and best ever. It runs for five years with an immediate increase of 20-cents-an-hour. On top of this, there'll be regular increases over the contract life. And, starting in 1970, the company will pay the full cost of group insurance.

Why not get in on the celebrating? Maybe try out for one of these positions on the Quincy team:

Seeks Federal Aid For Squantum Park

Federal or Navy Dept. participation in recreational development for the Squantum Gardens area, has been requested by Mayor James R. McIntyre.

A petition for park and playground facilities in the area for development of a playground at the rear of the Myles Standish School on the former Squantum Naval Air Station property. Petitioners in the Quincy Shore Drive, Bay State Rd and Airport Rd., areas requesting improvement of Myles Standish Field, cite a lack of adequate recreational facilities for about 300 children in the area.

Mayor McIntyre's request for joint city-federal project was directed to Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, Edward W. Brooke and Cong. James A. Burke. The Squantum Gardens is a federal project.

The park improvements are also under study by the Park and Recreation Board. On the board's recommendation, Mayor McIntyre has contacted Jordan Marsh Co., owners of the former air station site. The city is seeking the possible use of a site for recreation with the cooperation of Jordan Marsh.

The Mayor also informed petitioners of the proposed city-federal project for developing the facilities in the Myles Standish School open space area.

Land usage could be devoted to adult fields, permitting the release of other nearby fields for the use of the children, according to Mayor McIntyre.

His Last Run

McIntyre 'Definite' Candidate For Third Term

Mayor James R. McIntyre will definitely run for a third term this fall.

Informed sources told The Quincy Sun the city's 39-year-old chief executive has decided to seek one more term.

They said he has also decided to make this his final bid as mayor.

Publicly, however, Mayor Mc Intyre is neither confirming nor denying that he will seek a third term. His only comment:

"I'm still giving it considerable thought."

But according to the sources he has made up his mind to run once more and had indicated to several key campaign workers that he will be a candidate for re-election.

According to the sources, Mc Intyre has thoroughly weighed the question of whether to run or not and has made his decision to do so.

Major reason for seeking one more term, they said, is to see several projects he has initiated or played a key role in successfully completed, before he steps down as mayor.

Among these is the extension of the MBTA rapid transit line to Quincy.

As a state senator and chairman of the joint legislative Committee on Transportation and as Mayor, McIntyre has made chang-

More Hats In Ring

Nine more candidates including three incumbents have taken out nomination papers for the Oct. 7 city preliminary election. This brings to 31 the total number of candidates with papers in circulation.

Among those who obtained papers and the seats they seek:

Councillor John F. Koegler, 78 Alton Rd., City Council, Ward 3.

Councillor J. Vincent Smyth, 184 Landsdowne St., City Council, Ward 6.

Robert C. Preble, 27 Crosby St., Mayor.

Commerce Chamber Reaction:

Defeat of Parking Area Termed 'Crushing Blow'

"Quincy Center needs approximately 1000 new parking spaces if it is to survive."

This was the prophecy of William A. O'Connell, executive head of the Quincy-South-Shore Chamber of Commerce, following the 6 to 3 rejection of the Mechanic St. Parking area Monday.

Following a controversial five months deliberations on the 140-car space and landtaking, the proposal was killed by swift City Council action.

There was little council chamber reaction Monday night to the final vote which doomed the proposal in its present form.

But, in a prepared statement Tuesday, Connell, executive vice president of the Chamber organization, declared:

"It's most tragic that the present City Council, which has a record of voting many progressive projects most beneficial to Quincy and representing several millions of dollars in expense, should blemish the record by voting down the Mechanic Street Parking Area.

"However, inasmuch as they have acted so decisively, we expect now that they themselves will come up with a parking plan acceptable to them. They cannot shirk this responsibility.

"The retail center of Quincy is in critical need of additional parking. We believe that the Mechanic Street Area, where real estate valuations have been decreasing and store vacancies are more frequent, should have had priority.

"The Braintree South Shore Plaza reportedly has 6000 spaces for customers. Quincy has about 3000 public and private spaces in its Downtown. Quincy has over 500 businesses, Braintree Plaza 77 at last count.

"Quincy Square, which 15 years ago was nationally recognized as a major regional retail center, has suffered severely from a proliferation of suburban shopping centers.

"The Chamber's vision of a great downtown complex, replete with modern, attractive stores, buildings, and human institutions, with jobs for all people may now never reach reality. The City Council must now show some leadership in this regard.

Nixon Wreath Tribute For John Q. Adams

A wreath from President Nixon will honor the memory of John Quincy Adams on the occasion of the latter's 202nd birthday anniversary Friday.

The wreath will be placed on Adams' tomb in the crypt of historic First Parish Church, Quincy Sq., Friday.

Participating in the 11 a.m. ceremony will be Capt. John Duke, supervisor of Navy shipbuilding at the General Dynamics shipyard who will represent President Nixon; Mayor James R. Mc Intyre and City Historian William C. Edwards.

The bodies of the sixth President, his wife, Louisa and his father and mother, second President John Adams and Abigail Adams are entombed in the church basement.

The Adams' are the only two father-and-son Presidents in U.S. history and Quincy is the only city to have sent two Presidents to the White House.

John Quincy Adams was inaugurated sixth President March 4, 1825. His stand against slavery was a major factor in his defeat for a second term.

Democrats Top GOP 2 To 1

There are 43,600 registered voters in the city of Quincy, according to latest Quincy City Hall Election Department figures.

Democrats are in the majority with 20,891, followed by Independents, 12,407, and Republicans, 10,302.

Registration deadline for unenrolled voters is Sept. 17. City Clerk John Gillis said that unregistered voters may register Mondays through Fridays at the City Hall Election Department.

Council Fits Travel Plans

The Councillor-at-large and Mrs. McDonald will leave for Ireland on Tuesday for a three to four-weeks visit. Mrs. McDonald is a native of Killarney Lakes, where her family still resides.

The final City Council meeting of the summer is scheduled for Monday evening. The adjourned session, a carry-over from the meeting last Monday, will get underway at 9 p.m.

The renewed meeting date was agreed to at the request of Councillor McDonald, who expressed a wish to attend the final session before departing for Ireland. The adjourned date was moved up from Tuesday, as originally proposed, in deference to McDonald's request.

HOUSE CALL

By Dr. Charles Djerf
Pediatrician

Serendipity - [assumed gifts when not sought for or "lucky accident"] has been the source for progressive strides in medicine on many occasions. As you recall, Goodyear discovered the vulcanizing process by accident. Recently an English nurse found the newborns near the windows and daylight had much less jaundice than other infants distant from the light. Happenstance?

A fortuitous, serendipitous observation has resulted in a therapy providing a much needed encouragment to patients with Parkinson's disease. This disease is also known as Paralysis Agitans and has, until lately, been a progressive and difficult illness to treat.

Parkinson's disease hits usually in the third decade and up. Its recognition is usually quite easy. The patient has fine tremors of the hands which eventually assume an attitude as if the person were rolling pills - [remember the Captain in the Caine Mutiny rolling the ball-bearings]. The voice may become tremulous, the gait awkward and the body bent forward. The face becomes mask-like, etc. The cardinal symptoms are paralysis, rigidity and tremor. The clinical appearance depends upon the severity, extent of damage of the part of the brain involved [the Basal ganglion of the brain].

Surgical attempts to operate on this portion of the brain in Parkinson's have been beneficial but only on selected individuals. L-Dopa is currently being used and is written up in the Boston Herald [6-30-69].

This article wished to report some early observations on a drug known as Amantadine Hydrochloride. This compound manufactured by E. I. Dupont Co. was presented as an anti viral agent against Asian influenza In other words, intended to prevent Asian flu.

In April, 1968 a woman with moderately severe Parkinson's observed a remarkable remission [improvement] of her rigidity, tremors and inability to move about. Her observations recounted to a clinician resulted in a study of 163 patients in all phases of Parkinson's disease of whom 63% showed improvement. There were side effects but continued research will undoubtedly result in maximum value with limitations of the ill effects. Such improvement is already being made.

It is thought that a combination of L-Dopa and Amantadine will work well together. Amantadine promises, also, to be cheaper hence more available than L-Dopa.

The value of such discoveries is the stimulus for continued research with the realization that yet another illness can be overcome. It is, as if, nature continues to observe man's honest pursuit to better mans' lot and gives him a hint or a clue, even if it appears serendipitous.

Harrington School Candidate

Twenty-two year old James Harrington, 136 Safford St., Wollaston, has taken out nomination papers and will be a candidate for the office of School Committeeman.

Harrington, a North Quincy High School graduate, is presently employed by the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company.

He is a member of the Quincy Citizens Association

Mayor To Seek Third Term

[Cont. from Page 1]

es in the original extension plans "for the best interests of Quincy."

"This line is coming through just once," he has said. "And we want it done right. There will be no second chance."

The Mayor also, according to the sources, wants to see his proposed multi-million dollar Government Center at the reality stage before he bows out.

And, they said, he also wants to continue his fight against revaluation which will become a state referendum question in 1970

McIntyre, however, is not expected to officially announce his candidacy for possibly several weeks.

He has until Sept. 9 to file nomination papers for the Oct. 7 preliminary election. So far he has not even taken out papers.

McIntyre has been Mayor since 1966, defeating former City Council President Joseph J. LaRaia and former City Deputy Tax Collector Harold A. Nannis in those two bids.

He was the first Democrat Mayor elected in Quincy in more than a half-century–the first since William T. Shea who served from 1908 to 1911.

Parking Defeat 'Crushing Blow'

"Without any ifs ands or buts, municipal parking in Quincy has been self-supporting. Two million dollars in parking meter income has been collected, and real estate valuations have doubled downtown. Downtown comprises one-half of 1% of the total area of Quincy, and it has 10% of the total valuation.

"Current plans on the part of Quincy businessmen to initiate a downtown renaissance, which would include building remodeling, new store fronts, store signs, traffic alleviation, etc., will have to be reconsidered in view of the Monday night City Council vote.

"The Council vote was a crushing blow to the Chamber's plans for Quincy's retail center.

"We now pass the ball to the City Council and wait for results.

"As Lincoln said, "He has the right to criticize who has the heart to help."

McDonald In Re-election Bid

Councillor-at-large George B. McDonald, 133 Grove St., West Quincy, has announced his candidacy for re-election.

McDonald, a City Councillor for the past nine years, is chairman of the Rules and Public Safety Committee and Special Committee on Disposal and Dumping Problems.

The incumbent, also a Norfolk County Commissioner, attended Quincy schools and the University of Southern California. His civic affiliations include membership on the Ave Maria Council, Knights of Columbus; the Morrisette Post, American Legion, and the Adams Heights and Montclair Men's Clubs. He is a member of the Board of Directors, South Shore Cerebral Palsy Association.

A World War II disabled veteran, he served in the Army for nearly four years, including duty in the Asiatic-Pacific theatre of operations.

His City Council duties include service as the legislative agent for Workmen's Compensation, dealing with municipal claims adjustment.

He is married to the former Sheila Mahoney of Killarney, Ireland, the couple are the parents of three children, Colleen, Eileen and Erin.

Sunbeams

Mayor James R. McIntyre is still keeping everyone guessing about whether he'll seek a third term this fall.

But he doesn't seem to be acting like a man who doesn't intend to run again. His appointment book is crowded and so is his schedule.

For example, he made a good 15 stops or more in various sections of the city at July 4th activities. Spent a long day chatting with residents and shaking hands.

A man about to step down probably would have spent a nice quiet holiday at home or off somewhere at a peaceful spot away from crowds.

Yet sources very close to him insist he has yet to confide to them his political plans.

FORE! Capt. Roy Cavicchi, head of the Quincy Police Traffic Bureau, is pretty good at directing a golf ball, too. Came up with that golfer's delight–a-hole-in-one-at a Safety Officers outing at the Rockland Golf Club. Scored it on the 165-yard seventh hole using a 5-iron. It was his first one in 20 years. Playing with him at the time were Lt. John Flaherty, and Safety Officers Guido Pettinelli and John Bartholmew.

BUT, Capt. John [Ed] Wuerth, head of Quincy police personnel not only outranks him as senior captain but as golf performer, too.

Wuerth, attending a recent police computer school sank a hole-in-one at the IBM course at Poughkeepsie, N.Y. Used a wedge on the 92-yard 7th hole.

It was his second hole-in-one in 38 years. He got his first in 1931 at the old Stoney Brae course [now Furnace Brook] on the third hole [about 130 yards] using a 6-iron. And that one went in on the fly.

And Wuerth chuckles about his "luck" on and off the fairways.

Tradition has it that a golfer who gets a hole-in-one buys the drinks for all around at the "19th hole".

But 1931 was during Prohibition and there was no liquor. And the IBM course even today forbids the serving of alcoholic beverages.

But he'll gladly buy if he gets another one in the right place at the right time.

MILESTONE: Roland [Pop] Josselyn of Mears Ave., Houghs Neck is a young 85. Civically active in the area, he's been a member of Houghs Neck Congregational Church 49 years and is chairman of that church's Boy Scout Committee.

Pop is a pretty spry fellow. Still works as a carpenter and still scrambles up a ladder.

Block Party Celebrants Enjoy '4th

A successful first annual July 4 "Block Party" was held by residents of Putnam St. and Edgemere Rd. under the direction of Mrs. John Tormey.

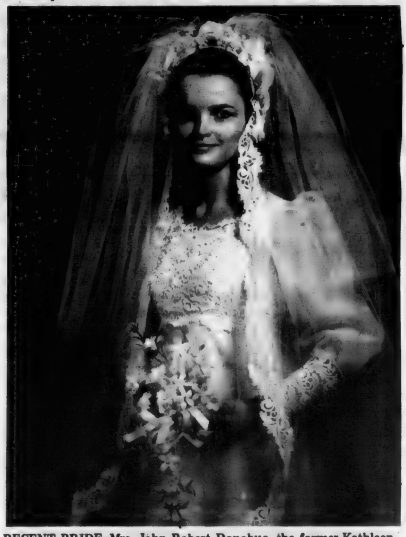
Putnam St. was gaily decorated with lights and tree decorations made by Maureen, Jean, and Kathie Mahoney. The girls also made paper flowers for those at the Merrymount Manor Nursing Home, and Mrs. John Forbes prepared punch and cookies for the Manor.

The Glee Club organized and directed by Miss Tricia Mullen opened the program with the Pledge of Allegiance and with patriotic songs.

Among city officials present were Mayor James R. McIntyre, Councillor Arthur Tobin, and the Mayor's Senatorial Aide, Henry Bertolin.

Mayor McIntyre presented first prize in the doll carriage parade to Carol Mahoney. First prize in the bicycle contest was awarded to Billy Mahoney and second prize went to Julie Deery.

Games supervisors and entertainment directors were John Forbes and Jane Deery.



MRS. RALPH J. ESPOSITO [Pagar Studio]

Birthday

A native of County Mayo, Ireland, which he revisited seven years ago, Mr. Flatley is a veteran of the famed World War I "fighting 69th."

Joining in the celebration was Mrs. Flatley, who will note her 78th birthday in August, and the couple's three children, Mrs. Edward Driscoll of Quincy, and two sons, Ambrose, a Hingham builder, and Thomas J., of Milton, prominent South Shore Building and real estate executive.

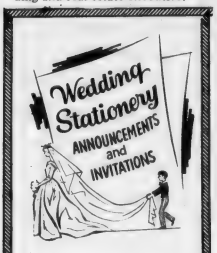
Miss Diane E. MacDonald Bride Of Ralph J. Esposito

A ceremony at Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy, united Miss Diane Elizabeth MacDonald of Quincy and Ralph Joseph Esposito, on June 28.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ross MacDonald, 74 Appleton St., is a graduate of North Quincy High School. Mr. Esposito is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Peter Esposito of West Haven, Conn. He graduated from West Haven High School and New Haven College, and received his Masters at Southern Conn. State College.

The bride wore a traditionally-sleeved gown of chantilly lace with a scooped neckline trimmed with seed pearls and crystals, a fitted bodice, and a tiered train.



Serving as maid of honor was Miss Elizabeth Wigley of Dorchester, cousin of the bride.

Bridesmaids were Miss Leslie MacDonald, Quincy, sister of the bride; Miss Rita Esposito, West Haven, sister of the groom; Miss Ann Esposito, West Haven, sister of the groom; and Mrs. Robert Whitman, West Haven.

Best man was William Girasuolo. Ushers were Arthur Sagnella, Alfred Sagnella, Louis Bernacchia, Stephen Mangini, and Anthony Resciguo, all of Connecticut.

A reception followed the ceremony at Whitton Hall, Dorchester. The couple left for a wedding trip to Bermuda. They will reside in West Haven.

Several Hundred To Attend 44th Chamber Outing July 16

COMMITTEE MEMBERS planning 44th annual Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce outing include, from the left, seated: Percy Lane, Joseph McConville, Frank Mills, William Ryan, Chairman George Fay, William Palmer, Joseph Kendrick, Ellis Hughes and Ronald Frazier. Standing are Carter Caudle, Hobart Robinson, Bert Eckblom, Frank McNulty, Russell DiMattio, Irving Potter, Charles Johnson. [Miller Studio]

Several hundred men will attend the 44th annual outing of the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce July 16 at the Weymouth Fairgrounds.

The outing, open to non-members of the Chamber, will feature an old fashioned New England clambake and sporting events.

Ticket reservations are running 25 per cent ahead of requests at this time last year. Reservations deadline is this week. They may be made by calling Ronald F. Frazier, chamber executive secretary, at 479-1111.

Clam chowder will be served from 1 to 4:30 p.m. and the main bake–lobster, barbecued chicken, steamed clams, corn, frankfurts, etc.–at 6 p.m.

Events during the day will include horseshoes, softball, basketball, football, and egg throwing contests, golf chipping, nail driving, volleyball, cribbage, and bocce.

Teams representing six organizations have been invited to compete in the bocce tournament. Tournament Chairman Ellis Hughes has sent invitations to the West Quincy Bocce Club, South Quincy Bocce Club, Quincy Lodge of Elks, Torre DePasseri, Quincy Point; Rouillard's Cafe, West Quincy, and Sons of Italy, East Weymouth.

George Fay is outing chairman. Co-chairmen are Bill Palmer and Bill Ryan. Committee members are:

Dan Barry, Henry Bosworth, Lou Cassani, Carter Caudle, Russ DiMattio, Denis Donoghue, Bert Eckblom, John Gillis, Ellis Hughes, Dave Murphy, Bud Johnson, Joseph Kendrick, Percy Lane, Joseph McConville, Richard McCormick, Frank McNally, Frank Mills, Ernest Mentilie, Forrest Neal, Forrest Parmenter, Irving Potter, George Riley, Hobart Robinson, Jack Silverstein, Richard Venna, Andy Walsh, William O'Connell and Ron Frazier.

Asher, Fontaine To Handle Weymouth Fair

James D. Asher and Herb Fontaine of Quincy Station WJDA will handle promotions, advertising, and public relations for the Weymouth Fair for the 12th consecutive year.

The "real old-fashioned country fair" will run seven days, August 17 through August 23, Sunday through Saturday.

Asher, a resident of South Weymouth, is president-treasurer of WJDA and of WESX, Salem and is the immediate past president of the Massachusetts Broadcasters Association.

Fontaine, a Merrymount resident, has been news editor-director for WJDA since 1955.

Richard Reidy, of South Weymouth, president, cited "new records established in 1968, both in attendance and pari-mutuel handle." "With both Mr. Asher and Mr. Fontaine we know and feel we have the winning combination.", he said.

Fischer Elected At Shawmut

Richard E. Fischer, 187 Palmer St., Germantown, has been elected Assistant Treasurer of Shawmut Association, Inc.

He is a graduate of Boston University and the NABAC School of Banking at the University of Wisconsin.

In addition to his responsibilities as Assistant Treasurer, Fischer will continue as Control Officer for the National Shawmut Bank of Boston.

New Urban Grant Big Boost For Park Plans

Park and recreational facilities will be the major benefficiaries of the $71,085 urban beautification grant received by Quincy.

The grant, similar to one received last year, was announced by Cong. James A. Burke and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy for the Dept. of Housing and Urban Development [HUD].

The funding program is designed to aid municipal beautification of streets, parks and other public places.

Total estimated cost of Quincy urban beautification projects for this year is $188,217. Of this amount, $141,217 represents increased spending above the annual beautification expenditure last year. The federal grant will cover 50 per-cent of the increased amount.

Slated for improvement through use of the funds are major renovations at the Cavanagh Stadium, North Quincy, including resodding and planting and anticipated construction of a new circular track, to update the present 30-year-old facility.

Coordinator of the beautification program, Richard Koch, Park Dept. executive secretary, said the new funds would enable the city to take a major step forward with park renewal projects.

Other improvements will include construction of two Little League fields at the Pond St. Playground and landscaping of the New Adams Shore Library.

Park Director Koch said combined city-federal and school department plans for the new track would be discussed at a meeting with School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon.

Cost of Cavanagh Stadium improvements have been estimated at $35,000. A $15,000 library landscaping expenditure is anticipated.

Mayor James R. McIntyre paid particular tribute to Cong. Burke and Sen. Kennedy for the retention of Quincy's eligibility under the HUD program when it appeared that city funds might be eliminated because of federal funding cutbacks.

CP Children To Enjoy Circus Day

The Circus, conducted as a fund-raising activity by Taleb Grotto, will be reserved for the cerebral palsied on Thursday, July 17 at 2 p.m. at Central Junior High School, Weymouth.

According to Monarch Edward L. Hunter, more than 150 cerebral palsied children will be treated to a complete show under canvas and refreshments, including ice cream, popcorn and peanuts.

Taleb Grotto has assisted Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore Area, Inc. in its direct services program, especially through donation of a station bus used for transportation of the cerebral palsied and through camperships for the needy cerebral palsied who attend camp during the Summer.

Any cerebral palsied child in the South Shore may attend the Circus by contacting CP headquarters, 36 Miller Style Rd., Quincy.

Thank McIntyre For Firefighters' 42-Hour Week

The Norfolk County Massachusetts Labor Council, AFL-CIO, has thanked Mayor James R. McIntyre for his assistance in getting Quincy firefighters a 42-hour work week.

City firefighters are members of the International Association of Fire Fighters Local 792, AFL-CIO.

In a recent letter to the Mayor, Joseph A. Sullivan, president, and John Menz, Jr., corresponding secretary, said, "We feel that this is another indication of the warm friendship that you have shown during your public life to the members of organized labor."

The pledged to always cooperate with the Mayor "in every way in any of your endeavors."

Brett Seeks Elks Convention For Boston

Rep. Joseph E. Brett, [D-Quincy] President of the Massachusetts Elks Association, Inc., has requested the assistance of Governor Sargent, Boston Mayor White, and the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce in urging the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks to hold its national convention in Boston in 1975 or 1976.

In letters to the Governor, Mayor and the Chamber, Brett pointed out that the Grand Lodge of the Order of Elks has had Boston under consideration for the past couple of years as a possible site for its 1975 or 1976 convention but, as yet, no commitment has been made.

The letters stated that invitations from the Governor, the Mayor, and the Chamber of Commerce may assist in convincing the Elks that Boston would be a natural place to hold its 1975 or 1976 convention at the same time our nation will be observing the 200th Anniversary of its independence.

Brett plans to present the letters in person to the Elks National Convention Committee at the Order's National Convention at Dallas, Tex. July 13-17. He will be attending the convention in his capacity of President of the Massachusetts Elks Association.

New Raider Coach

Frazier Ready For 'Big Challenge'

BY TOM SULLIVAN

RALPH FRAZIER

North Quincy High school has a new football coach, only the third since the school began the sport in 1933.

He is a former North standout who sees the job as a "big challenge to which I am anxiously looking forward."

Named to succeed Carl Leone, recently appointed athletic coordinator for the Quincy schools, is Ralph Frazier, Leone's defensive line coach for the past four years and the school's track coach the past two years.

"I am very pleased and consider this a wonderful opportunity," Frazier said. "I know I have some big shoes to fill because Carl has built up a winning tradition and has made North Quincy synonomous with winning. And, before Carl took over, Jack Donahue had done a terrific job as North's only coach from 1933 to 1960."

Leone had only two losing seasons in his eight years as Raider coach, including his first team. He led North to its only Greater Boston League championship with a 9-0 record three years ago.

"My phone hasn't stopped ringing since my appointment and you'd be surprised at the number of people who told me I'm crazy to want the job after the great job Carl did, but I figure this makes the challenge all the greater and I can't wait to get started," Ralph added.

Leone is pleased at the selection of the 30-year old Frazier, who was selected from a field of outstanding coaches.

"Ralph established real good rapport with the kids and they love him" Leone said. "I feel we made an excellent choice."

"Coaching North will be much easier than going to another school, because I know the boys coming back and know their capabilities," Frazier explained. "We lost some great players but will have some good boys coming back from last year's varsity as well as many very promising players from the sophomore and junior varsity teams coached by Ted Sadowski."

Ralph will stick with North's 5-4 defense, which he used while coaching in Florida, but admits he may be forced to make a few changes in the offense.

"Carl gave me free reign and accepted most of my suggestions and was very good to work for," the new coach said. "When I went to him with some suggestion for a defensive change, he would tell me to go ahead and try it and we had very good luck with the 5-4 defense.

"If I had the backs Carl had last year, I would stick with his offense but we won't have the speed of last year's backs and, although I will go along basically with his system I will make changes to suit our material and will make no changes just for the sake of changing."

Ralph feels Leone was an excellent choice as the new athletic coordinator. "Carl has shown great loyalty right down the line," he stated. "He was very loyal to Quincy as a player and to North as a coach and I know he will show loyalty to all schools as the coordinator."

Frazier explained his biggest need right now is "a good Class A offensive backfield coach," a job handled so capably by Leone. "We have several fine men in our system and I think we should be able to find someone," he said. "But if we can't find one, I will have to shift our coaches around."

Frazier starred for Donahue in 1954, '55 and '56 and was named to several all-scholastic teams. During his junior and senior years Leone took over as an assistant coach.

He played four years at Boston University from which he graduated in 1961. He was a physical education major and owns a Master's Degree in Education.

He was head football coach at Medway High for three years, compiling a 16-8-3 record, then was offensive line coach at Coral Park High school in Miami, Fla., for three years before returning to North Quincy.

Ralph teaches physical education in the Quincy elementary schools and this spring led North Quincy High to one of its most successful track seasons in years, a 6-1 record and second play in the Suburban League. The Raiders lost only to unbeaten league champ Weymouth.

He and his wife, the former Sheila O'Keefe, reside in Braintree with their 15-month-old daughter, Suzanne. They expect their second child next month.

Quincy Loses 'Toughie'

Morrisette Back In First Place

Morrisette Legion's baseball team is back at its accustomed spot on top of Zone 6 but Weymouth is right on its heels following close wins by each on Tuesday night.

Morrisette, which went back into first place last week when Weymouth suffered its only two losses of the year, scored a run in the last inning to edge Randolph, 2-1, at Randolph behind Steve McDevitt's two-hit pitching. Weymouth stayed a half game behind with a 1-0 last inning win over hard luck Quincy at Adams Field. The results left Morrisette with a 9-2 record and Weymouth with an 8-2 mark. Weymouth must replay a tie game with Randolph.

Tonight Morrisette plays at Milton and Braintree at Quincy. Sunday it will be Canton at Morrisette and Quincy at Norwood and Tuesday Braintree plays at Morrisette and Quincy at Randolph. Meanwhile, Weymouth is home to Randolph tonight, plays at Needham Sunday and at Milton Tuesday.

McDevitt struck out 11 and didn't issue a walk at Randolph as he gained the edge over Frank Kuzminski, who has pitched well all year for Randolph but has received little batting support.

Morrisette, which had only five hits, started with a run in the first on a single by Ron Di Nardo, a stolen base, an error and Jerry Connolly's single. Randolph tied it in the second on a hit and two errors.

Morrisette won it in the seventh when DiNardo again singled, stole second and third and scored on Steve Carrera's single. Mc Devitt struck out four in the bottom of the seventh, one batter reaching on a wild pitch.

Garry McGrath, one of the league's hard luck pitchers, lost another toughie for Quincy on a bad bounce triple and single in the final inning accounting for Weymouth's lone run.

McGrath allowed six hits, struck out 12 and walked only two but his rival, Ron Stohl, was even more effective with a two-hitter, struck out 15 and walked three. Quincy's only hits were singles by Jim Donovan and Steve Tomasetti.

Weymouth had runners on second and third with no outs in the fifth but failed to score.

"This is the story of our lives, great pitching and no hitting," said Quincy coach Doug Fleming. "This is McGrath's second 1-0 defeat. It is pretty frustrating."

Sunday Morrisette nipped Wellesley, 3-2, at Wellesley despite being outhit, 8-3, with Paul Duff getting the win with a fine relief job.

Wellesley took the lead off Bobby Pettinelli with a run in the first but Morrisette tied it in the fourth when Jerry Connolly walked, stole second and scored on Al Gallotta's double.

Wellesley moved ahead again with a run in the sixth but again Morrisette tied it in the seventh when Duff walked and went to third as Ron DiNardo reached on an error. DiNardo stole second and Duff scored when Ted Meyer grounded to the second baseman.

In the ninth Morrisette won it when Rich Baker hit a tremendous triple to left center and Dick Brown ran for him. After Duff fanned, DiNardo walked and again stole second. The throw was cut off and Brown beat the return throw home with the winning run.

Duff allowed only one hit during his relief stint while Wellesley's top pitcher, Ace Adams, lost a heartbreaker. The rival shortstops, Gallotta and Wellesley's Al Ryan, excelled, and Steve Carrera made a fine running catch for Morrisette in the sixth.

Quincy edged Canton, 2-1, thanks to a move in the sixth inning. Rightfielder Gary McGrath relieved Frank Costa with the bases loaded and two outs and he pitched to one batter, who grounded out to end the threat. Costa returned to the mound and gained the win with a three-hitter while striking out 10.

Come, Let Us Reason Together

By Dr. William F. Knox

'Feminine Affection Her Power'

"We've been married 17 years," the man was saying. . .."to this moment I've never seen my wife's body. . . .always hiding herself from me. . . .she's the coldest woman in the world." He paused. . .I waited. Then he went on. . ."Her whole attitude to me is one of holding me at a distance. . .only talks with me when she wants something. . .I feel like a handy man. . .She's so grudging with any affection. . .If it weren't for the children, I'd leave. . .I've lost all interest in her. . .I just can't get close to her."

Why are so many women cold and unaffectionate to their husbands? The answer is MEN. . .Yes. . .that's the reason. . .men. Usually it was the first man. . .her father. Some men think if they work hard. . .provide a weekly pay check and just stay out of the way at home that they are fulfilling their responsibility. Nothing could be further from the truth. THE MAN IS THE HEAD OF THE FAMILY. This is theologically sound. This is psychologically sound. If he defaults. . .creeps around like a mouse. . .if he lets the wife make all the decisions. . .participates little in the children's affairs. . .never rises up on his hind legs and says. . ."Thus it shall be". . . he is in the process of ruining his family. . .and himself.God intended that men shall be men. . .that women shall be women. Our times seem to have mixed up these roles miserably. Men cause feminine coldness. . .a weak father or husband are the usual culprits.

On the other hand, a warm effectionate woman probably had a good father. . .she learned from him how to treat a man. This woman can have almost anything her heart desires. This kind of woman never tries to act superior to her man. . .though often she is. Instead. . .She builds her man's ego. She never projects blame to him. . .she tries to justify his stupid actions. She never acts in independence from her man. . .she shows him how very much she needs him. She never withholds herself from him sexually . . .she seeks always to be close. Nothing for this kind of woman comes before her man. When his desires and needs come first with her. . .her desires and needs come first with him. His whole life is aimed at making her happy. . .making her feel as a woman. And what's behind this aim? the power of feminine affection. But without that power he will fail in his best efforts. . .he can't reach her.

Does it always work? NO. . .not with the neurotic man. . .not with the alcoholic. . .not with the mamma's boy. These are distortions of manhood. [But you're not very smart to marry that kind of guy in the first place.] Given a regular fellow. . .your feminine affection will cause him to lavish upon you all his resources in expressing his undying love. Try it. . .and if I'm mistaken, let me know.

Fallon Installed To National UCT Post In St. Louis

Kenneth P. Fallon, Jr., 857 Furnace Brook Parkway was installed as Supreme Junior Counselor at the conclusion of the 82nd annual session of the Order of United Commercial Travelers of America, which was held at St. Louis, Missouri, June 30, July 1, 2, 3.

Included among the Quincy delegation attending the ceremonies were Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. King.

The office of Supreme Junior Counselor automatically carries membership on the Fraternity's Board of Governors and also prepares Mr. Fallon for his duties as Supreme Counselor [International President] which he will assume in 1970 when the Society holds its 83rd annual session in New Orleans, La. The four day session will be held at the Roosevelt Hotel, July 6,7, 8, 9.

A Fraternal Benefit Service Society founded at Columbus, Ohio, January 16, 1888 by eight salesmen, it now has 679 Councils in the larger cities of forty-eight states and ten Provinces in Canada, with a membership in excess of 250,000.

Zoning Ordinance Revisions Vital Says Davidson

Completing revisions of a new Quincy zoning ordinance for presentation to the City Council was cited as the most basic work of the reorganized Department of Planning, Programming and Development by Director, Geoffrey Davidson, at a luncheon address before the weekly meeting of the Quincy Rotary Club.

While this study of rezoning has been worked on for several years, with the newly expanded department it is expected to be presented to the City Council in September, he said.

Davidson also explained the day to day functions of the department, which include passing on applications for relief from zoning regulations, approving subdivision regulations, and advising the city council as to sale of tax title or other land sales.

Of major importance is the need to develop promptly a comprehensive plan for present and future needs of the city, and the means to implement it, he said. While there is much talk about federal and state funds flowing into the city, the real estate tax is still the main source of revenue, and not nearly enough federal or state money is being disbursed to the cities and towns for basic necessities such as streets, sewer and water lines, and parks and recreation facilities, he noted.

Davidson was introduced by Irving Boyes, program chairman of the Rotary Club, and at the conclusion of his address was presented a certificate by the newly installed Rotary President, Bert E. Eckblom.

Quincy wire inspector William H. Pitts, reports that during the month of June, 121 wiring permits, representing wiring costing $200,000., were issued. During the 118 inspections made, 12 defects were noted.

Fees for the permits amounted to $2,414.

There were 118 inspections during which 12 defects were found.

The major wiring projects for the month were: a new six apartment building, 1 Thomas St.; a new 18 apartment building, 118 Greenleaf St.; a new 24 apartment building, 71 Station St.; and a new building for Allied Stores, Jordan Marsh Co., 76 Quincy Shore Drive.

Quincy Has New Ambulance Service

Quincy Adams Ambulance Service is now in operation at 261 Whitwell St.

The service is owned and operated by David A. LaBrecque and Lloyd E. Bazinet.

Representatives from Quincy City Hospital, local physicians, nursing home administrators and Police Chief Francis X. Finn attended the ceremonies.

Equipment, including late model Cadillac ambulances, has been approved by Medicare and the Massachusetts Department of Public Health. The fully equipped units have oxygen suction, child and adult resuscitators, and other necessary facilities for intensive care in emergency situations.

Standard and advanced first aid courses are offered by Bazinet on weekends at the Whitwell St. office.

Former QHS Students Discuss Journalism

BY DEBBIE GRAHAM

What's it like to see hour heritage in action?

The Quincy High School Journalism class invited some of QHS heritage back in the persons of Paul Benzaquin, WEEI radio station talkmaster, Steven DunLeavey, Boston Record American; Walter Green, Associated Press photographer, Robert Rimmer, popular novelist, and Henry Bostworth, co-publisher of The Quincy Sun.

Mr. Benzaquin gave a look at the other side of the "adult" generation with a talk and question session concerning dope, drugs, and dress standards.

Mr. DunLeavey displayed a preview of a series he produced for the Boston Record American about Boston police. With the aid of pictures and details he described scenes pictured by the vice squad.

Mr. Green spoke of his world-wide experiences as an Associated Press photographer and of his coverage of the Apollo 9 landing.

Mr. Rimmer discussed writing books and Mr. Bosworth, former Boston Herald Traveler reporter and columnist, spoke on The Quincy Sun's goals as a community oriented newspaper concentrating on news of the city of Quincy.

A visit to the Thomas Crane Public Library offered the first look at QHS heritage with the distribution of past Goldenrods, the Quincy yearbook. Also the micro-film projector extended an opportunity to view newspapers dating back as far as 50 years or more.

Journalism is not only the enjoyment of visiting libraries, newspapers and radio stations, but is also the drudgery of ordering into words observation and actions. It's hard work, but the unalluring aspects of journalism diminish in the face of the skills, understandings and attitudes involved.

Race Week Queen To Be Selected

A Queen to reign over the 32nd annual Quincy Bay Race Week will be chosen at a beauty contest August 4 at 7:30 p.m. in downtown Quincy near the intersection of Hancock St. and Cottage Ave.

Contestants must be single girls between the ages of 16 and 25 who will be judged on the basis of their charm, beauty and poise in a single piece bathing suit.

The winner and runners-up will receive gifts donated by Quincy merchants.

The contest is open to all girls in the Greater Boston area. Letters have been sent to all members of the Massachusetts Bay Yacht Club Association, inviting them to enter a girl to represent their club.

Among the judges will be Mr. John Robertson, president, Quincy Bay Race Week Association, Mr. Leslie Brierley, vice president, and three members of the Quincy Merchant's Association.

Interested girls should send an application with their name, address, age and a snapshot or photograph [either a head and shoulders pose or bathing suit pose] to Miss Quincy Bay Race Week contest c/o Chamber of Commerce, 36 Miller Stile Rd., Quincy, 02169.

Applications can also be picked up at a number of Quincy businesses participating in the contest.

Deadline for contestants is July 31, 1969.

Sale Of Vending Interests By Dunkin' Donuts

Dunkin' Donuts Incorporated has entered into an agreement in principle for the sale of its cafeteria and vending operations located principally in the Boston area. The announcement was made by William A. Beebe, Vice-President of Finance. If consummated, it is expected that the sale will take place on or about July 26, 1969.

Dunkin' Donuts corporate offices are located at 440 Hancock St., Quincy. Beebe stated that in recent years the contribution of these operations to the Company's net income has not been significant. In the opinion of the Company, the sale will not have a material effect on the operations or net income of the Company.

After a thorough review, it was the opinion of the Company that the continued expenditure of management time and other resources in the cafeteria and vending business was not compatible with the Company's primary long range objectives which at present, lie in the area of franchising.

Dunkin' Donuts develops and franchises Dunkin' Donuts shops and Howdy Beefburgers drive-in restaurants. As of May 31, 1969 there were 367 Dunkin' Donuts shops in 28 states and Canada, and 27 Howdy Beefburgers shops operating in New England

QUALITY AND SERVICE are the trademarks of Hannon Tire Company. Proprietor Walter J. Hannon, left, and employee Arthur Morrissey stand in front of the only product sold at Hannon Tire - tires,. With a product so vital to road safety, Hannon's provides only the best.

Hannon Tire Company, 495 Hancock St., North Quincy, is precisely what its name implies. It is not a business dealing with auto accessories or products, but solely with tires.

The store is owned by Walter J. Hannon who has been associated with the tire business, which was originally his father's, since 1934 and has been at his present location since 1937. Five employees assist Mr. Hannon in offering fine service to his patrons.

Quality and service personify Hannon Tire Company

A customer at Hannon Tire will not be offered bargain-basement tires without regard to long-riding safety. Hannon Tire prides itself on quality of product and service with customer safety the first consideration. As far as Mr. Hannon is concerned, when it comes to tires, people need the best, and when they come to Hannon's "they get the best."

Among its diversity of services, Hannon Tire Company provides the repairing and mounting of tires, servicing of some truck fleets, wheel-balancing, and recapping. They also provide a thorough road and breakdown service.

Mr. Hannon serves both retail and wholesale consumers. Tire sales are provided for gas stations, garages, and new car dealers, as well as to the individual.

Although, it's a bit early to to think of snow tires, according to Mr. Hannon, and September or October are perhaps more proper months to purchase tires for our heavy New England snowstorms, it is wise to remember that Hannon Tire Co. provides only the "tops in snow tires". It is always seasonal for the motorist to keep in mind Hannon Tire Company - a store of quality and service.

Plan New Boston Gas Co. Building

FACING THE BOSTON COMMON, the apex of the triangular-shaped new Boston Gas Building is formed at the juncture of Boylston and Charles Streets. The new 30-story building offers its occupants a spectacular view of Boston Common, Public Garden, Beacon Hill and the State House, and surrounding areas. Architects of the granite-stone building are John Carl Warnecke & Associates and Emery Roth & Sons.

Eastern Gas and Fuel Associates has announced plans to build a 30-story building as the new headquarters for itself, Boston Gas Company, and other Eastern subsidiaries.

The distinguished structure will be on Boylston Street at the corner of Charles Street, overlooking the Public Garden and Boston Common. The building is scheduled for completion late in 1971.

Eli Goldston, president of Eastern Gas and Fuel Associates, said the building will be called the Boston Gas Building as "symbolic of the leadership which Boston Gas continues to play in the life of the city and as a testament to the continuing vitality and momentum of the New Boston."

Along with affiliated companies, Boston Gas will occupy about a third of the building, with the balance leased to other tenants.

Claude F. Machen, president of Boston Gas, Mayor Kevin H. White, and Hale Champion, director of the Boston Redevelopment Authority, joined in announcing the plans Tuesday.

"As a major tenant in this new building," said Mr. Machen, "we look forward to consolidating our executive and operating groups downtown, where we began 150 years ago. We've always been confident in Boston's Central Business District--the core of the 32 cities and towns served by Boston Gas--and we believe this building will establish a vital new link between the downtown financial district and the uptown Prudential and Christian Science centers."

John N. Philips, president of Eastern Associated Properties Corporation and executive vice president of Eastern, expressed optimism over the rentability of the new structure. "Even as several other new structures begin to show on the city's skyline," he said, "all knowledgeable observers of growth trends assure us that there is still an unsatisfied demand for modern quality office space in the downtown area. The Boston Gas Building will serve not only the needs of Boston Gas and other affiliates of Eastern, but the needs of other solid companies seeking quality office space downtown."

The building will feature a two-story lobby accessible from Boylston, Charles and Providence Streets. There will be a large plaza on the south side of the building. The building will have 16 automatic high-speed elevators of the most advanced design. For delivery and pickup trucks serving the building, a unique system will facilitate the movement of traffic in the area by employing a truck elevator and a turn-table platform in the basement.

The street sections are already being cleared of underground facilities so that the site preparation and construction may commence this fall.

Dist. Atty. Burke Urges State Adopt Drug Bureau

Support for a proposed state drug education agency coordinating all public services in a multi-directional campaign against drug use, has been urged by Norfolk County Dist. Atty. George G. Burke.

Burke's proposal for a state agency under the Department of Education, Senate Bill 1340, is now under study by the Senate Ways and Means Committee.

Burke called the legislation "the first major step toward actually curbing the use of drugs in our Commonwealth."

In his statement on the growing drug problem and the proposed Drug Education Bureau, Burke said: "The President's Commission on Narcotics and Drugs states, 'There is a clear present need for a single agency having a specific mandate for education.' We cannot afford to neglect this responsibility.

"For example, a young boy, after attending a party where beer and barbituates were used, was found dead with barbituates near his body. In our drug education program we point out that when you take alchohol and barbituates together you can die. "Potentiation" occurs which means that the alchohol acts as a catalyst for the barbituates, multiplying the effects of the barbituates many times. It produces the same effects as an overdose of barbituates, which is the leading cause of drug deaths.

"Education to these factual dangers of drug abuse according to the National Institute of Mental Health and all Federal and State authorities is the best approach to solving the drug problem. The basic cause of drug abuse is the youth's curiosity and the desire to be part of the "In Crowd". Drug Education exposes drugs for what they are and makes using drugs a stupid and unpopular thing to do.

"This technique has been extremely successful in the use of cigarettes. Publicity to the dangers of smoking cigarettes has decreased their use by 27.3 billion packs each year.

"Senate Bill 1430 will provide this opportunity. Now before the Senate Ways and Means Committee, Senate Bill 1430, provides for an Agency for Drug Education [ADE] which will act as a central agency for all drug education within the Commonwealth. It will help and assist all 351 communities in the state in the educating of all our citizens to the dangers of using drugs.

Computer Complex First Step

$200 Million Development Seen For North Quincy

A potential $200 million-plus development is seen for the Montclair marsh area of North Quincy if a planned computer center office building complex gets a final green-light.

It would mean the area alone would surpass the city's current total property valuation of $194.5 million.

"This would have the greatest favorable impact on the city's real estate tax structure in history", informed sources told The Quincy Sun.

They said the development would occur in the next seven years, providing the computer complex planned by a nationally known financial institution materializes.

The complex including a high-rise structure and costing an estimated $25 to $40 million, hinges on "a couple of small parcels of land", the sources said.

Sources said the computer complex would have:

–Approximately 2,000 employees with an annual payroll of about $20 million.

–Initial parking for 1,500 cars with eventual space for 3,800 vehicles in the entire development area.

–A helicopter port and a water-way from the Neponset River for hydrofoil commuter service to downtown Boston.

The sources said there would be proper buffer zones and none of the new roads would tie in with existing dead-end streets such as John St. and Harriet Ave. to keep traffic out of present residential areas.

According to the sources, the computer complex would have an inside acre park consisting of fountains, flowers and shrubs.

"Quincy has never seen anything like it," one source described the plans.

The development area is off the new Newport Ave. extension and bounded by the Neponset River. Initial construction would be northwest of the new MBTA North Quincy station.

The development area would be linked to Boston land if all

'Good Neighbor' Balloting Begins In Houghs Neck

It's election time at Houghs Neck.

There is a ballot box at Pages Pharmacy and nominations will be cast through Aug. 15.

Residents are voting, as they have since 1957, for "Good Neighbors" to be honored at the annual October Awards Banquet of the Houghs Neck Community Council.

Qualifications require five years' residence or activity at Houghs Neck. Persons may be nominated for a single act of heroism, continuing acts of good neighborliness or civic achievements.

The Houghs Neck Good Neighbor Policy began in 1954 when the late Otto A. F. Page, retiring as pharmacist and proprietor of Pages Pharmacy, was honored by the community for his countless acts of kindness during his business years. More than 350 persons attended a Dec. 4 banquet in his honor.

In 1957 the Awards Banquet became an annual event. In all, 40 individuals including five couples have received citations since then. These include Boy and Girl Scout leaders, traffic supervisors, teachers, civic benefactors, and the traditional "good neighbors."

Plaques for life saving feats have been given to teenagers John Price and Linda Trechok in 1964 and to Firefighter Robert Blowers in 1965.

Wounded Marine Corp. Frederick S. Price, Jr., representing all Houghs Neck servicemen, was honored in 1966.

Last year's special citations went to Miss Ruth Abbiatti, retiring principal of Atherton Hough School, and Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa, retiring as Quincy's mayor.

Complete DDT Sales Ban Seen Doubtful

Quincy health officials have consulted with the State Health Dept. to enforce a City Council resolve to ban all DDT sales within the city.

Dr. John T. Foley, Quincy Health Commissioner, said yesterday that the City Council resolve had been submitted to his office through Mayor James R. McIntyre.

He said that he had consulted with the State Health Dept. which by law controls the use of DDT through a Pesticide Board appointed by the governor.

The City Council has recommended that all DDT sales in Quincy be prohibited with specific reference to a ban on future use by the Forestry Dept.

A Forestry Dept. official said yesterday that the use of DDT had been voluntarily discontinued by the department two years ago.

Dr. Foley pointed out that the state law limits use of DDT and requires licenses for public use. Use of the dangerous pesticide is permitted in controlled dosages by home owners for household and grounds purposes.

DDT as a mosquito control agent is now prohibited, Dr. Foley noted.

Its use and purchase by home-

McIntyre signs the Declaration of Independence Against Kidney Disease at a luncheon inaugurating the Massachusetts Mayors $202,800 drive to expand life-saving treatment programs with the artificial kidney machine. Chief executives of the Commonwealth's 39 cities have pledged leadership for the campaign to prolong the lives of 200 Massachusetts citizens expected to die this year because of shortage of personnel to operate artificial kidney machines in local areas. Something New For Sunburn

Much has been written, lately, about the prevention of sunburn largely because of the results of a research project, in the New England Journal of Medicine.

The article refers to an evaluation of most of the agents used to minimize the effects of the sun's rays. Tests were performed over a period of two years in Arizona and the Swiss Alps. Tests were made under varying climates and natural conditions, involving prolonged exposure to the sun, wind, swimming and snow. The Alpine tests were obviously for skiers exposed to reflected sunlight.

The results evaluated by the Massachusetts General Hospital research team did not use any new sun-screening materials. The basic ingredient [Paramino Benzoic acid] has been known and used for 40 years. In the new study, using Ethyl Alcohol and another ethanol diluient, along with the above basic ingredient resulted in superior results over many products already on the market. The tests proved the efficacy of the newer product which they designated as MAP.

It is very much like ice cream - many combinations since Revolutionary times were made, but until Howard Johnson bought his now famed recipe from an old German in Wollaston and popularized it - just that little improvement made the difference.

So again with a little alcohol - the right blend - now a superior sun-burn protectant. Undoubtedly this new product will be commercially available before long.

The assumed value of ultraviolet from the sun is exaggerated and has always been. I personally cannot admit that a tanned woman is any more attractive or healthier than the person with just a speck of sun exposure. [Remember the heroine in "From Here to Eternity" who said a tan was bad for business!]

Furthermore, researchers state that "Evidence indicates that exposure to sunlight is a major cause of "aging of the skin" and of cancer on the exposed skin.

The value of this research will be for those fair-skinned or extremely sensitive who may be helped, early in life and through-out life to prevent or lessen the degenerative changes produced by the sun. This is progress - the rest of the unviolated may lavish in the sun for all the indolent good it does.

Special Postal Rates Up

Increased fees for special postal services have been announced by the Post Office Department to become effective July 14. These services include registered mail, return receipts, special delivery [both domestic and international] and C.O.D. mail.

No increase in fees will be made on insurance for parcels, certified mail and special handling service.

Registry fees up to $1,000 in value are increased 5 cents; return receipts showing to whom and when delivered will be raised from 10 cents each to 15 cents. The cost of other types of return receipts will remain the same.

Special delivery fees [domestic and international] will be increased by 15 cents on first class mail and 10 cents on all other classes of mail.

All C.O.D. fees will be increased by 10 cents.

Funds From HEW Not Available For Park Plan

The city has been notified through Cong. James A. Burke that the Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare will be unable to provide financial assistance for open space development in the Myles Standish School area.

In reply to an inquiry through Cong. Burke, HEW officials explained that there was no program available through their agency to assist the recreational project.

Inquiries also being made by Cong. Burke to the Depts. of Interior and Housing and Urban Development regarding eligibility for federal funding. The assistance is being sought by Mayor James R. McIntyre acting on behalf of residents in the Squantum Gardens section seeking additional recreation facilities for about 300 children living in the area.

Hancock Bank Earnings Up 37.2 Percent

Hancock Bank reports an increase of 37.2 percent in net operating earnings after applicable taxes for the first six months ended June 30.

Net operating earnings for the six month period totalled $339,953 or $1.21 per share compared to $247,719 or 88 cents in 1968 according to William E. Kelley, president.

As of June 30, deposits had increased to $51,063,047 up 13.3 per cent from the $45,051,947 for the comparable period a year ago.

Total assets had climbed to 61,117,004 compared to 52,350,906 on June 30, 1968, an increase of 16.7 per cent, Kelley said.

Hancock Bank has 13 offices throughout Norfolk County.

Political observers doubt that Mayor James R. McIntyre will have any major opposition in his bid for a third term this fall.

There are no "name" candidates even being mentioned as potential opponents. The Speculation Corps doesn't have one big name to speculate about.

There are two or three members of the present City Council who have their eye on the second floor front office at City Hall but none of them want to tangle with McIntyre in a mayoralty race.

They're quite content to bide their time. And their time will be the year [apparently 1971] when McIntyre departs City Hall by decision, not defeat.

In fact when McIntyre decides to bow out, there will be more candidates than MBTA buses running through town.

The job doesn't pay much for these days [$10,000] but it still carries a lot of prestige. Headaches, too. But you can still buy a lot of aspirin with $10,000.

ALTHOUGH reaction to City Councillor Arthur Tobin's proposal to raise the current $10,000 salary of the Mayor has been good, one resident didn't like the idea. He wrote a sharply critical letter to Tobin opposing higher expenditures, and addressed it:

Miniature Golf Offered Youngsters

The Quincy Recreation Department's summer playground program will again offer free miniature golf to playground participants in the 6 to 16 age group, according to recreation Director William F. Ryan.

Arrangements have been made with the management of the Play-A-Round Golf Course on Hancock Street, North Quincy so that youngsters who attend playgrounds south of Furnace Brook Parkway may play Monday mornings and those from playgrounds north of Furnace Brook Parkway on Tuesday mornings.

Golf specialist, Mike Crismond, will conduct this activity which will be climaxed by an all-city championship program at the end of the playground season.

Quincy Ships In Key Moon Voyage Role

'Cinderella Ships' Guided Astronauts

Three World War II tankers converted into electronic "eyes and ears" at Quincy's General Dynamics shipyard, played key roles in yesterday's historic Man On The Moon voyage.

They guided Apollo 11 astronauts Neil A. Armstrong, Michael Collins and Edwin E. Aldrich Jr. through critical stages on their way into space and history.

Converted into sleek, gleaming white electronic platforms bristling bow to stern with huge antennas, the "Cinderella Ships" are the midocean eyes, ears and voice of the Apollo global tracking, communication and command network. The network is operated by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Goddard Space Flight Center, Greenbelt, Md.

The resurrected former oil tankers -- renamed USNS Vanguard, Redstone and Mercury - are the prime communications and data links at several critical stages of the Apollo 11 mission, including the last-minute "go - no go" decision whether and at what moment to send the three astronauts rocketing out of earth.

In their unglamorous wartime roles the three ships were 525-foot tankers of the T-2 class, built in 1944 for the Maritime Administration. In those days they bore the names Mission San Fernando [Vanguard], Mission San Juan [Mercury] and Mission De Pala [Redstone].

Conversion of the tankers into sophisticated electronics ships - actually seagoing versions of NASA's Mission Control Center in Houston - involved cutting out the 303-foot midsection of each tanker, which once carried five million gallons of oil, and replacing it with a new 375-food midbody.

By lengthening each vessel to 595 feet and broadening its beam from 68 to 75 feet, midsection space was provided for some 450 tons of sensitive electronic systems. The ships, which will be in constant communication with Houston, have redundancy among the various modes of transmission and reception as insurance against failure of any individual system.

Each Apollo ship accomodates a crew of 88 and 122 technical personnel who maintain and operate the systems. The ships are in voice communication with the Apollo 11 astronauts and also will be relaying high-speed computerized and telemetry data to and from the spacecraft command module and Houston whenever the spacecraft's orbital path brings it within reach, supplementing the Apollo network's array of land stations around the world.

About nine minutes after liftoff, data from Vanguard guided insertion of the spacecraft into its earth "parking" orbit

It was up to Vanguard to determine and advise Houston that Apollo 11 attained the proper altitude and velocity

CONTROL ROOM aboard one of the three instrumentation ships which are helping to guide Apollo 11 astronauts toward their goal of man's first landing on the moon. The USNS Vanguard, Redstone and Mercury provide midocean links in the global tracking network. The hand of the operator at the console is on the "bowling ball" manual control that swivels the radar's 30-foot diameter dish antenna on deck.

POINTING FOR APOLLO - Array of huge, dish-shaped antennas on the decks of three electronic moonships strategically stationed around the world guide Apollo 11 astronauts on their flight to the moon.

On weekends, Al Tino sounds different

Oh it's the same great Al Tino at his Hammond organ. Just like every other evening at the Sheraton Motor Inn, Quincy. Except Monday. But on Friday and Saturday, Al is joined in our colorful lounge by Lou Pellaggi. On guitar, drums, and sax. Stop in early. And have a snack or dinner in our adjoining restaurant. If you'd like reservations, call 471-1500.

Mobile Workshop To Visit Quincy

The Department of Public Education is presenting a mobile education workshop for an eight week period during the summer on eight locations in and around Boston.

The program is made possible through the generosity of a private donor and partial financial assistance from the Council on the Arts and Humanities of Massachusetts.

The van will be in Quincy at the Beechwood Knoll School Sunday.

The purpose of the program is to introduce teachers and parents to new methods for using the Fine Arts to stimulate learning in children. Original works of art, visual materials, and creative activity will be combined in a program which stresses observation and involvement from the children and participation by the parents and teachers. The original pieces are from the Museum of Fine Arts.

The mobile workshop will be open to the public on Saturday and Sunday to provide an opportunity to view the original works of art as well as those created by the workshop participants.

YMCA Program Now In High Gear

Quincy YMCA does much for the youth of the South Shore year-round, but it has a particularly attractive program for the summer months.

There is just about everything for boys and girls during the school vacation period and one of the outstanding events now going on is the sailing camp at Mason's Point in Squantum.

The three-week session for boys ended last week and a three-week session for girls began on Monday. There were still a few openings as the girls' camp opened.

Following the completion of the boys' session, Clifford O. Mason presented the Mason Trophy to Jonathan Sands as the outstanding skipper after he defeated John Cunniff, Thomas Atchinson and John McConnille.

Mason presented this trophy and emblems to 25 boys who completed the requirements of rowing, knot-tying and sailing.

Boys and girls are taught first to row and tie essential knots and are given the opportunity to learn to sail Sabots [the camp has 12 of them], Turnabouts [five] and Hustlers [one]. There is also a ski boat and one of the features of the camp is water skiing.

Directing the sessions for boys and girls 11 to 15 years of age are Henry J. Willman, program and membership chairman of the Y, and Mason, who donated the land and the boats to the Y and has worked hard on the program since his retirement about 20 years ago.

"Cliff just lives for this program and volunteers his time," Willman said. "He does a wonderful job with the youngsters."

Working as instructors with Willman and Mason are Jay McRitchie, Paul White and Page Farrell.

The Y has several camps operating including Camp Burgess, a resident camp for boys located in Sandwich which opened 40 years ago, and Camp Hayward for girls, located on Spectacle Lake across from Camp Burgess, which was added in 1960.

These camps offer boys and girls an opportunity to enjoy real outdoor camping experience and athletics play a bit part in the camp's curriculum. Among the sports are softball, tennis, swimming, boating, fishing, riflery and such other activities as life saving, arts and crafts, nature study, dramatics and wood craft. All activities are supervised by competent staff members.

Camp Burgess Pioneers is a tripping camp for boys and Camp Hayward Rangers a tripping camp for girls.

Kamp King is a day camp which attracts about 145 boys 8 through 12 who meet at the Y on Monday, Wednesday and Friday and go on trips on Tuesday and Thursday. Coming events include an Aquatics night Friday, a camp carnival July 31 and an awards banquet Aug 15.

The boys will enjoy trips through the Canada Dry bottling plant, Weymouth Air Base, N. E. Aquarium, Logan Airport, Fort Warren [George's Island] and the USS Massachusetts. Archery, crafts, swimming and riflery are among the activities.

Camp Adventure for boys 11 and 12 emphasizes overnight camping at various reservations and the Y resident camp on the Cape, boating, hiking and outdoor activities.

Camp Clark is a day camp for girls which features swimming, crafts, cookouts and trips. They meet at the Y on Tuesday and Thursday and enjoy trips on Wednesdays.

Stepping Stone Camp is for girls 12 through 16 and includes many activities geared to the special interests of teenage girls. This camp runs for two weeks only and has already completed its session. A. Wendell Clark of the Y said, "Stepping Stone for your teenage daughter has proven to be the highlight of her summer's activities and fulfills a need in our communities."

The Y also has a varied program for non-campers including outdoor physical program for grade school and junior high boys, swimming instruction, swim team, judo club and wrestling for boys and an extensive swimming program for girls.

Robert Palazzi is in charge of the judo club and Norman Collier of the wrestling program.

The youth room is open from 4 to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. on Saturday for table tennis, chess, checkers and other games.

Paul Harvey is director of boys' activities with Bruce Knowles as his assistant. Knowles handles the day camp program.

Alice Beagan is director of the girls' program assisted by Jackie Whitcomb.

One of the highlights of the summer season is the Family Membership swim on Monday and Wednesday from 7 to 8 p.m. and Saturday from 4 to 5 p.m when children from two years of age up swim with their families.

[Next week: The adults are not forgotten].

THIS WAS THE scene last year when Miss Quincy Bay Race Week, Lorrie Ann Heap [center] was selected. A new queen will be chosen Aug. 4., to reign over this year's race week, Aug. 13-17. Deadline for entries is July 26. Registration applications may be obtained in Quincy center stores or at the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce. Shown here are John Robertson, president Quincy Bay Race Week Association; Edward F. Percy, president Merchants Division; Louis Cassani, emcee; Cindy Antoon, first runner-up; Miss Heap, Nancy Kelcourse, second runner-up; Peggy Ann Schaub, former winner and Robert Kass, contest chairman.

Mayor McIntyre Red Sox Treat For Kids Aug. 7

A fleet of 64 buses will transport the youngsters, between the ages of 10 and 15, to and from Fenway Park. They will be excorted by 79 Quincy firefighters and 31 Quincy police officers.

Co-chairmen are Fire Chief Edward F. Barry and Police Chief Francis X. Finn. Assisting them are Fire Capt. Thomas Andrew and Police Lt. William Daley

The Randolph committee is led by Fire Chief William Mc Neil and Robert Zapustas of the Recreation Department.

- Procedure for obtaining baseball tickets for this game will be as follows:

- Tickets must be picked up on Saturday, July 26, at local fire stations by a parent at the following locations and time:

Quincy, 9:00 - 10:00 a.m., Braintree, 11:00 - 12:00 Noon., Randolph, 1:00 - 2:00 p.m. Under no conditions will a ticket be given out unless a parent is present. Tickets are for children between the ages of 10 and 15 ONLY.

- As parents pick up the tickets they will fill out the stub so their child will be eligible to win a major league baseball and leave same at the fire station.

- Free ice cream will be distributed at the boarding sites in Quincy, Braintree, and Randolph. Tickets for ice cream will be given out at the same time the baseball tickets are picked up. No one will be given ice cream without a ticket.

- Boarding sites and time of departure for the game are as follows:

Randolph, Buses leave at 11:00 a.m. from Stetson School.

Braintree, Buses leave at 11:00 a.m. from Braintree Town Hall.

Quincy, Buses leave at 11:00 a.m. from the rear of the Vocational School on Woodward Avenue.

No child will be admitted on a bus unless he has a ticket with the bus number on it.

- Lunches for the children must be provided by parents.

Tennis Club Teams In Action

The Quincy Tennis Club is sponsoring two junior teams this summer, a boys' team which is competing in the South Shore Junior League, and a Junior Wightman Cup girls' team entered in Division "B" of th Massachusetts League.

The girls' team is coached by Mrs. William White, who had handled this position for eight years.

The Quincy girls have defeated Framingham and lost to Hanover and Andover. The winner of the playoffs between the two "B" division champions will go to Connecticut for the annual Mass.- Connecticut playoffs.

The Quincy boys' team, coached by the club manager, Bill Dempsey, a teacher-coach at Weymouth High, was defeated in its opener by the Scituate Harbor Yacht club team.

Dempsey's players include Steve Saris, Pat Dempsey, John Pucci, Chris Ryan, Kevin McGinley, Bill Powers, Doug Bell and Dave Harney.

The Quincy boys are home to Weymouth today and play at Eel River July 25.

One team will be eliminated and the other four will play in a championship tourney at Hanover on Aug. 7 and 8.

Recreation Roundup

A staff of 135 plus 200 teenage volunteers are conducting the Quincy summer recreation program under the direction of Director William F. Ryan and General Supervisor Lionel H. Buckley.

The Quincy Recreation Department, under the jurisdiction of the seven member Park and Recreation Board, operates a playground program at 33 different areas Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Specialist in golf, tennis, archery, crafts, nature, ceramics bring in additional activities and instruction to the playground program.

Joseph Daly, five-year veteran on the department's award-winning boating and sailing program is supervising a staff of six at the Black's Creek boathouse, where youngsters 8 to 16, who first pass a qualifying swimming test, are offered an instructional program which utilizes the department's fleet of 38 small boats.

Adult sailing is conducted evenings and family boating on Saturdays at the creek.

Handicapped children are not forgotten as the department operates Happy Acres Day Camp at the Pageant Field Area of Merrymount Park under the direction of Earl E. Vermillion. More than 100 teenage volunteers assist the Camp Staff witha diversified program for retarded children, physically handicapped, slow learners, and other children with problems. The camp was presented the national award for excellence by Mrs. Eunice Kennedy Shriver.

Sixty-one volunteers from Happy Acres Day Camp spent last Saturday at Nantasket Beach and Paragon Park under the volunteer leadership of staff members Earl Vermillion, Charles Alongi, Russel Berg, Mary Kenney, Eloise Rizzo, Janet Vesey, and Dorothy Tehan...At O'Rourke playground the girls are enjoying kickball with Julie Ahern and Lauren Scirnici as team captains.

Writing their own script and making their own puppets the children at Merrymount playground produced a puppet show for their parents' night program . . .Peggy O'Brien, crafts specialist, taught the Wollaston playground group to make creative felt designs; Dyanne Collins clown and Patricia Sullivan's butterfly were noteworthy results. . .At Shea rink in West Quincy, leader Brian Buckley has the boys playing Hockey--not ice hockey, but floor hockey with field hockey sticks and a rubber ball.

John Sweeney and Bruce Perrson are leading the mile running contest each with 19 miles logged. . .Stoney Brae's twins, Brian and Kevin O'Hanley are doing a great job managing the junior boys' baseball team and Jack Hatfield made the first bullseye in archery.

Suzanne Ellis took first place in the girls' relay races at Forbes Hill. . .If you see a boy riding an unusually large bike at Beechwood Knoll playground, don't be alarmed, it is only Bill Carpenter on his eight foot bike--watch out for low bridges, Bill . . .Kathy Donaghey at Squantum made a felt pillow case exactly like her own cat mugsie. . .

Walter "Mac" Magginley struck out 11 and along with his brother Jimmy provided key hits in leading welcome young's junior baseball team to a 9-0 victory over Myles Standish. . .The mothers and sons beat the fathers and daughters in softball 7 to 3 at the Montclair Parents' night program; thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Zoia, Suzie Zoia put on a combined ballet and gym show.

With everyone making their own costumes, "The Canterbury Tales" was presented at Heron Road. . .Attending and featured on the Bozo the Clown TV show were Thomas Sullivan, John, Michael and Natali Ricciuti, Thomas Hannon and Paul Shannon. . .

Winners in the egg toss at Whitwell were Bobby Cahill, Billy Wolfe, Steve Finnegan and Jimmy Cahill. . .Pond street had a circus and a historical parade led by Jimmy Dockety, David Woish, and Cathy and Maureen Hurley. . .

Mark Buchanan is checker king and Cindy Derbes is the one to beat at Kalah on the Bradford street playground.

Vietnam veteran and playground leader Frank Brillo at Pollard has issued the following warning, "Quincy Playgrounds, beware of Pollard Power"; Frank is working on teams for all sports and leagues. . .other first for Quincy Recreation--the Museum of Fine Arts' "Artabout" is at the Beechwood Knoll playground all week.

Quincy Host To Milton

Morrisette Title Hopes At Stake

The chances of the Morrisette Legion baseball team taking another Zone 6 championship will be pretty well decided tonight when it plays Weymouth at Weston Park in Weymouth Landing.

Morrisette, following a 1-0 win over Braintree on Tuesday, takes an 11-2 record into the game while Weymouth has a 10-2 mark with one tie game to be replayed.

Sunday Morrisette is home to Norwood and a week from Sunday plays at Walpole. In between those games the defending champs must play Canton in a game rained out Sunday.

Meanwhile, Quincy continues to lose the close ones as Randolph scored twice in the fifth for a 3-2 win Tuesday at Randolph.

Tonight Quincy hosts Milton at Adams Field, Sunday plays at Walpole and a week from Sunday is home to Needham. Last Sunday's rainout at Norwood still has to be rescheduled.

Steve McDevitt outpitched Braintree ace lefty Dick Blackwell Tuesday at Adams field when Morrisette scored the only run in the last inning to hand Blackwell, who had a previous win over Morrisette, his first defeat. Mc Devitt allowed three hits, struck out four, walked three and hit a batter. Blackwell gave up four hits, struck out six and walked two.

With one out in the seventh Jerry Connolly lined a single to center and stole second. Al Gallotta walked and then Rick Baker lined one between center and right which would have gone for a triple and maybe a home run if it was needed.

Ron DiNardo had the only other two Morrisette hits.

Ted Meyer, who has played consistently fine ball at third base for Morrisette, continued to sparkle and made some fine plays.

Bob Pastor, usually the Quincy catcher, made his first pitching start of the year and did a creditable job with a six-hitter; However, Quincy's batters continued to be handcuffed with Steve Tomasetti and Frank Costa having the only hits. Quincy scored both runs in the third for a temporary 2-1 lead.

Morrisette's batting continued to be disappointing last week but topped Milton, 5-1, behind Paul Duff's four-hit pitching.

Morrisette collected only five hits, three by Ted Meyer and one each by Steve Carrera and Steve Sullivan. Duff, making his record 6-2, struck out 12 and walked only two.

Quincy was blanked by Braintree, 6-0, as it was held to two hits by Doug David, singles by Ed Monti and Steve Tomasetti.

Mayor Umpire For Bunnies Softball Game

Mayor James R. McIntyre will serve as umpire for a charity softball game between the Playboy of Boston Bunnies and the Raytheon Company team of Quincy on Sunday, August 17.

The game scheduled, for 2:30 p.m. at Adams Field, will benefit the South Shore Association for Retarded Children.

Sponsor of the event is Wollaston Council 594 United Commercial Travelers of America.

Come, Let Us Reason Together

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

'People Having Fun'

I once read of a psychiatrist who told a patient that what he needed was to laugh more. . . .to really let go in laughter. . . .to enjoy life. . . .a little less seriousness. The doctor told him. . . "The circus is in town. . .they have a wonderful clown. . .he's the funniest clown I've ever seen. . . .you'll laugh 'til your sides ache. . . .that's what you need."

The man looked dejected. . . .disappointed. . . .really sad. "You don't understand me, doctor," he said. . . "That isn't my problem. . . .you see, I am that clown."

I'm not one who believes you can laugh your problems away. . .the parents with a son in Vietnam. . . .the wife with a husband who is cold and unattentive. . .the husband with a wife who is unaffectionate and unfeminine. . . .the lonely widow and divorcee. . . .the man out in a room separated from his family. . . .YOU DON'T just laugh these kinds of problems away. These kinds of problems are not likely to go away short of professional help with deep understanding by trained persons who are not only skilled but who "feel with you" your problem. . . .identify with you and help to lead you to a new level of joy in life. In some of our problems this is not easy even with the most skilled professional.

I'm concerned right now with the great numbers of people who are so rigid about life that they are destroying all the beautiful relationships that are theirs. Here's the man who comes home growling like an angry dog. . ."barking" at the wife and children. . . .losing his temper. . . . using his loudest voice in his questions and orders [you may have a neighbor like this]. Women do this too. . . .even to their own children. These people live in a "general state of unhappiness."

Not all unhappy people are violent . . .some are just the opposite. . . .some are quiet. . . . melancholy. . . .withdrawn. . . .as one man said of his wife, "She's like death warmed over." [Naturally he's going out with other women.] One wife said of her husband. . . "He always has that sour puss. . . .I hate to see him come home." These kind of people are really miserable. . . .and making others around them miserable. It even shows in the office when they go to work. . . ."the old grouch."

"A merry heart is a good medicine". . . .that's in the Bible. . . .like a lot of other things in the Bible, it's true. Unhappiness. . . .gloominess. . . .non-communication. . . . NO FUN. . . . such produce sick bodies and sick minds. It's no environment in which to raise children.

I've been saying to a number of my patients recently. . . ."I don't want you to make peace with your misery. . . .that's not the kind of adjustment we're seeking." It just isn't necessary. There aren't many situations that can't be improved upon. . . .when you determine in your heart to improve them

Let me suggest that you decide that you will do everything you can to give pleasure to your husband/wife. Increase your attention. . . .step up your pleasant conversation. . . .deepen the quality and frequency of your love making, for sex love to your marriage may not be the gasolene in your tank but it is certainly the oil in your motor. Take single day vacations with the family. Men. . . .take your wives to the summer theatre. Wives. . . .go with your husbands to Fenway Park [the Red Sox are winning again.] Make it a summer of fun. . . .you'll be in better shape for fall. . . .and so will your family.

FOR YOUR COMMENT: Call Dr. Knox at 326-5990, or 545-5947, or 945-9800, or write him at 628 High Street, Dedham Mass. 02026.

Quincy Native Nursing Home Head

Cornelius A. Bottomley of Norwood, a native of Quincy, Executive Director of the Massachusetts Federation of Nursing Homes for the past three years, has been elected Secretary of the National Council of Nursing Home Executives, embracing all executive directors of the American Nursing Home Association throughout the fifty states.

Born in Quincy, he attended Quincy High School for two years before moving to Yarmouth.

The election took place at the annual conference of the Council in Chicago.

Mr. Bottomley also has been elected a Fellow of the American College of Nursing Home Administrators and a member of the American Society of Association Executives.

Before becoming Executive Director of the Federation, he was the Education Director of the Federation's non-profit subsidiary, the Massachusetts Health Facility Foundation for Education and Research.

Bottomley was formerly an executive in education and administration for the Veterans Administration Hospital, West Roxbury, and the Boston State Hospital, Mattapan, and earlier was associated with the New York Life Insurance Company.

Meet Your Newsboy

Edward Drohan

Edward Drohan, 12, of 53 Wall St., is typical of industrious Quincy Sun newsboys who have built up neighborhood routes into thriving weekly enterprises.

This young businessman is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Drohan Jr. A seventh grader at Broad Meadows School.

He is a familiar figure in the Houghs Neck area where he delivers his papers every Thursday, bringing the latest Quincy news to his many customers.

One of four Drohan youngsters, Ed finds time for his favorite sports, baseball, swimming and fishing. Judging by his initiative and success as a newsboy, Ed, who is already thinking about college, has a bright future and rates "best wishes" for his birthday Monday.

CD Check Due Quincy Friday

A check for $18,000 will be presented to Quincy officials in City Hall ceremonies Friday representing the final government Public Works-Civil Defense building at 55 Sea St.

$200 Million Development Seen For North Quincy

plans materialize.

The developer according to the sources has been unsuccessful in attempts to purchase the privately owned land which is essential for construction of roads leading into the development area.

The City Council, at a near six-hour private meeting with Mayor James R. McIntyre, other city officials and developer representatives, was asked to take the land by eminent domain.

The Council was to meet last night in executive session to discuss the land taking which would cost an estimated $150,000

Indications were that a majority of the council "leaned favorably" but cautiously to the necessary land-taking to bring the multi-million dollar development to the city which they consider a "first class investment."

There reportedly is another contingency to be ironed out before the project can get off the ground.

DDT Ban

owners is allowed only in small amounts and in mixtures, Dr. Foley said. It is doubtful how a complete ban can be accomplished in Quincy, he added.

DDT mixtures could still be purchased in surrounding communities where it was still available even if outlawed in Quincy, Dr. Foley said.

Previous uses of DDT in the Forestry Dept. were administered by two supervisors and four employees, all licensed for DDT operations.

Marshfield, Weymouth Fairs Top Summer Attractions

It just wouldn't be summer locally without a country fair.

And plans for two of the best--the annual Marshfield and Weymouth Fairs--are now in full swing.

The two are also among the oldest in the nation--each dating back more than a century.

The 102nd edition of the Marshfield Fair is set for Aug. 9 through Aug. 16.

The 104th run for the Weymouth Fair will follow, Aug. 17 through Aug. 23.

Here are some of the features of the two fairs:

• Marshfield

A rich slice of America's farm life will be on display at the Marshfield Fair, "an old-fashioned country fair"-with championships in cattle, horse-pulls and many other 4-H competitions.

Feature attractions range from 4-H livestock to top-notch entertainment and horse racing.

Eben Briggs of Duxbury, Fair President, has booked top talent for the eight-day event.

"Children's Day" Tuesday, Aug. 12, is set aside especially for youngsters.

Senior Citizens will also participate in the week's festivities.

True Tower of East Bridgewater, Plymouth County 4-H agent, will have participants from Plymouth, Norfolk, Bristol and Barnstable counties in the 4-H competitions.

William 'Red' Taylor, racing secretary, notes top thoroughbreds will be racing during the six alloted days. And, for the second year in a row there will be Perfecta wagering. Post time will be 2 p.m., with daily double windows closing at 1:45 p.m.

• Weymouth

The "big top" Weymouth Fair will be bigger than usual in observance of its 104th birthday. Agriculture and entertainment will be blended to appeal to the whole family.

Attractions will include all-star acts, a giant midway, parimutuel horse racing, 4-H competitions, grange handicrafts, flowers and vegetable shows.

President Richard Reidy of Weymouth, declared: "Each year we strive to achieve the very best with agricultural exhibits and this year, the State Dept. of Agriculture has alloted agricultural prize money up to $9200."

As a special treat children 12 years of age and under, will be admitted free during the entire week of the fair.

Opening day will feature a "Sunday Spectacular" concluding with a giant fireworks display.

FOR DISTINGUISHED SERVICE--Mayor James R. McIntyre [left] of Quincy, was awarded a Distinguished Service Citation by the Massachusetts Federation of Nursing Homes at its 20th annual convention at Sheraton Boston Hotel, Boston, for his outstanding service to Senior Citizens. Presentation was made by Morris Sibulkin, Jr., of Brookline, Federation President.

'Good Neighbor' Voting Begins

[Cont. from Page 1]

Camera Queen Focuses On Future

A State House secretary is not resting on her laurels as the Queen of the South Shore Camera Club.

Gaye Charlene Tinkham, 19, of 44 Cherry St., a recent graduate of the Chandler School for Women, combines the desired beauty and brains attributes. She was an honor student and scored high in the New England Camera Club contest in Amherst last week when she placed third in the Queen-filled competition.

The attractive Quincy teenager is presently the prettiest decoration in the office of Republican Floor Leader Sidney Curtis where she is learning the fine art of politics from a secretary's perspective.

Gaye [36-23-35] is interested in a modeling future, a subject she would like to teach. Add to this, her intention to join one of the Airlines next year and you have the profile of an active and ambitious young lady.

Not content with her present accomplishments, she will compete for the Miss Massachusetts title next year. Last summer, she reigned over Hydraplane Week—a sporting schedule which took her to New Hampshire and Connecticut for regal proceedings.

As the South Shore Camera Club beauty representative she sparked a new interest in the amateur photographer's organization

The South Shore Camera Club is an organization of amateur photographers, dedicated to improvement of photographic skills.

The club was founded in 1933 and presently meets at the Memorial Congregational Church, 65 Newbury Ave., No. Quincy. Meetings are held on the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month from September through June.

The South Shore group is one of the largest camera clubs in the Greater Boston area, with more than 100 members. Activities include monthly competitions in both color slides and black and white prints, lectures and workshops on various phases of photography, and some fun-filled photographic field trips.

Membership is open to all levels of camera buffs, from beginning amateurs to salon exhibitors. Visitors are always welcome at this "friendliest of camera clubs".

The present officers of the club include George S. Watson, president, W. Edwin Lambert, vice president; Myron K. Dole, treasurer, and Geraldine Sullivan, secretary. Anyone wishing further information on membership may contact Herb Cameron, at 29 Newcomb St., Quincy.

SELLING AND REPAIRING auto air conditioning units, auto radiators, power lawn mowers, snow removal equipment, and riding tractors is Morse, Inc.'s business. Owners Ralph and Frank Morse have run the North Quincy shop for 25 years on an "integrity and ability" policy.

Morse, Inc. is a continuously growing business with a deserved reputation of "Integrity and Ability". The shop has been situated at its present 179 West Squantum St., North Quincy location for 25 years, and is owned by the Morse brothers, Ralph and Frank. Together they have developed a small industry which has found a need for steady expansion.

The facility is the oldest radiator shop in the South Shore which has been managed steadily by the same personnel. This serves to underscore the steady reliability of Morse, Inc. and a dependable service based on technical "know-how". Every year, Ralph and Frank Morse and their six factory-trained employees go to school to update their knowledge, especially in the field of auto air conditioning where constantly-changing technology demands steady introduction of new systems.

Morse, Inc. sells, repairs, and installs auto air conditioning units with all makes of cars. And during the present heat wave such able service is invaluable.

During extreme weather conditions, such as the current heat wave, auto radiators experience heavy burdens. Morse offers dependable radiator repair service for both cars and trucks.

Also sold and repaired at Morse, Inc. is snow removal equipment, riding tractors, and power lawn mowers.

Morse, Inc. has continued in what has become a family-like shop. Morse is proud of its employee longevity. In fact most of their employees have been with the business almost since its beginning.

The services offered by Morse Inc. can be appreciated during any season of the year. However, during the summer months, a South Shore driver with auto air conditioning or radiator problems will find it very comforting to know that a shop, like Morse, Inc., offers assistance.

New $2 Million Sewer Link To Aid Quincy Bay Problems

The Metropolitan District Commission yesterday awarded a $2,071,351 contract for a two and one half-mile, 24-inch sewer main as the first stage of a project designed to end discharge of untreated sewage from Quincy's Squantum section into the waters of Quincy Bay.

M.D.C. Commissioner Howard Whitmore, Jr., said that when completed the project will carry the flow to the M.D.C.'s Nut Island Sewage Treatment Plant in Quincy Bay, instead of the City of Boston's Moon Island facility.

This portion of the Squantum Force Main will be built by Salah and Pecci Construction Company, Inc., Truman Construction Company, Inc., and Salah & Pecci Contracting Company, of Canton, a joint venture, which submitted the lowest of three bids. Other bidders were R. Zoppo Company, Inc., of Norwood, Mass., $2,269,090 and Wes-Julian Construction Corporation of Dedham, Mass. $2,964,940.

A combined grant of $1,381,338 is anticipated from the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration and the Massachusetts Division of Water Pollution Control. Included in the contract as awarded is a section of a gravity sewer for the city of Quincy whose anticipated share of the contract cost is $344,678.

The new force main will link the M.D.C.'s Huckins Ave. pumping station and Nut Island Sewage Treatment Plant via the marsh at the end of Deerfield St., running parallel to East Squantum Street to Quincy Shore Drive.

Quincy Woman, Husband Purchase Cape Restaurant

A former North Quincy woman and her husband have purchased the Century House Restaurant and Century Lounge in Falmouth.

The new owners are Mr. and Mrs. James D. Campbell of Saugus. She is the former Janet Zoia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter J. Zoia of 72 Farrington St. and a 1960 graduate of North Quincy High School

The 220-year-old Century House is one of Falmouth's landmarks and is located on the road to Woods Hole. It was a private residence until 22 years ago.

The new owners have combined the Colonial charm with that of Ireland by adding Irish dishes to menu and with Irish entertainment.

Red Sox Tryouts Here July 23

Quincy's Sam Mele, who managed the Minnesota Twins to the American League pennant in 1965 and is now a Red Sox scout, will be one of the directors of the annual Red Sox tryouts, co-sponsored by the Record American-Sunday Advertiser, July 23 at Adams Field.

The session, to start at 9 a.m., is the seventh of eight being conducted throughout New England from which the best will be selected for the New England semifinals at Fenway Park on July 29 and the finals on a date to be announced later.

This is the 24th year for the tryouts.

Mele, regarded as a top scout and batting coach, will be joined by Sox scouts Frank Malzone, the all-time greatest third baseman: Irving Jack Burns, whose feats with the late Jeppy Saunders' Fore River teams years ago are legendary, and Pete Cerrone, as well as Tony Nota, veteran umpire.

The Quincy tryouts annually draw one of the largest turnouts in the series and one of the top players chosen a few years ago was North Quincy's Pete Varney, a standout at Harvard who passed up some huge major league bonus offers.

One Quincy player, Steve Locke, has already been selected, being chosen from the tryouts at Nashua, N. H.

Red Sox owner Tom Yawkey is one of the program's biggest boosters and, together with many of his staff, will be in the stands watching the semifinals and finals at Fenway. Scouts from just about every major league team will also be there.

The outstanding player in the tournament will be presented a trophy by Yawkey.

Many present major league stars received their start in the program.

Support Cited For Mayor Salary Boost

Reaction to his proposal for a mayoralty salary review committee has indicated a public support to increase the chief executive's salary from its present $10,000 according to City Councillor Arthur H. Tobin.

Tobin's proposal at the last Council meeting calls for a mayor's salary study by a five-member Blue Ribbon committee. The committee appointments are being completed by City Council president J. Vincent Smyth.

"Not one person has called to complain about this proposal," Tobin said. Several persons did tell me that they thought it was about time that something was done about the mayor's salary schedule."

Tobin, who described the mayor's salary as "a mockery" compared it to salaries of 150 department heads and top-level municipal employees who salaries exceed that of the mayor.

"It is not realistic to hire librarians at $17,000 salaries and pay our chief executive, who administers a $38 million municipal corporation, $10,000," Tobin said.

The salary review is not intended to benefit the present mayor or any individual office-holder, but will provide a proper salary level for anyman who occupies the office, Tobin pointed out.

He added that he "was extremely delighted" at the reaction to the salary review plan. The committee study will take the salary question "out of the political arena and place it in the hands of the citizens for their judgment."

Tobin contended that a salary upgrading would induce "competent people" to run for the office. "We won't get a good businessman to take on such responsibilities in the future at a $10,000 salary. He can't support a wife and family on that amount."

Tobin said he took the initiative on the salary question as chairman of the Council's ordinance committee which has the responsibility for municipal salary administration.

Action Stepped Up Against Park Vandals

A renewed effort to crack down on park vandals is now underway by park officials and the police department.

Following a City Council resolve by Councillor Albert R. R. Balilaro, action is being stepped up to curb the continuing park damage by vandals and after-hour use of park facilities.

New signs are now being made up for posting at parks and playgrounds warning against trespassing after closing hours. No activity is permitted under city ordinances from one hour after sundown to one hour before sunrise.

Councillor Barilaro's resolve recommended posting of signs restricting use of the recreation areas. Regulations must be strictly enforced by police and police supervision must be increased, Barilaro advised.

Park Dept. Director Richard J. Koch reminded residents that final curfew for all recreational facilities is 10 p.m. Late-hour recreation is permitted at some playgrounds where facilities are lighted. The lighted areas are subject to the automatic 10 p.m. curfew. No one, except authorized personnel, is permitted in the playgrounds after that time, Koch said.

The sunset and sunrise hours apply to all of the non-lighted areas and signs will call attention to the restrictions.

Stricter policing for some of the "problem areas" has been urged by Koch.

After-dark problems have also been increasing in the trouble spots, the park official noted. O'Rourke Field, West Quincy; the Mass. Fields School, Wollaston, Bishop Field, Montclair, are among the most aggravating areas according to Koch.

He said that the fewest problems had arisen in Germantown despite the fact that it is an active area and heavily populated with children.

Army Engineers To Inspect Quincy Flood Problem Areas

United States Army engineers are expected to notify Quincy officials soon of their evaluation of flood-control projects qualifying for federal assistance in various sections of the city.

Problem areas have been designated to the attention of the Army Corps of Engineers by City Engineer Henry F. Nilsen, under the direction of Mayor James R. McIntyre.

The most serious of the flood-prone areas recommended to the attention of Army engineers in a list compiled by the city are Furnace Brook, from Black's Creek to the St. Moritz area in the Blue Hills and Town Brook from the Quincy Reservoir to the Raytheon Plant on Center St.

Now under study by consultants is a $400,000 reconstruction project shared by city and state funds, converting Black's Creek to a water storage area, including replacement of the present culvert and relocation of the Merrymount Bridge and roadway. A box culvert will be installed under the roadway and include tidegate facilities for flood control.

Work is also expected to commence shortly on a second culvert at the Newport Ave., Furnace Brook Pkway, intersection. The work could be completed by fall, or if delayed, by next spring.

Army Engineer Col. Frank P. Bane has notified Mayor Mc Intyre that army engineers will inspect the listed flood-problem sites with the Quincy City Engineer before July 14.

The information obtained by the inspection will be evaluated to determine the possibility of federal assistance with the projects, Col. Bane informed Mayor McIntyre.

STATE STREET SOUTH - This is an artist's conception of the multi-million dollar operations center, being planned by the State Street Bank and Trust Company in the Montclair marsh area. The project called "State Street South" will house the bank's computer and logistics center and will serve as a nucleus of a service and residential complex, office buildings, a marina and other recreational facilities.

Two Astronauts, One Astronette

Three Quincy Babies Born On 'Moon Day'

Three bouncing "Moon Babies" are basking in Quincy-their birthdays unforgettable.

The three new Quincy citizens, born at Quincy City Hospital on July 20 when man first stepped on the moon have natal days linked to mankind's most momentous achievement.

America's three astronauts almost had a namesake in one Quincy baby boy. Mr. and Mrs. James Veneau's son, James Christopher, could very well have been named something like Neil Michael, according to suggestions of a vast number of relatives, friends, and acquaintances. The Veneaus live at 34 Euclid Ave.

Quincy also had its first "astronette" Lisa Marie Del Greco, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Del Greco, 52 Town Hill St., most assuredly would have been named after the astronauts in a feminine fashion if her name had not been selected before she was born. In fact, according to grandmother, Mrs. Rocco Del Greco of 75 Gilbert St., even if the parents decided not to name Lisa after the astronauts, "I would have."

And the Arthur Perkins' on that eventful day in man's history became the proud parents of a baby boy. The Perkins, who reside at 210A Quincy Shore Drive, named their son, Frederick Joseph.

Who knows, he may become an astronaut anyway.

Initial $10-$15 Tax Cut

Montclair Project Hailed As 'New Era' For Quincy Growth

The $100 million commercial-residential complex to be built in the North Quincy Montclair marsh area was hailed today as "the birth of a new era of unprecedented growth and prosperity for Quincy. "

State Street Bank and Trust Company unveiled its plans Tuesday for development of the 80-acre site confirming earlier reports in The Quincy Sun.

The initial phase, calling for an operations-data processing-logistics center will cost as estimated $40 million.

Bank officials said the operations center is expected to serve as the nucleus of a service and residential complex which will include:

--Additional office buildings.
--Retail stores.
--An apartment complex.
--A marina and other recreational facilities.

The entire complex is expected to be completed in the early 1980's.

Other sources estimated that eventual development in the area could reach the $200 million mark.

Mayor James R. McIntyre greeted the State Street Bank and Trust plans thusly:

"This new development which represents the largest single property valuation in our city's history, joins many others in advancing the horizons of our city's growing economy and tax base."

He estimated the first phase of the development alone will reduce the tax rate between $10 and $15.

William A. O'Connell, executive vice-president of the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce declared:

"It is a stupendous development which along with the MBTA

Burke's Drug Bill Sent To Governor

Norfolk County Dist. Atty. George G. Burke of Quincy apparently has paved the way for a coordinated battle against the illegal use of narcotics.

A bill filed at Burke's request to create Drug Education Bureaus in the offices of district attorneys throughout the state, was passed this week by the House and Senate.

It has been sent to Gov. Sargent for his expected approval.

The bill provides for a two-man bureau in each office--one an educator, the other an investigator--at a salary of $10,000 each.

The commissioners of each county, however, have to approve the salary appropriation.

Burke, who has spearheaded a Norfolk County-wide campaign against the use of narcotics by adults and teen-agers, said Norfolk commissioners have already given their approval to set up a bureau in his office.

"This is a very serious social problem and it is not just going to go away by itself," Burke said.

"We have got to fight those who are peddling drugs to our teenagers and to educate the youngsters against the harm they are doing themselves by experimenting with drugs.

"I think this bill is a big step in the right direction."

Burke said his bureau would coordinate and assist drugs investigations and education in Quincy and other communities in Norfolk County.

Mayor Receives $69 For 'Spirit Of '69' Drive

A $69 check has brought the "Spirit of Sixty-Nine" kidney disease fund-raising campaign to over the $100 mark in Quincy.

The check was sent to Mayor James R. McIntyre by William H. Scott of Scott Prescott Corp., 21 Intervale St., South Quincy.

Mayor McIntyre and mayors of the other 38 cities in Massachusetts are spearheading the drive to raise $202,800 to espand life-saving treatment programs with the artificial kidney machine.

If successful, the campaign will prolong the lives of an estimated 200 Massachusetts residents who are otherwise doomed this year because of shortage of personnel to operate artificial kidney machines in local areas.

Massachusetts residents are asked to send 69-cent contributions to their mayor at City Hall during the 69-day fund-raising program which will run until early September.

The other contributions received at Quincy City Hall have been 69-cent donations.

New Rates For Special Delivery

George K. Walker, Officer-in-Charge, Boston Postal District, has announced a survey by his office shows many patrons are not placing the proper postage on domestic and international Special Delivery fees.

Effective July 14, domestic and international Special Delivery fees were increased by 15 cents on first class mail, and 10 cents on all other classes of mail.

Walker suggests that all patrons, particularly business firms, should contact their local post-office and obtain a copy of the new special service fees chart. This action will eliminate any possibility of a delay to their mailings due to insufficient postage.

HOUSE CALL

By Dr. Charles Djerf
Pediatrician

A Dr. Thonnard has hit upon an approach which may, after further, investigation, lead to an understanding of the mechanism of this most disabling, however temporary, headache. Remember, practically all must be known and understood about a disease before it can be licked therapeutically.

Migraine-prone persons can be mildly afflicted, or as bad as the surgeon I knew who virtually banged his head against a wall resoundingly [much as a child head-banger] in his agony. Medications for relief have not been too satisfactory thus far.

Dr. Thonnard was led to investigate a constituent of normal blood called a Basophile - a pretty blue-stippling cell. Observing that there was an increase of these cells on the side of the head involved in the migraine attack - [About 1/3 of the patients have one-sided headaches].

Heparin was also found to be increased in the areas. Dr. Thonnard thinks that Heparin [the substance used as a clot preventative in coronary disease] is the product released by the Basophile - that is responsible chemical agent in migraine. The use of Heparin in migraine patients in the beginning of an attack improved the headache in most experienced sufferers.

Interestingly migraine is often found in families - is suspected of even being genetic. Many of these people are tense, emotional people - perfectionistic in nature. Children can also be afflicted.

For the unfortunate who get these horrible headaches I hope that the Basophile, Heparin and Dr. Thonnard et. al., lead to yet another discovery.

After all, just living can be a headache without having a sledge-hammer added to these unfortunate ones.

MBTA Now Marking Quincy Bus Stops

General Manager Leo J. Cusick reports the MBTA will paint or attach signs to poles to clearly mark all Quincy MBTA surface line stops.

Cusick so informed Rep. Joseph E. Brett [D-Quincy] who had requested the marking. Cusick, in a letter to Brett, said the work is scheduled for completion by Oct. 15.

'New Era' For Quincy

[Cont. from Page 1]

South Shore extension will trigger a period of unprecedented business and commercial growth for the Quincy-South Shore area and usher in a new era of prosperity."

The Chamber assisted in the selection of the Montclair site, and helped "get the ball rolling."

H. Frederick Hagemann, Jr., Chairman of the Board and President, said the Bank had acquired the site in order to provide sufficient land area to allow the bank to expand its computer and logistic departments as required by its growth.

The new site will permit consolidation of the bank's operational and logistical departments in a modern 740,000 square foot operations center and will provide the bank with sufficient area to meet its projected space requirements through 1994.

Hagemann emphasized that all banking activities involving the public will continue to be conducted at the bank's main office at 225 Franklin Street and its 17 banking offices in the City of Boston.

John N. Dwyer of South Weymouth, vice president of the bank has been named to head the multi-million dollar project.

Mayor's Statement

Following is the text of Mayor James R. McIntyre's statement regarding the State Street Bank's development plans for the Montclair marsh area:

Quincy is at present a City in the midst of great progress: as quickly as mass transportation facilities are being readied for South Shore commuter use, we are welcoming new revenue-producing, commercial enterprises to our area.

This new development, which represents the largest single property valuation in our city's history, joins many others in advancing the horizons of our city's growing economy and tax base. On the basis of present estimates by our city, the first phase alone of this project involves scheduled construction sufficient to reduce our property tax rate by approximately $10 to $15, which should be welcome news to every homeowner and taxpayer in Quincy.

In addition, in its initial phase, the intended office complex should employ about 3000 persons, and should accomodate eleven different data processing operations. This, and the anticipated further development of the project, augurs well for the commerce and economy of the entire South Shore.

Indeed, the project, as a whole, has become more attractive than originally planned, since it requires no freight rail service, and, since the developers have guaranteed a buffer zone for the adjacent districts, as well as having no commercial and vehicle access to the residential areas of Montclair.

With roots deep in American history, Quincy most warmly welcomes to her area the historic State Street Bank and Trust Company, founded in 1792 – the very year when Quincy herself was being incorporated as a township – and counts this day as a significant historical event in itself, and as a day of bright promise for the future.

Sunbeams

Quincy's Francis X. Bellotti hasn't officially announced what state office he will run for next year, but he's already off and sprinting.

The former lieutenant governor has opened a campaign headquarters in Boston to start the preliminary work for the big push.

There seems little doubt that he will make another bid for governor.

Incidentally, some of his workers reportedly are former Endicott Peabody men. It looks like some of the old political wounds are healing.

DUTY IS DUTY apparently is the way Congressman James A. Burke looks at it. And a proud record is something to keep intact.

Burke, who represents Quincy, was invited to attend the historic Apollo 11 launching at Cape Kennedy but chose to remain in Washington because the House Committee on Ways and Means had hearings scheduled for the same day.

By doing so, he maintained his 100 per cent attendance record as a member of the powerful Ways and Means Committee.

You've got to call that sticking to business.

* * *

QUINCY baker Ernie Montilio has done a brisk business the past few days with "Moon Cakes". The cakes, shaped like the moon and complete with tiny craters, are topped with figurines of Astronauts Neil Armstrong's and Edwin Aldrin's lunar module and a tiny American flag.

P.S. The ingredients didn't include green cheese. Armstrong and Aldrin settled that forever.

THE LOCAL political front is so quiet you could hear a paper ballot drop. Nothing of real note stirring. The only big question remaining is what date Mayor James R. McIntyre will officially announce his candidacy for a third term.

There are no surprise candidates waiting in the wings twirling their hats for an 11th hour toss into the ring.

With the exception of School Committeeman Dr. Charles Djerf who is saying–but not yet officially–he will not run, all other incumbents apparently will seek the same office again.

At this point, it doesn't look like an election to get excited over. It's really ho-hum–so far anyway.

* * *

ACTUALLY, local political attention has focused on the tragedy at Edgartown involving Sen. Edward M. Kennedy. Observers, like those across the nation, are speculating what effect it will have on the Senator's career. Consensus: regardless of how it all comes out, he's going to be hurt.

The big question: how much?

ATTENTION, high school dropouts: If you left high school to enter the service, you may return to school to get your diploma under the G. I. Bill, reminds the Veterans Administration.

The VA will pay veterans up to $130 a month–if single and they are full-time students–and more if they have dependants. Those attending adult evening school will be enrolled at a half-time rate. The payments will not reduce their college or on-the-job training benefits.

* * *

INCIDENTALLY, the VA also reminds veterans who wish to become policemen or firefighters that there are benefits under the G.I. Bill for those approved courses.

QUINCY Rotarians will take in "Mame" at the South Shore Music Circus Aug. 6. Tickets available from Joe Pinel, Lou Cassani or Ed Demski. Proceeds will benefit the South Shore Rotary Council.

Quincy Line MBTA Cars Arrive For Testing

COMMUTERS will ride in comfort on transverse fire-resistant neoprene foam rubber seats covered by black vinyl. The air-conditioned cars are 69 feet-six inches long and 10 feet wide, each with a capacity of 64 seated passengers and with standees, 239 passengers.

The first two of 76 rapid transit cars which will run on the MBTA Quincy-South Shore line arrived in Boston yesterday from Pullman-Standard Chicago.

The cars–first of their kind in the U. S.–will undergo several weeks of testing before they are accepted by the MBTA.

Each car has a capacity of 64 seated passengers and with standees, 239 passengers.

Another 10 cars are expected in early August and will be followed about every two weeks by 10 or 12-car shipments until the order is completed. Some of the cars will be stored at the Bennett-Eliot Yards and others at Codman Yards, Dorchester.

Among the safety features on the car are the automatic speed control, which has an automatic "beeper" to warn of speeding, and two-way wayside radios to provide communication between the motorman and guard, the dispatcher and motorman, and the dispatcher and passengers should it become necessary to inform them of delays.

The air-conditioned car is 69 feet six inches in length and 10 feet wide, it has three doors per side, and seven windows of gray tinted laminated safety glass on each side.

The seats of the cars are transverse, like a railroad car's, and are of fire-resistant neoprene foam rubber, covered by black vinyl.

Lighting consists of two rows of fluorescent lights with shielded source diffusers to control brightness and glare.

Rubber sheet floor covering is used on the floors.

The motorman's cab is 10 feet wide, six feet seven inches in height and three feet four inches in depth.

The cars, the first of their kind in the United States, feature a brushed-aluminum exterior, developed jointly by Alcoa and Pullman-Standard. The Authority chose this type of finish because of its durability and savings on maintenance.

To brush-finish the sides of the car, a highly-specialized one-of-a-kind machine, called a grinder, was designed and built. The grinder travels the entire length of the carside while an abrasive belt or sander brush-finishes the metal.

The exterior also has a red line to signify that it will operate on the Authority's Red Line, the Cambridge-Dorchester line and its South Shore Extension.

The structural design of the car is new. The car body is an integrated structure of aluminum alloy except for the underframe end units which are of high strength steel. Corrugated, riveted roofs, also new in design, utilize 66-foot four-inch long aluminum alloy sheets, the longest corrugated aluminum sheets ever made.

Citizens Assn. Takes Issue On Parking

Laurence J. Curtin, president of the Quincy Citizens Association, took issue today with the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce over its support for more off-street parking in the downtown area.

Curtin issued the statement in reply to one by William A. O'Connell, executive vice-president of the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce that appeared in the July 10 issue of The Quincy Sun.

In it, O'Connell said, "Quincy needs approximately 1,000 new parking spaces if it is to survive."

O'Connell called the defeat of the proposed Mechanic Street parking area "a crushing blow to the Chamber's plans for Quincy's retail center."

Mr. Curtin's statement follows intact:

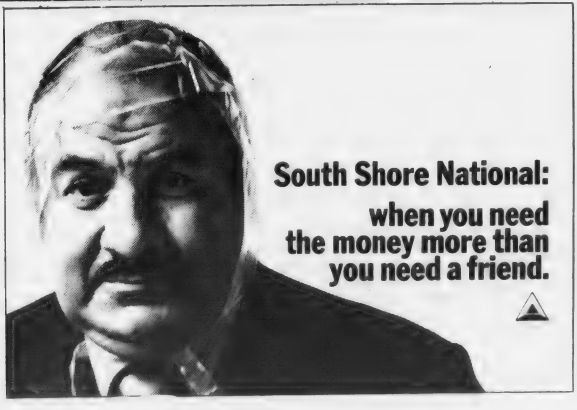
As President of the Quincy Citizens Association, I submit our response to the statement of William A. O'Connell, executive Vice President of the Quincy South Shore Chamber of Commerce, regarding the rejection by our City Council of the proposed Mechanic St. parking area, as published in the July 10th issue of The Quincy Sun and respectfully ask that it be given the same degree of exposure accorded Mr. O'Connell's article.

In his statement Mr. O'Connell has made several assertions that certainly cannot be accepted as factual without proof or clarification. He says "Quincy Center needs approximately 1000 new parking spaces if it is to survive". By what criterion, method or crystal ball scrutiny does he come up with so precise a figure? This is truly fantastic.

He also asserts and we quote again "Quincy has over 500 businesses". We call upon Mr. O'Connell, who appears to be either expert or indiscriminate in mathematical estimates, if not mathematical juggling, to publicly list 250 [just half] of the names and locations of these 500 business enterprises. Where are they? Certainly not in the central business area and that is where he has stated the 1000 new parking areas are needed. And, incidentally, Quincy has had sad experience in building public parking areas in sections outside of Quincy Center.

Finally, the Chamber of Commerce Vice President calls upon the City Council to "come up with a parking plan acceptable to them". In this regard we must remind our friend that, while this may be a prerogative, it is certainly not an obligation or duty of the legislative body of our city.

Mr. O'Connell continues the same old propaganda line of catastrophe to our business center, of dire threats and predictions of Quincy losing business concerns because of lack of parking. We have heard these prophecies of disaster before and we do not share in them. In fact, actual testimony is available to disprove this.



It is our considered opinion that our business center actually needs no more public parking. We have over two million dollars worth of parking area in the relatively short distance bwtween Granite and School Streets. Definitely, Quincy has been extremely generous to the businesses in this section. Both to the north and to the south of this area various concerns have built and maintain their own parking areas. Why then should special interests be catered to at the expense of the citizens?

In conclusion, it would appear by now, after two defeats of municipal parking within less than three years, once by the voters and now by our City Council, that it would be much wiser for Mr. O'Connell and the Chamber of Commerce to cease this constant agitation for more parking and direct their energy into other channels that would prove beneficial to our whole community and all our citizens herein.

We do not consider the action of our City Council in rejecting this proposed parking plan to be either a "tragic" act or a "crushing blow" to the economy of our city. On the contrary, we do consider it an act in the real interests of all our citizens and in accord with the sentiments of the vast majority of the same and we heartily commend our City Council for it.

This statement was unanimously approved by the Executive Board of the Quincy Citizens Association at a regular meeting held on July 16, 1969.

Theatre Arts For Youngsters

Fifteen budding dramatists are learning theatre arts early as part of a Quincy Community Action program.

The Little Theatre group comprising about 15 youngsters from the Kincaide Park area will shortly take "to the road" with their productions.

The troupers range from first to sixth grade age levels and are studying theatre techniques under dramatic student, Rebecca Ross of Quincy, a theatre major at U-Mass.

The youngsters who rehearse daily at the Community Action Center headquarters on Granite St., are expected to perform playlets soon at several park centers.

The group has been active for the past three weeks and are sharpening their newly-developed talents for presentations on the Quincy recreation circuit.

As part of their training, the youngsters attended the presentation of "Chitty-Chitty Bang-Bang," as an introduction to theatre techniques.

Tryouts will begin for older children interested in the dramatic arts on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Miss Ross said. Interested students from junior and senior high schools are invited to attend the scheduled tryouts at the Germantown Community Center at 1 p.m.

The tryouts will be extended for the third day on Saturday if sufficient interest is shown and required by attendance, it was announced.

Sun And Fun At 44th Chamber Outing

(Quincy Sun Photos By J. W. Ross)

ELECTRICAL contractor Irving Potter makes positive contact with Mr. Lobster, one of nearly 500 served during the 44th annual Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce outing at Weymouth Fairgrounds.

CHOW DOWN--Lined up for lobster, chicken, steamed clams etc. served by Leighton Caterers are Joseph Cahill, Old Colony Crushed Stone Co.; Dist. Atty. George G. Burke, Joseph Donovan, Quincy Police Lt. Paul Nestor and Richard J. Koch, executive secretary Quincy Park-Recreation Board.

WINDING UP for the nail driving contest are hammering Jack Silverstein, Neighborhood Pharmacy, and Quincy Asst. City Clerk Thomas Burke, But Larry Boisvert and Steve Kilroy took top and runner-up honors.

ADMIRING gift baskets awarded as special prizes are Joseph Kendrick, Quincy Motor Co.; Remo De Nicola, South Shore Television, George Reardon, President Chevrolet and James F. McCormick, Sr., Francis I. duPont Co.

Despite mid-90 temperatures some 500 men participated in the day-long activities at the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce outing and topped off the day with an old fashioned New England baked lobster and barbecued chicken bake. It was one of the biggest turnouts in recent years.

Recreation Roundup

Quincy's 33 supervised playgrounds, 14 swimming stations, Happy Acres Day Camp, and the instructional boating and sailing programs are now in their fourth week of programs notes Recreation Director William F. Ryan.

This week is Nature Week on the playgrounds where emphasis is placed on the nature recreation program which is an all summer program under the direction of Nature Specialists Mary Faherty and Fred Cawthorne....All Quincy playgrounds are scheduled for a full day of activities at Faxon Park with transportation provided by the Happy Acres Day Camp buses driven by camp staff members Gus Andrews and Charlie Alongi - nature crafts, scavenger hunts, fire making, and tree and leaf identification will be stressed at this program....

Tennis Specialist Joyce Chisholm, recent physical education graduate from the University of Massachusetts, reports that special instruction is given in the net game weekly on all playgrounds where tennis courts are located...Squantum and Merrymount are usually strong contenders, but the new courts at Forbes Hill have stimulated interest and Bob Torraco is one to watch in the Inter-city playoffs... Tom Behenna of Squantum, Buttons Peak and Tom Donahue at Merrymount, and Bob Gormley at Snug Harbor also handle the racquets well.

New registrations are being accepted everyday at the Black's Creek boathouse for boys and girls 8 years of age and over who first pass a qualifying swim test at one of the Recreation Department's 14 swim stations....Joe Daly, Boating Supervisor, reports that over 125 adults are taking advantage of the 5 to 8 p.m. evening program which runs Monday through Friday for those over 16 years of age. Assisting Joe are instructors Tom Sweeny, Steve Kenney, Dennis Brennan, Peter Zona, Cheryl Smith, and Debbie Spanks who all hope that Black's Creek will be dredged soon as centerboards and rudders are hitting bottom at low tide....

Mike Thompson won the watermelon eating contest at Stoney Brae and Peter Bryden won the pie-eating contest at Merrymount and Marie Duggan was the "Kalah Queen."....Richard Adams, Kippy Momoney, and Ken Pike were the high scorers as Forbes Hill defeated Beechwood Knoll in senior boys basketball.

The dress up contest at Beechwood Knoll brought out the following winners - Nancy Desmond, clown; Kathy Kerry, hippy; Danny Kerry, beachcomber; Maureen Desmond, Cinderella; and Gera Foy as Sound of Music....At the Shea Rink pet show Billy Barrus and his German Shepard, Mitsie, turned out to be a very graceful couple as they performed a waltz while Donna Rando's lizard walked three inches and Rene Lumigini's poodle dressed as a baby girl which competed with Sudsie, Patti Hutchin's dog dressed as a ballerina. Volunteer junior leader John Sweeny is missed as he is attending overnight camp in New Hampshire.

At Montclair Amy Pearlstein carved a Fred Flintstone out of soap and Mike McCarthy is doing well at golf....Bill Deckler with 29 points led Massachusetts Fields over Montclair in senior boys basketball.

"Operation Cleanup" at Welcome Young was led by Faith and Lenore Lindberg and Judith Flynn and Elizabeth Gondolpho are doing well in creative crafts ....Letter holders, Collages, and posters were made at Elm Street where much talent was displayed by Allison Fay, Jackie Breen, Jean Brosnan and Michael Silvey.

Quincy A.L. All-Stars In Babe Ruth State Semi-Finals

The Quincy American League All-Stars will meet Medford in the Babe Ruth League state championship semi-finals Saturday at 3:30 p.m. at Frazier Field, Lynn.

The Quincy American All-Stars moved into the semi-finals by defeating the Quincy National League All-Stars for the Area III title last Saturday in a 3-1 thriller at Adams Field

In that action, the American League jumped away to a 1-0 lead in the first inning.

Timmy Flynn led off with a single, moved to second when Bob Torino walked and came across on a single by Bob McKay.

The American Leaguers scored what proved to be the winning run in the second inning when Jimmy Walker sprinted home on a perfect squeeze bunt by Dave Nelson.

The Nationals put across their only run in the fourth inning on back-to-back singles by Jack Riley and Dan O'Malley.

Walker scored again in the sixth inning to wrap up the scoring for the day.

Winning pitcher Mark Whelton put down a seventh inning Nationals' rally by fanning two batters with runners on first and third.

Tony Knasas, losing pitcher, hurled a good game and with a little luck might have turned the tables.

The American League team comprises: Tim Flynn, Bob Malvesti, Bob Torino, Bob McKay, Tom Burke, Jim Walker, Dave Drew, Dave Nelson, Mark Whelton, Tom Joyce, Bob Morton, Bob Silva, Russ McDonald, Steve Cannon, and Connie Driscoll.

John Prescott is president of the two leagues. Thomas Joyce is commissioner and Mrs. Marian J. Joyce, treasurer. Directors are Joseph Burke, George S. Bennett and Robert S. Osborne.

Sponsors of the teams, their managers and coaches are:

North Quincy Knights of Columbus, John McDonnell, John Rabel.

The Quincy Lodge of Elks, Michael Gormley, Norman Nelson.

Doyle & Long, Hugo Salvatore.

Houghs Neck Legion Post, Dave McMillan.

Carl Leone To Be Honored Sept. 18

Carl Leone, newly-appointed Coordinator of Athletics for the Quincy schools and former North Quincy High football coach, will be honored at a testimonial Sept. 18 at 7 p.m. at the Morrisette Legion home.

Information can be obtained by calling Gus Russo at 335-7904 or Mike Gaudiano at 773-0567. Other members of the committee include John Riccuiti, Ed Leone, John Walsh and Ralph Frazier.

There will be a catered dinner and music by 12 members of the North Quincy concert band directed by Carl Leone, no relation to the guest of honor. Among the speakers are expected to be various school officials.

"We want to stress that this is a city-wide event and not restricted to the North section of the city," Frazier said. "We are honoring Carl for his work with boys in general and to acknowledge his fine coaching record."

YMCA Judo Demonstration Aug. 1

The Quincy YMCA Judo Club will present a Judo demonstration August 1, 7 p.m. at the YMCA gymnasium.

Purpose of the demonstration is to present to the public the sport of Judo. Techniques of self defense will also be presented.

Donations from the demonstration will be used to send club members to the East Coast Judo Championship in Washington, D. C. Tickets will be sold at the door.

Morrisette Can Clinch Title Sunday

The Morrisette Legion baseball team, defending champion which appears to have found its batting eye at the right time, can clinch another in its long list of Zone 6 championships with a win at Walpole Sunday or a loss for runner-up Weymouth at the hands of Foxboro.

The game at Walpole may be the final league game for Morrisette. It has a rained out game with Canton to replay but it may not be played if it has no bearing on the championship.

Morrisette, which has not been hitting well despite a fine record, snapped out of it with a vengeance last Sunday with an 11-3 romp over Norwood at Adams Field. The win gave the Quincy club a 13-2 record. Second place Weymouth is 10-4 and may or may not play off a rained out game with Needham and a tie game with Randolph.

Meanwhile, the hard luck Quincy Post 95 team also showed signs of perking up at the plate with a 4-1 win at Walpole Sunday, its second straight win to make its record 6-9.

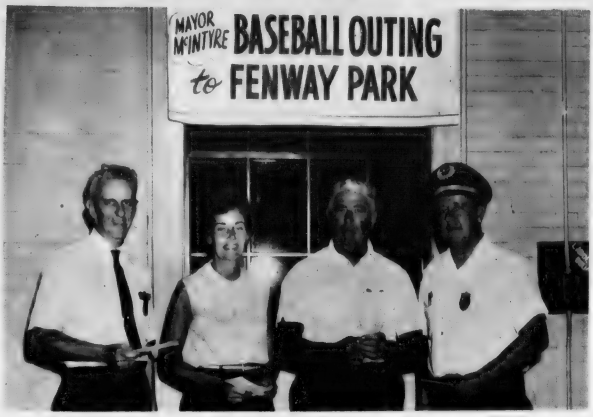
Morrisette, which has won a bundle of Zone 6 titles through the years including last year when it went all the way to the state finals, exploded for seven runs in the second inning to breeze past Norwood.

Morrisette's forte this year has been pitching and defense as the batters have had a time of it. However, against Norwood the Connie Carlozzi-Fran Rinaldi coached team pounded out 12 hits, high for the year. Steve Carrera, Jerry Connolly, Al Gallotta and Kevin Ryan had two apiece, Ron DiNardo, Steve Sullivan, Rick Baker, and Bob Edwards one each.

Steve McDevitt picked up another pitching win with help from Bobby Pettinelli as the team's pitching continued outstanding.

Quincy received a three-hitter from Ron Walsh and picked up nine hits to topple Walpole.

Quincy opened with two in the second and added single runs in the fourth and eighth.



Steve Brustin and Paul Petrucelli each had a double and single, Jim Donovan two singles, Joe Marini a double, Steve Tomasetti and Frank Costa a single apiece.

Quincy plays Needham at Adams Field Sunday in what could be the season's finale. A rained out game with Norwood may not be played.

"We finally started to hit in the last two games," Coach Doug Fleming said. "If we had hit like this earlier, with the outstanding pitching we've been getting right along, things would have been a lot different."

Morrisette gained its biggest win of the year a week ago when it defeated Weymouth for the second time, 4-2, to just about end Weymouth's title hopes. In its previous game Weymouth had been shocked by Milton in one of the season's biggest upsets.

Morrisette was blanked for five innings but exploded for four runs in the sixth and last inning to overcome a 2-0 deficit.

Adult Activities Popular At YMCA

BY TOM SULLIVAN

Last week we wrote of the extensive summer program sponsored by the Quincy YMCA for the youth of Quincy and the South Shore.

This week we take the fine schedule afforded the adults.

A men's fitness program is held Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings from 7 to 7:45 and from 12:15 to 1 p.m. and Monday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings from 7 to 9.

Many men make use of the lighted outdoor track which has 10 laps to the mile, including more than 60 police and firemen who keep in condition running, playing handball, jogging and swimming.

Men's swimming instruction is held Thursday evenings from 7:30 to 8.

About 40 women attend the slymnastics classes under the direction of Nan Collins Tuesday evenings from 7 to 7:45.

Swimming instruction for women, non-swimmers and beginners only, under the direction of Annette Phillips, takes place Tuesday evenings from 7 to 9 and there are mixed adult swims every day from noon to 1 p.m., 5:30 to 6 and 8 to 9.

Henry Willman, the Y's program and membership chairman, is especially enthused about the family membership swims Monday and Wednesday from 7 to 8 p.m. and Saturday from 4 to 5 p.m.

"You will see children from two years up swimming with their families," Willman said.

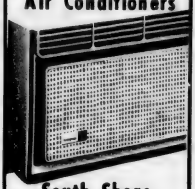
The men's health service department is open all summer for steam baths and those interested can contact Eric Peterson for massage daily from 10:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Saturday up to 5 p.m.

The gym is available for basketball, volleyball and badminton every evening until 9 except Tuesday and Saturday.

Wrestling is conducted each Wednesday from 7 to 9 under the direction of Norman Collier, judo for men is taught Monday and Wednesday from 7 to 9 under instructor Robert Palazzi, and the exercise rooms and weight room are open daily from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Saturday this month and next at 5 p.m.

An outdoor basketball league is underway with 15 teams from Quincy and South Shore towns which play under the lights every night.

Phil Keller is director of this popular league.



Carl Porter supervises a 12-team softball league which operates four nights a week under the lights at Rotary Field.

Among other programs for women are informal badminton Tuesday evenings from 8 to 9, 10-mile swim in which they can build up their endurance and earn an emblem, having three months to finish: jogging Monday through Friday on the outside track and gymnastics Wednesday and Friday from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

At Quincy YMCA there is something for everyone during the summer, regardless of age.

'A Marriage Clinic'

One of the most severe problems of our times is unhappiness in marriage. It is estimated that 75% of marriages are unhappy and restless. These people live with a constant sense of unworthiness....inadequacy....inferiority....because their inner life needs are not being met. They may be a handsome couple outwardly....but miserable within.

The functions of internal organs and body chemistry are adversely affected by a miserable spirit. The reasoning powers are reduced....the job suffers....one's estimate of himself/herself as a person is usually at a low level ....relationships with other people decline. Something needs to be done for these unhappy people.

Here is a list of the kinds of conditions which cause this miserable state in marriages:

1. Fuzziness about our true roles as men and women.
2. Sexual maladjustment....as to quality and quantitiy.
3. Mismanagement of money.
4. Poor relationships with children.
5. Inadequate dealing with conflict....never getting anything resolved.
6. Inability to make decisions and plans together.
7. Inability to sleep together [single beds...double beds...cuddling vs. the bundling rail...separate rooms]
8. Rigid adherence to bad ideas brought into marriage from childhood.
9. Negative parental influences.
10. Uncooperative attitudes toward the man's job....or hers.
11. Excessive drink and the devastating effects.
12. Dependence upon pills for curbing obesity...for sleep... composure... depression.
13. The unmet needs for affection.
14. Uncontrolled temper.
15. Little or no companionship....just not having fun together.
16. Differing educational levels.
17. Basic insecurity leading to jealousy....projection of blame to the partner.
18. The vicious evils of silence and yelling....the inability to communicate with each other.
19. Behavior which shows irresponsibility in relationship... stemming frompersonal immaturity.
20. The wide gulf between philosophies of marriage....not being clear as to what each wants as goals to be achieved... and needs to be met.

Some of these conditions in marriage cannot be corrected short of personal therapy of one or both partners. Some can be removed with group therapy....a marriage clinic....talking through and sharing with others who are having similar problems... learning how some couples have handled their situations....and others by picking up the cues courageously attacking their own problems at home. My feeling is that most of the 75% of unhappy marriages are among people who really do not know what is wrong....do not know how to define their problem.... are anxious for happiness with their partners but do not know how to go about getting it. In such a MARRIAGE CLINIC there would be ample opportunity both to discover the cause of the restlessness ....and what to do to bring a higher level of happiness.

I propose to establish such a marriage clinic with my wife and myself as leader and catalyst.... meeting one evening for two hours each week for six weeks. Interested couples may call 545-5947.

Both partners must participate. Both must come seeking help with open minds. Both must be willing to put into practice the ideas gleaned from the sessions.

About three months ago a couple sat with me at opposite ends of the divan. He spoke... "There must be more to marriage than this....with all the turmoil in the world one should be able to find peace....rest....fulfillment at home." She said... "That's about the only thing we agree on." This couple named half dozen of the above list as giving them trouble. At this writing they are almost a model marriage...because they truly wanted a happy relationship.... and did something about it before it was too late. You can too!

Action On Police Raises Ends Long Council Session

One of the longest sessions in City Council history may still not be over.

The Council was slated to begin its annual summer recess Tuesday following its affirmative action on the controversial police salary raise. But their summer vacation from official duties could be cut short.

City Council president J. Vincent Smyth said yesterday the Council may be called back into session next month to draw jurors for the September sitting in Dedham.

The Tuesday meeting marked the conclusion of major business with approval of financial orders totalling $191,000. All but $16,000 was earmarked for police pay raises under a new two-year contract agreement. The long-negotiated pact has been marked by prolonged conflict. Some debated over the contract continued to simmer in an executive session prior to Tuesdays open session which had been adjourned from June 16.

Under the new settlement, Quincy police salaries will rank highest on the South Shore when $9200 maximums are reached in April, 1970. The new salary schedule granting a 6.6 per cent raise, included benefits retroactive to January.

Final step in the long-studied agreement came on the motion of Councillor Edward Graham to approve the police pay order. An additional $16,000 was voted for Fire Department salary increases on a motion by Councillor John Quinn which equalized the pay scales of the protective departments.

Funds covering the 1970 pay provisions will be provided under action on the 1970 city budget.

Action on the police raises was speeded sharply by both sides following announcement by Mayor James R. McIntyre that the issue was impeding setting of the 1969 tax rate.

Following the key Council deliberations, Smyth commended his colleagues for approving the series of recesses which allowed city and police negotiators to continue their meetings.

"Council members should be commended for their understanding during this difficult situation," Smyth said.

'Mr. Mayor' Now 'Professor', Too

Mayor James R. McIntyre became a professor and political science lecturer for an hour yesterday as he addressed a group of students enrolled in the political science summer program at Quincy Junior College.

The Mayor spoke on state and city problems including taxation, inflation and broadening of the municipal tax base. While discussing the State Street Bank project proposed for the Montclair marsh area, he spoke optimistically of the future of Quincy as one of the major suburbs in the Greater Boston area.

The Mayor's visit to the College is part of an informal program directed by James A. Sheets

QUINCY SOCIAL SECURITY OFFICE manager Frank Culkin is greeted by Mayor James R. McIntyre at the recent Senior Citizens Festival. The mayor was a featured speaker at the arts and crafts exhibit by South Shore residents.

Little League Committee Continues Ballfield Study

Mayor James R. McIntyre has requested that the special committee, which he appointed July 10, 1968 to investigate the Little League ballfields in Quincy, remain as a unit and continue to function actively.

In a recent letter to committee members, the Mayor said, "It is my belief that this committee, with its meetings, advice, and recommendations, has provided an outstanding contribution to the City of Quincy and its youth."

The efforts expended by the committee in 1968 assisted greatly in expediting the renovation, resodding, and construction of several baseball, softball, and Little League fields in Quincy."

The Mayor also noted, "Citizen participation in city government today is important. Utilizing the advice and talents of all persons, as committee or board members, makes the tremendous function of city government more efficient and effective."

Charles L. Shea, 201 Manet Ave., is chairman of the special committee. Committee members are:

Richard J. Koch, 241 Newbury Ave.; Mr. Thomas M. Joyce, 89 Hamilton Ave.; Mr. Howard F. Back, 260 Winthrop St.; Mr. John L. Rossi, 158 North Central Ave.; Mr. David J. THE WHEEL HOUSE is a prime example of America's oldest eating tradition - the diner. Owner Walter DeSchamp offers to his patrons fine service, pricing, variety, and quality, all of which make eating at the Wheel House a very pleasant experience.

The foremost harbinger of the modern American restaurant is perhaps the diner. This dining center has continuously offered to its patrons a fine meal at good prices and in a comfortable atmosphere. The diner has always been able to attract as well as any other restaurant, no matter how sumptuous or lavish.

A fine example of America's traditional diner is the Wheel House, conveniently situated at 453 Hancock St. in the North Quincy business district.

The Wheel House has been owned by Walter DeSchamp for the past six years. However, the proprietor's experience did not begin a mere six years ago. Ever since DeSchamp was 16 years old he has been active in all phases of the restaurant industry and is a professional cook.

The diner, which is open Monday through Friday, from 6 a.m. to 8 p.m. serves a great variety of foods, including the traditional American meals such as hamburgs, frankforts, and sandwiches. The Wheel House also provides the businessman with luncheon specials and serves dinners in addition.

Along with his five employees Walter DeSchamp offers what perhaps most determines how enjoyable a restaurant meal might be - good expert service. Furthermore, the Wheel House becomes a nice eating experience as a result of the fair prices.

The Wheel House diner may be credited with a number of appetizing virtues, all contributing to its reputation for excellence among patrons, new and old. Fine service, reasonable prices, food variety and quality all combine to make dining at the Wheel House a pleasant experience and assuring a satisfied customer.

Why do other welders look up to "Little Louie"?

Because he works at Quincy. Which can mean a lot, no matter what your trade. At Quincy, you get to feel you're at the top of your trade. Maybe it's because you don't do assembly-line, run-of-the-mill kind of work. If there's a new problem every day—and very often there is—you get to solve it. The foremen give you your head. And expect you to use it. It's that kind of a place.

Money-wise, people are looking even further up at Lou these days. What with the new five-year contract and all. Calls for an immediate 20-cent-an-hour increase, with automatic hikes over the life of the contract. Better benefits, too. Can you imagine the company's going to take over the full cost of group insurance starting in 1970? Well, they are.

How's it with you? Got as much going for yourself as Lou has? No? Maybe you ought to come in and see us. Immediate Openings for:

"Schools Busier Than Ever"–Dr. Creedon

Summer No Longer Vacation Season For Teachers

Nearly half of the Quincy public school faculty are continuing with educational pursuits in the summer–once thought of as a hiatus season for educators.

Of the city's 850-member school faculty, about 250 are engaged in special research projects and in-training programs and an additional 150 are extending their own education with special summer courses.

"There are more Quincy teachers educationally active than ever before in the school system's history," says Dr. Lawrence F. Creedon, School Supt.

"It doesn't make sense to close down a $10 to $15 million educational operation and we are now more fully active than ever during the recess period." Dr. Creedon noted.

An abundance of federal research programs involving Quincy teachers, many of them pilot projects, a $25,000 in-system summer institute program and continuing city-federal projects, are keeping teachers busier than ever and extending the learning benefits to a wider range of students, underprivileged adults as well as children.

In-system research funds involve more than 50 teachers participating in 13 research projects approved for funding. The innovative programs were evaluated as foremost among the 33 proposals submitted under the $25,000 appropriated following negotiated agreement between the School Committee and the QEA. The teacher-administrator concurrence focused on the need for advanced research and pilot programs during the summer months.

The ongoing projects are part of Quincy Schools Community Action Programs which unite parents and children working with 18 teachers from Broad Meadows Junior High School on community problems.

Programs cover one to three-week periods in most cases and are responsive to future needs and increasing teacher skills. For example, in-service training for kindergarten teachers provides a basis for Tuesday afternoon workshops to commence with the reopening of regular school sessions.

Twenty-five to 30 teachers are engaged in Project Deep to develop and implement an economics curriculum for kindergarten through high school.

Title One funds enable Project Dare to uplift educationally deprived youngsters and provide appropriate remediation from kindergarten through grade three levels.

Underprivilaged youngsters are also basking in a recreational environment at the Beechwood Knolls Summer School. The summer school population of 130 youngsters is supervised by about 12 teachers. Beach and boating facilities are employed in combining the attributes of learning with the recreational advantages.

National Science Foundation funds are being gainfully employed in such summer pilot projects as a science-oriented curriculum being developed at the summer institutes. Federal Funding agencies include the Inter-Science Curriculum Studies which is contributing to the assistance of pupils handicapped by learning and reading disabilities.

Adults are not forgotten with classes providing assistance for the underprivileged through the Manpower Development Training Program and PL 89-750 funds for Vocational-Technical School training and at the Norfolk House of Correction, Dedham.

Long-distance teachers include three Quincy faculty members on research grants in San Mateo, California, for advanced study in secondary reading.

Among the Quincy teachers active in Summer Institute programs and their study projects are Naomi B. Saltzman, Atherton-Hough School, kindergarten primary methods; James L. Breadly, Atlantic Jr. High, interdisciplinary natural sciences; Lawrence J. Boyle, JoAnn Conroy, Charles V. Hickey, Josephine M. Hinckley, Allen A. Larson, Daniel M. Punchard, Richard K. Chrystal, Broad Meadows Jr. High, Science Curriculum Development.

Elsie C. Halonen, Frances Mancini, Anita Simon, Daniel Webster, learning and reading disabilities; Eugene L. Ronayne, Quincy, Sex and Family Living; Nancy Day, Quincy High, chemistry; Isabel Howe, Quincy High, advanced study in Secondary Reading; George Koolian, Quincy High, Radiation and Biology; Peter Ligor, Quincy High, Biology; Charles MacLaughlin, Chemistry and Calculus; Jeanette R. Mohnkern, Quincy High, Environmental Biology and Pollution Problems; F. Elwood Root, Quincy High, Jean C. Smart, Science Development; Catherine M. Smith, Quincy High, Marine Biology; Helen Rayner, Quincy Point Jr. High, Science Development; Kathie E. Mason, Squantum School, Special Education of the Emotionally Disturbed.

It Was A Day For Sybil To Smile

A HAPPY DAY–Mrs. Sybil Mattson, a victim of the 1955 polio epidemic, shares joyous moment with daughter, Deborah, and new son-in-law Michael A. Jerome following wedding ceremony at Quincy Center United Methodist Church. Mrs. Mattson, confined to a chest respirator for 14 years, witnessed the ceremony from a stretcher. [Quincy Sun Photo By J. W. Ross]

The bride was beautiful in her white silk organza empire gown over white taffeta.

The mother of the bride smiled proudly a few feet away--not in a pew--but on a stretcher and in a portable chest respirator.

For Mrs. Sybil Mattson of 7 Carter St., South Quincy it was, as she said: "A happy day because it was so beautiful. But it was also kind of sad".

It was sad because her husband, Ralph, wasn't there to share the occasion with her. He died May 24, 1966 of a heart attack.

That was the second time that tragedy cruelly visited her.

The first was in 1955, when she was stricken during the polio epidemic of that year. It left her paralyzed from her neck down.

She has spent the 14 years since in an iron lung and then a chest respirator and rocking bed--day and night.

And during those 14 years--she has never forgotten how to smile.

She was smiling last Saturday night as she was carried on a stretcher into the Quincy Centre United Methodist Church for the double-ring candlelight ceremony that united her pretty daughter, Deborah, 19, and Michael A. Jerome, 21, of 146 Cross St., Hanover.

The ceremony was performed by The Rev. Dean Benedict with more than 200 relatives and friends of both families in attendance. Debbie was given in marriage by her godfather, Harold A. Maggiore of Weymouth.

It brought back fond memories for Sybil. For it was here that she and Ralph were wed Oct. 2, 1948. And an old friend, Mrs. Marion Elkhill who played the organ at their wedding, did this time for Debbie and Michael.

It was the first time Sybil had been in the church in 14 years.

"It's so beautiful," she said. "They have renovated it since I was here last."

It was also the first time Sybil had been out of her home in about five years. The last time was when friends took her to a drive-in theater in their station-wagon– her portable chest respirator operated by battery.

Realizing this, the Hollis Ambulance Service attendants who took her to the church for the wedding, drove through the Ross parking area so that she could see some of the changes in the Future Brighter But--

$116 Tax Rate -$17-Plus Jump- Expected Today

The 1969 Quincy tax rate–scheduled for setting today–is expected to be "a little over" $116.

Reliable sources estimate the increase at over $17 and under $18. The 1968 rate was $98.90.

Mayor James R. McIntyre and Assessors Chairman William J. Callahan are scheduled to meet today with representatives of the state Department of Taxation and Corporation to determine the exact rate.

Mayor McIntyre declined to pin-point what he believes the figure will be but agreed it would be a considerable jump. Earlier he had seen a possible $20 hike.

But the Mayor said he sees a bright financial future for the city when a number of huge development projects either underway or in the planning stage are "on the tax rolls".

These include the $20 million Jordan Marsh distribution center, the $6 million Hazeltine electronics laboratory–both underway–and the recently announced $100 million State Street Bank and Trust Company computer-residential complex.

In addition to these, he said, an approximate $10 million in new apartment construction underway will also considerably help the tax base.

"Quincy has a bright future when we get this new construction on the tax rolls," the Mayor declared.

The Mayor said that it would have been a "financial tragedy" for Quincy home-owners if property revaluation figures had been implemented during this year of

Funds Approved For Police Ambulance

The city will receive a federal matching grant for the purchase of a new $15,000 police department emergency ambulance.

Mayor James R. McIntyre was notified yesterday that an application filed by Police Chief Francis X. Finn in May has been approved by the U. S. Department of Transportation, Federal Highway Administration.

Under it, Quincy will receive $7,500 from the federal government.

Chief Finn said the hospital-type ambulance will be a fully equipped emergency vehicle including oxygen supply and two-way radio.

The chief noted that approval of the federal grant was based largely on the increased ambulance runs by his department in 1968.

He said there were 1,247 motor vehicle accidents within the city's boundaries last year from which his department took 780 persons-including 89 pedestrians –to the hospital.

In addition to that, he said, another 1,500 persons were taken to the hospital in other emergency medical cases. This brings the total to 2,280 persons.

"I want to make it clear, however," Chief Finn, added, "that the police department has no intention of being in business competition with privately owned ambulance services.

"The new ambulance will be used strictly in auto accidents and in other emergency cases."

Senior Citizens Register Friday For MBTA Fare Cut ID Cards

Quincy senior citizens may register Friday for MBTA reduced-fare identification cards.

A bill co-sponsored by Mayor-Sen. James R. McIntyre and signed this week by Gov. Sargent provides reduced fares on all MBTA lines for persons 65 years and older.

A total estimated 297,900 persons in the 79 cities and towns–approximately 11,000 of them in Quincy–are eligible for the reduced fares.

The fares will become effective Aug. 15.

Quincy senior citizens may register with an MBTA team at City Hall Friday between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m.

They may also register at City Hall Aug. 14 between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Meanwhile, the MBTA is setting up a registration booth at the Government Center Station in downtown Boston which will be open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Mondays through Fridays until further notice.

The legislation provides that on and after Aug. 15, persons 65 years of age and older who reside in a city or town within the MBTA District may, upon obtaining an identification card from the Authority, ride any and all of the MBTA lines at "one half the adult cash fare adjusted to the next lowest five-cent increment."

The identification card must be obtained by applying in person to MBTA-designated locations, presenting proof of age and residency, and paying a 50-cent fee.

Any eligible resident of the MBTA District may register at the Government Center Station in Boston, or, if it is more convenient, at one of the city or town halls on the day the travelling registration team is present.

Proof of age may be provided by such documents as a birth certificate, baptismal record, driver's license or Medicare card.

Proof of residency may be provided by a driver's license, library card or charge plate.

The identification cards will contain the name and address of the applicant and a photograph of the individual for positive identification.

The reduced fares for persons 65 years old and older are, by law, limited to the lines of the MBTA, including the suburban lines that were formerly operated by the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co. which the MBTA took over in 1968.

The privilege does not extend to other private carriers in the Breast Enlargement In Males

Enlargement of the breasts in infancy is quite a common occurrence. It is considered normal and gradually disappears. It occurs in both sexes.

In some infants a watery material called "Witches Milk" can be extruded. It is generally advised that one do nothing about this swelling. Irritation by manipulation may cause more inflamation and even abcess formation.

In some female infants the enlarged breast may persist without necessarily having a pathologic cause for its persistence. Such enlargement is dysharmonic and need cause no apprehension. Girls at about seven years and up occasionally have on one side or both, a half-dollar sized firm and even tender swelling which is called Mast - tis and again needs only reassurance. Don't touch!

As growing boys we used to inflict sadistic torture on other boys by rubbing their heads with our knuckles [knuckley-Biff] or twisting the unfortunate victims breasts. Having suffered this indignity is no recommendation for it as a sport.

The next observation on Breast Enlargement outside of normal female development, is the witnessing of unequal size of either adolescent male or female. This asymmetry or inequality may reach the disproportion of being disfiguring, but this is not too common.

Gynecomastia, or enlarged breasts in the male, has historically been an object of curiosity and has even had myths attributed to it allegedly even in the Talmud of a man who lost his wife at childbirth and suckled his newborn. Sounds great but not true.

During the pubescence [the period of adolescent maturing] perhaps as high as 70 percent of males show some breast enlargement. In my experience very few of the boys or young men suffer any embarrassment.

Starved prisoners who later had a restoration of adequate diet, besides regaining lost hair and sexual ability also had breast enlargement. Some illnesses and/or their treatment have had significant breast changes such as lung cancer, muscular dystrophy, prostate cancer, paraplegics and the use of cortisone and tranquilizers.

The breast changes discussed here are not of the feminine kind but involve the fibrous not glandular systems of the mammary glands Obese males are not included in the discussion at hand.

I recall seeing several young sailors who had breast surgery for persistent unusually large growths. The operations were not disfiguring and added much to the adjustment of these men in the confined intimate life of a ship. I'd have done the same if so afflicted. However, in all my years of practice I have not seen the need for recommending the operation.

My reason for writing about non-malignant enlarged breasts is due to the frequency that pediatricians and internists are consulted about it. It is mighty reassuring to be told that most of this condition is often benign, self limited and in no need of interference.

Smile For Sybil

downtown area.

"I was amazed to see the old Granite St. bridge down and the MBTA bridge going up," she said. "It's really going to be a new Quincy Center."

On the way back, the ambulance crew drove down Hancock St. so that she could see the store fronts–stores she once shopped in.

The wedding reception was held at Morrisette Legion Post but Sybil didn't go. It would have been too much for her, a nurse explained.

But many of her long-time friends dropped back to the house after the reception.

Friends dropping by is nothing new. They haven't stopped coming since Sybil was stricken in 1955.

And after Ralph died, they organized The Ralph R. Mattson Family Fund–a legal trust fund–to financially aid Sybil, Debbie and son, Clifford, now 17.

Sybil requires virtual around-the-clock care and nurse attendance. Medical expenses are high and so are other necessities.

The electric light bill alone averages over $27 a month because of the chest respirator that keeps her breathing and alive.

The March of Dimes has provided her with a day nurse and totally has contributed approximately $80,000 for her care and life depending equipment.

But most of the other costs–household and expenses–are being met by contributions to the Ralph R. Mattson Fund.

Her friends watch over her.

Like during the Big Blackout in November, 1965. While most people sat around flickering candles that night, Sybil's friends were driving to unaffected Braintree to fill power lawn mower gasoline cans for an auxiliary generator to keep the chest respirator going and Sybil alive.

Her friends don't pity her. Sybil wouldn't let them.

They admire her because of her courage, and because she never complains.

And because she has never forgotten how to smile.

The landing on the moon gave Massachusetts Supreme Court Judge Paul C. Reardon, formerly of Quincy, one of the biggest thrills of his life.

Judge Reardon, on a speaking tour of Australia for the State Department, was at a luncheon for the Law Association of Asia and West Pacific the day of the historic landing.

In a letter to his family, Judge Reardon reports that TV receivers were set up in the luncheon hall.

As Neil Armstrong set his foot on the moon, "everyone broke out in cheers".

Then a toast was proposed to America and everyone bowed toward Judge Reardonn–the only American in the room.

"It was a moment I shall never forget," he said in the letter.

A CHILD'S VIEW: Billy McIntyre, five-year-old son of Mayor Mc Intyre, was asked by a visiting aunt if he knew where his daddy worked.

"At City Hall," Billy replied.

"Yes," said Billy quite proudly, "He takes care of all the snow and the garbage."

SOMETHING BLUE: The red, white and blue colors which now distinguish street letter boxes may be replaced by a single blue if tests on some 150 boxes in the downtown and Back Bay areas of Boston prove satisfactory.

The traditional red, white, and blue colors would be maintained through use of decals on the side of the box.

Use of the single blue color instead of painting three colors would represent a substantial savings to the Post Office Department.

Mayor Requests Recreation Aid

A request for assistance for recreation improvements in the Squantum-North Quincy area has been submitted by Mayor James R. McIntyre to Dept. of Natural Resources Commr. Arthur W. Brownell.

Reference to the agency followed a recommendation by Lawrence N. Stevens, acting director, S. S. Dept. of the Interior. The Interior Dept. officials referred Mayor McIntyres request to Brownell through Cong. James A. Burke.

Information on possible federal assistance for the recreational project had been sought through Cong. Burke by the Quincy mayor.

The Myles Standish School area project has also been brought to the attention of Sen. Edward W. Brooke who has assured Mayor McIntyre of his full cooperation and a progress report on the federal aid request.

A Jumbo Manhattan 'On The Rocks'

You might call it the Jumbo Manhattan–"on the rocks".

Shipbuilders–not bartenders –however, have concocted it and will serve it to a waiting industry.

It's the Quincy-built S.S. Manhattan–largest merchant vessel ever constructed in the U.S. –which will soon challenge the Arctic as a super icebreaker.

The 108,500-ton tanker delivered in 1962 by the then owned Bethlehem Steel Co. Quincy Shipyard has been converted into a 151,000-ton icebreaker to challenge the Arctic ice fields.

Humble Oil & Refining Co. will soon take the vessel from the Sun Ship Building and Dry Dock Company yard in Philadelphia on a special mission.

Object: to prove that giant ice breaking supertankers can carry Alaska's North Slope oil through the Northwest Passage to the U.S. East Coast refineries at a cost of 60 cents per barrel less than other means of transport.

If the Manhattan is successful, it could lead to construction of new huge ice-breaking supertankers.

Welders at Sun Ship Building are putting the finishing touch–a new bow–to the six-months conversion job.

Much of the ship's effectiveness hinges on this new bow which has been designed to break thick ice faster. Set at a sharp 18-degree angle to the water surface, rather than at the 30-degree angle of traditional icebreaker bows, the new bow protrudes farther out over the ice.

Armed with this hard-nosed prow, the Manhattan's captain will be going against every seaman's instinct as he rams the vessel into ice varying from several feet thick to pressure ridges sometimes as much as 100 feet deep.

But Humble's crew doesn't expect the Manhattan to get through extremely thick, tough ice. Their job is to find out how to build 250,000 deadweight ton ships that will crush through a 100-foot pressure ridge in the Arctic Ocean with ease.

So the Manhattan was designed to be at once the world's toughest and most sensitive ship. Hundreds of tiny pressure gauges along the hull will tell engineers what forces were at work when the ship pushed into various types of ice at varying speeds.

At the same time, technicians will be flown by helicopter back to marked locations along the route to take core samples of the ice for analysis on ship. Then all of this information will be analyzed in small computers on the Manhattan and stored for later study at Humble's headquarters in Houston, Texas.

Engineers and marine experts then can begin to answer the big question: How much engine power and steel is required to get a ship through the worst possible ice conditions and still have room left for carrying oil?

The success of the Manhattan's maiden voyage through the Northwest Passage depends on its returning with a shipload of information, not oil.

But the information had to be available to oil transportation planners by the late fall of 1969. The Manhattan, selected by Humble as the best equipped ship in the world for Arctic testing because of its high ratio of power to weight, had to be cut into four pieces so modification could be done simultaneously in yards from Bath, Maine to Mobile, Alabama.

In January, Sun's shipbuilders sliced the Manhattan into four sections–bow, forward, midship and stern–and farmed out the parts to their own yard and yards in three other states.

Midship and forward sections were towed much like any barge to yards at Mobile, Alabama and Newport News, Virginia respectively.

In Chester, Sun worked on the stern of the 115,000 deadweight ton tanker, strengthening the hull and installing new high strength propellers and tailshafts.

Construction of a new icebreaking bow was divided between Sun and Bath Iron Works near Portland, Maine. Thus, five sections had to be rejoined before the ship was ready for her task.

During June and July, all of the Manhattan's converted sections–shielded with a wide, steel "ice belt", among other alterations–were returned to the Chester yard and assembled.

At one point in June, Sun reported that all four shipyards were devoting more than 10,000 workers to the conversion of the Manhattan.

The ship's round trip through the Passage will take about 100 days. After it arrives off Prudhoe Bay–near the recently discovered oil–it will continue to Anchorage, Alaska, and then return through the Passage continuing its data collection mission.

It is scheduled to reach the East Coast again on Nov. 10, carrying a small amount of crude oil.

QUINCY-BUILT S. S. Manhattan has been converted into a jumbo [151,000-ton] icebreaker to challenge the Arctic ice field and the Northwest Passage in an oil delivery experiment. The tanker, then 108,500 tons, 940.6 feet long and with a 132-foot beam, was constructed at the Bethlehem Steel Co. yard and delivered Jan. 15, 1962. Her keel was laid Oct. 5, 1959 but work was idled during a six-months strike.

CIVIL DEFENSE check representing the final government payment of $18,000 for the new Public Works-Civil Defense building, is presented to Quincy officials. It completes the government's $86,778 cost share. From left, are Edward H. Roberts, Quincy Civil Defense Director; Albert E. Edmonston, Director, Sector 2D Massachusetts Civil Defense Agency; Louis F. Saba, Supervising Area Director, Massachusetts Civil Defense Agency; Mayor James R. McIntyre; Councillor Arthur H. Tobin; and John E. Schmock, Deputy Director, Quincy Civil Defense.

Social Security pays up to $4,896.00 towards a College Education

Would your Child USE it ——— or LOSE it?

One of the recent changes in the Social Security Law guarantees continuation of a child's benefit beyond age 18, to age 22, provided the child-beneficiary is a full-time student in an accredited school or college. This means that the child of a deceased worker can have part of his college expenses paid through the Social Security Program, if (and this is a big IF) the additional funds needed to allow the youngster to be a full-time student are available.

With a full line of both Life Insurance and Mutual Funds, we can help take the IF out.

Quincy Educator At Harvard Institute

Carol Lee Griffin, Director of Pupil Personnel Services of the Quincy Public Schools, is participating in the seventh annual Institute for Administrators of Pupil Personnel Services at the Graduate School of Education, Harvard University.

The Institute is an invitational conference attended by 80 pupil personnel administrators from the United States and Canada. The theme of this year's conference is, "Student Development: Patterns, Influences, and Potentials."

Director of the program is Arthur M. Kroll, Assistant Professor of Education at the Harvard Graduate School of Education and Clark University, Worcester.

The 1969 Institute is examining student development from the pre-school level through the college years. Among the topics being considered are the effects of poverty and racial discrimination, liberalism and radicalism, learning disabilities, development of moral behavior, maturing in college, and implications of student activism for pupil personnel services.

rising municipal costs.

McIntyre has twice won court approval to delay implementation of the controversial 100 per cent revaluation figures. Legislation filed by him with the support of other Quincy legislators will put the question of revaluation on the ballot in the 1970 state election.

The Mayor pointed to three major factors as the cause of the Quincy tax rate increase for this year:

–Net loss of state aid as a result of increased deficits.

–The double 6 per cent salary increase voted city employees and collective bargaining with other employees.

–School department increases, most of them for salaries.

He estimated the first and second factors represent a $5 increase each on the rax rate and the third approximately $8.

McIntyre noted that the 6 per cent salary increases were passed over his vote and that he as chairman of the School Committee voted against the school department raises.

The Mayor was also severely critical of the new state tax program and charged the Commonwealth with failing to meet its responsibility in aiding communities in financial need. He declared:

"As for the future, I must say that the prospect of net decreased state assistance to the cities and towns of the Commonwealth as a result of the tax bill recently enacted by the legislature and signed into law by the Governor –a bill which I fought and voted against in the Senate–does not augur well for every homeowner and taxpayer in Massachusetts.

"The failure of the state to accept its responsibility to help the oppressed communities of the Commonwealth with their municipal financing is a tragedy."

In announcing the Authority's plans for registering senior citizens in the transportation district, General Manager Leo J. Cusick emphasized the procedure to be followed is easy and uncomplicated. It is similar to the automobile license renewal procedure used by the Registry of Motor Vehicles and will take only a few minutes.

To explain the meaning of the "one half the adult cash fare adjusted to the next lowest five-cent increment." the MBTA gives the following examples:

Rapid transit lines: adult fare 25¢; elderly fare, 10¢.

Surface lines: adult fare, 20¢; elderly fare, 10¢.

Say "Boston Red Sox" or "Boston Patriots" and you have an immediate pal in Billy Malvesti, 11-year-old Quincy Sun booster.

Billy, shown delivering the weekly Sun to Mrs. Stella Graham, comes by his sports addictions naturally. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Malvesti, 29 Shirley St., the Malvesti's have all left their mark on Quincy Athletic fields.

The senior Malvesti is a Fire Dept. Lieutenant, one of three brothers on the fire forces, all lieutenants. Billy has another uncle on the Quincy police department.

A young Gridley-Bryant student, the sports-loving youngster is especially proud of his older brother Richard, A Ranger Captain in Vietnam.

And, like most Quincy Sun newsboys, Billy has a special animal pal. In this case the honor goes to a pet cat-Gus.

Win Fourth Zone 6 Title

Morrisette In State Action Saturday

BY TOM SULLIVAN

The Morrisette Legion baseball team has won its third straight Zone 6 championship, its fourth in the last five years and the fifth during the seven years Connie Carlozzi has coached the team.

Morrisette will open the state playoffs Saturday at 2 p.m. against Somerville at Adams Field -the second game will be played at Somerville at 2 p.m.

Morrisette, which also won a bundle of championships while Nick Malvesti, present manager, was coach, failed to clinch the title Sunday when it was upset by Zone 6-A contender Walpole, 5-4, but nailed down the flag Monday night with a 7-2 win over another Zone 6-A contender, Canton, in the playoff of a rained-out game at Adams Field.

Steve McDevitt hurled a three-hitter against Canton, striking out five and not walking a man to gain his fourth win against one defeat.

Morrisette wasted no time in wrapping up the title win as it scored four times in the opening inning, added two in the second and one in the fourth. Canton scored single runs in the fourth and sixth.

Steve Carrera, Jerry Connolly and Ron DiNardo each had two hits, while Bob Edwards and Steve Sullivan had one apiece.

Sunday the champs had a 4-2 lead after five innings but Walpole pecked away with a run in the sixth, another in the seventh and won it in the eighth with a run off reliever McDevitt, who was charged with his only defeat of the year. Paul Duff [7-2] was the starter.

DiNardo, Carrera, Connolly, Al Gallotta, Rick Baker, Edwards and Kevin Ryan had the Morrisette hits.

Morrisette wound up the season with a 14-3 record. Last year it was 15-2 and went all the way to the state finals before bowing to Pittsfield. Two years ago it went to the state semifinals.

"Last year we were a hitting team but this season our pitching and defense carried us through," said Carlozzi, who has Fran Rinaldi as his assistant coach for the third year. "Our hitting was much weaker than I had hoped for and the only boy who really hit consistently was Connolly, who batted .345. Although some of the others disappointed me at the plate, they did come through with some key hits to win games. The whole team really put out 100 per cent and the pitching and defense were outstanding."

Duff was 7-2, McDevitt 4-1 and Bobby Pettinelli 3-0 with some superb performances.

"Rick Baker, our first baseman, didn't hit as I expected but rose to the occasion and won two big games at the end of the season with line hits," Carlozzi said. "He is an outstanding defensive player and his fine stretches saved many errors on low throws.

"Kevin Ryan was a shortstop in high school but I didn't feel he had the range and moved him to second where he played outstanding ball. He learned the pivot well and was the middle man on several double plays. His batting picked up late in the season. I hope he plays second instead of shortstop in high school next year.

"Al Gallotta is a really outstanding shortstop and, in addition to starring on defense, came through with some timely hits.

"Ted Meyer was our most pleasant surprise of the year. I had to find a spot for him and put him at third base where he really came through for us. He is a fine fielder and, like the others, his hitting was spotty but he contributed some big hits. He is one of my most determined players.

"In left field Steve Carrera, one of the finest high school hitters I have seen, also slipped a bit at the plate but chipped in with some big hits and he made up for a slump at the plate with excellent base running, some fine catches and some strong throws.

"DiNardo, our center fielder, was our key man this year with his batting and fielding. At the start of the season he wasn't hitting and we discovered he needed glasses. When he started wearing them, he began to hit with authority. This is his fourth year with me and he has always done a standout job.

"Connolly in right field got off to a slow start because he played no ball during the spring. He began to come along and really helped us over the second half of the season.

"Bob Edwards, our catcher, is a fine receiver and handles pitchers well. He also has a strong arm. He hit well at times."

The Morrisette Pilot, who coached at Quincy and Braintree before coming to Morrisette, hailed his reserves, Ed Hutchins, who probably would have played third but still favors a shoulder injured during the high school season; Pete Lucier, a youngster who filled in capably at Quincy High when Hutchins was injured; Sullivan, Paul Hand, Bobby Sacchetti and Dick Brown.

"All came through when I called upon them and they will be back next year," Connie concluded. "I think they all will help us tremendously next season."

Quincy Babe Ruth All-Stars Chase N.E. Title In Maine

The Quincy American League All-Stars state champs will make their bid for the New England championship in the first round against Connecticut at Sanford, Maine, 9:30 Saturday at 9:30 a.m.

The New England Regional Championship is a double loss elimination contest.

Quincy captured the state title by defeating Worcester West Side 19-11 last Sunday.

The day before, Quincy had defeated Medford in the semi-finals 7-0 under the strong pitching of Bob McKay who gave up only three hits. Big hitters for Quincy were Steve Cannon with three hits and Dave Drew and McKay with two each.

Winning pitcher in the championship game against Worcester was Bob Malvesti, who gave up only two runs in six innings. The big bat was swung by Tom Burke for a single and a triple.

Other top-notch performances were by Tim Flynn, Bob Torino, and Jim Walker. The game was a matter of "heads-up" ball by Quincy and fine relief pitching by Malvesti.

Starting pitcher in Saturday's big game will be Mark Whelton. Unfortunately throughout the series the team will be without the services of McKay who suffered a fractured wrist in Sunday's game.

In Maine the boys will be living with "foster" parents during their stay. They will be accompanied by Manager Mike Gormley and coaches Dave McMillan and Norman Nelson.

Thomas M. Joyce, Commissioner of Junior League Baseball in Quincy, is welcoming support, financial and automotive, to help the team get to Maine. Those wishing to assist may contact him at 89 Hamilton Ave., North Quincy, or by calling 479-8879.

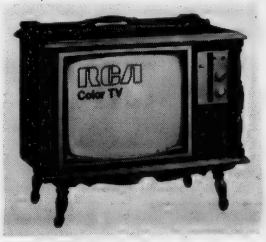
The Quincy players making the trip are:

Tim Flynn, Bob Malvesti, Bob Torino, Bob McKay, Tom Burke, Jim Walker, Dave Drew, Dave Nelson, Mark Whelton, Tom Joyce, Bob Morton, Bob Silva, Steve Cannon and Connie Driscoll.

'Frustrating' Season For Quincy

It was a frustrating baseball season for the Quincy Legion Post team.

Despite some brilliant pitching and a strong finish with three straight wins, Quincy closed the season with a 7-9 record.



Last victory was a 3-0 decision over Needham Sunday.

Frank Costa hurled a three-hitter and his mates collected seven hits--two by Steve Thomasetti and one each by Jim Donovan, Steve Brustin, Costa, Ed Monti and Norm Walsh.

"I wish we were just starting our season," coach Doug Fleming said. "We got some terrific pitching this year from Costa and Garry McGrath but our hitting was very poor until the last three games.

"If we were hitting like that early in the season, we would have been a contender. It was certainly a frustrating season."

Recreation Roundup

Quincy's 33 playgrounds now in their fifth week of summer fun for the six to 16 age group are competing with the Recreation Department's 14 swimming stations, notes recreation director William F. Ryan.

Last week's east wind and damp weather hindered the beach program, so the swimming instructors met with their supervisor, Mrs. Louise Garland to plan the annual water carnival which will be held in conjunction with Quincy Bay Race Week on Wollaston Beach, Fenno Street on Thursday afternoon, Aug. 14.

Instructors in this program, which offers swimming and life saving for all ages, are Kathleen Mitchell, Karolyn Jay, Elizabeth Poirier, Patricia Ready, Pamela Morse, Joy Robbins, Madeline Cashman, Dee Dee Fagerlund, Gretchen Nelson, Kathrine Pratt, Carol Pistone, Patricia Foye, Sharon Lessard, Pamela Quinlan, and Karen O'Leary.

Pollard School Playground coached by Frank Brillo is upholding its "Pollard Power" slogan by constant wins in basketball and baseball....Faxon Park's rescheduled parents night program was a big success. During the week Mary Ann Picardi carved a boat out of soap and Maureen O'Neil completed a clown - Steve Gilmartin pitched the junior baseball team to a 11 to 2 victory over Kincaide....

Fore River's costume parade was won by Neil Arnold with the best costume and Donna and Carol Caporale with the most creative costumes....The Kussman sisters won LaBrecque's egg tossing contest and John Riley came back from a 7 to 1 deficit to defeat Bayside 9 to 8 in junior baseball.

At Quarterdeck Tommy Connolly and Jackie Uhlar are participating in Mike Crismond's instructional golf program while Eddie and Michael Burgess are sharpening their badminton skills....Laura Peters received Allerton's first place award for making an original felt alligator....The Bayside Bombers behind the pitching of Bob and Joe Brill defeated LaBrecque 9 to 2 in baseball aided by a batting barrage by Charlie Shea, Dave Steen, Jack Clark, and David Sullivan....Harborview's senior basketball team beat La Brecque 40 to 34 with Bill Hebert with 15 points and 25 rebounds....

Mrs. Louise Garland's swimming instructors got many new participants when hot, humid weather and favorable afternoon tides attracted thousands to the beaches.... Children and their mothers may still enter swimming and life saving classes. The same is true at the Black's Creek boating program where youngsters 8 years of age and over who first pass a qualifying swim test at a Recreation Department swim station may participate in this program.

Last Saturday the volunteer teenagers at Happy Acres Day Camp spent the day at Duxbury Beach under the supervision of Camp Director Earl E. Vermillion and staff members Charlie Alongi, Janet Veasey, Dotti Tehan, Mary Kenney and Joe Daley.

More Music has been added to the playgrounds as newly appointed Lowell State Music Major Robert Foye joined the specialists staff. Rhythm bands being formed on many playgrounds with participants talking about making their own instruments. At Faxon Park last week a new trio was discovered and immediately named "The Three Lady Musketeers", Mary Ann Picardi, Charlene Russo, and Michele Monti. The act was followed by Scott Simpson's rendition of "Windy", on trombone.

The Recreation Department's theme song, "Roll on Recreation" was heard on Wollaston Beach last Friday as staff members got together at the Dawes memorial bungalow with their instruments. The tune "The Caissons Go Rolling Along" has two verses and this swinging group hopes to be an added feature at the Annual Field Day at the Stadium, Aug. 19.

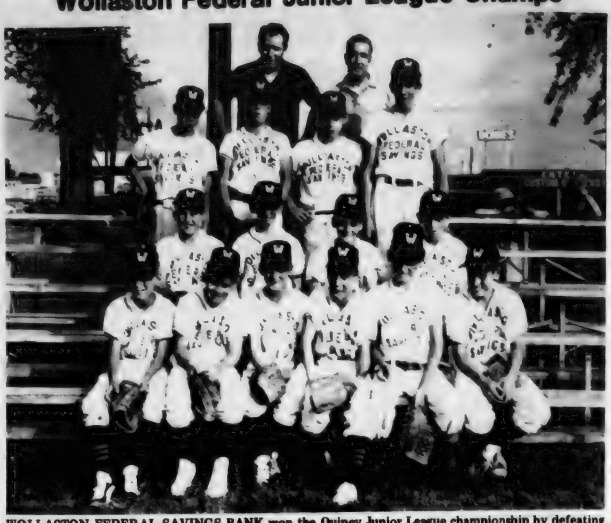
Through the courtesy of the Furnace Brook Golf Club the recreation department is allowed to use their course three mornings a week under the direction of the club's pro, John Donovan and the department's golf specialist Mike Crismond. Joe McBournie recorded six over par 40 and Barry Sullivan, a brother of O'Rourke playground leader Bob Sullivan, turned in a 43. The Jeffry family, Brian, Debbie and Dan are doing well at the free Monday and Tuesday morning sessions at the play-a-round course on Hancock street in North Quincy.



Debbie Meehan of Squantum looks like a competitor for the tennis finals, as does Sally Rickson of Faxon Field...Strong doubles contendors are Jed Phelan and Jack Rebel from Merrymount and singles players Paul Craig from Snug Harbor, Mike Salverio, Fore River, and Merril Cohen from Faxon Field....in junior basketball, O'Rourkes boys team now has a 3-0 record after recently defeating Shea rink 22-13 and Forbes Hill 42-11. Pitcher Bob Gosselin pitched the junior baseball team to a 7-0 victory over Wollaston behind the power hitting of Bill Brabazon and Mike DePolo.

Gera Foy's indian girl and Robert Kenny's lion were outstanding at the face mask contest at Beechwood Knoll...Jack Hatfield still scoring high in archery at Stoney Brae, but being pressed by David Man... Gayle Zoia, of Montclair, always leading the early morning physical fitness exercises has recorded 25 push-ups for Joanne Maloney, Carol Barkas, Maryann Malzone and Rhonda Zoia...Mike Kelly of Mass. Fields pitched a one-hitter in midget baseball to defeat Montclair 8-4 He struck out 17, made two hits himself, and was aided by Steve Bell who had three singles and four RBI's...with Tom Perry getting the win and Bob Prakop driving in the winning run, LaBrecque topped Bayside 10-9 in senior baseball.

Diane Congdon happy with her popsicle bird house made in the crafts program... Quarterdeck leader, Debbie Felton, reports that Pam DiMonti completed an excellent copper tooling placque of the Statue of Liberty .Doug MacFarlane, student at Springfield College, working at Snug Harbor is pushing his senior boys baseball team to avenge last year's loss to Fore River in the finals...at Elm Street, which is Flynn Playground, a huge paper mache giraffe is in the process of being completed by Carol Ann and Jackie Tutela, Jean and Tommy Brosnan, and Diane Nichols.

Central Fire Headquarters was host to about 30 Elm Streeters where Captain Shea explained the various uses of fire equipment...Faxon Field's explorers visited the Mount Wollaston Cemetery looking for century-old grave stones and then were escorted through the rejuvenated police headquarters, topping off their day with a ride in the paddy wagon, arranged by Sargeant Daley.

Wollaston Federal Junior League Champs

Wollaston Federal Savings Bank for the 2nd consecutive year has captured the Quincy Junior League championship by defeating the Business Division champs, Local 444 in a best-of-three-game playoff.

The Service Division champs handed two straight losses, 10-4 and 7-6, to Local 444.

In the opener, winning pitcher was Rich Bufera who gave up only four hits. Contributing strongly to the victory in the hitting department were Brad Kimball and Rich Bufera with two hits apiece, Carl Leone with two doubles, and Frank Miceli and Paul Todd with a single and a double each.

Behind the fine relief pitching of Steve Martinelli Wollaston Federal overcame a 2-run deficit to forge ahead to a 7-6 win and a two-game series sweep. Martinelli came on in the fifth inning with the bases loaded and set the side down in order without giving up a run.

An 11 hit attack was led by Paul Todd's two-run homer in the second and Carl Leone's go ahead home run in the fourth. Steve Martinelli helped at bat with a double and two singles, and stole home in the third. Bill Dacey had two hits, and Dave Calabro contributed a couple of fielding gems.

During the season Rich Bufera compiled a pitching record of 7-2 and 85 strikeouts, and Paul Todd has 8-4 and 76 strikeouts. Carl Leone led the team in the homerun department with five, while Bill Dacey and Frank Miceli each had two. Bill Dacey led with 24 RBI's and in total hits with 36.

Three From Quincy Impress Red Sox

Three of Quincy's promising young baseball players took part in the annual Red Sox sandlot New England semifinal doubleheader yesterday at Fenway Park and hoped to be among the 30 selected for the finals Friday at 11 a.m. at Fenway.

The semifinals, in which the 78 boys selected at the eight tryouts held throughout New England took part, were scheduled for Tuesday but were postponed because of the forecast of poor weather. The final was originally scheduled for today.

The three local players selected were Ron DiNardo and Steve Locke, outfielders, and Garry McGrath, big right-handed pitcher.

McGrath was signed this week to a Seattle Pilot's contract by Scout Ronnie Frongello who is himself a former North Quincy pitching star. McGrath will be assigned to Clinton, Iowa of the Midwest League next season. He will attend the University of Massachusetts in the fall.

These three played in yesterday's morning game. Another game was scheduled for the afternoon. Each was a 12-inning affair in order that all 78 players could get the chance to play.

Following the doubleheader, the scouts were to get together and pick the 30 best for Friday's final. After that game they will select the Most Valuable Player and the Outstanding Pitcher.

Assisting the scouts select the two top players will be Red Sox owner Tom Yawkey, who will present the Harry Agganis Memorial Trophy to the MVP and the Joe Wood Memorial Trophy to the top pitcher.

Yawkey, several of his executives and scouts from just about every major league team were watching the Fenway Park games.

The 24th annual sandlot tourney is co-sponsored by the Boston Record American and Sunday Advertiser.

DiNardo made a great impression on the Sox scouts during the tryout at Quincy's Adams Field with his lusty batting.

"He has a live bat and stings the ball," said Jack Burns, former Fore River standout who, with Sam Mele, judged the outfielders. "He hits with power, has an excellent arm and runs well."

Ron is leading the Morrisette Legion team with a .345 average and hit .320 for Quincy Junior College's first team last spring.

McGrath pitched outstanding ball for North Quincy High and Quincy Legion team despite mediocre won-lost records. He has plenty of speed and good stuff.

Among his heartbreaking defeats this summer were 1-0 decisions to strong Weymouth and Braintree.

Both his coaches, Charlie Sunker of North Quincy High and Doug Fleming of the Legion, hailed the big right-hander for his efforts.

QUINCY BAY RACE WEEK

Flotillas To Set Sail Aug. 13--17

Quincy waters will once again be a panorama of exciting beauty when Quincy Bay Race Week weighs anchor Aug. 13 through Aug. 17.

Starting time for opening classes in the South Shore's most colorful water spectacular is 1:30 p.m., Wednesday, Aug. 13 for inside and outside lines.

Competitions involving boating buffs from the 68 Mass. Bay yachting clubs and regional marinas will feature more than 20 racing classes in sail and power from turnabouts to 45-footers.

The 32nd annual Quincy Bay Race Week highlights racing dates at the following host clubs:

Wednesday, Aug. 13, 1:30 p.m. outside line, host, Town River Yacht Club at Wessagussett.

Thursday, Aug. 14, at Wessagussett, host club.

Friday, Aug. 15, Wollaston Yacht Club.

Saturday, Aug. 16, Quincy Yacht Club host, at Wollaston.

Sunday, Aug. 17, Squantum Yacht Club.

Feature Quincy events includes the ocean races on Saturday and Sunday in two Divisions, 17 to 26 ft. and 27 to 45-ft craft.

Entrants will compete at 10:30 a.m. Saturday is the Frank E. Remick Trophy Race, an annual race week feature since 1959. The winning skipper will retain permanent possession of the trophy. Ocean racers will also challenge for the Warner Memorial Trophy.

Deep water races will continue on Sunday with the Bermuda Cup Trophy at stake for the sailors.

A power boat parade Sunday at 1:30 p.m. will spotlight a scenic flotilla from Town River to the Wollaston shoreline.

Open boats, outboards, cruisers and auxiliaries will be among a host of crafts in the mechanized fleet. The flotilla will dissemble in front of the Wollaston Yacht Club.

Onlookers will also be treated to a fire boat display to be visible from the beaches at 2 p.m.

Trophies for racing sailors of all ages will include:

Howard Gannett Memorial Trophy for best performance in the White Turnabout division.

The Fred Hunt Memorial Trophy to the skipper who has proven his ability in race week competitions, for sportsmanship and willingness to help others.

Capt. James Berwick Finlay Trophy for yacht or yachtsman for outstanding record, performance or signal act of sportsmanship during Race Week.

WJDA--1300 trophy--for permanent possession to skipper in Turnabout class.

Commonwealth National Bank of Boston Trophy for award to the Flying Scot design.

Pink-cheeked skippers from 10 years through teens will join sea-toughened veterans in more than 20 classes of events. The lower-age youngsters will skipper the Turnabouts.

Safety coverage for ocean races and inside class sailing will be provided by the Coast Guard Auxiliary, commanded by Bud Kelly, Flotilla 505 captain, Wollaston Yacht Club.

Serving as chief marshall of the Power Boat Parade will be Douglas Haskins, Town River Yacht Club.

Co-marshalls are Richard Stevens, Edward Stevens, Henry Verlicco, Robert Gilmartin, Chet Frazier and Frank Lamb.

Challenge To Quincy Swimmers

Wanted: Quincy long-distance swimmers.

Local entrants have thus far failed to register for the men's and women's swimming events on Sunday, Aug. 17. The one-mile swim [men] and the half-mile [women] events will feature Quincy Bay Race Week events on Sunday, Aug. 17.

A strong Connecticut aquatic delegation has already registered with swim event chairman Henry Willman, Quincy YMCA. But the 'Y' official reports all is quiet on the Quincy swimfront.

Top New England distance swimmers will compete on 440-yard course at 1:30 p.m. from the Squantum Yacht Club.

Five prizes will be awarded in each division with a special prize for the first Quincy finisher.

Bagpipers To Serenade Bay Fleet

Music to sail boats by will waft oceanward from Wollaston Beach on Wednesday evening, Aug. 13.

The St. Joseph's Bagpipe Band will provide the skirling tunes as an inaugural for Quincy Bay Race Week from 8 to 10 p.m.

Quincy and South Shore families are invited to attend the concert on Wollaston Beach, opposite Rice Rd. as a kickoff to the sailing festivities.

Top Acts Set For Marshfield

Several of Europe's and America's top acts will be appearing during the eight-day Marshfield Fair, August 9-16.

Entertainment will include the Ricardy Family, trampoline, tumbling, and acrobatic act; Rosita and Albert, comic performers and the Almira Trio, a humorous Swedish circus juggling trio.

Vicki Taylor, will be the fair's Mistress of Ceremonies.

Other attractions include: the Amandis, a daring Teeter Board act; the Gutis, the modern "clown family" of the circus world, the Free Wheelers, a new, exciting musical act; and Hager and Nancy, a novelty act.

Registration

Registrations for the Quincy Bay Race Week swimming meets may be submitted to Henry Willman at the Quincy YMCA.

Come, Let Us Reason Together

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

The Moon...Why Not At Home?"

"Beautiful"...."glorious"...."fantastic"...."magnificent"...."unbelievable"....We have exhausted our language to find adjectives that could describe the momentous historic event of our nation's landing on the moon. Truly we have lived through....indeed been a part of an event in history comparable to nothing else in man's achievements. The planning....the skill ....the precision....the execution of the moon expedition is unsurpassed in human history. I am so glad that I am alive to share its thrill. And now....on to other celestial bodies and more revelations of the greatness of God's universe.

This great scientific pinnacle spoke volumes to me of man's potential. I ask ....if we can go to the moon with a beautiful harmonious and successful flight why can't we have comparable beauty and harmony in our personal relations right in our own homes? Why must there be this spiritual lag behind the technical accomplishments. I think we can catch up. There were various emotional factors at work among our astronauts which were just as highly developed as the technical processes. They had to be emotionally stable men....without which it could not have happened.

For one thing....they worked with nature....they did not fight nature....did not resist nature's ways....they accepted the different elements of space and the moon. That's the first key....harmony and happiness at home demands that we stop fighting our human nature....accept ourselves and each other as we are....then work for improvement. We seem to be forever twisting each other....resisting our humanity. Sooner or later this leads to depression....discouragement....destruction. We must work with....not against our human nature.

Secondly....the astronauts were in communication with each other. One of our troubles is that we fear to let outselves be known to each other. We often do not share our feelings....our problems....our goals. Wives scold....accuse....threaten. Husbands complain....ridicule....demean their wives. No wonder 75% of marriages are unhappy. Can you imagine Armstrong downgrading Aldrin? Can you imagine Collins sitting out there in the Columbia threatening to leave....ridiculing the way his comrades carried out their duties? Why do we in our homes?

Another emotional factor which made the moon landing so fantastic is that each man carried out his responsibility. A lot of husbands don't. Many wives don't. In small quarters for the entire trip, they helped each other....trusted each other.... encouraged each other in their roles. They had many inconveniences....they lived in close proximity....but their emotions had been so disciplined that they could share their life needs without embarrassment....without being bugged. In other words.... this great historical event would not have come off had not the human nature and emotional life of these men been harnessed. There is no substitute for personal discipline.

A dear wife who loves her husband very much wrote this note to him after hours of watching the television pictures of the moon walk and lift-off.... what worried her was the re-connection with the Columbia by the Eagle. I saw her note....it pleased her husband so very much. She wrote...."Goodnight....good morning....good new life for all of us....you are my Columbia...please don't pull away before I have a chance to connect."

Are you pulling away from one who is trying to connect with you?

FOR YOUR COMMENTS: Call Dr. Knox at 326-5990, or 545-5947, or 945-9800, or write him at 628 High Street, Dedham, Mass. 02026.

Education Experiment At Adams Shore Church

An experiment in Christian education will be conducted this fall by the Council of Ministries and Administrative Board of the Adams Shore Community United Methodist Church, Albatross Rd.

Classes for children of nursery age [infants through three years] will be held at 10:45 a.m. on Sundays. The class will be staffed by a rotating team of teachers.

Kindergarten students [four and five years] will attend similarly staffed classes at 10:45 a.m. also.

Special religious education classes will be held for Grades 1-6 each Tuesday from 1-2:30 p.m. The children will be grouped into three classes of two grades each. A team of teachers will work with each class.

Junior High and High School students will have classes on Sundays at 9:30 a.m. Adult classes are scheduled for the same time.

McIntyre Thanked For Kidney Disease Aid

Officials of the Kidney Foundation of Massachusetts this week expressed gratitude to Quincy Mayor James R. McIntyre for his participation and leadership in the Massachusetts Mayors Declaration of Independence Against Kidney Disease

The Foundation's President Herbert Abramson said, "We believe this is the first time in history that chief executives of the cities of any state have united in common cause to help wipe out a major community health problem By joining in the Spirit of Sixty-Nine campaign, the mayors will play a key role in saving the lives of 200 Massachusetts residents who will die this year if they do not receive treatment with the artificial kidney."

In response, Mayor McIntyre replied:

"The success of the campaign to provide artificial kidney treatment for all victims in our and surrounding communities will depend on the understanding and enthusiasm of our citizens. I know that they will respond with characteristic generosity, as they have in all meritorious civic and philanthropic causes.

"All of us know families whose stability is threatened because some member has kidney failure. The artificial kidney treatment will keep them alive and keep the families intact until suitable transplant operations can be performed."

All Mayors throughout Massachusetts are asking the citizens of their municipalities and surrounding towns to send sixty-nine cent contributions to: Kidney Campaign, at local City Halls. The drive will be concluded sixty-nine days from its inauguration on July 4th.

New Telephone Co. System Set Up For Excavations

New England Telephone has simplified calling by contractors, public works departments and other public utilities to obtain information about excavation near telephone equipment.

One-number calling is provided to reach the telephone company in an effort to eliminate excavation damage to underground telephone plant.

During 1968 there were 58 major cable dig ups in the company's area. Telephone service was disrupted to 8700 customers lines, 5000 trunk circuits and 1200 private lines. Included in the private lines were 100 government circuits and many of these were high priority.

Special IN-WATS lines, which can be reached from all New England points, have been established at the Service Control Center at 185 Franklin Street, Boston.

Callers may reach the center by calling one number in Massachusetts [1-800-322-4844] and one number in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and Rhode Island [1-800-225-4977].

The Service Control Center operates seven days a week, 24 hours a day.

No charge will be made for calls to the center.

Before the center was established many telephone numbers were used by contractors, public works departments and other public utilities to notify the telephone company before they began excavating.

Upon receipt of a call, the center will inform the calling party that, within one hour during the normal business day or as soon as practical at other times, a telephone representative will contact the responsible contractor.

The center will contact the appropriate plant service manager or test board supervisor and a representative will be sent out to check the area and inform the contractor about cable locations.

Out-of-hours calls received by the center will be referred to the appropriate district plant manager when it is apparent that digging operations will start early the next morning.

This will also apply when digging operations are of an emergency nature.

About two to three dozen calls a week are received by the center.

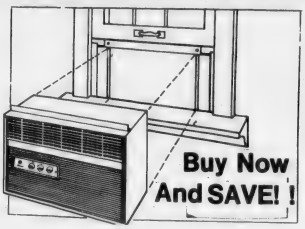
100,000 DOCTORS HAVE QUIT SMOKING CIGARETTES

HERE'S WHAT: When many doctors first started smoking cigarettes, they didn't know the risks they were taking. Now they know—and are quitting by the thousands. Play it cool. Let the facts turn you off before you're hooked!

FACTS:



- Cigarette smoking is the major cause of lung cancer.
- The risk of death from lung cancer is more than 10 times greater for cigarette smokers than for nonsmokers.
- Every year, over 40,000 lung cancer deaths are caused by cigarette smoking. With every cigarette you smoke, you lose an average of six minutes of life.

Artists To Exhibit At Thomas Crane

Three artists will exhibit their works at the Thomas Crane Public Library Main Hall and North Quincy Branch, August 4-31.

Virginia Allen will Display her work at the Main Hall, and Miss Margaret D. Stone and Miss Gretchen Cook will exhibit their paintings at the North Quincy branch.

Mrs. Allen has to her credit a scholarship to Mount Holyoke College, a teaching assistantship at Yale University, and second prize in the watercolor division of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts. She has exhibited in one-man shows in Oklahoma City and Pittsburgh, and has been a consistent exhibitor in a large number of juried shows in both cities. Her work is largely contemporary, employing abstract images and covering a wide variety of media.

Miss Stone, a graduate of the Massachusetts College of Art and a member of the Milton Art Association, was formerly supervisor of the Art Department of the Boston Public Schools.

Miss Cook, a well-known harpist, recently received the Roy A. Randall Award for her painting Deep in the Forest." A graduate of the Museum School of Art and a member of both the Art Art and Copley Society and the Newton Department of ed in and around Boston, and currently conducts classes for children and adults at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts.

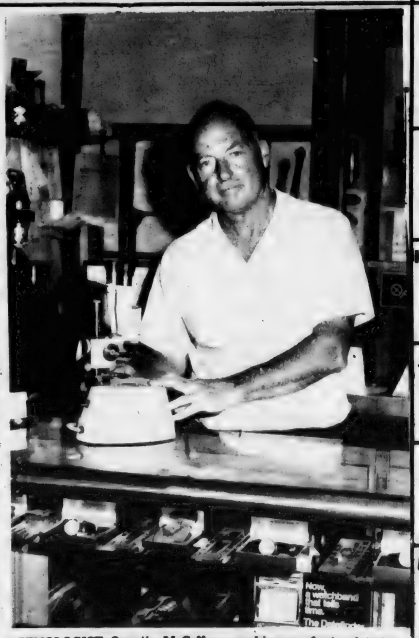
McCaffrey Jewelry

McCaffrey Jewelry, 68 Billings Rd., North Quincy, has established its proprietor as a member of a very elite circle. Quentin McCaffrey is a certified gemologist, one of the approximately 15 in Massachusetts. The title indicates an expertness in gemology that very few jewelers ever acquire, and implies that the holder has achieved the highest degree of knowledge and ability in the gem and diamonds trade. The mere fact that it takes seven years to acquire certification would imply that Quentin McCaffrey can offer his customers superior advice and quality.



McCaffrey has been in the jewelry business for 23 years at the same location, and has over the years developed an extensive business which attracts gem shoppers from distances of more than 40 miles.

Insurance companies as well as other South Shore jewelers look to Quentin McCaffrey for his advice as to what can be done to recover as much value as possible on a damaged stone.

The business of diamonds continues all year. The importance attached to diamonds through weddings and engagements has extended to other occasions including birthdays and anniversaries.

Diamonds are now purchased in increasing quantities. In fact, the production of diamonds 10 years ago was only half of what it is today.

People today shopping for diamonds, according to McCaffrey, are interested foremost in quality. Oftentimes it is very difficult for the inexperienced, uneducated customer to make decisions when buying a diamond. At McCaffrey's only the best quality diamonds are sold and the perfection is noticeable even to the naked eye. Offering fine quality unequalled by few stores, makes it much easier for the new gem buyer to make a decision at McCaffrey Jewelry. At the same time, quality stones are available in reasonable price ranges.

GEMOLOGIST Quentin McCaffrey combines professional training and experience for evaluation of jewelry products. Special equipment, displayed here, is required for exacting analysis and measurement.

LOCAL 151 PACT

Quincy Shipyard Clears Final Labor Contract Hurdle

A long-term labor contract—considered a vital key to the future of the General Dynamics shipyard in Quincy—was completed Wednesday between local 151 of the American Federation of Technical Engineers and the company.

The 47-month pact, covering more than 400 drafting and medical personnel, provides each with improved economic benefits of about $5,900 over its life.

Announcement of the new contract which extends from July 27 to June 30, 1973, was made jointly by James P. Arthur, president of local 151, and Robert V. Laney, general manager of the Quincy Division.

With the signing, General Dynamics had concluded long-term labor agreements with all four unions representing the employees and the shipyard.

In addition to local 151, the unions are locals 5 and 90, of the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America, and Local 4, of the Independent Union of Plant Protection Employees.

The agreement with Local 151 was reached following days of continuous around the clock negotiations which extended four weeks beyond the expiration date of the unions' previous contract.

"The contract is the best in the history of our union and one of the best in shipbuilding," Arthur said. "It is fair and Equitable for all parties and we feel it will benefit the shipyard and the community as well as our members."

Laney said "The pacts with all four unions will greatly improve the Quincy Division's competitive position among the nations's shipbuilders."

General Dynamics has about 8500 employees and a weekly payroll of $1,250,000 in the Quincy shipyard., which it acquired and opened Jan. 1, 1964.

New FR Bridge Cost Set At $11 Million

The cost of building a new vertical lift bridge over Fore River has been estimated at approximately $11 million.

State Public Works Commr. Edward J. Ribbs made the cost estimate in a letter to Mayor-Sen. James R. McIntyre.

McIntyre had proposed the widening of the present Fore River Bridge to at least 300 feet to allow General Dynamics to build super-sized ships.

The DPW, after a survey expressed belief it would be more feasible to build a vertical lift bridge instead.

Ribbs said in his letter:

"This department has not made a detailed study for this type of replacement [vertical lift] but would estimate that the approximate cost would be in the neighborhood of $11 million. [1969 cost figures]."

HUD Official Here To Discuss Germantown Facility

Representatives of the Germantown community will have an opportunity to discuss the planned Germantown Heighborhood facility with a regional HUD representative tomorrow [Friday].

Mrs. Marion Chambers will be at the Germantown Service Center, on the second floor of the Quincy Housing Authority Administration building, at 9 a.m. The meeting will expedite the community's request for funds for renovations of the second floor of the HAA building for community use.

Robert Tweedy, Rehabilitation Specialist of the North Quincy Improvement Project, has estimated that the facility will cost $5,850.

The renovated area will be used for various community activities, including community recreation, cooking classes, Federal Credit Union, and health services.

34 Now In Election Scramble

One more candidate has taken out nomination papers for the Oct. 7 city preliminary election. This brings to 34 the total number of candidates with papers in circulation.

Latest to obtain papers was Paul A. Ladas, 19 Bedford St., who is seeking a seat on the school committee.

Burke Named For Disorder Study

George G. Burke, District Attorney for Norfolk County, and the youngest district attorney in the Commonwealth, has been named to the Committee on Student Disorders of the National Association of District Attorneys.

His office recently participated in the compiling of student disorder questionnaires to be incorporated into a report to be made by this committee.

This appointment was announced by William L. Cahalan, Prosecuting Attorney, Wayne County, Michigan.

The first meeting of this committee will be held at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel in Philadelphia on August 5.

David McIntosh Still Chipper At Age 84

FEELING CHIPPER–David S. McIntosh whose colorful political career spanned a near half-century as mayor, city councillor, state representative and senator, relaxes in garden on his 84th birthday, just before family cookout celebration.

David S. Mcintosh, perhaps Quincy's most colorful political figure of all time, is a chipper 84 and "grateful" to have reached that coveted milestone

The former mayor, city councillor, state representative and senator whose political career spanned a half-century insists he doesn't have the Fountain of Youth bubbling in his Whitwell St. backyard.

"I don't have any longevity formula," he laughs, "I simply take every day as it comes and thank the good Lord I'm still here. I just live in moderation and common sense.

"I've enjoyed life and am grateful to have lived so long."

That philosophy and the fact he still averages an approximate mile stroll around Hospital Hill daily [weather permitting] probably is his secret formula.

McIntosh, a political Horatio Alger who rose from blacksmith's helper to mayor of his native city, marked his 84th birthday Aug. 1 at a family backyard cookout.

"My wife [Ella] baked me a birthday cake and there were quite a few candles on it," he mused.

Attending the cookout were his son, David B. and his wife and three children, David B., Jr., Nancy and Bobby.

City Hall observers will fondly recall McIntosh with little grandson, David, in tow a "few" years back. But time really flies, David is now 26–and married.

McIntosh who served as Plan E mayor in 1952-1953, keeps track of today's political scene through the newspapers and is a rare visitor to City Hall.

A Republican, he has sympathy for present Mayor James R. McIntyre, a Democrat.

"He's up against a lot of problems former mayors didn't have," he notes.

"Quincy's general picture today was inevitable. It's the same as in all cities and towns in Massachusetts. There are demands for more services and higher municipal salaries. The demands made on the city of Quincy are tremendous. If you expect these services and salaries, you have to pay for them in higher taxes."

McIntosh, as astute political observer, predicts:

"He [McIntyre] is going to be re-elected anyway."

McIntosh was a state representative from 1916 to 1920 and then served two terms in the Senate. He served 18 years in the City Council, bowing out in 1965.

During his long political career, he was an eloquent orator, a la James Michael Curley. He was never at a loss for words or a well-timed quip.

Words didn't fail him at a memorable City Council meeting in 1959. for exam-

Super-Ships Could Be Built Here

McIntyre Seeks $700,000 For New Fore River Bridge Design

Mayor-Sen. James R. McIntyre is seeking a $700,000 state allocation to pave the way for a new $11 million Fore River Bridge.

McIntyre asked Gov. Sargent this week to request the funds from the House Ways and Means Committee for the design, plans and specifications for the new vertical lift type bridge.

McIntyre told Sargent in a letter that the new bridge would enable the General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard to bid on supersized aircraft carriers and tankers which now cannot get through the present bridge.

He predicted construction of these huge vessels would bring "literally millions and possibly billions of dollars into the economy of Eastern Massachusetts."

The present bridge linking Quincy Point and North Weymouth and built in the early 1930's has a horizontal clearance of only 175 feet. The new bridge would provide a clearance of at least 300 feet, enabling supersized ships to pass through after construction.

State Public Works Commr. Edward J. Ribbs last week estimated the cost of a new vertical lift bridge at $11 million.

In his letter to Gov. Sargent, McIntyre declared:

"As you are well aware, the General Dynamics Corporation does not have the capacity to bid on new Navy super-carriers and super-tankers because of the 175 foot existing width of the Fore River Bridge. For some time we have had recommendations and proposals relating to the construction or reconstruction of the Fore River Bridge in order to have a 300 foot width so that General Dynamics Shipyard can acquire this capacity to outlay literally millions and possibly billions of dollars into the economy of Eastern Massachusetts.

"Most recently, I have received information from the State Department of Public Works recommending that a vertical-lift type bridge be designed for this

You Could Have Had $50 Rate But $251 Higher Tax Bill

Quincy's new $116.40 tax rate may have come as a jolt but the average homeowner will pay a smaller tax bill than he would under revaluation figures, according to Mayor James R. McIntyre.

He estimates that the average homeowner would have to shell out about $251 more this year if the controversial Cole-Layer-Trumble 100 per cent fair market valuation figures had been implemented.

The Mayor's comparison is on the basis that the average home in Quincy is currently assessed at approximately $6,000.

On the new $116.40 tax rate –up $17.50 over 1968–this will mean a tax bill of $698.40 he said.

Under revaluation, this same house would be assessed at a fair market value of about $19,000. he said.

Implementation of the revaluation figures would have dropped this year's tax rate to $50-plus, he said.

Thus a $19,000 assessed home at a $50 tax rate would mean a tax bill of $950, according to his figures.

The difference between $950 and $698 is $251 the Mayor noted.

McIntyre has twice succeeded in winning court approval to delay implementation of the fair market revaluation figures.

Legislation filed by him will place the revaluation question on the state ballot next year, paving the way for a possible new assessment formula to bring relief to homeowners.

George Burke, Richard Barry Breaking Up Long-Time Team

One of Quincy's youngest but most prominent political-professional teams is breaking up.

Dist. Atty. George G. Burke, 37, and First Asst. Richard W. Barry, 35,–a virtual definition of "togetherness" for nearly 20 years–are parting.

They will go their separate ways the end of August–but remain as close friends as ever.

Barry is voluntarily stepping down as Burke's first assistant at the end of the month to devote full time to his private law practice.

Burke said the pair will thus break up their private law partnership to avoid possible future conflict of interest if Barry should have a criminal case at Norfolk County Superior Court.

"I hate to see Dick leave," said Burke. "During the near three years as my first assistant in Dedham, he handled all the big cases including several murders and never lost one. In my opinion, he is the finest prosecutor Norfolk County has ever had."

As first assistant, Barry drew a salary of only $9,500. It apparently is costing him money to serve in that post which takes him away from his private law practice.

"As far as I'm concerned, he's worth $50,000 a year as first assistant district attorney," praises Burke. "He's done that tremendous a job."

Atty. Richard W. Murphy of Canton, now second assistant, will move into Barry's job in the district attorney's office

GEORGE G. BURKE

The pair have been inseparable since 1950 when they played basketball together at Quincy High School.

They graduated together from Boston College Law School in 1959, passed the bar together and took their oath together that same year.

Since then, they have been

Add Funds For Housing Project

Cong. James A. Burke [D-Milton] has announced that the Department of Housing and Urban Development has approved a contract increase in the amount of $201,628 in total development cost of a low rent housing project in Quincy. The Project is located at Washington St., Washington Court and Curtis Ave. This will allow the Quincy Housing Authority to meet the increased costs of building 156 units for the elderly.

Sex Education

I am a little concerned about the sudden exaggerated interest and involvement in Sex Education in our public schools. Quincy has had for years a healthy, respectful approach to this subject. Our Education Department has followed a wise restrained course with effective consultation with our State Department of Health, national education authorities including parochial education and our excellent and considerate health education department. As a matter of fact the Quincy School Department curriculum on Sex Education has been selected and borrowed by other city school departments.

This is not only a local stirring but a national concern There is very little doubt that the motivating forces behind this emotion-charged controversy stems from the most conservative element. [Of course the Communists are accused of causing the Sex Problem]. In Quincy no consultations with the Reds have taken place.

Silcus [Sex Information and Education Council of the United States] founded by Dr. Mary Caldarone, has had to bear the brunt of the abuse. For my own money, this organization has done much to remove the walls of ignorance we have set for years about sex and its total human sphere.

Medical practitioners have been remiss for years in facing up to proper concern and advice, taking the easy way out by doing nothing or very little, and similarly parents have pushed the subject aside or under the rug when they realize its importance, because the children learn about it elsewhere, they are more than three years too late.

It seems strange that parents–the conservative ones–are now authorities, when I will wager the average untutored adolescent can teach his parents more than the latter has known and not all of it is healthy considering the drug and venereal disease problems increases daily, rising particularly in the young.

Again, many doctors have received through the U. S. mails unrestricted pornographic pictures of every sexual practice with different races involved. How about tackling the Post Office Department?

For all those well-intended advocates for social and sexual reform I wish they would and they can, read the "Medical Aspects of Human Sexuality", a journal for physicians covering the physical, psychological and cultural components of human sexuality and related aspects of family life.

Having read these journals in preparation for this revival of rebellion and studied their own sexual incompatabilities and incompetences, I feel that we would have a more sober and constructive approach resulting not in restriction but in enlivening a much maligned and restrained subject.

David McIntosh

ple, during a moment that might have proven embarrassing to another man.

McIntosh finished a short speech supporting a pay raise for police and firefighters. A petition opposing the raise and the names of those signing it-was then read. Last name on the petition was McIntosh's son, David.

As laughter broke out in the council chamber, McIntosh rose to his feet and said:

"Sure, it's my son. Sure, he told me his views and I told him I was going to vote for the raise. I am proud of my son. I am proud of his courage. He thinks for himself. He is not to be intimidated."

McIntosh is one of three living former Quincy mayors. The other two are Thomas S. Burgin and Amelia Della Chiesa, both in their mid-60's.

McIntosh, who in his early days worked in the local granite quarries, is also the oldest living former president of the Quincy Granite Manufacturer's Association. He plans to attend the association's 90th annual summer outing at Furnace Brook Golf Club Aug. 11.

"I wouldn't miss it for the world," he says.

McIntosh has received a number of honors during his political career, but the most touching–and proudest–came just a few weeks ago.

On May 4, the new Public Works Department building was dedicated in his honor.

"I thought that was a great honor," he says. "It probably was the first time that a building such as this was dedicated to a living recipient."

And, he adds, with a smile and a puff of cigar smoke:

"I'm glad that it wasn't a posthumous honor."

So are his many friends and admirers.

Sunbeams

Dist. Atty. George G. Burke looks like he may be taking political "soundings" for a possible state-wide office bid next year.

The Quincy Democrat seems to be covering more ground than Marco Polo traveling around the state on speaking engagements.

He's recenty been to Worcester and Springfield and all around the Greater Boston area, talking on law enforcement, the narcotics problem, new and pending legislation, etc.

The interesting point is that most of the groups are Democratic Town or City Committees–where delegates to the Democratic state committee come from.

And, he's been well received.

Which state office might Burke be eyeing?

Speculation is: governor or lieutenant governor.

* * *

MILESTONE: Former Mayor and State Rep. Amelio Della Chiesa is a young 68. Reached that mark July 31. Della Chiesa, who served the longest [12 years] of any Quincy mayor, and his wife, Evelyn now live in Pembroke.

* * *

SPEAKING of prominent former Quincy political figures, colorful [and a controversial] long-time Councillor Carl W. Anderson is now working for a private detective agency.

* * *

LATER-THAN-YOU-THINK-DEPT: While you've been swimming, boating, or enjoying your summer vacation in some other relaxing manner, a special committee has been hard at work at the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce. They met again yesterday, to continue plans for–this year's CHRISTMAS FESTIVAL.

Well, there's something like only 140 days before St. Nick arrives. And, a Happy New Year to you.

* * *

NICE-GESTURE-DEPT: Inmates at the Norfolk County House of Correction are sincerely appreciative of contributions of articles made to them by residents in various sections of the county. Among them are these Quincy residents who donated:

Fred E. Bergfors, shoes; Miss Mary D. Bair, books; Bruce Skinner, Ernest T. Deveau, Mrs. Shirley Senter, Mrs. Alfred DiTullio, clothing; Mrs. Rose L. Schwartz, magazines; Mrs. Elizabeth Major, Mr. and Mrs. James W. Y. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest G. Unger, and Mrs. Henry H. Budd–television sets.

INCIDENTALLY, "The Insider", published by inmates at the Norfolk County House of Correction, attributes this quote to Sophia Loren on the subject of dress design: "I like loose lines, But I think that tents are strictly for Boy Scouts."

* * *

STILL NOT MUCH action on the Quincy political front, but one candidate is on the move. William S. Grindlay, Jr., challenging incumbent Walter J. Hannon for the Ward 5 City Council seat, already has his campaign cards printed and in circulation. President of the Young Democratic Club of Quincy and treasurer of the Quincy Citizens Association. He's 28 and lives on Brook St., Wollaston.

* * *

QUINCY-BORN Ruth Gordon who returned to her home town yesterday on a day officially proclaimed in her honor, also got a little extra VIP treatment.

Mayor James R. McIntyre presented her with a Quincy Honorary Citizenship certificate–the same kind he has presented to other distinguished visitors. But this one was framed. Others usually have to provide their own frames–to help keep the cost down.

MOBILE UNIT has been custom-designed for Liberty Mutual Insurance Companies' advanced driver training program which has been established as part of a major effort to help policy holders improve their driving abilities. The pilot program, first of its kind in the insurance industry, is being tried out in Massachusetts.

Invite 200 Quincy Residents To Join 'Decision Driving'

Decision Driving, a concept developed by Liberty Mutual Insurance Companies to cut down on the growing number of highway fatalities, will be introduced to the Quincy area next week.

A total of 200 Quincy residents have been invited to take part in the presentation, Aug. 13 through 16 at the Stop & Shop Supermarket, 495 Southern Artery.

Also invited are residents of Milton, Randolph, Dedham, Canton and Norwood.

The program is part of a continuing series of programs throughout the Greater Boston area under the sponsorship of Liberty Mutual and Stop & Shop, Inc.

The hour-long instruction will be held in Liberty Mutual's mobile classroom, which seats 16 and utilizes the most sophisticated Edex film and slide teaching equipment.

Those invited represent a true cross-section of today's drivers, including the young, inexperienced driver; the middle-aged driver, who has seen conditions change drastically since he first got behind the wheel; and the older driver, who simply cannot react as fast in an emergency situation.

The goal of the program is to alert these drivers to possible dangerous situations and then show how, by making the right decision, they can be safely handled.

The program is divided into three parts. First, those participating are tested to see what they already know. Next, they are shown different driving situations and the correct decisions. Finally they are tested again to see how much of the instruction has been absorbed.

Driving attitudes, intersection accidents, single-car crashes, pedestrian accidents, skid control techniques and freeway driving are among the topics included in the instruction.

An example from the test follows:

Freeway merging accidents most commonly result from: [a] failure to signal: [b] entering too fast; [c] entering too slow; [d] cutting in and out.

The answer is [c] A film then illustrates how entering the freeway too slowly can cause a rear-end collision either with cars already on the road or cars following on the ramp.

Marshall Seeks Seawall Funds For Avalon Beach

Councillor-Rep. Clifford H. Marshall is seeking state funds for partial reconstruction and an addition to the seawall at Avalon Beach, Quincy Point.

Marshall, with the aid of Mayor-Sen. James R. McIntyre, is asking the Division of Waterways, Department of Public Works, to approve funds for the project.

Marshall, who represents Quincy Point at both City Hall and the State House, established the need for the proposed project through a study by City Engineer Henry F. Nilsen.

Nilsen informed him that approximately 40 feet of the present masonry wall is in need of partial reconstruction and that about 110 feet of the timber bulkhead should be replaced with a masonry seawall.

Mayor's Road Amendment Would Give City $350,000

An amendment tacked onto the state Accelerated Highway Program by Mayor-Sen. James McIntyre would return $20 million to cities and towns–approximately $350,000 of it to Quincy.

The amendment to the $265 million program was passed twice by the Senate, 33-to-5 and 24-4 and now goes to the House for its necessary approval.

McIntyre said the $20 million returned to cities and towns would be used locally for highway construction and traffic control devices.

Quincy's approximate share of $350,000 would mean a $2 tax rate saving, the Mayor estimated.

Dr. Djerf Leads Movement Toward New 'Super Nurse'

A prominent Quincy pediatrician is in the forefront of an increasing number of medical men utilizing "super nurses" to share their day-to-day workloads.

The super-nurse is gaining in importance to the physicians she is aiding as a medical assistant in direct examination and diagnosis.

In a feature article illustrating the increasing use of the nurse-practicioner, the Wall Street Journal quotes Quincy's Dr. Charles Djerf:

"They save me hours of time that I can spend with children who really need me."

Dr. Djerf's staff includes two nurse-practitioners whose special training qualifies them to assume a higher degree of medical responsibility. Mary Russell, one of the new breed of super-nurses, performs functions such as physical check-ups that ordinarily would have demanded the pediatrician's attention.

As the nurse practitioner assumes a wider role amidst these routine, but important, functions, the pediatrician, in Dr. Djerf's case, is freed for mor exacting diagnosis and treatment procedures.

Not that the conventional nurse is being pushed into the background, the article asserts, but such specialized physicians' aids are definitely on the increase. But, the Journal item also notes, the opposition to the nurse-assistant is also deeply entrenched.

Some resentment by mothers is summed up this way:

"A mother pays for a doctor to see her children, not a nurse who is pretending to be a doctor."

A survey among doctors themselves produced only 20 per cent who said they would allow assistants to give physical examinations.

But a surprising 61 per cent state their conviction that some type of medical assistance, in addition to the conventional nurse, is needed by the medical profession.

Regular nurses have also shown a strong degree of jealousy toward their advanced colleagues, says the Journal.

Pediatrics, Dr. Djerf's specialty, has proved a fertile ground for the super-nurses. An estimated 200 nurse-practitioners are reportedly working in the field. Five years ago their number was zero.

The academics of the new profession is also becoming more sophisticated. A 16-weeks training course at Mass. General Hospital, appears to be a pace-setter for the field. A class of 15-registered nurses undergo a 16-weeks course, eight classroom and eight in clinical practice.

This specialized nurse, although realizing new professional freedoms, will always be limited in the forseeable future in her share of the practice. Drug prescription or surgery will be beyond her scope because she is not a doctor. In effect, her limits are prescribed by the doctor by whom she is employed.

The article concludes with a boost for the new medical resource: "At first I questioned the doctor's assigning my baby Jennifer to a nurse," says Mrs. Victoria Farrell of Wellesley. "But once he explained the nurse's qualifications, I consented and now I ask for the nurse first."

Marshfield Fair Opens Aug. 9

The 1969 Marshfield Fair will begin an eight-day run on August 9.

Sunday, Aug. 10 will be Governor's Day with Governor Francis Sargeant expected to be on hand. Also present will be town, county, and state officials. According to Eben Briggs, president of the Fair, Sunday's features will include Ed Kennealley's Horse Pulling Contest, the Firemen's Muster, Fire Engine Parade and the traditional Horseshoe Pitching Contest, along with a fine Midway.

Kiddies Day on Tuesday, Aug. 12, will begin with games, races, and a Doll Carriage Parade, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Fair officials noted that until 5 p.m., those 16 or under will be admitted free to the fairgrounds with reduced prices for Midway rides. In addition there will be a special matinee at 2 p.m. featuring the Tip-Top Stage Shows.

Racing Secretary William 'Red' Taylor reports that over 400 thoroughbred horses are already on the grounds. Pari-Mutuel horse racing is held daily at 1:45 p.m. There will be nine races daily and 10 on Saturday, including Perfecta wagering.

True Tower, County 4-H agent, said that record entries have been accepted in the sheep and swine categories, as well as in the beef and dairy goat categories.

Nightly entertainment will feature television and circus acts. Among those performing will be mistress of ceremonies Vicki Taylor, organist Don Polvere, Jane Randall and her canine actors, acrobatics Romaine and Clair, comedy teamsters Rosita and Albert, the Gutis-a clown family, the Freewheelers - a singing act, the Amandis - a teeter board act, the acrobatic Ricardy Family, Hager and Nancy - a novelty act, Almiros Trio - juggling stars, and Laurie Stuart - a novelty act.

The 102nd Marshfield Fair will conclude on Saturday, Aug. 16 with a fireworks display.

Used Clothing Drive

Two-Ton Cleanup Aids Needy

MAYOR JAMES R. MCINTYRE congratulates owner Joe Grippi and his son Kenneth, of Beacon Cleansers, Wollaston, on the completion of their successful drive to raise 4,300 pounds of used clothing for the "Save the Children" Federation. The drive was part of the National Institute of Dry Cleaning's annual campaign to aid the nation's poor.

More than two tons of used clothing is being shipped to the "Save the Children Federation", Knoxville, Tennessee by Beacon Cleansers, 624 Hancock St., Wollaston in conjunction with the National Institute of Dry Cleaning's yearly campaign.

The Institute, the first week in May, holds its "Check Your Closet Week", during which the country's dry cleaners encourage customers to give used clothing for the nation's poor.

In 1968, 50,000 pounds were collected throughout the United States.

Joseph Grippi, proprietor of Beacon Cleansers, and his son Kenneth, who have participated in this drive for three years, this year extended their drive to July 31. In doing so, they received 4,300 pounds of clothing from people all over the South Shore. This area's residents have become the most generous in the country - overtaking the previous record-holder, Crystal Cleansers, San Mateo, Calif. which collected 3,000 pounds.

Mr. Grippi and his son bagged and shipped on Aug. 1 219 bags, each weighing about 20 pounds.

Mr. Grippi extends his thanks to all his friends, customers, and staff for making the drive so overwhelmingly successful.

new bridge across Fore River. Earlier the Town of Weymouth officials were concerned about this bridge design and proposal,

"Last night, I met with the Weymouth town officials and told them I would inform them and seek their counsel to amend the capital outlay budget now pending in the Ways and Means Committee by $700,000. so that a bridge design could go on simultaneously with a traffic study analysis over the next year or so.

Burke-Barry

law partners with offices on Hancock St., North Quincy–building one of the busiest practices in the city.

And, they served together in the City Council.

Burke was elected in 1959 from Ward 5 and Barry in 1961 from Ward 6. Both then served together in at-large seats, stepping out in 1967. Burke was also President of the City Council, and a state representative.

When Burke ran for district attorney in 1966, Barry was his campaign manager.

And when Burke was elected –the first Democrat and youngest man to win the post in Norfolk County history–he tapped Barry as his No. 1 aide.

Since then–together–they have handled the heaviest case load in the county's history.

Now, with Barry's decision to leave the district attorney's office, their partnership will have to be dissolved.

They will open individual law firms in separate office facilities.

But their friendship will remain strongly intact.

Recreation Roundup

The Quincy Recreation Department's general supervisor, Lionel H. [Shine] Buckley, a 20-year veteran with the department, reports to Director William F. Ryan he cannot remember the playgrounds having to be closed three successive days because of rain.

It happened a week ago when the program halted Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, but resumed Thursday as competitive basketball, baseball, and softball games were rescheduled in the five playground districts.

In reminiscing, Director Ryan recalled that when he became Quincy's first full-time director with three weeks to go in the 1955 summer program there were two hurricans, a flood, and a polio epidemic.

Paul Laddas was runnerup to Stephen Brooke in a talent show at the new Whitwell Street Playground–he imitated a wolf and Stephen's own version of "Strangers In The Night" took honors in that event...Jeff Johnston is leading the way in the Kalah tournament at Fore River...despite the warm weather, hockey is being played at the M.D.C.'s Shea Rink in West Quincy–not ice hockey, but street hockey–any challenges from other playgrounds?

Many thanks to Mrs. Kelley of the St. Moritz Association for her complimentary letter about our Shea Rink leaders and their program....watch for the dedication this fall of the new baseball field behind the rink–we understand the fathers are practicing in order to whip their sons in softball on the newly sodded field...senior citizens are looking forward to their next outing, which probably will be the Weymouth Fair.

Last Saturday, 37 teenage volunteers from Happy Acres Day Camp spent an enjoyable appreciation day trip to Feering's Pond in The Myles Standish Reservation. This was their third trip this season in appreciation for their giving up their summer to work with retarded children. Voluntarily accompanying the group were staff members Earl Vermillion, Charles Alongi, Joseph Daly, Mary Kenney, Margaret O'Brien, and Dale Edson.

The annual arts and crafts exhibit will be displayed Saturday in the windows of the Francis I. DuPont Co., 1 Chestnut St. and at the former Sheridan Store reports arts and crafts supervisor Roselyn Karll. She will be assisted by crafts specialists Peggy O'Brien and Betty Chase...crafts winners from each playground will receive miniature trophies at the annual field day at Veteran's Memorial Field Aug. 20.

Long handled golf clubs are needed by 6-7 golf specialist Mike Crismond who reports a record turnout in miniature golf held free of charge Monday and Tuesday mornings at the Play-a-Round course on Hancock St., North Quincy...The Metz family– Sally, Jane, Frank, and Mary Lou are enjoying this activity... Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday mornings the golfers use Furnace Brook Golf Club under the tutelage of club professional John Donovan. Recently Donald Connolly turned in the lowest round of the summer when he carded a 3-over par 37 which was followed by Mike Tracey's 42.

"Robin and His Merrymen" at Faxon Park is one of the new rhythm bands being formed under the direction of newly appointed music specialist Robert Foye...He reports that other groups are being established at Myles Standish and at Fore River where Tom Cahill and Jeff Johnston have been helpful in rounding-up potential musicians.

Sally Rickson of Faxon Field is the defending champion in girls' junior tennis and has not been challenged yet. In the boys' senior division Tom Behenna and Dan Meehan are the ones to watch in the net game tournaments...the MDC Traveling Zoo visited Quincy last week with a morning stop at Merrymount and the monkeys, goats, an armidillo, and a boa constrictor made an afternoon stop at LaBrecque...also at Merrymount, known too as Fenno Street, the "Cougars" are currently leading the informal junion high evening basketball program...Kevin Marsters, James Doherty, Steve Mele, and Kevin McGinley finished in the top of the stands.

Tom Cairnes' Celtics doing well, but Peter Bellotti's 76'ers lost a lot of 1 and 2 point games....beautiful copper tooling designs were made by Pamela Irwin and Barbara Haley at Wollaston,...During Stoney Brae's trip to Faxon Park, for nature week, David Mann, Jack Hatfield, and Mike Thompson did very well in the scavenger hunt event...O'Rourke's senior basketball defeated Beechwood Knoll 69-20 with Mike Donaghue, Gary Beggalmin, Art Hasper, and Mike Gillis all scoring in double figures...the O'Rourke "Tennis Club" is active and Dave Mylie and Bud Souza challenging all competitors...Mike Wysocki was winner in the 25, 50, and 75 lap bicycle races at Shea Rink, but Don Bertoni took the 100 as Don Sweeny suffered a terrific "Wipeout" when he applied his brakes in the stretch, resulting in a second for Don.

Pipe cleaners were abundant at Shea so spaceships, flowers, cars, and people were made by these materials, which were supplied by the MDC..."Buckshot" Buckley's senior basketball team doing very well for Shea...do you believe that the "Swamp Fox" and Montclair's leader Janet Bernasconi became lost on Big Blue when the playground went on a nature trip to the Trailside Museum?

Montclair's senior baseball team defeated Atlantic 7 to 6 with Charlie Smith getting the win, aided by doubles by Bob Colleran, Paul Varney, and Ron Glennon and a triple by Bob Graham...despite the fact that their basketball court was eliminated in the MBTA Project, the boys at Welcome Young are still looking forward to again winning the city championship, so they are practicing behind the Quincy school...volunteer junior leaders are aiding Pamela Wye and Mike Scanlon at Baker playground...Frank Cascarno, Tom Kelly, Betty Ann Smith, and Anna Koufus have been leading Slug Ball, Duck-Duck Goose, Kalah, and other games, while Rosemarie Maloney helped with work on aluminum molds made of foil which were decorated and framed.

Tommy Brian is Quarterdeck's Kalah champion and Harborview's Tom Tomey is a horeshoe champ...Kelley Dennis and Nancy Marsters made the most unique and original plaster and sand molds when LaBrecque youngsters attended the Nature Week program at Faxon Park... Whitwell playground's new checker king is Richard Casey... Donna Allen and Debra Gardiner made beautiful ashtrays last week...Faxon Field's participants made cards and copper tooling pictures for their absent friend, Mary Ilacqua who is hospitalized with an appendectomy.

The Elm Street [Flynn] playground "Fire House Five" basketball team fired by Roy Papile's 35 points downed a determined Heron Road five. Ken Silvey, Joe Sterling, and Rick Silva were big leaders for the winners.

Little Leaguers

DROPPING TWO GAMES STRAIGHT to Wolleston Federal were the Business Division champs, Local 444. Members of the team include: front row, from left, Richard Wheelock, Jackie Rabel, Dan Davis, and Tom Wilkinson; second row, Mark Austin, Tom Marshall, Paul Coner, Jimmy Roberts, Richard Magnarelli, and Bill Lewando; third row, Manager Bob Foley, Lou Fishman, John Pineau, Joe Wilkinson, and Steve McKinnon. Babe Champions Comeback Club

The Quincy Babe Ruth All-Stars, Massachusetts State champs prepared to move into the third round of the New England Regional Babe Ruth Tournament, on Wednesday.

The team lost its first game to Connecticut but came back to defeat Vermont, who dropped out of the double-elimination contest.

In Saturday's game against Waterbury, Conn., Quincy pulled to an early lead scoring four runs in the first and second innings. Starting pitcher, Mark Whelton, who gave up only two hits ran into some trouble as Connecticut picked up six unearned runs in the fifth and sixth. Bob Malvesti, who relieved Whelton, had two hits, while Tim Flynn, Bob Torino, Jim Walker, and Bob Morton had one apiece.

In the second game, Quincy won the game 1-0 in the ninth inning with an in-the-park home run by Jim Walker.

Starting pitcher was Bob Torino who was relieved by Jim Walker in the fourth, who pitched to one batter. Tim Flynn took over and was relieved by Torino in the fifth. Flynn came on in the final inning to get credit for the win.

Dave Nelson played a fine game and caught three men stealing during the course of play.

Quincy was to have met the winner of the Conn.-New Hampshire game on Tuesday. However, the schedule was advanced one day due to the rainout of that game.

Sal's All-Stars In Action

For the fourth consecutive year Hugo [Sal] Salvatore, of 27 Albertina St., has organized a baseball team, Sal's All-Stars of Quincy.

The team comprises 10-12 year olds from the Little League, Triple A, and St. John's League, and plays about 25 games during August against similarly-organized all-star teams in other cities.

This year Sal is being assisted by John Rabel of 55 Copley St.

The team played its first game Monday against Hingham and won 2-1. Winning pitcher, who went all the way, was Steve King. He allowed only two hits, walked two, and struck out six batters. Don Green got two of the team's seven hits, the last a double which drove in the winning run.

Carlozzi Stepping Down At Morrisette

By TOM SULLIVAN

Another outstanding season for the Morrisette Legion baseball team came to a disappointing conclusion over the weekend and next year the team will have to try and continue its successes under a new coach.

Connie Carlozzi, coach of the Morrisette teams for the last seven years during which time he led them to five Zone 6 championships, announced he is calling it quits after 14 years of Legion coaching.

"I gave them my notice but told them if they couldn't find someone else I'd consider continuing, but I don't think they will have any trouble," said the former South Shore League star. "I really enjoy coaching the Legion teams but I honestly think 14 years is long enough. Fran Rinaldi [another former South Shore League standout and Connie's assistant for the last three years] doesn't want the job."

It is reported still another former South Shore League star may get the post.

Before taking over at Morrisette, Carlozzi had coach Quincy and Braintree Legion squads.

A year ago Morrisette went all the way to the state finals before bowing to West Springfield. But this year it was eliminated in the opening round by Somerville's Zone 5 champions.

Somerville pulled out a 4-0 decision with four runs in the ninth Saturday at Adams Field and clinched the series in two straight Sunday at Somerville with a hectic 8-7 victory which ended in heart breaking fashion for Morrisette.

"I'm convinced if Paul Duff [the Morrisette ace with a 7-2 record] hadn't been ill all week and if Steve McDevitt had been available Sunday, we would have won and forced the series into a third game," Connie said. "Saturday it was just a case of us continuing not to hit but Sunday we hit better than at any time this year and it was our pitching which presented the problems."

Duff got out of a sick bed to play Sunday and asked to start. However Carlozzi didn't want to take any chances with his weakened star and started Bobby Pettinelli.

"Bobby got in trouble right away with his wildness and I put in Steve Sullivan, who did virtually no pitching for us this year," said the veteran coach. "He did a beautiful job for me until he tired in the heat in the seventh. By that time we had a 5-1 lead and I put Duff in. However, the Somerville batters seemed to sense he wasn't right and really dug in and belted him. I've never seen such solid hits off him but he was just too weak from his illness."

Before the seventh was over Somerville had five runs on two solid triples, three singles, a walk and fielder's choice. Somerville added two in the eighth off Dick Brown, another who saw virtually no pitching action this year.

Morrisette rallied for two runs in the ninth, both coming in on Ron DiNardo's double with two outs. However, when the outfielder misplayed the ball, DiNardo started for third base, twice fell down and was thrown out to end the game.

"Ron would certainly have come all the way around to score the tying run if he hadn't fallen," Carlozzi pointed out. "I felt sorry for him because he carried us this year with his great hitting."

DiNardo led the team with a .345 average [he also batted .320 for Quincy Junior College last spring] and did a fine job in the outfield.

In Sunday's game Morrisette had 13 hits, high for the year, with Jerry Connolly having a triple and two singles, Steve Carrera, Rick Baker and Sullivan two singles each, Al Gallotta a long home run and Kevin Ryan, DiNardo and Pete Lucier one hit apiece.

Saturday McDevitt and Somerville's John Olson hooked up in a tremendous duel until the ninth when Somerville finally exploded for four runs off McDevitt and Sullivan.

Morrisette collected only four hits, all singles, two by Connolly and one each by Gallotta and McDevitt.

Whoever takes over the coaching reins in 1970 will have only Ryan back from the starting team but several other fine prospects in Sullivan, Lucier, Brown, Pettinelli, Hand and Bobby Sacchetti.

"Sullivan and Lucier are going to be great ones and Ryan already is a fine player," the retiring coach concluded. "Also, Pettinelli should do some good pitching and will have to carry the load."

Five Commodores Host Quincy Bay Race Week

Five star-spangled commodores will join forces to host the 32nd annual Quincy Bay Race Week program casting off at Town River Yacht Club Wednesday.

Town River Commodore Siguard Erickson will serve as opening host with his fellow commodores skippering events for the next four days of seagoing events.

The Quincy Bay Race Week leaders are Commodore Robert Mansfield, Wessagusett; Commodore Arthur Rochefort, Wollaston; Commodore Alfred Neret, Quincy and Commodore Al Shaughnessy, Squantum.

The heralded Race Week will provide thrills, prizes and the ultimate in sporting endeavor through sailing seamanship during ocean races, Aug. 16 and 17. The marine parade, featuring a vast flotilla from participating New England Yachtsman, will be launched on Sunday Aug. 17 at 1:30 p.m.

Cruisers, auxiliaries, open boats and outboards will comprise the marine fleet with prizes to be awarded for the best decorated boats in each division.

The flotilla will rendezvous on Saturday night at the Town River Yacht Club. Boats will be registered and display registration on the port side.

The Race Week mariners will leave Town River in a single line behind the police boat "Guardian" in formation to the Wessagusset Yacht Club. The flotilla will sail a course ending at the float of the host Squantum Yacht Club.

Starting time for the outside line is 1:15 p.m. and 1:30 p.m. for the inside line from Wednesday through Sunday when Quincy Bay will surrender to a muriad of sailing classes.

Registration for the inside line will be held at Wessagusett Yacht Club at 11 a.m. Wednesday.

Major prizes and racing dates include Frank E. Remick Trophy Race, 10:30 a.m., Saturday; Boston Bermuda Cup, 10:30 a.m., and Harry Warner Memorial Trophy, 10:45 a.m. Sunday.

Come, Let Us Reason Together

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

'Action And Reaction. . . Unless'

In this column recently, I proposed the beginning of a MARRIAGE CLINIC....an opportunity for couples desiring to improve the level of their marriage relationship....meeting one evening each week for six weeks. I had no idea the response would be so great....we appreciate the calls both to the home and the offices. For maximum benefit we must limit the number who may participate in a given session.... it appears that we may need repeat sessions to meet the demand. The CLINIC will begin the first week in September and couples who have called will receive an invitation to participate in the mail the latter part of August with instructions for the CLINIC. Other couples interested may call 545-5947.

Wives usually give their husbands gifts on their birthday and Christmas.... clothing or a power tool....shaving equipment or the like. But when a man walks into his office and finds a gift on his desk....not clothing....not a tool....or shaving lotion....not his birthday....which his wife has carefully placed there....that's different. It has happened to me....a most intriguing fascinating "Motion Teaser" ....a valuable helper in my counseling.... because the swinging of the five steel balls....their action and reaction....remind me so much of people....expecially husbands and wives. It demonstrated Newton's 3rd Law of motion that states, "For every action, there is an equal and opposite reaction."....just like it's supposed to be with a husband and wife. Release one of the five steel balls for a swing...it touches the second ball....the kinetic energy and the momentum are transformed to the second ball....and then to each successive ball. The last ball, then swings away....rises in its upward swing....then back down to begin the reacting process from the other side. The more perfect the system, the longer the swinging. It's great fun....teaches great lessons about persons.

For example....when a man says, "I'll vacuum the carpet while you put the children to bed"...."I want to take you out to dinner Saturday evening"...."Let me carry the grocery bags from the car"....he is going to get positive reactions from his wife....unless she is psychologically or physically unable to give corresponding response.

For example....when a wife mails a thoughtful fun card to her husband at his office....she will likely get a fun response. When she rubs his back after a hard day's work....when she builds him up with appreciative statements about his accomplishments [if they're nothing more than a green, well-trimmed yard]....that wife is surely headed for comparable pleasing reactions from her husband....unless the guy is emotionally unstable ....confused about life and ignorant of how to respond to a woman's love.

"Angry words stir up anger....a soft answer turns away wrath." That's what the Bible teaches. That's what the "Motion Teaser" teaches. That's what your own husband/wife teaches.

One ball swings out....it sets up a corresponding response in the other. If it works with steel balls....why shouldn't it work with husbands nd wives?

Former Quincy Priests' Silver Jubilee Sunday

Two former Quincy priests will mark the silver jubilee of their ordinations Sunday.

They are the Rev. John J. Dacey, presently serving as assistant at St. Thomas Aquinas Church, Nahant, and the Rev. James Radochia, assistant at St. Mary's Church, Salem.

Fr. Dacey formerly served at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church, Merrymount and Fr. Radochia at St. Mary's Church, West Quincy.

On Aug. 10, 1944, Bishop Richard J. Cushing, then Administrator of the Archdiocese, ordained the two and 21 other priests at Holy Name Church, West Roxbury.

Fr. Dacey will offer a Mass of Thanksgiving on Sunday, at St. Thomas Aquinas Church, Nahant.

Fr. Radochia will offer a concelebrated Mass of Thanksgiving Sunday, August 17 at 4 p.m. at St. Mary's Church, Salem.

Mini-Fair By Children Aids March Of Dimes

Six West Quincy youngsters will sponsor a mini-fair on Saturday, August 9, from 12 to 5 p.m. for the benefit of the March of Dimes.

The children are:

Joseph Veneto, 12, Deborah Veneto, 11, Karen Veneto, 10, Drew Veneto, 8, and Robin Veneto, 6, all of 85 Stedman St., and Robert Porzio, 12, of 89 Stedman St.

The youngsters have planned the entire fair, including a white elephant sale and such games as penny pitch and tin target.

Hot dogs and beverages donated by the Pepsi-Cola Co., will be sold.

The six children have also taken the initiative to canvass the area's local merchants for donations.

This will be their second fair. The youngsters staged one three years ago for the benefit of Muscular Dystrophy.

Traffic Control Plans At 5 Locations Underway

Final plans and specifications are being prepared for installation of traffic control devices at the following Quincy locations:

Southern Artery and South St., Willard and Robertson Sts.; Copeland and Common Sts., Billings Rd. and Beach St. and Sea and Palmer Sts.

Preliminary approval of the installations has been granted by the Mass. DPW, according to highway official C. S. Agrillo, who has officially notified Mayor James R. McIntyre.

Burke Appoints Kaplan Special Assistant D.A.

Dist. Atty. George G. Burke of Quincy has appointed Max Kaplan of Canton as special assistant district attorney for Norfolk County.

He will serve as legislature liason, legal advisor, and consultant to Mr. Burke on legislative matters.

Attorney Kaplan is presently Assistant Counsel to the House of Representatives. Burke stressed that Kaplan will be working on his own time in an unpaid advisory capacity, which will not conflict with his duties in the Massachusetts House of Representatives.

Kaplan is a member of the Massachusetts Bar, Federal Court Bar, and the United States Supreme Court Bar. He is considered to be an expert on statutory law and legislative procedure and research.

Meet Your Newsboy

Alan Gacicia

Take an 11-year-old who collects frogs, breeds fish and can't resist taking stray animals home–and chances are you have Alan Gacicia.

Alan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter P. Gacicia, 20 Stanley Circle, already has a strong notion of what big Alan wants to be. Maybe you guessed it–a veterinarian.

A coming sixth grader at Adams School, Alan boasts an expanding aquarium. He breeds his own small fry like an expert in a community-sized tank. He's also attending day camp in Braintree for the third year and is enjoying his first chance to water ski. An outdoor activist, he is also sharpening up his tennis game. Look out, Arthur Ash.

There seems to be no doubt that this career-building newsboy is a credit to his family, his Quincy Sun customers and exceedingly kind to Angel, his pet cocker spaniel.

Youths Sail Boston Harbor Courtesy Of Boston Gas Co.

Some 4,000 Greater Boston youngsters will enjoy one-hour cruises of picturesque Boston Harbor as guests of Boston Gas during the next five weeks. Joining with Boston Gas to transform the cruises into once-in-a-lifetime parties are Dunkin Donuts and H. P. Hood & Sons.

Through special arrangements made with the Massachusetts Bay Lines, Boston Gas is offering the one-hour cruises to youth organizations throughout the 32 cities and towns it has been serving for 150 years. In groups of 200, the youngsters will be embarking from Rowes Wharf in Boston on one of two cruises each Monday and Tuesday for five weeks.

Dunkin Donuts was the first Greater Boston business firm to join Boston Gas in the project and is contributing a total of 4,000 donuts for the children.

The first group of 200 youngsters arrived at Rowes Wharf at 10:00 a.m. Monday, July 28, and were greeted by representatives of Boston Gas, Massachusetts Bay Lines and Dunkin Donuts.

Prior to climbing aboard the cruise ship, every child received a helium-filled Boston Gas balloon and no doubt looked forward to the milk and donuts awaiting them on board.

Distributing the milk provided by Boston Gas and H. P. Hood & Sons and the donuts from Dunkin Donuts were 5 girls from the home service department of Boston Gas. Halt the enjoyment of the cruise for the children was juggling a bottle of milk and a donut while holding a helium-filled Boston Gas balloon.

For many of the youngsters who will be going on the cruises, it will be the first time they have ever seen Boston Harbor and its many islands. This will also be the first exposure for many of the children to their counterparts in the city or the country.

The children were chaperoned Monday by members of the organizations invited on the first cruise–Roxbury Boys Club, Roxbury YMCA, South End Neighborhood Action Program [SNAP], and the Cardinal Cushing Center for the Spanish

DEBBIE MEEHAN, of Quincy, [right] was runner-up for the Open Singles Championship in the Girls 14 and Under Division of the recent Massachusetts Jaycees' State Junior Tennis Tournament at Mansfield, sponsored by H. General Beauty Suppliers

General Beauty Suppliers, Inc. 685 Hancock St., Wollaston, prides itself on being "Your Complete Hair Care Product Center." By no means is this an overstatement, General Beauty Suppliers has in stock hundreds of items, most of which are products for the hair.

The store is managed by Mrs. Doris Clarke who is aided by two other employees. They conduct a business which is based upon the philosophy that "the way a persons hair looks is what determines how the individual feels all over." General Beauty Suppliers helps in this objective and certainly succeeds in improving appearance and well-being.

Most of the store's business centers around the retail customer, while wholesale distributing is placed in the background. In this manner the store's employees devote their time to the consumer with a hair problem and can offer their advice in a friendly customer climate.

Mrs. Clarke, who has been familiarized with the hair-care industry through four and a half years experience, notes that while the store carries a variety of hair products for men, there are very few male customers. One can assume therefore, that although the men's hair-care business has grown rapidly, the average male still is not overly conscious of hair appearance through use of beauty aids.

Such, however, is not the case with the American woman. Today's female has become increasingly beauty and appearance conscious, and a store like General Beauty Suppliers offers them a convenient compact shopping center for all their hair needs.

GENERAL BEAUTY SUPPLIERS features hundreds of hair-care items, ranging from coloring and shampoos to rollers. Mrs. Doris Clarke, manager of the Wollaston store, feels that when your hair looks attractive "you feel better all over".

Beauty is indeed an important business in today's society and the hair is perhaps the foremost determining factor in beauty. With this in mind, General Beauty Suppliers assumes a very important role as "Your Complete Hair Care Product Center."

We don't just talk top wages . . . we pay them. And then some! We add on extras in our package that mean more dollars to you. Like paid holidays, paid vacations and a company-paid-for retirement program. Working at Quincy is like buying yourself a piece of the future. Especially when you look at our list of current contracts that reach well into the '70s: sub tenders, ammo ships, LSDs and others still in blueprint stages. Why don't you come in and talk about it? You'll like what you hear — and get.

LEGAL NOTICES

CITY OF QUINCY
NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed proposals for placing of approximately one and one-half inch (1½") wearing surface, base course where necessary and all work incidental thereto on various streets, will be received at the office of the Commissioner of Public Works, Room 206, 55 Sea Street, Quincy, Massachusetts, until 10:30 a.m., August 14, 1969, at which time and place they will be publicly opened and read.

The Contractor to whom the contract may be awarded will be required to appear at this office with the surety offered by him and execute the contract within ten days from the date of the mailing of notice from the Commissioner to the Bidder, according to the address given by him that the contract is ready for signature, and in case of his failure or neglect so to do, the Commissioner may at his option, determine that the bidder has abandoned the contract and thereupon the certified check or bid bond shall become the property of the City of Quincy.

The Contractor will be required to give a guarantee of his work and file a bond in an amount acceptable to the City of Quincy for the fulfillment of his guarantee and contract. A certified check or bid bond in the amount of 5% of the face value of the contract shall accompany each bid.

Specifications may be obtained at the office of the Commissioner of Public Works upon deposit of $5.00 for each set, which will be refunded provided they are returned promptly and in good condition.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids or to accept the bid deemed best for the City.

Restoration Review

Mayor, Council To Take Close Look At Granite Railway

A restoration feasibility study of Quincy's long-neglected historic Granite Railway has been completed.

The work was done by the Boston landscape architectural firm of Shurcliff, Merrill and Footit under a $3,000 contract with the city.

The firm prepared an analysis of existing conditions in the area with alternate recommendations for the future. The proposal included four phases, which, if carried out, would cost the city about $1,250,000.

According to Quincy Planning Director Jeff Davidson, the study was made to offer the city, assuming it were interested in developing the area, the best way financially to complete the work. Davidson said that stages three and four are the least likely to be implemented due to their substantially higher costs.

The two stages include the purchase of 60 acres of land for parking facilities and picnic areas, the building of a 650-ft. long road for access to Bunker Hill Quarry, the construction of concessions, and the hiring of personnel for actual operation of "the nation's first commercial railroad."

Davidson pointed out that the community-at-large, the Mayor, and the City Council, after studying the reports recommendations, might very well support the carrying out of Stages one and two totalling about $85,000.

These two phases would involve cleanup acitivities in city-owned land restoration of the railway bed and granite block paving, landscape improvements, and the purchase of an additional 1.5 acres.

The railway, just off the Southeast Expressway near Swingle's Quarry, West Quincy, was built in 1826 to haul famed Quincy granite for construction of the Bunker Hill Monument.

Since 1945 under private ownership, the once attractive site deteriorated into weeds, rust, and ruins.

The report noted that "the Incline Railway now owned by the City is of small size and of little interest except to railroad "buffs".

Another significant point of the report was that planned dumping into certain quarries need not preclude development of the site but might rather complement the development of "delightful recreation areas" and interesting ponds.

The next step toward actual restoration is the discussion and decision by the Mayor, the City Council, and the general public as to what direction and appearance the development process should take.

CITY COUNCIL CHAMBER was a busy place last Friday as more than 1000 senior citizens registered for MBTA identification cards for reduced fares. A special registration is being held this evening [Thursday] from 6 to 9 p.m. at City Hall.

Mayor Asks Nixon To Rebuild Urban Areas

Mayor James R. McIntyre has asked President Nixon to set a national goal of rebuilding the nation's urban areas in the next decade, to rival the 1960 challenge of reaching the moon.

The Mayor made the plea in a letter spurred by a request by St. Louis, Mayor Alfonso J. Cervantes to have all mayors of America's cities concur with his telegram to the President seeking a new national commitment to the cities.

Mayor McIntyre, in his letter, said:

"It is absolutely essential that we make a commitment, similar to that made by President John Kennedy in 1961 to reach the moon, to reach out to our earthly problems here in America and to issue a challenge to Congress and to the nation to rebuild the cities of this nation so that we can remove substandard housing, provide adequate transportation, and give the urban areas hope for the future rather than depression.

In closing, the Mayor urged the President's "visionary leadership in making this commitment and follow-through effort in the cities of America."

New Fare Cut Registration Today

With more than 1,000 Quincy senior citizens already registered for MBTA identification cards for reduced fares, a special registration will be held today [Thursday] from 6 to 9 p.m. at City Hall.

The additional session was requested by Mayor James R. McIntyre because of the overwhelming number of senior citizens seeking cards at the first registration last Friday. Also time limitations influenced the decision for the extra registration. Reduced fares go into effect August 15.

The Mayor noted that any person not able to climb the stairs to the City Council Chambers will be accommodated on th first floor.

A third registration will be held Aug. 14 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., at the Vocational-Technical School gymnasium, Coddington St. and Woodward Ave.

Jurisdiction Problems:

Police Seek Wider MDC Area Authority

Quincy police jurisdiction problems in MDC areas have come under fire by city officials who claim that local law enforcement is being severely hampered, particularly in dealing with drug offenders.

Following a request by Police Chief Francis X. Finn, Mayor James R. McIntyre referred the growing problem to MDC Commr. Howard Whitmore. Chief Finn has recommended that Atty. Gen. Robert Quinn clarify a 1902 ruling giving Quincy police joint jurisdiction in their own community with MDC police.

Finn stressed the following problems:

Quincy undercover agents have detected some of the most serious drug traffic problems in the Wollaston Blvd. area, an MDC jurisdiction location.

Offenders are aware of Quincy police limitations and take advantage of the boundaries to take sanctuary in MDC territory. They "sneeringly defy the Quincy officers." Serious "morale problems" have resulted.

Houghs Neck youths, among the most serious offenders, according to Chief Finn, seek refuge in the MDC-controlled Nut Island sewerage treatment plant.

Finn cited cases of reckless driving, disturbing the peace and delinquent conduct at Nut Island.

" It makes absolutely no sense that a uniformed police officer from the City of Quincy is not allowed to enforce the laws of the Commonwealth which he is highly trained and most able to do."

Ruth Gordon Returns To 'Oscar'

Wednesday was "Ruth Gordon Day". The day was proclaimed by Mayor James R. McIntyre who noted that "the City of Presidents is greatly honored to have Ruth Gordon as one of its famous natives, born on October 30, 1896 in Quincy, graduate of Quincy High School. Miss Gordon, Oscar winner as best supporting actress in the film "Rosemary's Baby" was born in Wollaston, a member of the Quincy High School Class of 1914, and a former Quincy resident.

Miss Gordon appeared in City Hall yesterday [Wednesday] where Mayor McIntyre made her an honorary citizen.

The Mayor's proclamation follows:

"WHEREAS, the City of Presidents is greatly honored to have Ruth Gordon as one of its famous natives, born on October 30, 1896 in Quincy, graduate of Quincy High School.

"WHEREAS, Ruth Gordon, has, for over fifty years, not only been a success as an actress both on the legitimate stage and in motion pictures, she has also written and starred in highly successful Broadway productions.

"WHEREAS, Ruth Gordon, through her foresight and zeal for entertaining the populace of our country, has attained such a stature that her native city is proud of her monumental achievements, and we are proud to express our gratitude to Ruth Gordon on this 6th day of August, 1969.

"NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED that the Citizens of the City of Quincy extend our warmest affection to Ruth Gordon on this happy occasion, and that all our citizens join in paying honor to our illustrous citizen."

Early Bird . . .

A Major Setback

Community College Faces Year's Delay By Site Questions

The time-table for the proposed $15 million South Shore Community College to be built in Quincy has been set back by approximately one year.

"It will mean," said disappointed Mayor James R. McIntyre "that the college will not become a reality until at least three years from now."

The 3,500-student two-year college which would accomodate residents from Quincy and other South Shore communities, is planned for a 100-plus acre site in the Echo Lake area in Quincy near the Braintree line.

It would be built by state funds.

The Mayor said he has been informed by the State Board of Community Colleges that it has taken no action on a preliminary report submitted relative to the site's physical conditions.

The Board said it needs more information regarding rock and ledge in the area and the cost feasibility to develop the site.

The Mayor said it would take "weeks more and possibly months" to complete the site study requested by the Board of Colleges.

The site is a short distance from the new $6 million Hazeltine Corp. electronics complex now under construction.

Owner Joseph Bates is now removing rock and ledge from the area. Mayor McIntyre said this will enhance the value of the land for private development. He expressed concern the site could be lost to a private developer.

The Mayor said there is not sufficient time to furnish the State Board of Community Colleges with the information it seeks before the state legislature passes the capital outlay budget sometime in the next few days.

Prorogation will prevent any further action on the proposed college by the legislature this year, McIntyre said.

"Nothing more can be done in the legislature on it until the spring," he predicted.

"This will set the college time-table back eight months to a year and further complicate the location site.

"This is a major setback I regret very much. But we have to ride with it and keep plugging away to make this badly needed college a reality."

Accept Sheehan's Resignation With 'Sincere Regret'

The resignation of John F. Sheehan as executive director of the Quincy Council on Aging has been accepted "with sincere regret" by Mayor James R. Mc Intyre.

Sheehan who was appointed to the $12,000 post April 17, 1967--the first man to hold the job--is leaving Aug. 29 to return to teaching. He will teach American history at Scituate High School.

He is 37 and a resident of Union St., South Weymouth.

"I think Mr. Sheehan did a tremendous job," said Mayor Mc Intyre. "He is an outstanding dedicated individual and I accept his resignation with sincere regret."

The Mayor noted that Sheehan had initiated and coordinated many worthwhile programs for Quincy's senior citizens who number 15,400 in the 60-plus age bracket.

JOHN F. SHEEHAN

Among his accomplishments are the senior citizens lunch program, the annual Spring Festival, creation of the Federation of Senior Citizens--a representative organization to help senior citizens plan their own programs.

The Mayor also pointed out that Sheehan diligently assisted he and Rep. Arthur Tobin in co-sponsoring legislation that beginning Friday will enable senior citizens 65 years and over to ride at half-fare rates on MBTA lines.

Sheehan also initiated legislation which will allow Quincy to establish the first Senior Citizens Corps enabling them to work part-time.

During Sheehan's administration, the Council on Aging also:

Coffee House Gets 'No Pour', Youth Needs To Be Studied

The board of license commissioners denied unanimously a license for The Same Day, a coffee house planned for 39 Washington St., Quincy Center.

Following the board's unanimous denial, Mayor McIntyre said that he would appoint a special committee to study the needs of new youth programs.

The decision was made primarily upon the visits of three board members to several coffee houses in Boston. The members, accompanied by representatives of the Boston vice-squad, noted a large number of motorcycles outside these establishments, cars constantly "coming and going", undesirables, runaways, and children with social problems.

They added that many Boston coffee houses present offensive skits, harbor marijuana smokers, and maintain deplorable sanitary conditions.

First Aid Course Completed By 11 Quincy Residents

Eleven Quincy residents and one Braintree resident have completed the American Red Cross Standard First Aid Course at the Emergency Operating Center, 55 Sea St., Quincy.

Sponsored by the Quincy Civil Defense, the 10-hour course was taught by American Red Cross First Aid Instructor Michael Fisher of Brookline.

Two Quincy firefighters, Arthur K. Johnson, 156 Sherman St. and Edward P. O'Toole, 146 Kendrick Ave., were among those completing the classes.

Also represented was the Quincy Civil Defense Rescue Squad, including Rescue Squad Chief Thomas R. Lyons, 41A Holmes St., Raymond F. Gormley, 83 Botolph St., Jordan Cohen, 76 Furnace Brook Parkway, and Robert Peters, 93 Hollis Ave.

Another Rescue Squad member, William C. McPeck of 982 Sea St., received credit for taking the same course in Boston.

Quincy Civil Defense Director Edward H. Roberts, 59 Atlantic St., was also a class participant.

Other members included Virginia Most, a Braintree medical secretary, and three Quincy women, Eleanor G. McDonough, 201 Winthrop St., Maria Joubert, 23 Prospect Ave., and Lillian B. Collins, 112 Connell St.

—Conducted "out-reach" programs [with assistance by the Health Department during which 3,200 homes were visited to assist senior citizens in health, social and economic problems.

—Organized four new senior citizens groups in Quincy Point, Houghs Neck, Germantown and South-West Quincy, in cooperation with the Community Action Program.

—Established a public relations intern program.

—Inaugurated a quarterly news letter for senior citizens with an average 7,500-to-10,000 circulation.

—Instituted a special senior citizens program on radio station WJDA.

"It is with some sadness that I make this decision to leave," Sheehan said, "But I feel my education and training background inevitably would lead me back to the field of teaching."

Sheehan had warm praise for the cooperation given him by city officials.

"The Mayor, the City Council and the other municipal departments have cooperated completely with the program and have done all they could to assist in getting the program off the ground," he declared.

"I don't think any other citys officials could or would have done more."

"I feel the program's objectives—most of them—have been reached," Sheehan said.

Mayor McIntyre said the Council On Aging's Advisory Committee will screen interested candidates to select Sheehan's successor.

Potpourri

Apropos to my reference last week on pornography you might be interested in President Nixon's reaction to it executively:

> "Decrying the fact that American homes are being bombarded by unsolicited mail advertising for grossly offensive sex-oriented materials, President Nixon has asked Congress for new laws which focus on dealers in smut materials and their methods of marketing these materials."

Recognizing the significant part that emotional immaturity plays in Democratic Society, Politics and International Affairs, read this:

> "A Russian magazine reports that the battles along the Chinese-Soviet border were preceded by Chinese soldiers dropping their pants and presenting a rear view to Soviet troops as a sign of disrespect. However, the Russian border guards found a way to put a stop to this form of insult--they held aloft a large portait of Mao Tse-tung."

Profanity is rather a benign expression of frustration and I suppose a psychological release. I've always enjoyed it - and really the first words learned were profane - isn't it true of foreign languages you have learned - what do you think of these statistics:

> "A study by psychologist Dr. Paul Cameron, based on eavesdropping on the conversations of more than 3,000 persons, has revealed some fascinating statistics on the comparative of profanity:
> Factory and construction workers pepper their speech with one profanity for every 4 standard works;
> One of every 14 words spoken by college students is profane--and coeds swear as frequently as the males;
> A random sampling of Detroit adults showed the use of profanity to be one word in ten;
> Secretaries swore the least, using less than one profane word in 200."

Discussions of homosexuality is another repression that'should be more openly aired and I am glad Dr. Gebhard refuted Kinsey here, because I didn't agree or believe his earlier figures:

> "Dr. Paul Gebhard, Director of the Institute for Sex Research founded by the late Dr. Kinsey, recently stated that estimates of homosexuality among males in the original Kinsey study are now thought to have been far too high. Kinsey's conclusion that 38% of adult males had engaged in at least one homosexual act was unrealistically high, because Kinsey used many prisoners for his interviews, mostly because he had access to them. He thought their experiences were typical of the lower socioeconomic group and it is now known that this is not the case at all."

The motorcyclist has long been tolerated and endured. His sexual gang orgies have been rumored and are perhaps a part of his flamboyant make-up, but here is a report on certain individual cyclists - the lower who guns his noisy vehicle:

> "A Harvard psychiatrist reports that some sexually troubled college-age men relieve their feelings of sexual inadequacy by unusual preoccupation with their motorcycles. The motorcycle is experienced as an extension of what the patient considers his masculine self--the assertive, active, aggressive, competitive parts of his personality."

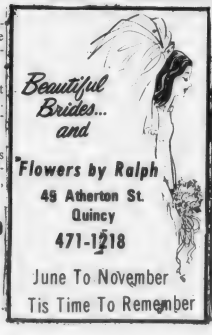
Miss Jennifer Neal Bride Of Bruce Rich In North Quincy

Miss Jennifer Burham Neal and Bruce Bailey Rich were wed Friday at a candlelight double ring ceremony in Atlantic United Methodist Church, Quincy.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold B. Neal, Jr., of 347 East Squantum St., North Quincy, is a graduate of North Quincy High school. She attended Marietta College, Ohio and was graduated magna cum laude from Suffolk University, Boston. She is a member of Delta Alpha Pi honor fraternity and Gamma Sigma Sigma sorority. She is employed by the City Savings Bank of Bridgeport as a personal loan interviewer.



Mr. Rich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Graydon B. Rich of East Hampton, Conn., graduated from East Hampton High School and the University of Bridgeport. He is a member of Alpha Phi Omega fraternity and received the Wall Street Journal Award of 1969. He is an auditor trainee for General Accounting Office in New York City. He will begin Naval officer's training in Newport, R. I., Aug. 23.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an empire princess gown of dotted Swiss trimmed with Venise lace with short sleeves and full train. Her veil of French illusion fell from a cap of Venise lace. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses, shasta daisies and babies' breath with long white streamers.

Serving as matron of honor was Mrs. Walter D. Mathews, Jr. of Tulsa, Okla., who wore a princess gown of yellow dotted Swiss, the waist and colonial sleeves trimmed with yellow and green Venise lace flowers.

Linda McNutt United With Robert Chute

A candlelight double ring service in the Church of the Nazarene, Lowell, united Miss Linda Ruth McNutt of Quincy and Robert Kenneth Chute, Jr., last Saturday evening.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. McNutt of Chelmsford, is a graduate of Lowell High School and attended Eastern Nazarene College. She is employed as a members' representative by Blue Cross and Blue Shield in Boston. Mr. Chute is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Chute, Sr. of 130 Old Colony Ave., Quincy. He graduated from North Quincy High School, Cushing Academy in New Hampshire, and Boston University.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an A-line empire gown of white silk organza, en train, with beaded appliques. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was arranged from a Victorian headdress, and she carried a cascade of roses, carnations and orchids in shades of white and yellow.

Serving as maid of honor for her sister was Miss Judith E. McNutt of Chelmsford, who wore an empire gown of aqua linen, with white lace trim at the bodice, neck and sleeves. She wore a matching headdress and carried a bouquet of yellow roses and carnations.

Identically gowned but carrying bouquets of yellow carnations and daisies were bridesmaids: Miss Sharon L. McNutt and Miss Narlene A. McNutt, of Chelmsford, sisters of the bride, Miss Nancy J. Chute of Quincy, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Philip J. Gillinson of Chelmsford.

Flower girls were Robyn McNutt and Martha McNutt of Chelmsford, sisters of the bride.

Gerald J. Galvin of Quincy was best man.

A reception followed at the Rolling Green Motor Inn, Andover. After a wedding trip to the Pocono Mountains, the couple will reside in Quincy.

Come, Let Us Reason Together

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

'They Waited Too Long'

One of the statements I hear very frequently is this...."I wanted counseling two years ago.... but he wouldn't go." By now the problem may have become cancerous....that does not mean incurable....but deeper measures and longer therapy may be required.

Here is a family of eleven... children ranging in age from five years to twenty. They have been married twenty-two years. Now they are in court and have been referred to the counselor. "Why did you go to court?" I asked. "Because I didn't know where else to go for help," she answered. "Things had become so bad ....I was a nervous wreck....confused....crying all the time.... arguments which get nowhere.... we just can't seem to communicate....the older children are leaving home, one by one, because they get so upset....I asked him to go with me for counseling after the fourth child....but he wouldn't go....I didn't think it would do any good if only I went." Not an unusual story. How can people avoid such unhappiness?

First, she was mistaken in thinking that it would do no good for only her to go for personal help. Very often when one partner benefits from counseling, the relationship improves ....and very often, seeing the improvement, the other partner reasons...."If it does her/him that much good, maybe I can benefit also." Everyone can benefit from counseling....because counseling is really helping a person to better understand himself/herself. I heard Dr. Leslie Weatherhead, minister of City Temple, London, who counseled with great numbers of people during World War II, say in an address to a Yale University Convocation that he had himself been counseled over 900 hours. That's a lot of counseling....he had to understand himself in order to understand and counsel other people. Naturally it is preferable for both partners to go for counseling....but for neither to go because one won't go is a little like saying, "We both need new clothes, but I won't get any because he/she won't go." "Ridiculous," you say....but no more than refusing to get emotionally outfitted oneself because the partner refuses help.

Second, in the above case they waited too long. The marriage had become sick unto death. I hear so often, "If only I had come to you years ago." This was a sex problem....doesn't sound like it with nine children ....but it was....the longer they lived together, the worse it got ....the more resentment built up....the more hurt. One wanted contraception....the other refused...."religious reasons" he said. That which should have been a beautiful and meaningful part of the relationship during the 22 years was an ugly ordeal for both....always leaving each other bitter and remorseful... hateful and hostile....and worst of all years of unhappiness....and five unwanted children.

The third thing about this story is the attitude of the man....a man refusing to seek help is not uncommon among men....we men have been conditioned to believe that we are supposed to be strong....master of all situations....self-sufficient ....that it is weakness to admit that we need help. Don't blame us for this....this was what "being a man" was supposed to mean....we've heard it all our lives. The truth is that there is no one who does not sooner or later have need for help....the banker for a loan or business counsel....the dentist for a dental problem....the Power Squadron for learning to be a good boatsman....the golf pro for shaping up on the fairway. To seek professional help is not a sign of weakness. On the contrary, it is a sign of strength....shows the desire to grow....to overcome the rough edges in our relationships in the family.

The fourth thing that was sad about this story is what the lack of help did to the children. Each of the children now had emotional problems....they had been exposed to so much violence.... the yelling....the tenseness....the fear....now they were having trouble with teachers....rebellious at all authority....little respect for their parents or any other adult. The two older were now having marital difficulty.... the 16-year-old girl was pregnant....the 15-year-old boy had been in juvenile court four times.

The biggest problem of our times is that of relationship.... husbands with wives....parents with children....neighbors with neighbors....whites with blacks ....nations with nations. We have not fully matured until we learn how to live together on the earth....and like it. The time for help is when there are signs of unresolved conflict.

Saturday Masses A Success In Quincy

Saturday evening Masses have proven popular to many Quincy Catholics.

In most of the city's nine Catholic churches, attendance has been "very good" since the Masses began last month., according to a Quincy Sun survey.

The Saturday evening Mass was instituted by Quincy Catholic churches July 5 after Richard Cardinal Cushing granted permission to fulfill Sunday and Holy Day Mass obligations on the day preceding after 4 p.m.

Rev. Thomas J. Croke, pastor of Our Lady of Good Counsel Church, Merrymount, reported that attendance has been "very good" during the summer months usually numbering more than 500 parishioners.

Rev. David T. McGowan, Curate of St. Boniface Church, Germantown noted that the largest attendance is at the 7 p.m. Saturday Mass-outdrawing Sunday Masses.

Similarly Rev. John J. Mc Mahon, pastor of St. Mary's Church, West Quincy and Rev. James P. Hart, pastor of Most Blessed Sacrament, Houghs Neck, have found the Masses " very successful" with large turnouts.

Rt. Rev. Richard Hawko, pastor of Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy offered the Saturday evening Masses a much smaller degree of attendance success. Attendance, he said, has been "so-so", He noted that while the privilege did serve the convenience of the people, he found no marked increase in attendance.

Quincy Catholics will be able to fulfill their Holy Day obligation for Friday's Feast of the Assumption on Thursday, [tonight] at 7 p.m.

Central Baptist Opens Vacation Bible School

Weymouth Fair Opens For One Week Sunday

The Weymouth Fair opens Sunday for a week of events for those of all ages.

Buddy Wagner's famous TV "Lucky Hell Drivers" will stage two shows, 2:30 and 8:30, as a highlight of the Sunday opener.

William E. "Hoot" Gibson, Director of Livestock Exhibits, promises the fair will be "the largest of the agricultural shows in Southeastern Mass."

There will be more than 100 dairy cattle, 90 beef cattle, and more than 300 sheep. Four hundred girls and boys in 4-H activity will be participating. Among the agricultural exhibits will be the Grange Contest and the Garden Club. On Monday and Tuesday, Professor Emeritus Loring V. Tirrell of the University of New Hampshire will be on hand to judge the exhibits.

Kiddies Day will be Tuesday, Aug. 19 beginning at 10 a.m. Children 12 and under will be admitted free during the entire engagement while those 16 and under will be admitted at no cost Tuesday.

Racing Secretary 'Red' Taylor reports approximately 400 thoroughbred horses will be brought in for the daily racing meet. There will be nine races daily and 10 on Saturday. Included is perfecta wagering. Post time is 1:45 p.m.

Governor's Day and Senior Citizens Day will be Thursday Aug. 21.

Among the week's entertainment attractions are: Nardini and Nadyne, an escape artistry act; Jolly Jr., a balancing act; Slivers Johnson and his Black-Dot Taxi; the Shappis and their crazy piano, musical clowns; the Ronnie Lewis Trio, an acrobatic act; and Walter Smiley, organist. Master of Ceremonies will be Bob Nardini.

On Wednesday and Thursday nights the Chessmen will be performing. The group represented Massachusetts in the Jaycee National Battle of the Bands finals and grand finals at Atlantic City, New Jersey.

Police Cafeteria Pickup $48 Service

A full-time bonded messenger may be required by the School Dept. to pick up and deposit school cafeteria receipts.

The service was formerly performed by a Quincy police officer but under the terms of the new police-city wage contract, the pick up would now require extra compensation.

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon was informed following his request to Police Chief Francis X. Finn that a school pick up charge would now amount to $48.

Chief Finn confirmed the fact that the service can no longer be performed free. Each additional day that a pick up was made would involve another $48, according to Chief Finn.

In the past, daily pick ups have been made at Sterling, North Quincy, Central and Atlantic Junior High schools.

In addition, Friday pick ups have been made at Broad Meadows, Quincy Point Junior, Quincy Vocational, Quincy and North Quincy High schools.

Dr. Creedon told Chief Finn that the School Dept. was considering employment of a full-time bonded messenger if the free police service was no longer available.

Wire Reports For July

Quincy wire inspector, William H. Pitts reports that during the month of July, 136 wiring permits, representing wiring costing $361,659, were issued. During the 128 inspections made, 18 defects were noted.

Fees for the permits amounted to $1,422.25.

The major wiring projects for the month were: new additional housing for the elderly for the Quincy Point Congregational Church at 1000 Southern Artery; new five apartment buildings at 23 Branch St. and 90 Quarry St.; new garage for Mobil Oil Co. at 1271 Furnace Brook Parkway; new medical building at 1261 Furnace Brook Parkway; new 24 apartment building at 128 East Squantum St.; and a new 48 apartment building at 353 Sea St.

'Take Me Out To The Ball Game..'

LEADING PARADE from John F. Kennedy Health Center down Whitney Rd. to Quincy Vocational-Technical School to board buses for Red Sox-Seattle Pilots game are pretty Joanne Berrini, Joanne Saluti, Eileen Foley and Carol Christensen. Heading Quincy Police volunteers is Lt. Arthur Shea, Quincy firefighters, city officials, the Boston Fire Department Bank and Little Leaguers also were in line of march.

SOME OF THE more than 3,600 Quincy, Braintree, Randolph youngsters treated to the Red Sox-Seattle Pilots game at Fenway Park by Mayor-Sen. James R. McIntyre are shown at drawing for major league baseballs. Quincy winners were Robert Pettinelli, Richard Koch, Arthur Davies, John Ahern, John Lynch and Jean Casanova. Officials assisting in game arrangements shown in background are Fire Alarms Supt. John Schmock, Fire Chief Edward Barry, School Supt. Lawrence Creedon, School Committeeman Frank Anselmo, Councillor Clifford Marshall, Mrs. Evelyn Fisher, assistant, Mayor McIntyre and Leo Lamb, arrangements coordinator.

YOUNGSTERS ANXIOUSLY wait to board buses at Quincy Vocational-Technical School to take them to Fenway Park as guests of Mayor-Sen. James R. McIntyre, while parents wait to see them off. Fleet of buses numbered 74. Bus escorts included Fire Capt. Joseph Jackson, Patrolman Dennis Cronin and Firefighter Evo Somonte shown in foreground.

The Mayor Did...All 3,600 Of Them

MAYOR and Mrs. James R. McIntyre visit with a rabid Red Sox fan--Richard Cardinal Cushing--before start of game.

SOCK IT TO 'Em Sox, said the sign and the Sox did sock the Seattle Pilots 5-4 with a ninth-inning rally. Helping Mayor McIntyre with the sign and rooting are Ann Donovan, Kathleen Kelley, Kathleen King, Christine Madden, Rosemary Kelley and Valerie Lamb.

BASEBALL IS FOR girls too. And besides, what would a team do without some pretty cheerleaders! The girls enjoyed themselves as much as any Little Leaguer.

LITTLE LEAGUERS from Quincy--some of whom may be tomorrow's big leaguers--get ready for a few diamond tips from their favorite Red Sox heroes.

YOUNG QUINCY FANS ham it up for photographer between innings. It was a day to be young and a day to remember.

IT JUST WOULDN'T be a baseball game without popcorn and there was plenty of munching from the Quincy rooting delagation.

Recreation Roundup

The Quincy Recreation Department's secretary Mrs. David R. Houston, who directs the office operation notes that recreation director William F. Ryan is starting his 15th year as the city's first and only full-time Director of Recreation. During the past 14 years the department has experienced great growth and diversification receiving many national, regional, and local commendations.

Mrs. Houston's summer assistant in the command post, Miss Rosemary Sullivan, is to be congratulated on her September assignment as a fifth grade teacher at the Massachusetts Fields School...Rosemary is also the editor and artist who compiles The Weekly Recreation News which has been so well received throughout the recreation program...congratulations are also extended to former recreation leaders Bob [Gopher] Johnson and John Barkas, recent grooms, who will have to have their withholding forms changed.

In girls' softball, Bayside lost an extra inning game to LaBrecque, but Baysiders Kathy Back, Sharon McGowan, Terry Steen, Elizabeth Lyons, and Cindy Steen are looking forward to their next game...Meanwhile, the senior boys' baseball team reversed the outcome by winning an extra inning game with LaBrecque, 12-9, as Dave Steen relieved pitcher Dave Sullivan to back the heavy hitting of Bob Brill, Chuck Shea, and Jack Clard...Jane Allen, Allerton's leader, reports her group enjoyed their visit to Happy Acres Day Camp as Ricky Tahr did exceptionally well on the trampolene.

Crafts supervisor Roselyn Karli and her specialists Peggy O'Brien and Betty Chase have set up window displays of art and crafts made on the playgrounds...they can be seen this week at the Francis I. DuPont windows at 1 Chestnut St., which houses the chairman of the park and recreation board, James F. McCormick, Sr., who is also a member of the school committee, A group that has been very cooperative to the recreation program.

Action on tennis courts this week is the district tournaments being run by tennis specialist Joyce Chisholm, a recent graduate of the University of Massachusetts, who will be a physical educator in the Chelmsford School System next fall.

Mrs. Louise Garland is hoping for good weather for Thursday, Aug. 14, when "Splash Down 21" will be presented at noon on Wollaston Beach, at the end of Fenno Street. This will be the 21st annual Water Carnival, in which the participants from the department's 14 swimming stations will participate in races, demonstrations of skills, life saving demonstrations, water skiing, skits, and water ballets... assisting Mrs. Garland will be the following swimming instructors: Kathy Mitchell, Karolyn Jay, Betty Poirier, Patty Reddy, Pam Morse, Joy Robbins, Madeline Cashman, Dee Dee Fagerlund, Gretchen Nelson, Kathy Pratt, Pat Foye, Karen Pratt, Sharon Lessard, Pam Quinlan, Karen O'Leary, and Carole Harrington., as well as water ski instructors Maureen Foye, Lee Davis, and Jim Murphy.

Orchard Beach in Squantum has a beginners group of chubby youngsters who call themselves the "Weight Watchers Group"... over on the Furnace Brook Golf Club golf specialist Mike Crismond, assisted by volunteer junior leader Barry Sullivan, lining up boys and girls for the junior and senior golf tournament which will be held at Furnace Brook Aug. 15...on Aug. 18, boys miniature golf finals will be held at the Play-A-Round course on Hancock St. in North Quincy with the girls competing Aug. 19.

Eddie Miller, Boston State student and archery specialist has set Aug. 19 for the bow and arrow finals at Merrymount Park...district competition is being held this week.

Clare Oliverio played the part of Charlies Brown and Donna Caparale as Peppermint Patty in Fore River's parents' night program which, according to the Swamp Fox,featured the weasel and his band...Faxon Park's leader Michele Draicchio doing a great job with crafts and she has some fine results made by Patricia Lessard, Charlene Russo, Donna Mauritson, and Johnny and Kathy Ricardi...boating and sailing supervisor Joe Daley reports the annual Black's Creek nautical day program will be held Aug. 18 from noon to 8 p.m. with special races in rowing and sailing--the new later schedule should enable more parents to participate in the parent-child races, where the child acts as skipper and the parent as the crew, and should provide time for everyone to enjoy a family cook-out. From 9 a.m. to noon youngsters will be working on their floats for their nautical parade, which will be preceded by a sailboat procession spelling out Quincy Recreation which will have television coverage--a big surprise is also planned--could it be a Herb Alpert spectacular or will Black Beard reappear? We wonder if the "Perapola" will be there!! This week is physical fitness week on all of Quincy's 33 playgrounds, with winners of the district junior olympics competing Wednesday morning at the Stadium, under the direction of supervisor General Lionel H. Buckley.

Friday another first for Quincy when the Stadium will be the site of a Pentathlon starting at 10 a.m. This event will be open to Quincy boys and girls six to 18 years of age who wish to test their physical condition and athletic skills and at the same time have some fun. This exciting event is designed to measure a youngster's speed, strength, agility, and endurance in five different activities, such as sit ups, walk and run, pull ups, standing broad jump, push ups, and softball throw. Those interested in competing for a certificate and booklet on fitness should report to the Stadium Friday morning.

Led by pitcher Terry Conroy, Merrymount playground downed O'Rourke 5-4 in junior girls softball game as silent catcher Linda Henry cheered Marie Duggan who caught two fly balls... arm guards were made for archery at Stoney Brae--Michael O'Rourke and Johnny Boudreau did well in this project.

Don Martucci at Wollaston made a paper mache giraffe at the same time as the girls' softball team beat Montclair 20-5 in a practice game--Let's see what happens in the playoffs... Montclair's playground group all wishing Rhonda Zoia good luck in the Jody Jordan contest... Myles Standish has a rhythm band rehearsing to make a recording under the direction of music specialist Robert Foye. Will we hear them at the annual field day program at the stadium? Some of the children in the band actually making their own insturments.

Is it true that Welcome Young playground leader Dan Coughlin has introduced Lacrosse to the program?--This could be another first, just like Happy Acres Day Camp director Earl Vermillion's introduction of Cricket to the camp's program... Richard Kelliher and Peter Fallon, each with 10 points were aided by a winning basket by Paul Kelleher in a sudden-death double overtime junior basketball game for Mass. Fields last week.

Meet The Champs--Again

Emblems To YMCA Sailing Class

The YMCA Sailing camp at Mason's Point, Squantum came to a close with Janet Allen of Squantum defeating Diane Johnson for the Mason Trophy as the outstanding skipper for the three weeks.

Clifford O. Mason who has directed this program for the past 16 years and taught over 1000 boys and girls to sail, presented Janet Allen the trophy and special emblems to all girls who passed the rowing, sailing and knot-tying requirements. Assisting with the program was Henry Willman of the YMCA and Jay MacRitchie, Paul White and Page Fallon.

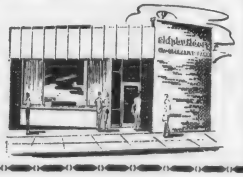
Quincy-North Trackmen Await Facility

The Quincy and North Quincy winter trackmen and fans are vitally interested in the proposed indoor track facility which has been in the making for seven years but sill has not been approve by the Mass. House of Representatives.

The original appropriation was approved seven years ago by Gov. Peabody but the House still had taken no action last week, although it was hoped a decision would be made this week.

The House again postponed action on the bill last week. The bill was voted down last week but a subsequent vote to reconsider the proposal was passed by a slim margin and a third move to kill the bill was foiled, 117-109. The measure has already won Senate approval.



Such a facility, which would be on Soldiers Field road, is a necessity if winter indoor track is to continue.

With Commonwealth Armory and other sites now unavailable, the Met League, largest league in the state, of which Quincy and North are members, was forced to shuttle between Harvard, MIT and Northeastern last winter and the Tri-County League, which includes Hingham, had to run at several sites.

"We definitely need such a facility if winter track is to continue and it is a shame the bill has not passed in all this time," said Bob Gentry, veteran North Quincy coach. "It is difficult to have to go to a different track every week."

The bill is co-sponsored by Quincy Rep. Joseph E. Brett and Rep. Charles Doyle of West Roxbury-Hyde Park.

Lowell Giants Move To Quincy All Set

Unless an unforseen hitch develops, Quincy will move into the football big-time this season with a professional team of its own.

After several huddles with city officials to iron out a few problems, the Lowell Giants–the Boston Patriots farm team– are expected to get the final go-ahead to move to Quincy.

The official "Welcome to Quincy" was expected to be flashed at last night's School Committee meeting.

The School Committee has jurisdiction over Veterans Memorial Stadium where the new Quincy Giants will play their home games in the strong Atlantic Coast Football League.

Mayor James R. McIntyre, School Supt. Larry Creedon, Rudolph Lofgren, assistant supt. of schools in charge of maintenance, Athletic Coordinator Carl Leone, Giants Manager Joe Bellino, Park-Recreation Board Chairman James F. McCormick and Richard J. Koch, executive secretary of the Park-Recreation board met last week to discuss the transfer and clear the way.

The same group plus Giants owner Bob Hotin and members of the Park and Recreation Board attended another meeting Monday in the Mayor's office.

The main concern of the Mayor, according to McCormick, was that the use of the stadium by the Giants would not interfere with the city's school children. All board members at last week's park and recreation board meeting agreed that their prime interest was also the youth of the city.

Among the problems ironed out was the matter of lighting. Although an Atlantic Coast League ruling specifies teams must use permanent lighting, officials bent the rule and voted to allow the Giants to use temporary lighting here.

Another was the question of admissions. A city regulation allows only the high school teams to charge admission to the stadium unless a local group sponsors the games. It was announced a group will sponsor the Giants' contests, thereby getting around that ruling.

However, it was not felt that the team would be allowed to play at the stadium on Friday nights, although the league schedule has been completed for the season with the Giants playing most home games on Friday.

"I don't think the team will be allowed to play Friday nights due to the Quincy and North Quincy High games on Saturday, including several in the morning," said Carl Leone, athletic coordinator for the Quincy schools. "The number one concern of all Quincy officials is the youth of the city and we feel it would be difficult to get the field ready for Saturday games after the Giants play Friday night."

However, with the high school teams not starting until Sept. 20, it was felt the Giants might open their season as scheduled against Roanoke, Va., on Friday, Sept. 5, at the Stadium.

Following the meeting Monday morning of all interested parties at the mayor's office, Mc Cormick who is also a school committeeman, said:

"I think we have the four votes necessary to enable the Giants to move to Quincy."

Veterans Memorial Stadium is used for Saturday games by the Quincy and North Quincy High football teams.

It was the consensus of the board that Saturday night Giant games "would not be too bad" as the field would be in condition for daytime schoolboy games. However, the problem of cleaning up the stadium after the school games was also discussed.

Aug. 22 and Sept. 5, the dates given for the exhibition game and league opener, are both Friday nights.

Koch also said Bellino informed him the Giants would like a practice field in the city and the area beside the Vocational-Technical school was singled out. Koch said the Giants would install their own portable lighting there and that the electricity would be metered to the team.

The big bugaboo, permanent lights at the stadium, was solved when league officials bent a rule and voted to let the Giants use temporary lighting.

The Giants will provide some interesting football for Quincy and South Shore fans.

The Giants are coached by Ross O'Hanley, one of the original Boston Patriots, who now lives in Needham.

The Giants have signed Onree Jackson, highly publicized rookie quarterback recently sent out on waivers by the Patriots and assigned to the taxi squad, enabling him to sign with the Giants.

Others among the 42 men signed by the Giants are Wayne "Speedy" Richardson, Dick Arrington and Pres Johnson. They also are seeking the services of Joe DeVito, former B. C. back who was recently cut by the Denver Broncos.

There will be added Quincy and South Shore interest in the team as John "Butch" Mahoney, former North Quincy High standout and present Scituate High coach, is an assistant backfield coach for the Giants. Bellino also said the team is trying to sign Bob Dee of Braintree, former Patriots standout, as a defensive coach.

HOW CAN YA' LOSE--Bunny Elaine of the Boston Playboy Club and Frank Schettino of Raytheon in Quincy, choose up sides for the upcoming softball charity game Sunday, 2:30 p.m. at Adams Field. Arbiter in this case is Quincy Mayor-Sen. James R. McIntyre, who will umpire the action. The contest will benefit the South Shore Association for Retarded Children Fund of the Wollaston Council, United Commercial Travelers.

City Cites All-Stars

"That the Quincy City Council officially commend the Quincy American League Babe Ruth All-Stars for winning the State Championship, and for their tremendous showing in the New England Championships.

The spirit, desire, and sportsmanship of this team reflect the fine guidance of Manager Mike Gormley and Coaches Dave Mc Millan and Norman Nelson."

Each member of the team will receive a copy of Councillor Marshall's resolve. The members include:

Babe All-Stars Lose N.E. Title Bid

The Quincy Babe Ruth All-Stars, Massachusetts State champs were defeated and eliminated in the third round of the New England Regional Babe Ruth Tournament.

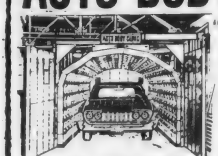
They lost to New Hampshire 5-0.

Quincy tapped the abilities of three pitchers, Mark Whelton, Bob Malvesti, and Steve Cannon, but to no avail. Both teams played an errorless game. Quincy got two hits while allowing New Hampshire six.

The game was an elimination bout since each team had suffered one defeat in the double-elimination tournament. Quincy lost its first game to Connecticut but came back to defeat Vermont 1-0 on a triple and an error in the ninth inning with two outs.

The New England champions, the Rhode Island team, will now move into national competition at Matoon, Ill.

Rep. Brett Host To 500 At Fenway Park Aug. 28



Some 500 Quincy youngsters will be guests of Rep. Joseph E. Brett of Quincy at the Red Sox-Kansas City Royals game at Fenway Park, Thursday afternoon, Aug. 28.

This is the 13th consecutive year that Brett has been host to a large group of children at a Red Sox game. The annual event has become popularly known as "Joe Brett's Baseball Day".

No charge is made to the youngsters. All costs of admission and transportation to and from the game are assumed by Rep. Brett. Ten buses comprise the fleet to transport the children to the park and home again.

While no charge is made, each child is asked to make a voluntary contribution to the "Jimmy Fund" for crippled children. As a result of the youngsters' generosity, the "Jimmy Fund" receives a check for $100 each year from Rep. Brett.

Pentathlon Test Friday For Youths

For the first time, the Quincy Recreation Department, in conjunction with Physical Fitness Week, will stage a pentathlon at Veterans Memorial Field tomorrow [Friday] at 10 a.m.

According to Recreation Director William F. Ryan, boys and girls, 6 to 16 years of age, who are Quincy residents, are eligible to participate.

Sponsored by the Amateur Athletic Union and the Quaker Oats Company, and locally by the First National Stores, the events includes a test of ability in several skills - sit-ups, walk and run, pull-ups, standing broad jump, push-ups, and softball throw for distance.

Distinguished certificates of achievement and participation will be awarded to each boy and girl who enters. Packets including a booklet on physical fitness will also be presented.

In addition, every entrant will be eligible to participate in an attendance drawing for sports equipment at the end of the event.

Students Enroll At Wentworth

Six students from Quincy have been accepted for admission to Wentworth Institute in Boston for the 1969-70 academic year according to an announcement by Dr. H. Russell Beatty, Wentworth president.

Wentworth, which trains industrial and engineering technicians in a 2-year program leading to an Associate degree in Engineering or in Applied Science, is the largest accredited and endowed institute in the United States. The institute maintains a Curriculum Center for technical educators and schools in the U. S. to provide latest course date and trends as a result of a $500,000 grant from Ford Foundation.

The students are Edward M. Arnold, 40 Upton St., Quincy, graduate of Quincy High School, accepted to Electrical Engineering Technology;

John F. Grazioso, 566 Washington St., Quincy, graduate of Quincy High School, accepted to Building Construction Technology;

John F. O'Brien, 18 Narragansett Rd., Quincy, graduate of Sacred Heart High School, Weymouth, accepted to Electronic Engineering Technology;

Michael A. Pilla, 30 Summer St., Quincy, graduate of Quincy High School, accepted to Electronic Technology;

Ronald P. Pollara, 76 Plymouth St., Quincy, graduate of Quincy High School, accepted to Electrical Engineering Technology; and James D. Shea, Jr., 1413 Furnace Brook Parkway, West Quincy, graduate of Thayer Academy, Braintree, accepted to Civil & Highway Engineering Technology.

'Y' Slo-Pitch Tourney Opens

The Quincy YMCA Slo-pitch Softball tourney, which attracted 22 teams, including 13 from Quincy, got underway Monday night with two games. Two more first round games were played Tuesday and the opening round was completed last night with another pair of games. All action is at Rotary Field.

In Monday's openers Alumni Cafe defeated Villa Rosa 12-2, while Mr. Kelly's trounced the Braintree Stars 25-5.

Tuesday's results were: Sagamore Club, 12, Wholey Sports Club, 8; Bersani Brothers, 12, Wells Grill, 8.

With 22 teams accepted instead of the planned 16, the other 10 entries received first round byes in order to bring the total down to the 16 for second round play.

Junior Olympics

Quincy's 33 playgrounds' participants competed yesterday [Wednesday] in the Annual Recreation Department's Annual Novice Junior Olympics at Veterans Memorial Field.

The winners in each of the City's five playground districts competed for All-City honors in running races and novelty races for boys and girls 6 to 16.

The event was a special program in conjunction with the Recreation Department's Physical Fitness Week.

Race Week Gets Under Full Sail

Quincy Bay Race Week is scheduled to continue under full sail today as the 32nd annual oceanic spectacular left the racing mark at Wessagussett Yacht Club yesterday.

Opening day host was Town River Yacht Club Commodore Sigurd Erickson. The large craft went past the outside starting line and the smaller craft the inside mark at 1:30 p.m.

Afternoon racing is scheduled to resume today at Wessagussett with Commodore Robert Mansfield hosting the day's events.

Competition will switch to the Wollaston Yacht Club tomorrow [Friday] with Commodore Alfred Neret, host skipper. The small boats will leave the inside line at 1:30 p.m. at the Squantum Yacht Club.

Social lions will roar during land-based festivities on Rendezvous Night Saturday at Town River Yacht Club. An evening of dancing will be enjoyed by sail and power boat crews, families and friends. Booster tickets will be required for admission.

A bevy of activities on Sunday will be highlighted by the Marine Parade, starting at 1:30 p.m. from the Town River Yacht Club. Heading the fleet parade will be Doug Haskins, chief marshal and Charles Romano, chairman. Registration will be conducted from 8 a.m. to noon at Town River.

Commodore Al Shaughnessy will host the day's races at the Squantum Yacht Club. The inside line will assemble at the Wollaston Yacht Club.

Sunday's competition will feature challenges for the Boston Bermuda Cup and the Harry Warner Memorial Trophy. Starting time is 10:30 a.m.

Adding to the colorful salt water activities will be the marathon swimming races for men and women's divisions at 1:30 p.m. off Squantum Yacht Club.

Legislators In Softball Tilt Vs. Shipbuilders

The General Dynamics Athletic Club will sponsor a double header at Rotary Field, Quincy, Saturday. At 5 p.m. the G.D.A.C. Girls softball team called the 'Shipbuilders' will play a team the 'Gillette Razors'.

This will be followed by a game between the Officers of the G.D.A.C. and a team of Senators and Representatives from the State House, Heading the Senatorial group will be Quincy Mayor James McIntyre along with Ronald MacKenzie of Burtington and Joseph DeCarlo of Revere.

Summer Course Enrichment At Beechwood School Center

Summer learning programs at the Beechwood Knoll School will be evaluated in September in order to establish future programs based on progress achieved in numerous learning experiences during the past four seasons.

The Title One Summer Learning Center has been in operation to include seven schools and focuses on remedial programs, motivations and innovated teaching methods.

Progress evaluations will be reported to Quincy School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon and school principals by center director Leo D. McKillop and staff members.

Seven schools have been included in the summer program. They are Great Hill, Snug Harbor, Daniel Webster, John Hancock, St. John's, St. Joseph's and St. Mary's.

Subject areas for the children who are bussed to the Beechwood Knoll School are reading, language, mathematics, art, music, recreation and health classes.

Courses in health, first aid and personal hygiene have implemented the program this year.

Program objectives are:

1] To diagnose learning difficulties in reading, language and mathematics.

2] To identify learning style through the use of a multi-media approach in order to make use of the most effective learning implements.

3] To determine the best means of pupil motivation.

4] To experiment with different teaching methods in order to determine the most effective individual approaches.

Recreational projects involved at the center have included archery, tennis, badminton, golf, softball, basketball, gymnastics and swimming.

Dramatic experiences have also been achieved through pupil trips to South Shore Music Circus productions. Guided tours have also been taken to the Bostom Museum of Science.

An overnight camping experience featured a trip to Pageant Field. Activities were coordinated with the Quincy Recreation Dept. and provided boating and sailing.

The final class tour was a trip to the new Boston Aquarium on Monday.

QUINCY RESIDENT Henry McAuliffe [right] was runnerup for the Men's Senior Singles championship at the recent fifth annual New Boston Open Tennis Tournament, co-sponsored by H. P. Hood and Sons Physical Fitness Program and the Committee for Greater Tennis Activity. Herbert Gray of Melrose [left] was the winner. They received their trophies from committeeman Titus Sparrow

When you're dealing with the intricacies of smaller electrical appliances, it's assuring to know that in Quincy there's a place to head where you can receive dependable and experienced repair service.

That destination is Hussey Radio and Vacuum, 23 Billings Rd., North Quincy. The store, owned by, recently-retired, Bob Hussey, is now being maintained by his son, Jack. With this continuity of ownership is also a continuity of experience. Father Bob established his own business in its present location some 47 years ago and has been around electrical appliances his entire lifetime. His son has been working in the store now for three years, but naturally had accumulated additional experience as his father's apprentice, prior to his assuming the store's management.

Hussey Radio and Vacuum will fix any kind of radio and vacuum, even, as Bob Hussey termed it, "ancient ones". In addition these craftsmen work on irons, toasters, and other small electrical appliances.

The repair shop also has a complete line of Electrolux parts, and sells a variety of vacuum cleaners.

Another attractive feature of Hussey Radio is the fact that it has all parts on hand needed for the repairing of all types of vacuum cleaners. Since the parts are kept in the store, Jack Hussey can offer fast, dependable service backed up by expert experience.

One can readily observe that older electrical appliances seem to have been "made better" And as this trend will more than likely continue, the need for fine repair services has increased. The place to turn in all instances is North Quincy's Hussey Radio

RAYMOND P. JOSEPHINE

Remick's of Quincy, announces the appointment of Raymond P. Josephine Jr. as buyer of Men's Clothing and Sportswear.

Josephine, appointed July 1, 1969, resides at 62 House Rock Rd., in East Wemouth.

Mr. Josephine was formerly a salesman of men's clothing in in Remick's and has been with the company for the past 22 years.

FRANCIS X. MC CAULEY

Francis X. McCauley, president of the Shipbuilders Cooperative Bank of Quincy is attending the Graduate School of Savings and Loan and Cooperative Banking at the University of Indiana, Bloomington, Ind.

It is the second year Mr. Mc Cauley had attended the session in which senior savings and loan cooperative bank executives in the U. S. are participating.

Those participating must attend a two weeks course each year for three years.

RUSSELL F. JOHNSON

Russell F. Johnson of Quincy has joined the sales staff of Sam Hootstein and Sons, Inc., of Boston, manufacturers of sport coats and "Wingflite" rainwear.

Mr. Johnson was formerly men's clothing and sportswear buyer for Remick's of Quincy, and has been in menswear retailing for the past 23 years. As a sales representative of Sam Hootstein and Sons, he will be traveling in the New England area.

A director of Quincy Rotary Club, Mr. Johnson is a member of Quincy Centre United Methodist Church, Stenkil Lodge 92 Independent Order of Vikings, The South Shore Viking Association, Lodge Skandia 82, Vasa Order of America, and the Norfolk County Sheriffs Association.

Following the 1955 polio epidemic, he served 2 years as city chairman for the March of Dimes campaign, and two years as Norfolk County chairman. Mr. Johnson was appointed to the board of managers of Quincy City Hospital in 1963 for a two-year term, and in 1965 and again the following year served as general chairman of the Ecumenical Prayer Breakfast for Men, sponsored annually by the South Shore Council of Churches.

Committee Appointed For Review Of Mayor's Salary

A five-member blue-ribbon committee to review the mayor's salary schedule and recommend an appropriate increase has been appointed by City Council president J. Vincent Smyth.

Appointment of the mayor's salary review committee was approved at the last regular City Council meeting in June at the recommendation of Councillor Arthur H. Tobin, ordinance committee chairman.

The following committee has been designated by Smyth, to submit new salary recommendations to the ordinance committee by the middle of September.

The Rev. Ernest H. Hayhow, 176 Bellvue Rd., Squantum; Clifton E. Sommers, a labor official, 86 Sachem St., Wollaston; Joseph Whiteman, business man, 119 Reservoir Rd., Wollaston; Dr. Walter A. Ciani, orthopedic surgeon, 109 Munroe Rd., Quincy and Joseph T. Wood, attorney, 215 South Central Ave., Wollaston.

Wood was appointed chairman of the committee, Councillor Smyth said.

The recommendations are expected to establish a new salary base for future city chief executives. The recommendations will be submitted to ordinance committee chairman Tobin for study by all nine City Councillors who comprise the committee.

In submitting his proposal to the Council in June, Tobin stressed that the present salary for the city's top administrative office was far too low for the responsibility involved in managing a $35 million municipal corporation.

Firefighters Clambake Aug. 17

Quincy Firefighters Local 792 will hold its annual clambake Aug. 17 in Romuva Park at the Brockton-Holbrook line, starting at 11 a.m.

Highlight will be a New England style clambake featuring barbecued chicken, baked lobster, clam chowder and steamed clams.

Contest events for the day will include softball, golf, horse shoes, egg throwing and volley ball.

Local President John R. Menz Jr. said the bake is open to the public but will maintain its "for men only" tradition. Tickets are now available at the various fire stations throughout the City.

The committee included Lt. John DiPietro, Lt. Nick Malvesti, Lt. Bruno Carloni and Firefighter Robert Curtin, who is local vice-president.

MBTA Major Factor

City-Wide Traffic Survey To Prevent 1970's 'Nightmare'

A comprehensive city-wide traffic survey is sought by Mayor James R. McIntyre to prevent snarling of Quincy streets in the growth-peak 1970's.

The Mayor has filed an application to have the survey carried out under a federal-state program and expects approval in the near future.

The survey--including a study of the need for more off-street parking and the feasibility of a Shoppers Mall in the downtown area--is motivated by the MBTA rapid transit extension to Quincy and Braintree.

"Traffic patterns in the city no doubt will have to be substantially changed because of the coming of the MBTA," Mc Intyre said.

MBTA stations in North Quincy and North Braintree will bring considerably more traffic through the city, he predicted.

"We have got to plan now for an orderly flow of traffic or we could have a real nightmare on our hands in the 1970's," Mc Intyre declared.

The survey, he said, would scientifically determine the possible need for, among other things:

--Additional roads.
--New signal devices.
--A network of one-way streets in the downtown area.
--More off-street parking in the downtown area.

The Mayor said the survey would also determine the traffic feasibility of creating a shopper's mall along Hancock St. in the downtown business area.

McIntyre said Quincy is one of eight Greater Boston communities selected to participate in the TOPICS program, a new federal program for highway safety and other improvements to urban areas.

The program is financed by federal funds and carried out under the state Department of Public Works.

"As Quincy's first part in the program, we are seeking the traffic survey and indications are that our application will be approved," the Mayor said.

Signs To Be Posted For Park Crackdown

Quincy's parks will soon be posted with signs to allow police to legally crack down on nighttime nuisances that frequently plague residential areas.

Mayor James R. McIntyre will ask for bids on the metal signs which will read:

"Open Daily One Hour Before Sunrise To One Hour After Sunset--Police."

Ward 4 City Councillor Albert R. Barilaro who introduced a council resolve for the signs said:

"This will put teeth into the city ordinance that stipulates the hours the parks are to be open. Now, with the parks posted, police will have no legal problem enforcing the ordinance, to rout violators from the parks at night. The signs will legally warn nighttime intruders that they have no right to be in the parks."

Barilaro said residents living near the parks have suffered many annoyances from the park invaders. Complaints, he said, have ranged from plain noise, to drinking and more serious offenses.

"It's so bad in some areas, residents can't even sit out in their own backyard at night," Barilaro said.

Cemetery Memorial Planned For W. Quincy War Heroes

A special memorial honoring more than 38 West Quincy residents killed in action in four wars is planned for the new City Cemetery.

Mayor James R. McIntyre has requested the Cemetery Board to dedicate an area in the veterans section of the cemetery.

Names of the West Quincy residents killed in World War I, World War II, the Korean War and Vietnam War will be inscribed on a granite memorial in the center of a 400-graves veterans section. The area already has a flag pole.

The Mayor said he is making the recommendation as the result of a proposal to name the new MDC Little League field near the Shea Skating Rink in memory of Sgt. Robert A. Curry, killed in World War II.

The names of a number of other West Quincy war dead were also suggested for the honor.

"Because of this," said Mayor McIntyre, "we have decided to propose the memorial at the cemetery for all West Quincy residents killed in the four wars."

The Mayor noted that the new cemetery in an appropriate site for the memorial because it is located in the West Quincy area of the Blue Hills.

The Veterans Department has submitted 38 names of the known World War II, Korean and Vietnam War dead and is now researching names of those who gave their lives in World War I.

The names of the fallen West Quincy heroes of the other three wars are:

WORLD WAR II: Sooren Alemian, Keith A. Burg, Robert A. Curry, Forest L. Darbley, Jr.,

Committee To Plan City Salute To Legion

A special committee has been named by Mayor James R. Mc Intyre to plan a city-wide observance of the 50th anniversary of the American Legion.

The observance will coincide with Veterans Day–Nov. 11.

Alan Kofman, commander of the Quincy Veterans Council, will serve as committee chairman. Members, all commanders of Legion posts located in Quincy, are:

Serposs Dental Clinic Seeks Replacement For Dr. Mandel

The Board of Managers of the Serposs Dental Clinic is seeking a staff dentist to replace the late Dr. Isidore B. Mandel.

Dr. Mandel died Aug. 8 at Beth Israel Hospital.

He was hired in September, 1968 to treat the residents of Houghs Neck at the free clinic in the basement of the Atherton Hough School. Since the clinic opened in October of 1968, Dr. Mandel had treated more than 450 patients.

The clinic closed for the summer June 30, and was scheduled to reopen on Sept. 2. Those patients who have already scheduled appointments for September will be advised by telephone of their status. No further appointments will be accepted until the status of the clinic as ascertained.

Cole Candidate For Councillor At-Large Post

Herbert F. Cole of 86 Old Colony Ave., Wollaston has announced his candidacy for Quincy Councillor-at-Large.

A resident of Quincy since 1931, Cole is a state auctioneer and appraiser. He is a member of the Massachusetts State Auctioneer Association, Board of Directors, the Quincy Citizens Association, the Wollaston American Legion Post 295, and the Norfolk County Sheriff's Associates, Inc.

Cole has been president of the Wollaston Business and Professional Association for the past three years. He is a 25-year member of the Quincy Lodge of Elks, and is presently serving as junior councillor of United Commercial Travelers.

A veteran of the U. S. Navy, he is also a former member of Local 25 International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, and Warehousemen of America.

In a campaign statement, Cole said:

"As a businessman for 20 years, I feel I am qualified by knowledge and experience to serve the Quincy taxpayers diligently and responsibly. In order to accomplish this, it is my conviction that a canditate for Councillor-at-Large should not hold more than one political office. If elected, it is my intention to devote my attention to the single office for which I am now a candidate.

SAY, are you a "highway turtle". If you are, you're part of a growing major traffic hazard--especially around New England tourist areas.

The Automobile Legal Association defines "highway turtles" as drivers who creep along the highways at speeds far below the posted limits.

"They are particularly hazardous on the narrow, winding, two-lane roads in the mountains and in the heavily-traveled coastal regeions," says the ALA.

'By causing traffic to pile up behind them, they frustrate many motorists with the result that some motorists take unsafe chances in passing and then speeding to make up for lost time."

Army Reserve Units May Quit Merrymount

The Army Reserve installation at Merrymount Park-a source of irritation to city officials in recent months–may be relocated in the Cohasset area.

Mayor James R. McIntyre was informed this week by Sen. Edward W. Brooke, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and Congressman James A. Burke that the Army is attempting to acquire facilities at the Naval Ammunition Depot in Cohasset.

The 187th Support Battalion and 187th Infantry Brigade are the two Army Reserve units.

Mayor McIntyre has complained to top Army officials that the reserves have been creating a nuisance in the Merrymount Park Area.

Cars, he said, have marred grassy areas in the park and soldiers have ignored the city's ban on nighttime activities in the nearby park areas.

"They've just created a general mess," the Mayor said.

In a letter to the Mayor, Senator Brooke said:

"The Army is presently attempting to acquire facilities at the Naval Ammunition Depot in Cohasset and, if successful, the relocation could well be in that area, hence reducing overcfowded conditions and traffic in Quincy."

Gino Marini Elected President Of North Quincy Business Assn.

Gino Marini, of Fashion Quality Cleaners, North Quincy, was elected president of the North Quincy Business and Professional Association at Tuesday evening's meeting.

Other officers elected were, Andrew Walsh, Walsh's Restaurant, vice-president; and Joseph Doran, Doran and Horrigan Insurance Center, treasurer, Mr. Doran is outgoing president.

The meeting focused on present and proposed North Quincy development outlined by area businessmen and officials of the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce. Information was presented concerning contemplated roadways, apartment buildings, and the State Street South complex.

A model of the North Quincy MBTA station with details on access roads, on-ramps, and the numbers of businesses and people to be affected was displayed.

New Evening Courses Listed At Quincy Junior College

Quincy Junior College is offering five new Community Educational Services courses in the fall of 1969. The courses are evening classes and are non-credit.

Registration for the courses will be held Sept. 8-9-10 from 7 to 9 p.m.

The courses, which will start Sept. 15, are:

A 12-week course, costing $25, $30 for non-residents, will be offered in Creative Writing. The course is for both beginners and those with some writing experience. The course will sharpen skills in short stories, poetry, magazine articles or the novel. There is a limited enrollment. Instructor will be Robert G. Hoddeson, a graduate of Williams College who attended Columbia University. He recently completed writing a novel, "The Sun At Noon". In addition to writing stories for magazines and newspapers, he is engaged in public relations work and has taught creative writing courses in Exeter, New Hampshire and Boston.

The second new course, offered for ten weeks and costing $16, $20 for non-residents is Modern Russia. The course will introduce the complexities of the Russian culture and way of life. Ideas from many disciplines - history, political science, literature, will be examined by means of readings and discussion. Instructor Edward J. Tumavicus has been associated with the college for the past seven years as a member of the History Government Department.

A 10-week course, Introduction to Franchising, is designed for those interested in purchasing a franchise on contemplating expansion of business through franchising. Emphasis is placed on discussing the legal, financial, marketing, and management problems in creating a francise system. The course, costing $25, $30 for non-residents, is taught by Dr. Ronald M. Stone, a partner in the Stone and Barron Law Firm. He is also president of the Franchise Consultants, Inc. of Boston.

Miss Patricia A. Glancy, a data processing instructor at the Quincy Vocational Technical School, will offer a 12-week course, in Cobol Programming. Tuition is $30, $35 for non-residents, per semester. The two semester course is for the student with at least a fundamental knowledge of computer programming. The course covers the detailed descriptions of the four COBOL divisions.

The final new course, entitled "Trends in Zoning and Land Use Planning", is a six-week series of discussions designed to broaden the knowledge of interested citizens, land developers, and public officials in the fundamentals and current trends in zoning and land use planning. Tuition will be $5, $10 for non-residents. Instructing the course is David Myers, former Quincy City Planning Director now a self-employed planning consultant in Boston. The course was suggested, as a public service, by School Committeeman Paul C. Kelly, who was formerly a member of the Quincy Planning Board.

Come, Let Us Reason Together

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

'You Can Change Too'

When two people get married there is an implied fact that they must change from their single ways of life to a new united life....which we call MARRIAGE. There are some people who seem to want to continue their "single life" ways and get the benefits of the "married life" ways. This is naive. You must decide which state you really want....to be single....or to be married. You can't indefinitely have it both ways. Adjustment time....yes, of course....but sooner or later you must decide ....your partner will insist that you do....and rightly so.

Some things just do not fit into a happy married relationship. Temper fits ....for example. Some men seem especially vulnerable...like the little kid that screams and falls on the floor and kicks to get his way. You can change this sort of thing if you decide to.

You can change your drinking habits which are spoiling your marriage relationship. The Number One Drug problem in our society is not marijuana.... not LSD....not speed....not heroin....it's the drug alcohol which is breaking up marriages....killing thousands on the highways.... causing industrial accidents. You can change your drinking habits if you decide to. As one man said recently.... "It's spoiling my relationship with my wife....I'm going to change it before any more harm is done." He did. You can change too if you decide to.

One woman who had punished her husband by withholding her affection for a long time said to me...."I've decided to warm up....this other way hasn't gained a thing....I'm losing and he's losing." She changed abruptly and their marriage was restored. You can change too. But you must decide to.

One young husband who was still acting like a teen-ager with his late hours.... motorcycle.... and bachelor friends....decided "to change all this....I know now what I really want," he said. A lovely young woman 30 pounds overweight said...."This is ridiculous....I'm destroying myself.... I'm going to change this." She did...took off 4 pounds per week this summer.

These are examples of people who saw before it was too late the folly of following a stubborn....rigid...."do it my own way" pattern of life. Three things happened to enable these people to change....

First, they came to terms with reality. As Jesus used to say, "They came to their senses." The millions of people who have quit smoking have come to terms with scientific fact that they were flirting with cancer. Whatever is blocking your happiness and fulfillment in life.... come to terms with reality. Think. Think rationally. See things as they really are.

Secondly, know what you want in life. You must know in order to determine what course to follow to get what you want. Set up your priorities. Good things can stand in the way of your greatest desire. We do what we want to do. Decide to put first things first. In marriage top priority must go to pleasing each other.

Thirdly, get with it. Stop excusing yourself with earlier life limitations.... "my mother didn't love me"...."my father was never around"...."I was the middle child...."the boss had it in for me"....these are excuses for failure to make the changes in your life which you say you want. We usually do what we want to do.

Stop playing games with your life....start loving yourself. You're missing too much by blindly following old patterns.... get "unhooked" from the old ways which destroy you. You can change too....when you decide to change.

Ave Maria Council 1535, West Quincy, will stage its annual clambake at Drinkwater Grove, Randolph, on Sunday. Chowder will be served continuously from noon under the direction of bakemaster Tedo Gaudiano.

Committee for the 59-year-old Council's annual festivity under the direction of Grand Knight Timothy Donovan, includes:

Alfred Morris, Edward Curry, Babe Aridenti, Robert Montgomery, Alfred Montani, Joseph Flaherty, John M. Gillis and Joseph Shea.

The rain or shine event will include sporting events highlighted by softball and horseshoe contests.

Nursing Home Post For Quincy Native

Paul S. Mahoney of Forbes Rd., Milton, has been appointed Assistant Executive Director of the Massachusetts Federation of Nursing Homes.

Born in Quincy, he graduated from Boston College High School and received his B.S. in Business Administration from Boston College. He has completed special work in the arts and sciences at Boston College Graduate School.

Mr. Mahoney was formerly associated with the Jordan Marsh Company and the Quincy City Hospital.

38 Students Aided By Elks Assn.

The Massachusetts Elks Scholarship, Inc., a corporate subsidiary of the Massachusetts Elks Association, has announced the granting of $15,200 in no-interest loans to 33 Massachusetts college students to aid in the costs of tuition and living expenses.

In addition, another $3,000 has been awarded in outright grants to another five deserving students.

Representative Joseph E. Brett, Quincy, current president of the Massachusetts Elks Association, is a member ex officio of the board of directors of the scholarship fund.

'Picnic In Park' For Senior Citizens Aug. 28

A Picnic in the Park, for Quincy Senior Citizens, will be held Thursday, Aug. 28, from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. at Pageant Field, Merrymount Park sponsored by the Quincy Federation of Senior Citizens.

Mrs. William Wolf, president of the Federation, is general chairman.

The day's program will feature box lunches, to be brought by those attending, various recreational activities and entertainment. Refreshments will also be available.

Recreational equipment is being supplied by William F. Ryan, Quincy Recreational Department director.

Final plans for the event will be made at the meeting of the federation to be held at the Kennedy Health Center, 1120 Hancock St., Friday at 10:30 a.m.

Senior citizens of Quincy planning to attend the picnic are requested to present their official senior citizens identification card. These may be obtained at the Quincy Council on Aging Office located in the Kennedy Health Center. Any resident of Quincy 60 years old and over is eligible to apply for the card.

Classes For Homemakers At Health Center Sept. 3

A class for homemaker recruits will begin Wednesday, Sept. 3, at the John F. Kennedy Health Center. The course, consisting of nine sessions, from 7 to 9 p.m. is sponsored by the Homemaker Services for the South Shore, Inc.

The course is offered to mature adult women or men whose families have grown and have either full or part time available to give to Homemaker Service.

These trained people will aid in a home when sickness occurs, allowing those who work to report to their jobs. In addition, they can help out older people, who are not able to manage entirely by themselves, to enjoy their own homes longer.

Those interested in the program can receive further information from Homemaker Services for the South Shore, 1359 Hancock St., 773-1180.

Mayor Lauds Nixon Proposal To Share All Tax Revenues

President Nixon's proposal to share federal tax revenues with cities and states has won the endorsement of Mayor James R. McIntyre.

In backing Nixon's revenue-sharing plan, McIntyre noted that "Unless aided through a consistent and realistic program of federal financial compensation for their ever-mounting expenses, the cities face a future of constantly-raising taxes of all types."

McIntyre tied in the Nixon move with his own plan to reinstitute the Massachusetts local aid fund, now abolished.

"Perhaps, when in the next legislative session I move to reinstitute the local aid fund, the example of President Nixon's precedent will move the Governor and will sway enough votes in the legislature to recommit the Commonwealth to its responsibility to aid our hard-pressed municipalities and the overburdened taxpayers and homeowners of Massachusetts."

In citing the Nixon move, McIntyre said:

"President Nixon is to be commended for acknowledging the responsibility of the federal government to come to the aid of cities and states in their fiscal plight, and for taking this step toward stemming the spiralling tax rates of state and local governments. Although the one billion dollars recommended by the President for the first year is fully inadequate, there is some cause to believe that, under the President's program, the federal reimbursement funds would increase steadily in the coming years. I would hope, however, that both the President and the Congress will move to increase the reimbursement for the first year, but this concept of revenue-sharing is nonetheless a crucial step forward."

Mayors Combat Kidney Disease

Mayor Monte Basbas of Newton, state chairman of the Massachusetts Mayors' Spirit of Sixty-Nine campaign against kidney disease has reported 100% participation by the chief executives of the 39 cities in the Commonwealth.

The state chairman praised Quincy Mayor James R. McIntyre, "For the dedication, enthusiasm and cooperation which he has displayed in this humanitarian drive. I am confident that the combination of Mayoral leadership and civic spirit manifested by the citizens of our cities will enable us to reach our ambitious $200,000 goal."

The campaign goal of $200,000 to provide artificial kidney machines in regional hospitals and centers throughout Massachusetts and to train sufficient medical personnel to operate them on a round-the-clock basis is expected to be reached by mid-September, target date for the unique sixty-nine-day drive.

Principal goal is to save the lives of 200 Massachusetts victims of kidney failure who will die this year if they do not receive artificial kidney treatments, and subsequent kidney transplants.

Each Mayor is expected to raise a community quota of $5,200, with contributions coming from sixty-nine cent donations mailed to local city halls by interested citizens.

It was also revealed that many Mayors are planning to sponsor special gift meetings.

The climax of the drive will be a final report luncheon for Mayors at the Monticello Restaurant in Framingham, sponsored by owner, Caesar Tamango, on Thursday, Sept. 11.

Mac FARLAND

IN BUSINESS SINCE 1882, J. MacFarland and Son, Inc. offers a complete line of hardware, housewares, paint, and gardening supplies. A member of the fourth generation of MacFarland's, is Bob Mac Farland who has been in the business since 1957, who says that 60% of his business comes from female customers.

J. MacFarland and Son, Inc., is a family business in the truest sense of the word. The store has been in existence since 1882 at its present location of 11 Brook St., Wollaston, and has gone through four generations of MacFarlands. Working for the family-owned corporation at the present time is Bob MacFarland, who has been in the store since 1957. However, the omnipresence of the business did not escape him before that year and his experience can be traced back to the days of his youth.

MacFarland's offers its shoppers a wide variety of hardware, housewares, and gardening materials. In fact the latest figure estimates as many as 20,000 items.

The store is a dealer of Scott's gardening products, but also has a complete garden shop with Ortho chemicals, Ames' garden tools, and other equipment for the home outdoors.

MacFarland's is also an exclusive Packard Paint dealer. They are distributors of Miller's Falls tools, aluminum roof drainage products and aluminum shutters.

A large number of housewares are also available to MacFarland customers. Brand names to be found on the store's shelves include Pyrex, Corningware, and Rubbermaid. In the home cleaning department, the store runs the gamut from upholstery cleaners to floor waxes.

A special feature of MacFarland and Son is the sale, installation, and repair of glass and screening.

Nowadays, more and more people are doing things themselves with their own materials. And the same is the case with America's women. With the ease today's products offer a once burdensome job, an increasing number of women are taking on the challenge of home repairs, painting, and gardening.

With such a move to "do-it-yourselfness", a fine store such as MacFarlands is well appreciated.

HOUSE CALL

By Dr. Charles Djerf
Pediatrician

A Visit To The Dentist

Today our article will be of particular interest to the parent of small children and their anticipated visit to the Dentist. My own recollection of such visits is not a pleasant one and to this day I am apprehensive, but go just the same. It is obviously much easier to go to a pediatrician than to a Dentist-wouldn't you admit? [Yes, despite the universal horror of a needle].

A recent study at the Tufts Dental School may interest you. The investigation was made because of the painful, stressful, disagreeably exciting expectation of a visit to the dentist. Hence a study to see what might lessen or minimize visits of small children. The investigators had an older child in attendance, reasoning that sibling rivalry might influence behavior. [sibling rivalry is the natural rivalry that exists between two kids close or succeeding in order in a family, regardless of sex]. The rivalry apparently was not a factor in the results.

Favorable results were seen in three phases in young patients with parent or sibling present.

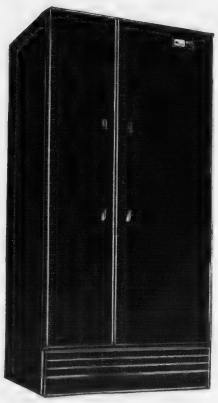
1. Entering the room for the first time.
2. Getting cavities prepared and filling the cavity.

Here's the startling result! Studying in the three to five year siblings-the four year old profited most from an older sibling [brother or sister] present. Furthermore this improvement lasted with subsequent visits. It can not be concluded that sibling rivalry or sex was the significant factor in this observation.

Note this: A three year old preferred his mother over a sibling. The presence of the sibling influenced the three year old very little. Other requirements for this study included the following:

A. Younger children observed all proceedings of the examination of an older sibling prior to his own examination.

B. During the examination of the younger child-the older one remained in the waiting room.



C. Each procedure and the instruments used were described in full to the younger child.

CONCLUSION: Encouraging the attendance in dental operations of an older brother or sister in the age group four to five can effectively provide favorable response and better acceptance of dental procedures, and with mother in the three year old group.

Now I learn about this! But then my nearest sibling was five years older. The Prussian attitude of the day was take it and don't complain, and the dentist of that era was just as hard-boiled, Everything was done without anesthesia, and if I'd squawk he'd belt me one. Yikes! What a nightmare a dentist's visit was then! [I hope it will be better from now on.]

DID YOU EVER TRY TO FIND YOUR DENTIST AT NIGHT OR ON THE WEEKEND!!!!

MDC Praised In Obtaining New City Culvert

MDC cooperation in obtaining an additional culvert for the city in the flood-prone Furnace Brook area, has been cited by Mayor James R. McIntyre.

Sen.-Mayor McIntyre commended MDC Commr. Howard Whitmore for his cooperation with the city and the MBTA in securing the additional culvert provided under a legislative amendment proposed by Sen. McIntyre.

The signed contract calls for a $48,000 installation at the intersection of Furnace Brook Parkway and Newport Ave.

Sen-Mayor McIntyre stated that the added culvert will be instrumental in alleviating flooded conditions particularly in the area between Adams St. and Newport Ave.

Stream Clearance Cost $844, Saved Damage Of $4,000

Clearance projects have been credited with sparing local areas from serious flood damage in the wake of last winter's severe snowstorms, according to information received by Cong. James A. Burke.

Burke's office was notified by the Office of Emergency Preparedness that South Shore projects hadl prevented a projected $87,000 damages at a total outlay of $15,401 for the work.

An $844 culvert clearance in Quincy saved some $4,000 in damage, according to the OEP estimates.

Cong. Burke had initiated the projects in the Congressional area through the Army Corps of Engineers.

Giants Grid Hopes To Be Outlined Monday

Local fans can get a rundown on the new Quincy Giants' hopes and plans Monday night.

General Manager Joe Bellino, one of Navy's all-time grid greats and Heisman Trophy winner, will do the verbal running as keynote speaker at a 7 p.m. meeting of the South Shore Quarterback Club at South Shore Country Club, Hingham.

All pro fans are invited to attend the session which will be followed by a buffet.

Sharing the speaking honors with Bellino will be Onree Jackson, highly-publicized rookie quarterback recently cut by the Boston Patriots and signed by the Giants.

All pro fans are invited to attend and the 7 p.m. meeting will be followed by a buffet.

The Quincy school committee at last week's meeting voted to accept the Giant's application to relocate in Quincy. The committee warned, however, that the move would not be finalized until details concerning the lighting of a practice field, probably that next to Quincy Vocational-Technical High on Coddington street, were ironed out.

It was expected that this problem would be solved with a minimum of difficulty. The question on the lighting centered on its cost. The Giants are to provide the lighting and the construction and subsequent electricity costs would be financed by the city.

"If the lights are inexpensive, everything will be fine," said Mayor James R. McIntyre. Assistant Supt. of Buildings and Plant for the school system, Rudolph Lofgren, estimated the cost would be just "about two to three dollars per night."

Bellino notified the committee the Giants, a Patriots-affiliated club, would purchase the lights while the city would set them up [another stubling block for the committee] and pay for their use.

"These lights are for sale at a golf driving range in Quincy," Bellino said. "There are seven poles that will give proper lighting. The Giants are willing to buy them and donate them for the practice area. They can be used by the city if they will assume installation. If the city doesn't want the donation, we could install our own temporary lights."

Carl Leone, Coordinator of Athletics for the Quincy schools, feels the lights will be fine for the city and can be used in many ways, including softball and soccer usage.

Cost of nightly lighting would probably come from the school budget, however, a fact which is opposed by Supt. of Schools Lawrence P. Creedon.

The Giants, however, would be paying $50 each night that they use the field for practice. Twenty dollars of that would go toward custodial fees and another $25 would be used for annual reseeding.

As for Veterans Memorial Stadium, where the Giants will play their home games, the team would pay $410 per night.

The problem of Friday night games has been solved with the Giants shifting all but their first two home games to Saturday nights. The Sept. 5 opener with Roanoke, Va., Buckskins, of whom the colorful Jim Piersall is general manager, and the Sept. 19 game with Hartford Knights will be played as scheduled, as the high school games do not begin until Sept. 27.

Other home games will be played on Oct. 11 with Pottstown Firebirds, Oct. 18, Bridgeport Jets; Nov. 1, Richmond Roadrunners, and Nov. 15, Long Island Bulls. Road games will be Sept. 13 at Richmond, Sept. 27 at Pottstown, Oct. 4 at Hartford, Oct. 25, at Roanoke, Nov. 7 at Long Island and Nov. 21 at Bridgeport.

Each team is affiliated with a big league club as follows: Long Island,NY Giants; Hartford, Buffalo Bills; Bridgeport, N.Y. Jets; Quincy, Patriots; Roanoke Washington Redskins; Richmond, New Orleans Saints; Harrisburg Capitols, Baltimore Colts, and Pottstown, Philadelphia Eagles.

The Giants' Quincy contract would be terminated if it is concluded the stadium is being used too much, rather than allowing youngsters to play.

Giants will control the concessions and will provide lighting for the stadium. It is hoped that permanent lights can be installed in another year.

Free tickets will be given coaches and youngsters of high school and junior high school teams and a school department official will be present at all games.

The Atlantic Coast League is rated one of the strongest minor leagues in the country. The Giants won the northern division title in 1966 and, after two mediocre seasons, expect to rebound this fall with a talented cast of players.

Head coach this year is Ross O'Hanley, a seven-year Patriots veteran, and his assistants include John [Butch] Mahoney, former North Quincy High standout and present Scituate High coach, the defensive backfield coach; and Bob Shaunessy, offensive line coach.

Sixty players from last year's league teams are now playing for National and American League teams.

Weymouth Fair Salutes Senior Citizens Today

Quincy Senior Citizens in the 60 and over age group will be guests of the Weymouth Fair today, according to Recreation Director William F. Ryan.

Invitation to the event was made by Mrs. Lillian P. McIntyre, secretary of the Fair and mother of Quincy Mayor James R. McIntyre.

Free bus transportation will be utilized on the following shuttle schedule:

Atlantic Bridge, 10:30 a.m.
Norfolk Downs, 10:30 a.m.
Wollaston Methodist Church, 10:40 a.m.
Health Center, 10:50 a.m.

1000 Southern Artery, 11:10 a.m.
Adams Houses, South Quincy, 11:15 a.m.

Larry Siegfried & Co.

Distinct Quincy Look At N.H. Hoop School

There will be a distinct Quincy tinge to next week's second annual Larry Siegfried Basketball Instructional School at Reed's Ferry, N.H., just outside of Nashua.

Working again with the Celtics standout is Joe Amorosino, assistant basketball coach at North Quincy High and director of physical education at Sterling Junior High school.

"I do the recruiting, sign up the staff and actually take care of the entire operation," Joe said. "Larry, rated as one of the country's top lecturers, lectures and works with the 143 boys I have signed up during the entire week."

The school culminates a busy summer for Amorosino and Siegfried, who conducted a series of three-day clinics in New Hampshire.

"We found that most of the boys in these small towns can't afford to attend camps and schools so we go to them instead of them coming to us," Amorosino said. "And what a terrific reception we received everywhere."

All six New England states will be represented at next week's school which runs from this Saturday through Saturday, Aug. 30.

The school has a staff of 15 coaches and 15 counsellors, including seven from Quincy. Among the 143 boys attending will be 24 from Quincy.

"Our philosophy is to get a staff of men who are good teachers first and good coaches second," Amorosino explained. "We want to teach each boy the fundamentals of the game. Some of the coaches we had last year were not invited back this year as we felt they didn't fill our qualifications. We teach the boys every phase of the game but we are going to try and speed up the offense this year. Larry is noted for his defensive prowess and we found that the defense was so strong, the offense bogged down."

The counsellors include Don Constantine and Mark Jellison, the two youngest who starred for North Quincy High last winter and are going to Eastern Nazarene and Northeastern respectively; Eddie Miller, North Quincy and Boston State; Jim Ducey, North Quincy and U. of Vermont; Paul Fitzpatrick, who played for Quincy High's last Tech Tourney team and is going to Boston State; Frank Santoro, North Quincy and Quincy Junior College who is entering Framingham State next month, and Mike Crismond, a Quincy resident who went to Abp. Williams and Brown.

Others include some of the outstanding college players in New England.

The coaches include Bob Nolan, who led three of his four North Quincy teams into the Tech Tourney; John Bagonzi of Woodsville, N.H., the New Hampshire state champions, considered to be one of the leading coaches and authorities on basketball in New England; Bob Gillam of Kimball Union Academy; Skip Mortimer, Hingham coach and former Boston U. star, and Marty Thorsen of Marian High in Framingham.

The counsellors work with the coaches, referee all camp games, take charge of the boys' cabins and play in a counsellors' game each night under Siegfried's supervision. "They help Larry and Larry helps them and enables them to gain a little more knowledge of the game," Amorosino said.

Also assisting Siegfried one day each will be Jim [Bad News] Barnes, Bailey Howell, Wayne Embry and Vin Casetta, former All-American at Tennessee who is a basketball lecturer for Converse Rubber. Rick Erickson of North Quincy and the U. of Mass., is the trainer.

Quincy boys signed up for the school are:

Quincy, North Grid Practice Monday

Schoolboy football returns on Monday when the teams open practice for the approaching season.

Both the Quincy and North Quincy squads will get underway on Monday morning, Quincy at Faxon Field and North at Cavanagh Stadium. Both clubs will work out daily next week and until the opening of school, then will drill each day after school.

At Quincy, Coach Hank Conroy will have a new assistant in John Bogan, himself a former Quincy standout lineman. Bogan was captain at Northeastern, playing under line coach Bo Lyons, former North Quincy all-scholastic, and has been an assistant coach at Milford High. He worked with the Northeastern freshmen and did some work with Conroy while a senior at Northeastern. Bogan replaces Tony Day, who has taken over as head coach at Dighton-Rehoboth High.

Returning as Conroy's aides are Dave Burke, Art Mosher and Gene Macomber.

North gets started with a new coach, former Raider star Ralph Frazier, who succeeds Carl Leone, now the athletic coordinator for Quincy schools.

Frazier, who had been a North assistant, plans double sessions each day next week. Returning as his assistants are Bill Pagnano, Ted Sadowski and Jack Bowes.

The season will open on Saturday, Sept. 27.

Recreation Roundup

Last week was physical fitness week on Quincy's 33 playgrounds as each playground had their own novice junior olympics with varied running and novelty races. Playground winners competed in five districts with the district winners competing Wednesday morning at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Winning the city championship was District 1, supervised by Tom Turner. Perkins playground scored a total of 34 points to take the individual playground championship followed by O'Rourke playground with 29 points and in third place Squantum with 24 points. The event was directed by supervisor general Lionel H. Buckley assisted by well known physical educator Miss Mary Pratt.

Fitness week continued with a first time pentathalon held at the Stadium Friday morning. Arranged by recreation director William F. Ryan the event was jointly sponsored by the Amateur Athletic Union and The Quaker Oats Company and The First National Stores of Quincy. Each boy and girl was tested in five events including sit ups, pull ups, broad jump, softball throw, and the walk and run event. All participants received a certificate of participation suitable for framing and those qualifying a certificate of achievement. Everyone participating received a packette which included a pamphlet on the A.A.U., a lapel button, a decal, and a "Guide to Fitness" book. Four attendance prizes were awarded at the end of the program.

The Shea Rink, the MDC facility on Williard St. in West Quincy being used as a Quincy playground for the second summer, has produced a city championship as their senior boys basketball team coached by Brian Buckley defeated Elm Street playground coached by Paul Beston by a 56-34 score with Leo Papile of Shea high scorer with 21 points. Bob Sullivan's O'Rourke junior boys basketball team squeaked by Mass. Fields 18 to 16 coach by Ed Monte.

Bob Torroca of Forbes Hill defeated Shea Rink's Barry Sullivan in a playoff for the senior boys golf championship which was held at the Furnace Brook Golf Club supervised by the club's pro John Donovan and golf specialist Mike Crismond. All playgrounds were closed last Friday morning so the leaders could help at the pentathalon while other leaders were taking the Recreation Civil Service examination held in Boston.

Ken Beliveau won seven races in the junior division bicycle races at Snug Harbor and Mike Sacchetti took six first in the midget division. Mike Renzi looked good against Kenny until he wiped out when his bike chain fell off.

Ed Cambell and Tommy Donovan are getting quite a collection of butterflies for the nature program exhibit which will be held at the Stadium Wednesday during the annual field day program which will climax the eight week summer playground program. "Splash Down 21" was the theme of last Thursday's 21st annual Water Carnival which was held at swimming station 8 at the end of Fenno St., on Wollaston Beach. Over 600 persons of all ages witnessed the event which was directed by water safety supervisor Mrs. Louise Garland and her 18 instructors from 14 swim stations.

All instructors participated in the opening ballet called "Up, Up and Away" which was followed later by other ballets called "Telstar" from Mound and Avalon beaches directed by Karolyn Jay and Gretchen Nelson, another "Take Me To The Moon" was put on by Mothers and Daughters under the direction of Kathleen Mitchell from Adams Shore beach and instructors Sharon Lessard, Pat Foye and Pam Morse from Rock Island, Perry, and Edgewater beaches combined their efforts for a final ballet.

Karen Pratt of Bayfield and Joyce Robbins of Elm presented the teaching progression for the elementary back stroke, while later the side stroke progression was presented by Pam Quinlin and Betty Porier from Snug Harbor and Baker beaches. Karen O'Leary and Dee Dee Fagerlund of Treasure Island and Fenno street put on a life saving techniques demonstration and Carol Harrington and Katherine Pratt from Orchard and Nickerson had youngsters demonstrate surfboard rescues.

Many butterflies were caught at Quarterdeck by Sharon Jacobsen and Freddy Canniff. The Dahlquist and the Connellys led the parents night sing-a-long as well as helping with the races. The Forbes Hill tennis courts are getting plenty of use as Joey Belloti, Dan Lewis, and Kevin McGuiley looking good in the singles and John Pucci and John McGlaughlin are the ones to beat in the doubles.

BROAD JUMP by John McConville, 7, is watched closely by Mrs. Roselyn Karill, official; Harry Ford, manager First National Store; Recreation Director William F. Ryan, and Robert MacPhee of the Quaker Oats Company.

PULL-UPS by Susan Lothrop and Kathy McCourt, both 12, are checked by official Sue Jakub while a bevy of eager contestants wait their turn behind them.

SIT-UPS contestants Nancy Laing and Nancy Foy, both 12, are aided by officials Joseph Spillane and Dave Simpson while Frank Bullo [standing] supervises.

500 Free Tickets For Brett Baseball Day

Five hundred tickets for "Joe Brett's Baseball Day" at Fenway Park will be available Friday.

Brett, a state representative and former city councillor, will be host to 500 boys and girls, aged eight through 12, at the Red Sox-Kansas City Royals game Aug. 28 at 1:30 p.m.

The youngsters will be taken to and from Fenway Park aboard free buses leaving various points in Quincy.

The tickets, required for admission to the buses and to the ball park, may be picked up beginning Friday at:

Brett's Package Store, 205 West Squantum St., John's Barber Shop, 20 Billings Rd., both North Quincy, and at Mr. Brett's home, 254 Fenno St., Wollaston.

The youngsters will be guests of Brett at the game at no admission charge. But they are asked to contribute 25 cents to the "Jimmy Fund".

The free buses will leave the following points at the following times on the day of the game:

--Willard School, 11:30 a.m.

--Gridley Bryant School, 11:40 a.m.

--Wollaston School, 11:45 a.m.

--Montclair School, 11:55 a.m.

--Beechwood Knoll School, 11:45 a.m.

--Francis Parker School, 11:55 a.m.

--Squantum School, 11:45 a.m.

The buses will then proceed to the North Quincy High School and depart from there at 12:15 p.m. for Fenway Park.

Elks Team Takes City Babe Ruth League Title

The Quincy Lodge of Elks, champs of the Babe Ruth American League, became the Quincy Babe Ruth champions by defeating the Knights of Columbus of the National League in a best of three contest. The Elks won two straight.

The Elks, winning the first game 1-0, were led by the no-hit pitching of Mark Whelton who struck out five batters. The losing pitcher, Tony Knasis, allowed three hits and fanned nine. Dave Nolson, who scored the winning run, had two hits, while Bob Torino had one. Alert base running by the Elks in the seventh inning won the game.

The second scheduled game was rained out. In the third game, pitcher Bob Torino pitched his team to a 5-3 victory. Offensive star for the Elks was Mark Whelto who got two hits and a walk. Mike Whelton of the Elks also got a hit. Losing pitcher was Steve Locke.

Offensively, the Knights played a fine game getting five hits. Jim Cunniffe got two, Bob Black, one, and Ed Panaci hit two doubles in what proved to be a losing cause.

Jogging Program To Kick Off Fall Slate Of 'Y' Activities

The Quincy Y.M.C.A. will initiate its Fall-Winter Physical Fitness program, Sunday, Sept. 14 at 1:30 p.m., with the first of three orientation and testing clinics for anyone who wants to begin bettering their health and physical fitness.

All enrollees must register at the Quincy Y.M.C.A. and receive their Fitness Kit which includes all the necessary information about the fitness program and the medical clearance form which must be signed by the applicant's physician and returned at the clinic.

At the Sept. 14 Clinic each enrollee will be tested in various aspects such as flexibility, strength, heart, blood pressure, and body measurements. An outline of the fitness program will also be given at this time. The class schedule, effective Sept. 15 is as follows:

Mon-Wed-Fri. 7-7:45 a.m. and 12:15-1:00 p.m.

Mon-Wed-Thur. 7-7:45 p.m.

There will be a maximum of 75 enrolled at any one of the three clinics to be held this year, and early registration is advised.

Opening of the fall program on Tuesday, Sept. 9 of the Women and Girls Division under direction of Alice Beagan at the Quincy "Y", has also been announced.

Classes and activities include Slymnastics, volleyball, badminton, jogging, swimming instruction classes for all levels, synchronized swimming, apparatus and recreation swims.

The fitness program "Y" Watchers" will begin on Thursday, Oct. 2 at 1 p.m. and will run for 10 weeks.

Yoga classes will start on Wednesday, Oct. 1 at 9:30 a.m. and Thursday evening, Oct. 8, at 7:30 p.m. and will run for eight weeks. Register early, it was advised, as enrollment is limited.

The girls program starts also on Sept. 9 at 2:30 p.m. with swimming instruction, fitness, sports and games, tumbling, gym team, swim team, and synchronized swimming.

All aquatic personnel are certified "Y" and Red Cross instructors.

Tri-Hi-Y Club program for sophomore, junior and senior high girls of both High Schools, also begins in September and the service works of all clubs is well known throughout the South Shore area, 'Y' officials said.

Marshfield Fair Sets Crowd, Pari-Mutuel Marks

The Marshfield Fair has completed its eight-day run with new records set in attendance, pari-mutuel handle, and 4-H entries.

This year's 200,400 attendance topped last year's by 12,200. The pari-mutuel handle went over the million dollar mark for the first time with $1,058,556 exceeding the 1968 figure by $140,801.

Indicative of the entire week's success was Kiddies Day. During which an estimated 26,000 children were admitted free.

Among the outstanding features of the fair were:

The Grange contest won by Harmony of Easton.

The five-hour Firemen's Muster won by the Middleboro Hustlers who carried away the Day Trophy.

At the end of the Fair, President Eben N. Briggs concluded, "On behalf of all the Marshfield Fair directors, my very deepest appreciation for a job well-done."

William Delahunt Candidate For Ward 5 Seat

Atty. William D. Delahunt of 33 Elmwood Park, Wollaston, announces his candidacy for city councillor from Ward 5.

In making his first bid for political office, the 28-year-old candidate said an infusion of new and innovative ideas is needed to meet the challenge of the 70's.

A lifelong resident of Ward 5, Mr. Delahunt is a graduate of Thayer Academy and holds a bachelor's degree in government from Middlebury College. He also has attended the Dante Alighieri Institute in Rome, Italy where he received a certificate of proficiency.

A graduate of Boston College Law School, Mr. Delahunt is a member of the American Bar Association, American Trial Lawyers Association, Massachusetts Bar Association and the Norfolk County Bar Association.

He has also studied taxation at the Boston University Graduate School of law. He was recently appointed assistant clerk of the Norfolk Superior Court.

A member of the Coast Guard Reserve, Mr. Delahunt saw service with the U. S. Coast Guard. He is married to the former Katherina Hermani.

Quincy Architect Named To Design Weymouth School

A Quincy architectural firm has been selected to design a new elementary school in South Weymouth.

Kenneth F. Parry and Associates, Inc., with offices at 29 Cottage Ave., Quincy, was awarded the contract by the Committee for building the school off Union St.

Officers of the firm are: Kenneth Parry, of South Weymouth, president; Ernest L. Vallee of Quincy, treasurer; Robert Parry, of Quincy, vice-president; M. Lou Weaver, of Quincy, secretary; and Alan MacLeod, of Abington, firm associate.

Among the recent school projects the firm has been associated with is the Vocational Technical High School in Quincy.

It is expected that preliminary plans will be ready by September, 1971.

Ward Three Residents Seek Traffic Changes

A Ward Three traffic petition will be presented to the City Council requesting a restriction of traffic on Alton Rd., Madison Ave. and Dale Ave. between 3 and 5 p.m.

The petition was discussed at a meeting of Association members and residents Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Valcourt, 9 Dale Ave.

Association president Pat Di Stefano said that 127 residents in the Faxon Park area of 141 contacted had signed the petition.

Permanent traffic signs for the area are being sought to restrict traffic patterns. The group seeks to prohibit traffic from turning left during the two hours and also from turning right to to Richie Rd. during the 3 to 5 hours.

The petition requesting the no-turn signs was circulated on six streets affected by the traffic pattern. They are Alton Rd., Crest St., Dale Ave., Kendrick Ave., Madison Ave. and Richie Rd.

YOUTHFUL PHILANTHROPIST–Chairman Joseph Veneto is congratulated by Mayor James R. McIntyre at the Mini-Fair held Saturday at the Veneto home, 85 Stedman St., West Quincy. The Mini-Fair which raised $248 was highlighted by a hole-in-one scored by the Mayor at the practice golf game.

3,800 Residents Sign For MBTA

Some 3,800 Quincy senior citizens have registered for MBTA half-fare identification cards.

The third, and last regularly scheduled registration session at the Quincy Vocational-Technical School last Thursday produced a turn-out of 1,950 residents.

Meanwhile, John F. Sheehan, executive director of the Quincy Council On Aging, said he hopes to set up neighborhood registration sessions after Labor Day for those who were unable to attend the three city-wide registrations.

"We hope to arrange registrations on a ward basis after Labor Day," he said.

Massachusetts residents 65 and over are eligible for the half-fare identification cards which became effective Aug. 15.

An estimated 10,900 Quincy residents are in that eligibility age bracket.

Sen.-Mayor James R. McIntyre, Chairman of the Legislative Committee on Transportation and co-sponsor of the half-fare bill for the elderly with Rep. Arthur Tobin, commended the MBTA for "its diligence, conscientiousness, and kindnesses toward the elderly citizens under arduous and difficult conditions."

Senator McIntyre noted that at times in the past he has been critical of the Authority but said he felt that this time the management and the employees deserve credit for putting together this operation during such a hot period in cooperation with local officials.

144 New Teachers

School Bells Ring Wednesday For 16,800 Quincy Students

Classroom bells will ring for a record-high Quincy public school enrollment and 144 new teachers next Wednesday.

It will be back-to-school for an estimated 16,800 pupils, including kindergarten youngsters who will begin their first full session on Thursday, Sept. 11.

Total school enrollment will be about 200 higher than last year.

The 1969-1970 school year will inaugurate the first full-year Superintendency for Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, who was elected to the top administrative post last January.

The new faculty additions include 58 new teachers from Quincy. The expanded enrollment is an anticipated increase over last year's 16,588 secondary and elementary registration.

Of the total, 1196 were on the kindergarten rolls as of April registration.

Dr. Creedon, called on the 144 new teachers at an orientation session yesterday to make a "significant contribution" to the almost 17,000 students in Quincy public schools.

School children and adults were also reminded by School Safety Officer Guido Pettinelli to practice back-to-school safety habits.

In urging both pedestrian and motorist caution, Pettinelli noted that a total of 20,000

South-West Area 'Definite' Code Enforcement Contender

Quincy's south-west area is "definitely" in contention for a federally funded code enforcement program, Ward 3 Councillor John F. Koegler said today.

Koegler refuted a recent published report [not in the Quincy Sun] that the area was so substandard it could not qualify for the benefits of a concentrated code enforcement project similar to the one now underway in North Quincy.

"It is absolutely untrue," Koegler declared.

He said he has conferred with City Planning Director Geoffrey Davidson and was informed that a survey of the south-west area was made two years ago.

At that time 13 dwellings were found to be substandard. But a recent survey shows that 10 of those dwellings have since been brought up to standard.

"Many other dwellings in the area have had new heating, wiring and additional bathroom facilities installed," Koegler said.

He also noted that a number of modern apartments have been constructed in the area in recent months and that a new elementary school [the South-West] is to be built there soon.

"Certainly this is no substandard area," said Koegler. "This area is as much in contention for a code enforcement program as some of the other sections of the city."

Under the code enforcement program, residents of the area would be eligible for low interest loans for residential renovations.

Federal funds would also go into public works and beautification projects in the area.

Koegler said the South-West Community Council, comprising residents living in the area, are in favor of the program.

"I'm very much in favor of it, too, and whole heartedly support them," Koegler said.

School Board Expected To Hire Negotiators

The Quincy School Committee evidently will not get bogged down in collective bargaining negotiations with school department employees this year.

A legal firm is expected to be retained by the School Committee at its Sept. 10 meeting to represent the board at the bargaining table.

"It's just too much for us to do," said Committeeman Paul C. Kelly who suggested hiring legal counsel.

"In the past, School Committee members have spent three or four days a week for a period of three or four months in negotiating sessions.

"We should be making decisions on new schools, curriculum and other matters instead of getting bogged down in countless hours of collective bargaining."

School Supt. Lawrence P. Creedon, John Osterman, director of personnel for the school department, School Committeeman James F. McCormick, Sr. and Kelly have already interviewed one law firm.

The board's negotiating representative will be in action by October probably, said Kelly. That is when the teachers' salary contract is expected to be opened for negotiations.

The legal firm will also represent the school board at future negotiations with school custodians, nurses, secretaries, clerical and maintenance men.

Pornographic Mail Can Be Curbed Says Burke

Dist. Atty. George G. Burke of Quincy reported today he has received numerous complaints about pornographic material being received by the public through the mail. His investigation reveals an increase in the receipt of such unsolicited mail.

The following is a method suggested by Burke to curb the receipt of such literature.

A current federal law enables a family to prevent the receipt of mail or advertisements which they find offensive or morally harmful to their [illegible] children. Families receiving such mails can request the Post Office Department to direct that the promoter send no more mail, of any kind to them. The sender is also ordered to remove the family's name from any mailing lists he owns or controls.

In order to properly notify the postmaster to curb the receipt of additional mail from the sender, Post Office Publication 123 with form attached is available from your local Post Office, Burke said.

A Typical Housewife Here

Duchess Of Windsor Recalled As 'Duchess' In North Quincy

By LOREN OSTROW

The Duke of Windsor's recent declaration he would abdicate the throne of Britain for the "woman I love" if again faced with the choice stirs memories of her days as a Quincy resident.

Wallis Warfield Simpson who with the then King Edward VIII rocked a stalwart kingdom 33 years ago this December, lived at 156 Davis St., North Quincy, from 1917 to 1918.

Ironically, some of her neighbors referred to her as "The Duchess" even then.

But it was a nickname, bestowed not because of an extravagant sensory look into the future but because of her apparent introversion.

Simply, they thought of her as somewhat of a snob who kept to herself and ignored them.

DUCHESS OF WINDSOR

At that time, the Duchess was Mrs. Edward Spencer, wife of a Navy lieutenant stationed at the old World War I "Victory Plant" at the Squantum Naval Air Station.

She first met the Duke, then the Prince of Wales, while married to Spencer.

The Spencer's former neighbors remember them as a devoted couple who kept pretty much to themselves.

They recall she used to drive him to work every day in their Ford and then return to carry out the duties of the typical housewife--washing, ironing and sewing.

The Duke, now 75 reaffirmed his love for the former Quincy resident in an interview with Diario De Lisbon, a Lisbon newspaper, and said he would abdicate if he had the historic decision to make again.

The Duchess said she would again urge him to forget her and keep the crown.

"Without a doubt, I would

Agnew Asks Mayors' Help In 'Dropouts' Problem

Mayor James R. McIntyre and other mayors throughout the country have been asked by Vice-President Spiro Agnew to encourage young people to return to school this fall.

In an open letter to Mayor McIntyre and the other mayors, Agnew noted that 675,000 youths left school last year, bringing the "dropout" population to more than two million.

Agnew's letter follows:

"As Chairman of the President's Council on Youth Opportunity, I ask your assistance in encouraging the young people in your community to return to school this fall.

"Last year, more than 675,000 youths chose not to stay in school. They joined another two million dropouts already in the the youth population, nearly half of whom were unemployed.

"One mayor of a large city is mailing personal letters to 3,000 dropouts or potential dropouts in his community this summer, urging them to return to school. The letter is being followed by an advertising campaign and personal visits to the young people by community volunteers.

"You can help by focusing community attention on the subject, whether through proclamation, press release, personal letter, or other means Employers should be encouraged to offer part-time employment to those youths who need it to stay in school. You may wish to formulate special community efforts to locate part-time work in city agencies."

South-West Council's 'Krazy Day' On Monday

The third annual Krazy Day will be celebrated by the South-West Quincy Community Council on Labor Day at Kincaide Park, South Quincy.

The day's festivities will begin with a parade open to all children from South and West Quincy. Lineup for the parade will be at 10 a.m. at the corner of Roberts and Water Streets. The parade will start promptly at 10:30. Prizes will be awarded for the best in the categories of costume, bicycle, tricycle, and doll carriage.

At noon, hot dogs, ice cream, and tonic will be provided for the children while sandwiches, coffee and pastry will be available to adults. Lollipops and balloons will also be given out to youngsters.

Novelty games will be held at 2 p.m. at the field while a jazz band will play for the teenagers at the tennis courts until 4 p.m.

A white elephant table will be set up. Persons with donations are asked to call 471-0796.

Chairman is Fred Prezioso. The committee includes Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Prezioso, Mr. and Mrs. Al Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Al Ruuska, Earle MacLeod, Alice Smith, Ruth Fitzgerald, Marion Rooney, Joan Prezioso and Eleanor Allison.

always insist he forget me," she was quoted.

The Duke, according to the newspaper, declared:

"But once more I would disobey the Duchess and once more I would abdicate.

"We have been married for 30 years. I am the most affectionate husband and attentive of his wife's wishes. But if we had to relive December, 1936, I would make the same decision. I would leave."

Apparently the Duchess-to-be did not find Quincy terribly interesting. It left little impression on her.

In 1943, while visiting a sick relative in a Boston hospital with the Duke--her third husband--she was asked about her familiarity with the Boston area.

She replied she did not know Boston very well and remembered it as an area "for passing through".

She made no mention of her days on Davis St.

Invite Quincy Artists To Show In Braintree

Sunbeams

These certainly are affluent times, notes Ward 3 Councillor John F. Koegler.

The other night he relayed to police headquarters a complaint of a gang of teen-agers raising cain in Kincaide Park, South Quincy.

But when police zeroed in, the kids had already zeroed out.

"I found out," Koegler said, shaking his head, "that the kids carry transistor radios for monitoring police calls. As soon as they heard a car being sent to Kincaide Park, they beat it.

IRELAND seems to be the favorite visiting spot for Quincy residents this summer. Another just back is School Committeeman Paul C. Kelly.

It was the first time there for Paul, his wife, Grace, and sons Paul, 9, and Mark, 7. And a sentimental journey for his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Kelly [81 and 80] who were making their first trip back to their native Ballinasole County Roscommon in 59 years. Mrs. Kelly enjoyed a reunion with three brothers and a sister she hadn't seen in all those years.

Paul visited Blarney Castle and of course, kissed the Blarney Stone.

"I couldn't come back and say I didn't do that," he laughs.

Tradition, of course, has it that one gets the gift of eloquence by kissing the stone.

"Must be something to it," muses Kelly. "Mark kissed it and hasn't stopped talking since."

WELL, Mayor James R. McIntyre still has a few political observers wondering. They actually think he's going to make an 11th hour announcement he won't seek a third term. In fact, one candidate is getting into the race convinced McIntyre is going to bow out just before nomination paper filing deadline Sept. 9.

The fact McIntyre has yet to take out his nomination papers is one reason for the speculation.

But insiders know he'll run again. His papers will be in by the deadline.

• • •

BUT former School Committeeman Charles T. Sweeny remains a political question mark. With Dr. Charles Djerf virtually certain of of retiring from the school board after 16 years of distinguished service, observers figured Sweeny would make a comeback bid for the vacant seat.

But Sweeny hasn't yet given any public indication that he will be a candidate. And so some observers wouldn't be surprised if he sat this election out.

Milwaukee Ready For Trials

USS MILWAUKEE, second of six oiler-supply ships being built for the Navy by General Dynamics shipyard, makes a pretty picture returning from first sea trials. Final trials are scheduled for next week.

More than 400 General Dynamics shipbuilders have added the finishing touches to a just-won victory over arch-rival time.

The 400 – consisting of a cross-section tradesmen – were racing the clock to prepare the replenishment fleet oiler USS Milwaukee for next week's preliminary acceptance trials [PAT].

A milestone event in the life of a new ship, PAT are when the customer, in Milwaukee's case the Navy, sends a team of observers to ride the ship to sea and closely watch her performance and that of each piece of equipment.

USS Milwaukee is scheduled to leave the Quincy shipyard Sept. 2 and head for Massachusetts Bay where she will spend two and one-half days being observed by the Navy's Board of Inspection and Survey.

Rear Adm. John D. Bulkeley, Medal of Honor recipient [for taking Gen. Douglas MacArthur off Bataan] and president of the board, will be aided by approximately 25 other INSURV members in inspecting the Milwaukee.

USS Milwaukee made her maiden trip July 30, testing major systems under actual at-sea conditions for the first time during 36 hours of operations off the Massachusetts coast.

She returned to the shipyard with brooms – indicating a "clean sweep" for excellent performance, during tests and demonstrations – lashed to masts at her bow and stern.

Since returning, teams of electronics specialists, test engineers, machinists, electricians, and others have been working 16 hours daily, grooming her for PAT.

Many of the men will be among the more than 300 General Dynamics personnel who will act as the ship's crew during next week's voyage.

In addition to INSURV members, more than 100 of USS Milwaukee's Navy crewmen and representatives of the Navy's Quincy office of the Supervisor of Shipbuilding will be aboard as observers.

After successful completion of PAT, USS Milwaukee is scheduled to be delivered to the Navy within a few weeks.

Her prospective commanding officer is Capt. James W. Martin, USN, of Lowell. He and 100 crewmen already aboard the ship will be joined by 250 others after the ship is delivered and ready for commissioning.

The 659-foot USS Milwaukee is the second oiler-supply ship delivered by General Dynamics to the Navy this year. In May, USS Wichita – first ship in the new AOR supply ship class–was delivered.

Four more AORs are either under construction or scheduled to be built at Quincy.

James J. Burke, Jr. Named Quincy Sun Advertising Director

JAMES J. BURKE, JR.

James J. Burke, Jr. has been named advertising director of the Quincy Sun.

Announcement of his appointment was made today by Publisher Henry W. Bosworth.

Mr. Burke will also serve as general manager of The Quincy Sun Publishing Company, publishers of the Quincy Sun weekly newspaper.

He joins the Quincy Sun after five years with The Weymouth News where he was advertising manager and general manager. He was also sales manager of the McCole Publishing and Printing Company, publishers of The Weymouth News.

Germantown Council Plans Labor Day Activities

The Germantown Community Council will hold a Labor Day celebration with most of the activities at the Germantown Service Center.

The festivities will begin this Sunday night with a Miss Germantown Contest at the center at 5:30 p.m. Any interested girl, 14 to 17 years of age, may call 471-1189 for further information.

Following the contest there will be a band concert from 7-9 p.m. At 9, a rock and roll band will highlight the evening's entertainment.

On Labor Day there will be a wide variety of novelty races for all age groups. The games will be held behind the Snug Harbor School.

Preceding the games, at 9 a.m. will be a Marathon Race open to boys from 15-19. Starting point will be opposite the Quincy Housing Authority building, winner will receive a trophy.

Wollaston Assn. Praises Auto Agency Opposition

Mayor James R. McIntyre has received a letter from the officers of the Wollaston Park Association Inc. congratulating him for his opposition to a proposed automobile agency on Quincy Shore Drive near the Atlantic Bridge.

The officers noted that a "huge used car lot fronting right on our shore drive would be the start of the deterioration of our environment."

The letter also commended City Council President J. Vincent Smyth and Building Inspector Allan F. MacDonald for "halting the proposition and any other commercialization and instigating a rezoning study that will lead to the ultimate rezoning to a residential category in keeping with the present residential character of the neighborhood."

The aim of the association is to "preserve and enhance all the good and beautiful attributes of Quincy for the enjoyment of its residents and those travelers who come to Quincy from afar to see the historic City of the Presidents on the Atlantic Ocean."

The letter was signed by Dominic F. Falcetta, president; Leonard C. Delancey, vice-president; Anna E. Lucey, treasurer; and Dorothy C. Kelly, secretary.
